THE DEVOURING FLAMES.

A $15,000 BLAZE.

Yesterday, about 4.25 p.m., a cry of "fire!" "fire!" was raised, immediately after which flames were seen to leap up from the stables used in connection with the Kennedy House, and directly behind the EXAMINER Office. In an incredibly small space of time, the whole building was under the control of the hissing element, and had begun to extend its sway to the livery stables of Hopkins & Montgomery, almost adjoining, and the large carriage factory of Fitzgerald & Stanger, directly north.

Before the fire-bells had completely sounded the alarm, and before the firemen had time to produce their hose, all hopes of saving Kennedy's stables or the livery premises were abandoned. Fortunately both parties had been able to save all the horses which were in their buildings at the time, except one belonging to Mr. Bacon, which got entangled in some harness, and which owing to the smoke and intense heat had to be abandoned. Messrs. Hopkins & Montgomery rescued all their carriages and furniture, but lost nearly 300 bushels of oats and the other stores and feed which had been procured for the winter.

The firemen meanwhile had got two streams of water playing on the flames, and they were able to save the buildings annexed to our premises, as also those adjoining, which at one time were in imminent danger. Owing to the inflammable nature of the material and to the direction of the wind, and the vicinity of the stables, the factory of Fitzgerald & Stanger was next licked by the tongues of fire, and it too became enveloped with the devouring element. When it became apparent that it must succumb, willing hands set to work to save everything available, and by this means much that must have been lost, was secured in a place of safety.

About 5.10 the Mansard roof caved in, and as the fire had now been brought under control all further danger was passed, and it became only a question of time in which to quench the smouldering ruins.

We are unable to learn, in our hurry to go to press, as yet how the fire was started or what was the probable loss of each of the parties. The buildings were all owned by the Birdsall family, and had the following insurance on them:—F. Birdsall, $1,750.00 on carriage shop, in Phœnix, $1,750.00 on same in North British and Merchantile; Mrs. O. E. Birdsall, $200 on hotel stables, in Royal; Fitzgerald & Stainger, $3,000 on stock and tools, in the Fire Insurance Association.

SUDDEN DEATH OF REV. DR. DAVIDSON.

Very many here will regret to learn of the dangerous illness of Rev. Dr. Davidson, of Tiverton. The Doctor was in Peterborough considering a call to the Baptist Church, of this town, when he was taken ill. On his return home, the young people of the congregation waited upon him in the evening at the manse and, with the usual compliments expressed on such occasions, presented him with a handsome easy chair and a purse of $30, accompanied by a most complimentary address. The following Sunday, he was unable to preach, and since then has been gradually getting worse. On Monday Drs. Secord and McCrimmon, of Kincardin, paid the sufferer a visit, and very grave fears are entertained as to his recovery. The trouble seems to be entirely with the brain, and is said to be hereditary, other members of the family having suffered from similar attacks. Since writing the above, we have learned with regret that the rev. gentleman's illness has proved fatal, he having died on Sunday last, at his residence, Tiverton. The funeral took place on Wednesday.

The Rev. Dr. Davidson was a Scotchman by birth and parentage, and emigrated with his parents to this country when about twelve years of age, settling in the Ottawa district. Converted in boyhood, he studied for the ministry in Montreal, and after graduating was soon stationed as pastor of a Baptist church, east of Toronto. He afterwards ministered in Brantford, St. George, Aylmer, Guelph, Chatham, Tiverton and probably other places. He went to Guelph about the year 1872, and taking hold of the Baptist congregation, which then numbered only some forty-five members, worked up a membership of 130 before leaving, four years and a half afterwards. The small congregation which he took the pastoral charge of had already commenced the erection of the beautiful edifice on Norfolk street, which they now use as a place of worship. Their success in this undertaking was largely stimulated by the unceasing efforts of the Rev. Dr. Davidson, whose Christian zeal so largely augmented the membership of the church.

In addition to his ministerial work the rev. gentleman was one of the foremost labourers in the church in prosecuting mission work. Almost from the time of its inception and for a period of nearly twenty years afterwards, he was Secretary of the Home Mission Society, a field in which he was the means of much usefulness. He had given up this work, for a period of three years previous to the present year, when it fell into his hands one more. He was also announced this year as one of the lecturers for the coming session at McMaster's Hall, Toronto, a position his demise has prevented him from entering upon. His death at the age of 58 years closes an active service of 25 or 30 years in the ministry. He was a man of great energy and resolute in purpose and was a most devoted and indefatigable pastor and worker. He leaves a family of five children by his first wife, who are grown up and married, and five small children by his second wife.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

On Tuesday evening, a large number of the friends of Mr. Patrick Rudkins gathered at the parlor of the Sullivan House and very unostentatiously presented him with a handsome gold watch, purchased from Mr. W. A. Sanderson, and valued at about $100. The legend inscribed on the case said that it was presentented to him by the Peterborough Lacrosse Club and his other friends in Peterborough.

Mr. Rudkins is about to leave Peterborough for a time and attend the Montreal Seminary in order to complete his studies for the ministry. His genial spirit, modesty and ability had won so many admirers among his fellow associates that they determined to recognize his many excellent qualities on the eve of his departure for the scene of his future labors. The address was read by Mr. Jas. Sheehy, and the presentation was made by Mr. H. LeBrun, the popular President of the Lacrosse Club. After short speeches from several of those present, in which there breathed many a wish for the future success and happiness of Mr. Rudkins, the gathering dispersed. The following is a copy of the address:—

Address to Patrick Rudkins, Esq., from the Peterborough Lacrosse Club and his other friends in Peterborough:

P. RUDKINS, ESQ.:

DEAR SIR,—Having learned of your intention of leaving Peterborough for a time, in order to complete the course of studies necessary to fit you for the profession for which you seem destined, the members of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club and your many other friends have hastily determined to testify in a modest manner the high esteem in which you are held in your native town. To most of us you have been known since childhood, and every year of your acquaintance since has tended to increase our affection and respect for you.

It has been a pleasure to us to note that your career as a student has been marked by unvaried success. Your ability and diligence have always placed you in the front rank amongst your competitors, and gained for you a distinction creditable to yourself and gratifying to your friends. With faithful constancy you have diligently cultivated the talents with which nature has endowed you, and you have always consistently held the even tenor of your way unalloyed by any temptation which might call you from the path of duty, and it is with pleasure that we now behold you on the threshold of manhood about to reap the reward of your self-denial and perseverance.

But although the mind is man's greatest endowment his other faculties must not be neglected. In this respect your have always been mindful of the sage saying "that a sound mind must have a sound body." As a member of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club you have distinguished yourself as one of its ablest players, and developed in yourself those physical powers which go to make up a perfect man. During the past few years you have done more than your share in contributing to the success of the club, and you have always partaken of its glory. It shall always be the boast of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club that you were enrolled in its membership, and that you added much to its good reputation by your prowess and ability.

If in the future you should not be an actual participator in their contests and victories, we feel confident that your good wishes and solicitude for their success will not in the least be diminished. In all the athletic sports in which you have taken part, you have always exhibited that moderation of good temper which is so essential in preserving the true spirit of manly sport.

In your intercourse with your associates you have always shown that temperance of word and deed, and that kind consideration for the feelings of others, which is the truest trait of a gentlemen. We have great faith in the adage that "the Church is father of the man," and judging from your past career we are confident you will continue to advance in the requirement of every good quality which can adorn the human character. And this is the earnest wish and hope that we shall always extend to you.

In conclusion we beg to offer you the accompanying present as a slight mark of the very high esteem with which we regard you, and hope you will preserve it as a souvenir of the many happy days you have spent with the boys of Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club and other friends,

H. LEBRUN, W. J. DEVELIN,

REPLY.

Mr. Rudkins, in reply, said:

I accept the kind address that has just been read, and also the valuable present, with much pleasure. I almost consider it unnecessary on account of the many kindnesses I have received from that honorable body, the Peterborough Lacrosse Club and their kind friends, at different times. I assure you that it affords me much pleasure to meet so many old friends this evening, and so many member of the club. Let us go back to those days of childhood which you refer to in your address. Those indeed were the happy days, the days of our childhood together, when I found in each of you a companion of childhood's pleasure. Fellow-members and friends, I can assure you that for the past few years I have longed for each coming vacation, that I might assist you as far as lay in my power. I am sure it is a pleasure to be able to say that the Peterborough Lacrosse Club hold no less than two trophies which entitle them to the championship of Central Ontario, and I only hope that they may long continue to retain it; and I hope to see the day when they will not only be champions of Central Ontario, but even intermediate champions of the world. Surely this valuable present is unmerited on my part, but seeing that it is a present from so generous a body as the Peterborough Lacrosse Club and their friends, I accept it, and thank you with all my heart for the kind address that has been read, and moreover, for the beautiful timekeeper that marks the hours.

Once more permit me to thank you all for the handsome present which I have been the recipient of this evening.

LACROSSE MATCH.

Peterborough vs. Kingston.

Monday last, the final struggle for the Gildersleeve cup, presented by the Mayor of Kingston, took place on the Ashburnham ground. The cup had to be won continuously for three years before it became the property of the victors, and as Peterborough has held it for two seasons, and as it was known that strenuous efforts would be made by Kingston to regain the prize, excitement ran wild. Both teams had their best available men on hand. As they stepped into the grounds, the foreigners appeared to have the advantage in weight.

The following were the names of the players:

PETERBOROUGH.

T. Giroux,	W. A. Sanderson,
M. Tierney,	W. Reynolds,
M. McDonald,	J. Sheehy,
A. Yelland,	M. Halpin,
C. Rutherford,	W. Rudkins,
G. Giroux,	J. Joyal.

KINGSTON.

G. Robinson,	R. Frits,
J. Little,	Jas. Hunter,
R. Agnew,	A. McDonald,
M. Elliott,	H. Walker,
T. Little,	H. W. Reid,
P. Frits,	Thos. Elmer,
A. Agnew, Ump'e,	S. McCullagh, F. C.

Before the game commenced, a dispute arose as to the referee. The Kingston boys wished Chief McKinnon to act, whilst the home team objected. After considerable discussion, Mr. Craven, of the Shamrock club, was chosen, and performed his duties to the satisfaction of both parties. About 3.50, the ball was faced and was captured at once by Sheehey, who passed it to Rutherford, who tried a shot on the Kingston goals. It was unsuccessful, but for several minutes attack after attack was made on the Kingston defence. Things looked bright for the home twelve, when Kingston reversed matters and in their turn took the aggressive and almost captured a game, were it not for the splendid checking of Reynolds. A brilliant run by Yelland, some good dodging by Sheehey, who passed the ball to Rudkins, and Peterborough scored first game amidst the wildest cheers.

At the commencement of the second game, the home team again assumed the offensive, and some lively sport was exhibited around the Kingston goal. Rutherford made some excellent throws and drops on them, but to no effect. Tierney, Yelland, Halpin and Joyal did splendid service, and by their fine form saved many chances. After half an hour's hot work Kingston claimed a game, which was disallowed. On play being resumed, the second goal was won by Peterborough in eight minutes.

The betting, which heretofore had been slightly in favor of Peterborough, at once took a leap, and the backers of the foreign twelve were not so enthusiastic, but still confident. At 5.10 the ball was again faced and, after about a minute's lively passing, Rudkins threw the ball into the Kingston goals and won the match.

Giroux, during the whole game, kept the Peterborough goals splendidly and deserves the highest praise. The playing of McDonald was also neat and pretty.

The visitors worked hard, and at times played a better combination game than our men, who played in superior style, as individuals.

Ladies who will wear black, and are tired of Cashmeres, will find some desirable black all wool goods to choose from at Turnbull's.

PASSING ROUND THE HAT.

(Toronto World.)

The hat was passed round among the conservatives yesterday to raise money for the Algoma election.

Very little was dropped in and there was considerable outspokenness against the course of the Mail.

Good men of the party said they were all disgusted with it.

They said in effect that they were Ontario men enough to resent the foreign dictation in the paper.

And they did not care to raise money to take half of Algoma and give it to Manitoba.

Why should they?

This traitor business to ourselves will not go down.

It's a little too-too for a newspaper dude like Griffin to come up here from Halifax and begin telling us that we don't want our own, and that we ought to give it to Manitoba.

He simply does what Sir John instructs him, and if Bunting is fool enough to let him use the Mail as a vehicle for carrying out these instructions all the better for Sir John and so much the worse for the Mail.

But we are sure the people of Nova Scotia do not endorse the griffinly dude.

Certainly the respectable conservatives of Ontario do not, as the hat experience of yesterday proved.

There is a murmur beginning to be heard that sounds very much like

GRIFFIN MUST GO.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM AGAIN.

(Chatham Banner.)

Sir John Macdonald has dismissed Mr. E. Watson (of Sarnia), Indian Superintendent for the Western District. Mr. Watson held the position for many years, and has been a most efficient and faithful officer. He happens to be a Grit, however and that seems to be a sufficient reason with Sir John for dismissing him. The duties are to be divided among a number of the camp-followers. Mr. Adam English, of Sombra, is to have charge of the Sarnia and Kettle Point Reserves; and Mr. Alex. McKelvey, of Wallaceburg, of Walpole Island; leaving three vacant places to be filled at Anderdon, Moravia, and Muncey. A good many Reformers are beginning to think it high time that reprisals were made by the Ontario Government. There are Tory officials in every county town whose services could be dispensed with just as easily as Mr. Watson's, and if dismissals are to be the order of the day they need not be all Grits that suffer.

Our New Watchmaker, Mr. Haghan, comes well recommended, and we are sure any work entrusted to him will be done in good style. Office lately occupied by Elias Barnham, Simcoe Street. 18-tf

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

COUNCIL MEETING.

The Council met in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, 10th inst.

Members present: Messrs. McWilliams, Urquhart and Nelson.

Councillor Nelson, in the absence of the Reeve, occupied the chair.

A communication from the Douro Council, offering to expend $7.50 on the boundary near the river was received, and the road master was authorised to spend an equal amount.

The following accounts were presented and ordered to be paid:—Toker & Co., printing, $13.45; Isaac Watson, wages, $6.08; J. Griffin, measuring lumber, $4.86.

The consideration of the charity grant for Mr. John O'Neil was laid over for the next meeting.

A communication from the Lakefield Public School Board, asking the Council to raise the sum of $1,200 for school purposes was received.

A by-law was then passed, levying the rate for the municipality for the present year.

The Council then adjourned.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The regular meeting of the School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening, the 11th inst.

Present: The chairman, Mr. Galvin, Messrs. Sanders, Gordon, Armour, and Caldwell.

The minutes of last meeting were read.

Dr. Caldwell enquired if there was any irregularity about that meeting. Reports had been circulated that it was a "hole and corner" meeting. Such reports should not go unchallenged. They were unjust to the Board and to the individual members unless true. He heard the chairman's name mentioned in connection with the reports. The meeting was held on the appointed night; but, if he (Dr. C.) was made a party to any "hole and corner meeting" he should like to be made aware of the fact before the minutes were confirmed.

Mr. W. C. Sanders said he supposed he was referred to. He (Mr. S.) from a conversation he had with the chairman got the impression there would be no meeting, though Mr. Wilson had informed him that in answer to his (Mr. S.'s) query, the chairman had said there would be a meeting, but he (Mr. S.) did not so understand it. He wished to be at the meeting, but he accused no one of willingly misleading him, and had not called it a "hole and corner meeting," but thought it was held at too late an hour.

Dr. Armour explained that Mr. Sanders had told him there would be no meeting and in consequence was not present, though he wished to be.

The chairman said that Mr. Sanders had entirely misunderstood him. He had not given him to understand there would be no meeting. Himself, the secretary, and Mr. Wilson went over to the school house to see about the necessary repairs, and invited Mr. Sanders to go along. He did not go. In answer to Mr. S. he said there would be a meeting that evening. They called for Mr. S. on their return but he was not in. He (the chairman) was quite willing, however, to give the absent members every opportunity if they desired to object to any portion of the minutes.

Mr. Sanders and Dr. Armour objected to the report of the committee on the investigation of the accounts.

It was then moved by Dr. Caldwell, seconded by Mr. Gordon, that the report be not confirmed at this meeting, and that the Board as a committee of the whole make the investigation.

The minutes were confirmed as thus amended.

A communication was received from Mr. August, head master, requesting printed blanks for monthly reports for his own division, also the monthly report of the attendance for August. Total on the roll, 185; average for the school, 130.

The report was received, and his request acceded to.

The following accounts were presented and ordered to be paid, if found correct, by the managing committee.

R. Carter, repairs	$ 3 35
D. Arnott, do	15 35
J. Hall, 6 1-10 cords wood	24 36
Geo. Hilliard, lumber	11 50
W. H. Casement, sundries	12 56

The estimates for the year, amounting to $1,500 were passed.

ACCIDENT.

Last Sunday evening while Mr. C. Quinn's youngest son was driving the family home from church with five in the carriage, something broke, allowing the vehicle to run off the bridge near Mr. Suttons. It completetely capsised, falling a distance of five feet on to a log. Mrs. Quinn was considerably bruised, but able to go home. Miss Shearer, Mrs. Quinn's sister, received an injury on the head and also an ankle badly sprained. She was carried to Mr. Geo. Cochrane's residence. Medical aid was summoned, and it is supposed the injuries are not serious. We saw the carriage as it was upset, and it seems almost impossible nothing more serious happened. The surprise is that all escaped with their lives. We hope the Smith Council may take timely warning and put the road in proper repair. We have heard that part of it from Phalen's corner to Lakefield is spoken of as a disgrace to the township.

While Mr. T. Green's servant was going from church on Sunday evening, she fell, putting her arm out of joint. She was taken to Lakefield, where the dislocation was reduced by a medical man.

Ladies leaving their orders for Mantles are always sure of a good fit at Turnbull's. Cutting done on shortest notice.

Waste Not, Want Not.

In a nation's proverbs there is generally speaking a large amount of crystallized wisdom. The one which heads our article is well known, but we question if its far-reaching application is yet thoroughly understood. True, the utilization of waste is beginning to receive more attention. Much that was formerly considered valueless is now redeemed from destruction and made permanently useful. A great deal that is really beautiful or beneficial is formed from what was formerly thrown away. Things in themselves valuable are now being utilized over and over again, and thus accomplish much more fully their original purpose, while only recently they were simply counted as refuse and destroyed. Many instances could be given in illustration of these facts.

One of the most useful societies in England has for its object the utilization of newspapers and magazines. Members promise to dispatch their weekly church paper or periodical to some missionary in the foreign field, and thousands of publications by this agency, and at slight cost, reach the toilers weekly in all parts of the world. Sometimes this simple means of doing mission work leads to close attachment on the part of the receiver and sender, and after the interchange of numerous letters, forms a bond of union that cannot be broken. Instead of allowing the weekly paper or monthly magazine to be destroyed, men might well copy this simple and inexpensive plan of doing good. We could easily find some one within reach to whom these would prove very acceptable gifts. It is asserted that in Germany some enterprising people collect cigar ends and tobacco ashes, and by the proceeds of these collections, sold for some, to us, unknown and occult purpose, support a charitable institution.

There is no doubt we would all be better off if we sought to make the most of everything, and if we persistently allowed nothing to go to waste. Housekeepers are beginning to realize the benefit of this lesson. Materials which they allowed to go to waste are now looked after closely and made to do service in various ways. It is a well known truth that by a wise housekeeper a better appearance and better results are forthcoming through an economical and careful husbanding of resources, than by a lavish and extravagant outlay when this carefulness is lacking.

The same rule holds good in everything. It is particularly so as regards time. Many a man by want of system finds himself compelled to leave much undone, which he could easily have accomplished had there been method in his plans. It is not the men who have the most leisure, or who have only one thing to perform, who do the most in this busy age. It is those who make right use of their time, and who see that none of it is wasted. If you save the cents they quickly grow to dollars. If the minutes are saved they will expand to months and even years. Many otherwise active men might easily save an hour every day. This in the course of one short year means gaining a full month of working days! It is by the disregard of these little unnoticed moments time is filtered away and lives are wasted. The learned Gratius had for his motto, Horn ruit. By this he lived, improving every moment; yet so great was his sense of non-improvement that at his death he cried, "I have wasted my life in incessant toil, I have done nothing." Chilo, one of the seven sages, being asked what was the hardest thing in the world to be done, answered, "To use and employ a man's time well." Seneca taught that time was the only thing of which it is a virtue to be covetous. Henry Martyn won the honorable distinction of "the man that never wasted an hour." Buffon, the celebrated naturalist, wrote many of his volumes in hours which by deliberate forethought he saved from slipping away unused. It is said he paid his valet a large sum to rise at a certain hour, and then applied the whip of the habit of early rising! Many people complain that they have no time for this or that duty. Examination would, we believe, show, in not a few cases, that they have none to spare because so much is wasted.

So it is with thoughts, flashes of inspiration, which come to us we know not how, and which, if not utilized, pass away from us for ever. How many of these unheeded and unnoticed, have fled but which might have been retained had men but penned them down on the instant! True, many of our thoughts we had better lose. Their loss is a gain. They could not benefit ourselves or others, and so they require no record. But good thoughts, useful, happy, and heaven-born thoughts—these we might have kept within our reach had we possessed the forethought to pen them down that we might afterwards utilize them. And so when we read a good book and get hold of other men's thoughts. How much better it would be instead of merely reading and subsequently losing all trace of such "thoughts that breathe and words that burn," to make a note of them, writing them down in a common-place book for subsequent reference, and so thereby forming for ourselves an intellectual treasure-house?

In a hundred different ways we might all thus better realize the necessity for utilizing existing waste. Any thoughtful person can discover methods for themselves. On all sides are to be found opportunities if we would only embrace them and make the most of them. And the world would certainly become better if this old proverb were better observed, for were the "fragments" gathered rightly and distributed again, they must accomplish some useful purpose. Many a soul is yearning for a wider sphere of duty who neglects chances for doing good that are within its reach. Let us all remember that "poverty results quite as often from lack of use as from lack of power to use."

Notes and Comments.

"Mr. John Wanamaker has added one more to his many benefactions to the Young Men's Christian Association, by giving the Philadelphia Association $50,000 to pay off its floating debt. The entire amount of the debt—$200,000—was made up by other subscribers."—New York Tribune.

Mr. Wanamaker is the Philadelphia merchant who last year spent $200,000 in advertising, and made a profit of a million.

"Mr. Mowat is probably no nearer perfection than the rest of us, but his private life would stand comparison side by side with either that of Sir John Macdonald or Sir Charles Tupper. At least we should think so."—Toronto Telegram.

The private life of any of the gentlemen named is not in question. Mr. Mowat's private character would stand scrutiny; but it is to his public record that attention should be called. On that record he receives and deserves the confidence of the people of the Province.

The Grand Trunk Railway announce that the accounts just passed for the half year show a balance, after paying preferences, sufficient to pay the Grand Trunk first and second preferences; the Great Western preference in full; also three shillings and three pence per share on the Western ordinary stock. It is proposed to recommend the proprietors to pay the Western ordinary full interest and adjust the accounts next December.

Political Notes.

The Ottawa organ of the Conservative party has been complaining of the Hon. Mr. Carling's management of the Post Office Department. It says: "No more time should be lost in altering the present state of affairs."

The petition against Mr. Trow, M.P. for South Perth, has been virtually dropped. As in the case of many other appeals against the return of Liberal members, those who lodge the petition see no chance of making anything out of it, and they wish to save their $1,000 deposit.

Hon. Mr. Mercier has entered an action for $25,000 damages for libel against Mr. Tasse, proprietor of La Minerve, and a similar suit against Hon. Mr. Mousseau, for stating that plaintiff had received $5,000 from the local Premier to withdraw the suit to disqualify him for bribery.

It is now alleged that Sir Hector Langevin's object in desiring the election of Mr. Landry for Kent, N.B., is in order that he may succeed to Mr. Costigan's place in the ministry. Sir Hector has always expressed himself as anxious for an Acadian representative in the Cabinet, and Mr. Costigan's usefulness he considers now at an end.

An idea of the way the disputed territory is being robbed with the contrivance of the Dominion Government is shown by the operations of Mr. Shields. This contractor took out and sold 800,000 railway ties at 40 cents each, $320,000. He also took out and sold 200,000 feet of timber at 50 cents per foot, $100,000; total $420,000, stolen—actually stolen—from Ontario.—Free Press.

The Hamilton Tribune would like to know if a deputy returning officer can be mulcted in $200 for depriving an elector of his vote, how much the returning-officer in Bothwell should be assessed for disfranchising a whole constituency? Our contemporary's conundrum will be authoritatively answered before the Bothwell case is finally settled.—Chatham Banner.

Mr. Justice Galt and Mr. Justice Ouet announced at the close of the Lennox election trial that they would report that Mr. Roe, the M.P.P. elect, was not guilty of corrupt practices, and that such practices did not extensively prevail during the election. They took the case of John Storms, an agent of the respondent charged with treating, under advisement until the 22nd inst, when decision will be rendered at Osgoode Hall.

During the first seven months of the present year [illegible] immigrants entered Canada, of whom 40,000 have gone to the United States. Of those who remained in the country, 19,574 have settled in Ontario, and 5,661 have gone westward to Manitoba and the North-west territories. One hundred and seventy-nine have taken up their abode in the Province of Quebec. We trust that when the Local Legislature meets, the Government will be prepared to mark out a policy to provide homes not only for a very much larger immigrant population, but for those who are inclined to go into new districts.

The Canadian cotton manufacturers have been protected long enough to overdo the home market, and they are unable to sell elsewhere. Under these circumstances they have resorted to the usual device of entering into natural agreement to cut down production by running their mills on short time. Of course the laborers are not consulted about this arrangement. When they are turned out of the mills the cotton spinners are at liberty to find other employment—if they can. But "protection makes higher wages and permanent employment!" Oh yes, protection is a great thing for the laboring man.

The Montreal Witness, referring to the cotton manufacturers' of Canada recent combination, says: "One of the provisions we are told is that mills are to close down two days in every week in order to prevent over production. That means a reduction of thirty-three and one-third per cent. in the weekly wages of the mill hands, who are in the best of times getting only living wages. How will they eke out their incomes during the two idle days? This closing down for one-third of the time means that $2,800,000 of the $8,500,000 which we have been proudly pointing to as invested in cotton manufacturing in the Dominion is to lie idle, that 160,000 of the 480,000 spindles are unnecessary. The average employee will get $1.46 per week instead of $2.18, or $60.20 a year instead of $109.80. In 1878, we are told that he got $245.50 per annum. So much for the home manufacturers' employee under the late era of the National Policy. Another provision is that a tariff of minimum price has been fixed under which manufacturers are not to sell below." How do the protectionist workmen take this?

Now is the time to prepare for winter; a good assortment of Canadian, Saxony and Scotch Fingering Yarns, in all shades, at Turnbull's.

COTTON ON SHIELDS.

THAT FAMOUS LIBEL SUIT "COME ON MACDUFF."

(Ottawa Free Press.)

Sir,—In your issue yesterday you said that "It is now Mr. Cotton's time to go for Mr. Shields, and ask him what he meant by the issue of the writ nearly three months ago." I have waited patiently, as though he might be acting on false information. He has failed to give any reason for issuing the writ, or even to apologize for having done so in mistake. I therefor publish the letter I received from his lawyers in June last, which was no doubt written to scare me. I presume he now finds he undertook to bark up the wrong sapling, as he failed to give a statement of his complaint. As to who gave the information to writers in the Globe of June the 1st, I believe Shields himself gave it, as he was boasting in the saloon and treating to champagne on his great success in Muskoka. No doubt some of those he treated carried this statement to the Globe office; hence the article complained of. On the 2nd of June he wrote to the Globe demanding an apology, and published an interview in the Toronto World as follows: "The World interviewed Mr. Shields a second time last night, when he said if the Globe did not retract by Monday he would have both paper and the London Advertiser indicted for criminal libel." It appears these papers could not be scared into any apology. He has the investigation in Muskoka which he coveted. I can only apply to the court to have the writ dismissed, to assess the costs, leaving John Shields to public disgrace, and denounce him as a braggart, a coward, a paltroon and a liar. Yours, etc., JAMES COTTON.

Ottawa, September 12th.

ROBBERY AND CORRUPTION COMBINED.

Thus the authorities have no hesitation in openly paying John Shields the reward for his nefarious work in Muskoka. And the beauty and the assurance of this special grant of a timber limit is, that the Ottawa department gives their favorite a limit which of right belongs to Ontario. He has been up at Rat Portage fighting the Mowat Government and this Province, and he at once gets a slice of the spoils and what should belong to the treasury of Ontario goes into the pocket of John Shields & Co. He and his specials hold forcible possession, get out their lumber, and pocket the proceeds as fast as they may. If the Copperhead press of Ontario cannot be roused to a sense of the fact that border ruffians and irresponsible servants of those who seek to incite riot and bloodshed, are fattening upon the spoils off guerilla warfare upon Ontario, it is time the respectable men of the Conservative party were letting their voice be heard. One is not surprised at the Mail sneering at Mr. Mowat as a Christian politician "who employs sluggers and bull pups and other cattle of that sort in Rat Portage," but it is surprising that respectable men should endorse such disreputable journalism and be silent parties to the disintegration and robbery of their own Province by the pack of reckless speculators who apparently control the movements and can screw what they please out of the Government at Ottawa.—Brantford Expositor.

LORD LANSDOWNE.

Notwithstanding that a journal published in Montreal has been endeavouring to create a feeling of hostility to Lord Lansdowne, the people of Canada appear to be persuaded that they are to have a very estimable Governor-General as Lord Lorne's successor. Lord Carnarvon intimates that Lord Lansdowne is a remarkably able man and comes of an able family. His chief offence seems to be, in the eyes of the journal aforesaid, that he is a landlord. But it would hardly do to shoot him for that. The next worst this is to banish him to Canada. It is interesting to note that when the Marquis and Marchioness paid their farewell visit to their Kerry estate at Derreen, near Kenmare, the other day, they received from their tenants many gratifying tokens of the cordial feelings of attachment which are entertained toward them. It would appear from this that although Lord Lansdowne is a landlord, he is not a bad landlord, and, therefore, is not deserving of the bitter things that have been said of him.

THE HUSBAND POISONER.

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER AGAINST THE DECEASED'S WIFE.

The coroner's jury in the case of Symmes Coates, of Balmer, Eastern Townships, which was adjourned to obtain an analysis of the stomach of deceased, continued its sittings here yesterday. The evidence adduced showed that Emma J. Coates, the wife of the deceased, had been on terms of intimacy with a young man named Oscar Laberee, of Easton, and that a few days before her husband's death she obtained his permission to visit some friends in Montreal, and while absent, she met Laberee. They drove to Costicoke, and stayed there in an hotel over night. While there he went to a drug store and purchased chloroform and perfumery, and then drove back to Sherbrooke. It also appeared that he sent to a druggist under the fictitious name of Fred. King a forged order purporting to be signed by Dr. Fitzsimmons, of Great Falls, N. H., for fifty cents' worth of strychnine to kill foxes, and which was to be sent, and was sent by mail. The jury found a verdict of "death by poisoning, administered by Emma Coates." The woman is in prison awaiting trial.

PROVINCIAL INTEGRITY.

Circular Letter to the Algoma Orangemen.

From Two Well Known Members of the Brotherhood.

To the Orangemen and Protestant Electors of Algoma:

GENTLEMEN,—I claim the right and consider it my duty to address the following remarks to you on these grounds:

1st. As a citizen of Ontario, a Province bearing the largest share in the maintenance of Confederation.

2nd. As a man of extensive experience, having for many years engaged in the publication of one of the ablest newspapers ever published in Canada.

3rd. As an Orangeman, who organized the first Orange lodge, and carried the first Orange banner in Toronto.

First then, as a citizen, I desire to direct your attention to the fact that although Ontario is the richest province, the most intelligent, and possessing the largest population of any of the Dominion, still Ontario is ruled by a body of Frenchmen called the Bleus, and to-day we are deprived of the property rightfully allotted to us by arbitration through the influence of these Bleus over Sir John A. Macdonald. I am no advocate of Mr. Mowat. The question you have to decide at the polls is not a question of party politics, but a question as to whether Ontario shall be kept under the iron heel of Quebec or not. It is, shall Ontario be deprived of its territory at the dictation of the Quebec Bleus or not? Let us be true to ourselves and our children will rise up and bless us in after ages.

Second. For upwards of thirty years I published the Toronto Leader, and Sir John had no truer advocate and the Conservative party no abler friend, and all this time we were bored with insufferable persistence by the unrighteous demands of Quebec. Concession after concession had been made to keep them from kicking over the Conservative traces, and this is the story of the present. They seek to-day to ignore the solemn decision of three of the ablest men that ever sat on any matter of arbitration, and I am sorry to say Sir John has to do as the Bleus tell him; but you are free men, and should show it by your votes at the polls.

Third. As an Orangeman I have a double claim on you, but I would not have expressed it in this respect had not some of our Orange leaders undertaken at the bidding of the Quebec Bleus to go up and influence your votes. Too long we Orangemen have been made the tools and mere voting machines in the hands of these unscrupulous leaders, who care nothing for our principles. Bro. Bennett, who dare not open his mouth on the 12th, can now send letters into your riding advising you how to vote, and Brother Clark goes up to tell you, not who sent him and pays his way, but to direct you to vote in the interest of the Quebec Bleus. Now who is Bro. Clark and who is Bro. Bennett that they should exercise authority over you? Bro. Bennett is Grand Master to be sure, but he is a Government official, who while he dare not speak out in the interest of the order, is permitted to address letters to you as an Orangemen in the interest of his political masters.

Brother Clark is basking largely in the sunshine of Government pap, and it is to his interest to retain that, but he cares as much for Protestant principles or Orangemen as the monkey does for theology. Now, I am an old man on the brink of eternity, and I have nothing to gain in advising you one way or the other. Let me tell you to watch these fellows who are continually bringing disgrace upon our order. Vote for your independent candidate and you will be voting in the interest of Ontario and your own.

The faction in the Province of Quebec, known as the French Bleus, seek to strengthen themselves by the weakening of the influence of this great Province of Ontario. In former years they openly sympathized with the rebel Riel, but now they find a willing tool in the Manitoba Norquay, the friend and former supporter of Riel. Yes, and these are the same veritable French Bleus who voted down our Orange Bill of Incorporation.

Norquay is to-day following in the footsteps of Riel as far as he dare. Like Riel, he is actuated by a mad jealousy of Ontario; like Riel, he is encouraged by the French Bleus; and like Riel, he has exiled and cast into Manitoba jails loyal and true Ontario men, and members of our order.

Not only has he done those things to our fellow citizens, but he has actually invaded Ontario and, with insufferable insolence, has taken possession of our territory at Rat Portage.

That place is as much a portion of Ontario and Algoma as Manitoulin Island is. The residents there are earnestly desirous to remain under the protection of Ontario. The unanimous award of Sir Francis Hincks, Sir Edward Thornton, and Chief Justice Harrison decided that this territory had always been part of Ontario, and by your votes you shall determine whether Ontario or the Quebec Bleus shall retain it.

I remain, gentlemen, your faithful servant and true Orange brother.

JAMES BEATY.

I concur in the above.

CHAS. BANSLEY.

CANADIAN METHODISM.

Methodist Union is now an accomplished fact. Rev. Dr. Rice, formerly principal of the Hamilton W. F. College, and Rev. Dr. Carman, formerly president of Albert College, Belleville, have been chosen General Superintendents, the one for eight years and the other for four years. Rev. Mr. Antliff is General Conference Secretary. The Canada Christian Advocate published in Hamilton for many years as the organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church; the Christian Journal, organ of the Primitive Methodist Church, and the Observer, organ of the Bible Christian Church, will be discontinued. The publishing interests of the united body will be centred in Toronto, with Rev. Wm. Briggs at the head of the business department, Rev. E. H. Dewart editor and Rev. S. G. Stone associate editor of the Christian Guardian. The Guardian will be sent to all subscribers of the three papers whose publication is discontinued. No definite arrangement has yet been made about the colleges, but Rev. Dr. Nelles announced that work would be found for Victoria College at Cobourg and for Albert College at Belleville, and a scheme is now on foot to endow a Methodist University at Toronto. The union will probably cause the closing of a good many churches in country villages, where two small congregations can be easily accommodated in one of the buildings already erected. In cities and towns, too, some change may be expected. From the census of 1881 an idea can be formed of the numerical strength of the united Methodist Church, though the Newfoundland Conference is not included. There were in Canada the following members and adherents:—

Methodist Church of Canada	582,963
Episcopal Methodist	128,773
Bible Christians	27,236
Primitive Methodists	25,690
Total	739,151

In Ontario there were:

Methodist Church of Canada	436,987
Episcopal Methodist	101,505
Bible Christians	23,736
Primitive Methodists	25,555
Total	587,775

The total strength is brought out by comparison with the other leading Protestant denominations. The following table shows the standing in the several Provinces and in the Dominion:—

	United Methodist Church.	Presbyterian Churches in Canada.	Church of England.
P. E. Island	13,476	29,304	7,193
Nova Scotia	50,800	94,760	60,255
New Brunswick	34,506	39,102	46,768
Quebec	39,154	45,651	68,797
Ontario	587,775	442,552	366,582
Manitoba	9,470	13,923	14,397
British Columbia	3,511	3,483	7,804
N. W. Territories	461	475	3,166
Total	739,151	669,250	574,813

FLOGGING IN SCHOOLS.

The opening of the public schools recently has revived the question of flogging both here and in the States. The Oswego Palladium gives some good reasons against the custom.

The child that cannot be controlled in school without a flogging should not be allowed in school. Whatever flogging is done—and the idea of flogging a child at all, we are happy to say, is coming to be revolting—should be done at home. In the schools, children are troublesome and stupid and vexing and teachers are human. The rod, when resorted to, in a large majority of cases, is applied in anger, and by a strong man or woman on the body of a child.

These are some of the human considerations that incline us to favor the banishment of flogging. There are others which, in our judgment, are in favor of the new policy. In all cases—and there are many of them—where flogging has been abolished the best results have been attained. Discipline in the schools has not deteriorated, but improved, and the standing of the scholars has been advanced. In no case that has come to our knowledge, where whipping has been abolished in the schools, has there been a return to it.

The truth is, flogging in the schools, is like flogging in the army and navy, repugnant to advanced civilization. There is no need of it. Children can be governed better without it. In the best schools in America and in Europe it has since been put away. It is degrading to both the scholar and the teacher. An appeal to the honor of the most troublesome child will often, and in most cases do what no amount of flogging would accomplish.

LIME KILN CLUB.

Elder Penstock arose to inquire if any members of the club had heard whether Bob Ingersol was to lecture this winter or not. No one seemed to have heard anything about it, and the rev. member requested that the Secretary be instructed to write to Ingersoll direct and ascertain.

"What am de object?" queried the President.

"I propose dat dis club take steps dat dar' am a hereafter fur de soul."

"You do, eh? If de pusson who denies sich a theory am a fool, de pusson who sets out to prove what seben-eights ob de world already believes, am nex' dosh to an idiot. Sot down an' save yer breaf!"

"But it am my duty as a Christian man to controvert Ingersoll's arguments!"

"It am your duty as a Christian man to let Bob Ingersoll hab all de rope he wants! If you has got de proper faith he can't hurt ye. If your belief won't stan' an attack den it am too weak to stan' alone. If, arter men and women have believed in God an' hereafter an' Heaven for 6,000 y'ars, a lawyer wid a mash nose an' a voice like a dog barkin' in a bar'l, kin come along an' scare 'em into fits, somebody had better go to work an' plug up de knot holes an' put new rivets in de j'ints."

Plain Truths!

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible, if disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known and the highest medidical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the Iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious.

SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimulate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth cause headache or constipation and is positively not injurious.

St. Johnsbury, Vermont Oct. 21st 1882.

For six years I have been a great sufferer from blood disease, dyspepsia and constipation, and became so debilitated that I could not retain anything on my stomach, in fact life had almost become a burden, and when hope had almost left me, I was induced to give SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS a trial I am now taking the third bottle and have not felt so well in six years as I do at present.

PETERBOROUGH, SEPT. 20, 1883.

East Northumberland Election.

Judgment herein was delivered at Toronto last Friday by Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice Cameron, and we must congratulate Mr. Ferris on his success so far.

Mr. Ferris is too able and prominent a supporter of the Mowat Administration, and too conspicuous a mark to wholly avoid the arrows of hatred and persecution with which his opponents have followed him.

Although his canvas and conduct during the election was subject to the most Argus-eyed scrutiny, we find both the learned judges declaring that it did not appear from the evidence, that any corrupt acts were committed by persons who could be termed agents of the respondent, or for whose acts he could be held responsible. On the majority of the charges the judges agreed, but on the question of the effect of the bestowal of one or two free railway tickets to voters by Mr. Ferris, there was a wide divergence in their opinions. Section 154 of the Election Act prohibits "the payment by any candidate or agent of the travelling and other expenses of any voter in going to or returning from any election."

Chancellor Boyd thought he should consider the letter, not the spirit, of the enactment, and held that there was no payment in fact or in contemplation—that Mr. Ferris, as one of the directors of the Midland Railway, had, as a perquisite, a number of free tickets issued to him, and that the fact of a candidate being a director of a railway gives him influence and privileges which he may lawfully use to promote his success if the law does not expressly inhibit him, and he therefore dismissed the petition with costs.

Mr. Justice Cameron, on the other hand, considered that it was impossible to doubt the Legislature intended to prevent not only the hiring of teams or other vehicles from voters, who might be corruptly influenced thereby, but also the promising by the candidate, or agent of his, the conveyance of a voter by rail free of expense, and held that the election was invalidated, but that Mr. Ferris was not disqualified, as he certainly did not intend to violate the law.

The result of the disagreement of the judges is that either party may bring the matter before the Court of Appeal, and in the meanwhile Mr. Ferris retains his seat.

The Wood Testimonial.

Last week, the Reformers and Conservatives of Victoria joined in presenting to Hon. S. C. Wood a graceful testimony of their appreciation of his public and private life in the shape of a handsilver Epergne. Nothing was ever more deserved, and coming, as it does, when the Hon. Mr. Wood is about to retire from active political life, the gift will cast a pleasing shadow over the inevitable differences which must have marked so wide a career and opinions so varied, and will show that however far asunder the donors may have stood politically, yet that they appreciate the high enterprise and the exalted public spirit and abilities of the object of their tribute. Politically, the Hon. Mr. Wood was an eminent success. Socially, his genial manner won him hosts of friends, and it may be said that no member of the Government was so popular among his own party. We congratulate the electors of Victoria upon their action, and beg to join in recognising the solid worth, honesty and integrity of the recipient of their favor.

It is the intention of the Government to call for tenders for a Canadian loan of $4,000,000 at 4 per cent., the principal and interest being payable in Canada.

Fall Fairs.

It is very questionable whether fall fairs accomplish the purpose for which they were created.

What are their objects? Is it not principally that farmers and others may place side by side the products of their fields, their stock, or the workmanship of their hands, may rationally compare the deficiencies of the one with the excellencies of the other, and for this end that in the future they may profit by the experience of the successful exhibitor, and may thus be enabled to improve their stock, to increase the yield of their crops, and in other ways to advantage and better themselves.

What are the facts? The average show is a tame, listless affair. Certain products are exhibited. In the confusion of a jam, a large number hurriedly inspect what are presented to view, carelessly remarking the beauties of one article or the cultivated splendor of another. A list of the prize winners appears in the weekly issue of the local journal. In a few weeks the names of the lucky exhibitors are forgotten and left to a cold oblivion. The prize wheat is returned to the granary without further observation. The hardy apple is consumed, its virtues known only to a few. One by one the prize-exhibits become a thing of the past, their graces and qualities chanted only to a couple of friends of the owner.

What is the remedy? Half the exhibitions should be abolished. Each county should have a grand fall fair each year. Competition would be strong. There would be some incentive to action. The same individual would not be likely to gain the laurel each successive year, and when the prizes have been awarded, those who gain them should be patriotic and wide-minded enough not to hide their light under a bushel, but to advertise their products, and thus push themselves financially, and improve and elevate the standard of farming and farming products of their neighbors, and be an ornament to their county.

The "Review" and Algoma.

The Review merely wants a few original ideas, a modicum of truthfulness, and a fresh supply of brains, to make a readable journal.

In its issue of Tuesday it says:

"It has been reported that the Sheriff of the Thunder Bay District, who was at first appointed Returning-officer, found, on his arrival at Toronto to receive his instructions, that they were of such a disgraceful nature as to make him so sick that he had to throw up his appointment."

On the head of this mere report, the source of which is not even explained, the able editor of our contemporary voluminously slashes off one of his brilliant effusions. At the same time, the Review knows that Sheriff Clark, of Algoma, resigned because physically, he was incompetent to perform the duties attached to a riding of such vast extent, and that he retired of his own accord.

Even supposing Sheriff Clarke to have been removed, which is flatly denied, this supposed fact should not arouse the violent sanctimony of ou contemporary. When Sir John removed the Sheriffs and Registrars of 45 constitutencies during the last election, the editor of the Review survived in silence, and even upheld with one of his most powerfully flat articles the ignominious act.

In every case where there are legitimate voters, and where there are bona-fide residents, the Government have furnished voting places. They have there not so much to fear from the grossly improper practices of the opposition missionaries.

If the Review is in earnest in its opposition to what it calls "dirty work," "outrages" and such offensive pursuits, why does it not cry down the corruption of Shields and his gang, the traitorous conduct and ignominy of Wilkinson and his crew, and the scandalous and wretched jobs which are being perpetrated by Kirwan and his fellow Tories at present in Algoma.

Again the Review says:

"But still worse, the list thus announced, disclosed that large districts had been left without polling places. So flagrant was the outrage that a demand was at once made to the Returning-officer to fix other polling-places where the public convenience required them."

The demand of the Tories was to the effect that the polling divisions should be opened along the line of the Canada Pacific Railway, so that the old Tory practice of false personation, intimidation and reckless voting might again be pursued, where there are in fact no legal voters.

Canada's Great Fair.

The industrial exhibition opened at Toronto on Tuesday of last week, and is now going on. It is attracting, as usual, large numbers of people from all parts of the province. The attractions relied upon to draw the crowd are as many as previous years, two of the principal ones being the presence of the Vice-Regal party, consisting of the Marquis of Lorne, the Princess Louise, and Prince George of Wales, and the first electrical railway ever seen in this country. This exhibition is being pushed with extraordinary enterprise, and is now a strong rival of the provincial. So far as we can judge, a comparatively small number of people are likely to go from this district either to the Toronto or the Provincial exhibition. There does not seem to be as great an interest taken in either as in former years.

Napanee is heavily taxed. The council require $20,301 to carry on the municipal machine. To raise this amount a rate of two cents on the dollar has been imposed.

The Luther Festival.

Recent despatches inform us that thousands of Germans were present at the festivities held in honour of Luther at Erfurt last month. But the 10th of November will witness a more elaborate and gorgeous celebration of the great Reformer's natal day, for then, at Eisleben, where he lived and died, the four hundredth anniversary of this great historical event will be duly observed. Preparations on a very extensive scale have been proceeding for months past, and the occasion is likely to be made a notable one. Attention will naturally be directed to the life and character of "The solitary monk who shook the world," and clearer views will no doubt be entertained of what he was in himself, and what he accomplished for the cause of truth and religious freedom. Not that his character is altogether misunderstood. Perhaps no great Reformer is better known and appreciated. But there have been not a few clever writers and deep thinkers who have endeavored to belittle the character of the man and the greatness he displayed throughout his whole career. In the hearts of the common people he will always be enshrined a noble hero, an intensely sympathetic man, brave and skillful and eloquent, transparent in character, pure in heart and life, well fitted by temperament, by his own experience and deep spirituality to correct abuses, awaken thought and direct men into the ways of righteousness. No doubt Luther made many grievous mistakes. His impetuosity and the peculiar condition of the world in which he lived, would lead us to expect this. But to attribute to him gross immorality, hypocrisy and an evil life is, we verily believe, to vilify the man in order to discredit his work, and to pervert a character than which few among his contemporaries can show a nobler record. Though there have been many works written respecting the life and character of this man, who has won an imperishable place in the world's history, we scarcely yet fully appreciate our indebtedness to him. Not only did he inaugurate a much needed reform in the lives and opinions of his fellows, but he freed his country from tyranny and oppression and a foreign yoke. And, perhaps, his greatest accomplishment was giving an impetus to German literature by translating the Bible, then almost an unknown book.

Martin Luther was born at Eisleben, in Thuringia, on the 10th November, 1483. His father was a slate-cutter by trade, and he endeavoured to give his son a good education, designing that he should become a lawyer. At Erfurt, Luther took his bachelor's degree in 1502, and here the youthful scholar, impressed by his pastor's exhortations, began to study the Scriptures, of which, at the time, he found it impossible to procure a single entire copy. Owing to a dangerous illness and some other circumstances, which wrought upon his gentle, sensitive and religious nature, he resolved, in opposition to the wishes of his family, to become a monk, and entered a convent of Augustinians, in June, 1505. The whole world knows the history of his mental struggle there, his penances and mortifications and prayers. Of himself, he says, "I tormented myself to death, to make my peace with God, but I was in darkness and found it not."

In 1507 he was ordained priest, and subsequently received the appointment of professor in the University of Wittemberg, where his teaching and preaching had a powerful effect and attracted multitudes. His work here, however, ceased for a brief period while he visited Rome, where he was horrified and shocked at what he saw. One writer in alluding to its effect upon him says, "He went in true pilgrim spirit, a mediæval Christian, he came back a Protestant." Shortly afterwards he launched out his denunciations in opposition to the sale of indulgences from the Wittenberg pulpit, and followed these by ninety-five propositions against the traffic in pardons, which set Germany ablaze.

Luther built better than he knew. Though in the main only directed against indulgences, these theses were also directed against the whole ecclesiastical system, and had a powerful effect upon the national mind of Germany. The years which followed were passed in public conferences and disputations, and all the while the lion-hearted Luther was busy teaching and preaching. His writings, too, were scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land by thousands, so that when the Papal Bull arrived, which proclaimed Luther's condemnation, the people were armed against its arguments. At Worms, when asked whether he recanted or not, his answer was:—"I am bound by the Holy Scriptures, which I have quoted, and my conscience is held by the word of God. I cannot and will not retract anything, for to act against conscience is unsafe and unholy. So help me God. Amen." He was, however, placed under the ban of the Empire, the people were forbidden to give him food or shelter, his books were to be burned and his adherents punished. Nevertheless, he was kept in safe custody at Wartburg Castle, and during his enforced leisure he began his greatest work, the translation of the Scriptures, with which he took incredible pains and care. It would take more space than is at our disposal to give even a brief sketch of his incessant labours and subsequent sufferings. Against all comers he held the even tenour of his way, his chief blunders being the part he took in the peasants war, and his opposition to Zwingli, both of which greatly retarded his work for a time. But the cause prospered. First, the Augsburg confession was set forth as the symbol of the Lutheran church; then at Spiria, in 1544, it was agreed that the Reformers should maintain their rights until a general council met. Two years afterwards, viz., in 1546, Luther died at Eisleben (where he was born,) on the 18th of February. Nothing can be more edifying than the death-bed scene of the brave man whose life work it had been to loosen the grasp of human tyranny over men's souls, and to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ. His dying prayer was:—"Heavenly Father, eternal, merciful God, Thou has revealed to me Thy dear Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. Him have I taught, Him I have confessed, Him I love as my Saviour and Redeemer, whom the wicked persecute, dishonour and reprove. Take my poor soul up to Thee! Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

"Canadian Methodism."

We have received from the Rev. Wm. Briggs, Toronto, a very elegant volume, styled, "Canadian Methodism: Its Epochs and Characteristics." This book consists of a series of essays, written at the request of the London, Toronto and Montreal Conferences by the late Rev. Egerton Ryerson, D.D., L.L.D., and reprinted, with much additional interesting matter from the Canadian Methodist Magazine. The volume contains a succinct and readable history of Methodism, showing its origin, character and philosophy. It also clearly explains the Clergy Reserve Controversy, the divisions in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, the story of the separation of English and American Methodism, the reunion of British and Canadian Methodism and other historical matter. To members of the Methodist denomination, the book will be especially important and opportune, giving, as it does, an authentic description of those stirring events in which the author played so active a part. He wrote as the author says, not to revive dead issues or buried animosities, but rather by a calm appeal to reason and to historic facts, to allay them for ever. We commend to our readers a perusal of the volume, knowing that it will amply repay with pleasure the most attentive consideration.

Post Office Buildings.

We are informed on reliable authority that the Dominion Government have resolved to drop the post office agitation. The several applicants were too unbending in waiving their rights and are gradually becoming antagonistic and suspicious of one another. Their claims were too conflicting. The Mowat Government is considered impregnable, and no further dirty work is absolutely required at present. Also this town is considered safe in the Conservative interest. Port Hope—with neither solidity nor enterprise—merely because it gives a Reform majority, is now receiving a beautiful monument in recognition of that fact. We believe that before the next election the Government intend to reconsider the varied claims of our townsmen, and after duping, gulling, and making a laughing stock of the applicants, will finally give the preference to the individual whose claims at this moment are secure.

It would be advisable for the electors of this town and county, if they wish to get the buildings within a reasonable time, to send a Reform member to represent them in Parliament.

Lorne is to be the name of the new county which it is proposed to carve out of Ontario, Simcoe, and Muskoka, and Orillia is to be the county town.

Hon. Alexander Mackenzies health has been indeed greatly benefitted, and he hopes to be able to do his share of Parliamentary work next year.

Editorial Notes.

The London Advertiser suggests that "There is now an elegant opportunity for the employment of some of those millions of capital in some business that will give work to cotton mill employers during the one-third time the mills are to be shut down. We refer of course, to the millions that Sir John said were waiting till the N.P. was ratified before being invested in manufactures in Canada."

The reduction of letter postage in the United States is accounted for by the fact that the estimated surplus of the Post Office Department for the last fiscal year is $2,500,000, or $1,100,000 more that the surplus for the previous year. In Canada the post office revenue was for the same period $2,022,098.44; an increase of $254,935.74 on the previous year. The expenditure was $2,459,356.48, an increase of $126,957.68 over the previous year, thus leaving a deficit of $437,258.04. Thus in Canada the post office is not self-sustaining.

From June third to August twenty-fifth there were no less than three hundred and fifty failures in the Dominion, against one hundred and twenty-nine for the same period last year, an increase of one hundred and sixty-three per cent. This state of affairs shows pretty clearly that Sir S. L. Tilley was a little wide of the mark last winter when he predicted seven years of prosperity for the Dominion. Why, asks the Halifax Chronicle, should there be so many business failures anyway under the National Policy? Was it not framed to put an end to financial troubles in the business community?

The suspension of the Exchange Bank of Montreal has taken place for the second time in its history, and it appears from the statements made that the concern will be permanently wound up. Prominent officials connected with the institution confidently assert that all the creditors will be paid in full. The immediate cause of the failure is said to be the bank's inability to meet a heavy Government draft. The total liabilities, according to the last official statement, were $2,906,072, and the assets $3,805,-207. The last dividend was 8 per cent. per annum. The doubtful assets are current loans, discounts and advances amounting to $2,915,106. Notes in circulation at the end of July amounted to $2,200,266. The failure of the Exchange Bank of Montreal gives another blow to the inflation fostered by the Government, and shows how critical are the times on which we are entering.

No one can read the evidence in the Lennox local election trial without being astonished at the finding of the judges. Here is a bit of the evidence:—"James Taylor testified that the day before the election when passing Mr. John Lowry's shop, Lowry asked him if it made any difference to him how he voted and solicited his vote for Mr. Roe. I said that it did. He then said for me not to vote till he saw me again. Early next morning—election day—Lowry came to my house; my cat was lying near the stove. He said he would give me $2 for the cat. He paid me the $2 but never came for the cat. (Laughter.) He told me to vote for Roe, and to go up to the poll, vote and walk out without saying anything to anyone. I gave an open vote as I could not read. In my early days I was a slave, and did not learn to read. After I got the subpœna, Mr. Lowry came to me and asked me what about it. I told him I would tell the whole truth whether it killed or cured."

THE THISTLE ACT

In speaking of the neccessity for enforcing the Province of Canada Thistle Act, the Woodstock Sentinel Review, one of the best papers in the Province, says: "We have so often drawn attention to the Canada thistle and the neccessity for enforceing the Canada Thistle Act that further reference to the subject would seem like repetition. We are glad to notice however, that this scourge is receiving considerable attention in the daily press, and that the Canadian Fruit Growers' Association have appointed a committee to enquire into the present state of the law upon the question, with a vew to laying their conclusions before the legislature. The law at present is a dead letter. There are social reformers who laugh at the idea of any law being impossible of enforcement. They are much too sanguine. It is doubtful if a statute can be enacted that will secure the cutting of Canada thistles. Upon the extinction of this noxious weed depends to a great extent the future of Canadian agriculture The thistle must go, or profitable farming will soon be out of the question. When Canadian farmers see that self-preservation demands the extinction of this their greatest scourge they will do what no law is likely to compel them to do. While we are glad to see the subject taken up in influential quarters, there is little to be hoped for from further legislature enactments. It is idle for the public to ask for new laws when they do not enforce those we have."

A FAILURE OF JUSTICE.

(Globe)

After careful consideration the petitioner in the Muskoka case announced through his counsel to the Court on Saturday that he would drop his claim to the seat and the scrutiny consequent thereupon. The reason for his action was the ground of expense, as on calculation he had found that the probable time consumed would be a year and a half, and the probable expense over thirty thousand dollars. The number of votes objected to on both sides was over eleven hundred. On the announcement being made, the Judges gave their final decision, declaring the seat vacant and ordering the respondent to pay the full costs of the petition and of the trial. It was thought that by the scrutiny the most of the bribery could be unearthed, and consequently that on the decision of the judges the previous Saturday to refuse the summonses this was almost the only method left open. But upon careful inquiry it was found that such a method would be altogether too slow and uncertain, and the idea was, though unwillingly, abandoned.

HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION.

The annual exhibition of the Peterborough Horticultural Society was held last Thursday in Bradburn's Hall. The frost of the previous week had nipped the budding youth of many floral beauties, and consequently the exhibit was small, but select and pretty. The exhibition of fruit was well up to that of previous years, whilst in painting and drawing it was superior. In ladies' work, the artistic finish of some of the articles was a matter of comment.

In order to cast a slightly æsthetic robe over the defects of the exhibit, a concert was improvised, in which Miss Edmison, Mrs. Chambers, and Messrs. Heathfield, Elliott and Porteous were the performers. The music was highly enjoyable.

Below will be found the

FOR THE RIGHT.

The following is the original poem delivered by Joaquin Milller before the meeting of the Press Association held in in New York City last week :

FOR THE RIGHT.

(A sentiment of those of us who toil at night and send forth thoughts with the rising sun that bear no name; thoughts that are fashioned for the Christian world while it sleeps, certain of protection, with no other army than the unnamed editors to guard it and guide it in the right.)

I.

The builders of cities, of worlds are we,
The unnamed scribes, and of unknown worth;
For we are the kinsmen of Progress, and he
The one Prince we honor the whole wide earth
Nor gold, nor glory, nor name we claim—
We ask but the right, unfettered to fight;
To name a wrong by its shameless name;
To slay the wrong for the love of the Right.

II.

The sentries of cities, of worlds are we,
Each standing alone on his high watch-tower;
We are looking away to the land, to the sea;
We have only a lamp in the midnight hour—
Then leave us the right to fight or to fall,
As God may will, in the front of the fight,
Unchallenged, unquestioned for the good of all,
For the truth that lives, or the love of the Right.

III.

The givers of glory to nations are we,
The builders of shafts and of monuments
To soldiers and daring great men of the sea;
But we are the homeless, strange dwellers in tents.
With never a tablet of high-built stone,
Yet what care we who go down in the fight,
Though we live unnamed, though we die unknown,
If we only live and die for the Right?

IV.

There are brighter things in this world than gold,
There are nobler things in this world than name—
To silently do with your deeds untold,
To silently die unnoised to fame.
Then forth go to the fight unnamed and alone
Let us lead the world to its destined height;
Enough to know, if this be known,
We live and we die alone for the Right.

The Cream of Occurrences Skimmed from Contemporary Columns.

LINDSAY.

The band have succeeded famously in raising enough money to procure a new set of instruments and a band uniform. The instruments were ordered to be sent on by express. The clothing firms of the town have been asked to tender for making the uniforms, fifteen in number. The style of dress selected is a gray color, half-frock coat, trimmed with red, and red facings. A band of red is carried down the trousers' leg. A jaunty cap with plume completes the uniform.

BOBCAYGEON.

Mr. Hall, the well-known biscuit maker of Peterborough, met with a loss on Tuesday night, through the death of one of his horses. On the arrival of the biscuit wagon in the village the horse was noticed to be unwell, and it died through the night from inflammation.

Strong fears are entertained that an Indian, by name Johnson, has been drowned in Pigeon Lake. Search is being made for the missing man, whose expected death is a distressing affliction to his wife and family.

BELLEVILLE.

Edith English, 7 years of age, daughter of Nelson English, ate some seeds of a henbane plant yesterday and was poisoned. She was unconscious for several hours, but on the application of restoratives she again came to. She is now out of danger.

There are 230 pupils in attendance at the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb.

Freeman Ferguson was convicted of stealing floats belonging to Rathbun & Son, and Gilmour & Co., and was sentenced to imprisonment for two months.

COBOURG.

After the usual amount of wearisome but necessary preparation the brigade camp of the Third Military District, under command of Lieut.-Col. Villiers, D.A.G., opened here on Tuesday. The very unseasonable weather that we have lately experienced led to many gloomy prognostications and sarcastic allusions to the folly of camping out in such weather, were not unfrequent. Fortunately these were falsified by the event, as the morning of the 11th dawned bright and clear, with considerably higher temperature than we have enjoyed for many days past. The first battalion to march in was the 4th, whose headquarters are in Cobourg. On arriving at the grounds, preceded by their band, they were immediately marched to the ground assigned to them, which is on the extreme right of the line. They were followed by the 46th, 47th, 49th, and 57th regiments of infantry, the third regiment of cavalry, and the Kingston and Durham field batteries, the latter marching in from Port Hope.

We regret to have to record the death of Mr. G. Almond Richardson, a resident of the township of Haldimand, which took place at his late residence, near Eddystone, on Monday.

The Dominion election trial against the return of Mr. George Guillet, West Northumberland, for the Commons, is set down for October 29th.

On Friday the beautiful and appropriate custom of the annual decoration of the graves of deceased Oddfellows was observed, for the second time, by the lodge in this town.

About eight o'clock on the 12th inst., a carpenter, named Hugh McDowell, was found in the hall of a brick building on King street east, known as the "Hospital," fatally stabbed in the neck and abdomen. He was a very quiet man, but has been drinking lately. The sad affair is a mystery, and very little can be learned of it at present.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Loss by Fire.—Mr. R. Senior, woollen manufacturer, suffered quite a loss by fire on Monday last. His dye house and engine room, a stone building used for both purposes, disconnected from the main building, took fire, and a great deal of damage was done to its interior and contents before the flames were quenched. The loss amounts to about $2,000, but against this Mr. Senior has an insurance in the Phœnix.

New School Room.—Instead of erecting a new school building the Board of Education have secured additional space for school purposes in the basement of the M. E Church. It is to be used for the accommodation of the little children comprising the first department of the Public School, which is now very crowded.

A Heavy Loss.—Mr. J. W. Johnston, nurseryman, of Seymour, was a great loser, among many others, by the severe frost of Sunday night last. Previous to the frost he had ten acres of sweet corn, standing in a field, which he was cultivating for evaporating purposes, and valued at $1,000. Now, it is so badly blighted that it is not worth as many cents.

The proprietors of the paper mills have made an addition to their premises of a steam whistle. It was put up and blown for the first time the latter part of last week.—Herald.

TREE PLANTING AND PRESERVATION.

Mr. Phipps is sending out the following circular, and would be glad if any of our readers could send him information, so as to further his work in a matter of so great public importance :

Sir,—Having been instructed by the Ontario Government to make certain inquiries relative to the desirability of tree planting and forest preservation, I should be much obliged if you would send me word if any plantations of forest trees have been established in your neighborhood, whether only a few trees or many, as even the experiment of a solitary tree is valuable. Also, if you happen to know or can readily ascertain, when such were planted, what varieties have been found to thrive best, and on what soils, and what method of planting has been used. I may be passing your way, and would be glad to see and enquire personally into any improvements of the sort; but circumstances may forbid this, and a line from you would be valuable in the meantime. At the same time, I would gladly know whether, in your neighborhood, any change in rainfall, or drying up of creeks or rivers, seem to have followed the clearing of the forest. An early answer will will greatly assist.

Yours truly,
R. W. PHIPPS,
Clerk of Preservation of Forests, Ontario.
233 Richmond street west, Toronto.

THE ISLAND OF JAVA.

The terrible convulsions of nature which have desolated portions of the Island of Java are the most terrible in fact that they occur in a thickly populated country. The island has an area of 49,730 square miles and a population of a little over 18,000,000. The Javanese are of the yellow race, small in stature, indolent and careless of the future. The island is best known to Canada as the point from which we obtain large supplies of coffee. Rice, sugar and cotton are produced in considerable quantities. The Javanese live in the midst of reminders of the convulsions of nature which have devastated portions of the island at various periods in its history. The two ranges of mountains which traverse the island are thickly set with volcanoes, in some of which the fires have died out, while others are still burning. An extinct volcano, known as the "Vale of Poison," exhales such a deadly vapor that birds drop dead as they fly within its circle. The soil is said to be covered with the carcasses of animals and birds and in some cases the bones of human beings. In the crater of another volcano is a lake of sulphuric acid, or water strongly impregnated with acid, about one-fourth of a mile long. The fumes which ascend from these poisons when nature sets her fires at work are fatal to all forms of animal life. The eruptions of the volcano in this case were accompanied with tidal waves that completed the work of destruction. One smaller island off the coast disappeared in the sea and vessels now sail where it was. No close estimate can yet be made of the number of lives lost, but it reaches into the thousands.

GRAND ORANGE LODGES.

A movement is on foot to rearrange the boundaries between the Grand Orange Lodges of Quebec, Ontario East and West. Quebec contains only 75 lodges, Ontario East 400, and Ontario West 600. It is proposed to add to Quebec the counties of Prescott, Russell, Carleton and Renfrew; these would greatly increase the representatives in that jurisdiction and enhance the interest taken in the Grand Lodge of that Province. In return for this the counties of Ontario, north and south, Muskoka and Parry Sound are to be taken from Ontario West and given to Ontario East.

A TORTURER GONE.

Dr. D. C. Dunn, Silver Creek, Ont., writes, "I sent for a bottle of Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment and had it applied for lumbago, with which I had been troubled for some months. A few applications cured me and I have not felt the slightest return of the disease which tortured me so long." Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment has power to banish lumbago and all kindred complaints out of the system. It is very powerful, being too strong for internal use

A Life Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan.: Saved his life by a simple Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors, change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial Bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.

HOW LONG TO SLEEP.

[Ida Lewis.]

Probably no better division of time has ever been made than that into three equal periods of eight hours each, eight hours given to business, eight to reading and improvement, and the remaining eight to rest. Napoleon exhibited A Rod of Steel his [illegible] way. I have long thought that most native Americans require more sleep than the European. For myself, I find that 9 to 10 hours sleep in a single night will cure me of all trifling maladies, with which, from time to time, I may be afflicted. Some extraordinary advice has been given by certain distinguished persons, with reference to the time devoted to sleep, but each writer falls into the common blunder of applying a rule to all which he finds good in his own case. Bishop Taylor advises three hours. Wesley suggests six as the least time that will answer. He declares that during his life he never knew any one to retain vigorous health even for a year with a less quantity than six hours, and he thought that woman required more than men.

Excess of sleep is very bad in its influence, produces dullness of mind and body, corpulency, and disposition to apoplexy. Hence Galen calls sleep the brother of death, and says nothing is more pernicious when carried to excess. The Americans should go to bed at nine o'clock and rise between five and six. I do not mean to say that circumstances may never justify their sitting up until midnight, or later, but I am simply interesting the voice of physiology. If the average American, with the narrow chest and small vitality, would retire at nine o,clock he would live some years longer, and each year would afford him more happiness and ability to work. But American women most need a change to early hours. Their crazy nerves, neuraligia and other evidences of premature decay would be at once checked, and they would become younger and fairer. What with tight corsets, pastry, candies, furnace-heat and midnight, American girls begin to fade at twenty, and women are old at forty.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage recently said in the pulpit:

"When men think of their death they are apt to think of it only in connection with their spiritual welfare, not of the devastation in the household which will come because of their emigration from it. It is meanly selfish for you to be so absorbed in the heaven to which you are going that you forget what is to become of your wife and children after you are dead. You can go out of this world not leaving a dollar, and yet die happy if you could not provide for them. You can trust them in the hands of the God who owns all the harvest and the herds and the flocks; but if you could pay the assessments on a benefit certificate and neglected them, it is a mean thing for you to go up to heaven while they go into the poor-house. You at death move into a mansion river front, and they move into two rooms on the fourth story of a tenement house on a back street. When they are out at the elbows and knees, the thought of your splendid robe in heaven will not keep them warm. The minister may preach a splendid sermon over your remains, and the quartet may sing like four angels alighted in the organ loft, but your death will be a swindle. You had the means to provide for the comfort of your household when you left it, and you wickedly neglected to do so."

A REMARKABLE CHILD.

Mr. George Guess, Township of Lsborough, has a remarkable child, a bright, pretty little girl, three years old. About, thus described by the Kingston Whig: six months ago the head upwards from the ears began to swell and at the same time discolour. Mr. Guess has consulted some dozen or two physicians, even making calls upon the specialists who came to the city within that time. The disease has not been discovered, though Dr. Saunders' opinion that a tumour is forming between the brain and the skull seems the most probable. The head is now a fearful size, and its appearance is quite repulsive. The swelling is extending downward and entering the body. Upon the back of the neck and shoulders lumps as large as eggs are forming, the cheeks and inside of the mouth are becoming hard and losing their flexibility. The skin is indeed so tight upon the head that the lids of the eyes are drawn upward, and the wonder is that the child is alive at all. Its appetite is failing and though lively at times the sufferer is generally weak and easily exhausted. Mr. Guess this morning took the child to Queen's College and exhibited it to the more eminent men attending the Medical Convention, but none could diagnose the case, and all speculated upon its condition and termination.

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of Northrop & Lyman, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The PERUVIAN COMPOSITION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.

Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $1 per package—sufficient for one month's use. M. FINDLAY & CO., Sole Agents, Box 487, Toronto. 32-52t

THINK AS YOU READ

—No "Blarney" in Either Price or Quality—

Giving All we Honestly can Afford!

There are two ways of doing business, one is "get much and give little;" that sort may do for to-day. The other is, "give all you honestly can afford for what you receive;" this is good for this year and all the years after. Not only give good measure and good quality, but lots of other things in the way of confidence and convenience, comfort and accommodation. A new customer expressed surprise that her friend, being as she said, no judge of quality took our salesman's word so implicitly; her explanation was: "But this is guaranteed, and that means something in this house."

In a word we have undertaken to find out, and do find out what our patrons want, how they want it, and hand it over at level prices.

Clap the above business drift on our bargain offer. We'll keep open for one month yet. It is some time since the buyer had an equal chance with this offer. We've put the sickle to the prices in all lines and the prices are made to send the goods out a-whirling.

Every reduction we've made has its reason in plain business—to clear off stock. Our plan works to give our patrons much for little—not to seem to do it but to do it.

Wallace Ross freely acknowledges that Edward Hanlan is a better sculler than he, and says there is not a man in the world who can beat the Canadian champion. "I once thought differently," said Ross at Portland a few days ago; "and I wish I thought and knew differently now, but I confess that he can beat us all—at least, that is my opinion, mind. I don't speak for anybody else, but Hanlan has beaten me, and I am satisfied that he can do it again; and I am prepared to row any man in the world excepting Hanlan. The unusually early frosts have done a great deal of damage in the United States, and it is to be feared in Canada also, to the crops, which are still unharvested. Throughout Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, a great deal of injury has been done to the corn crop. It is to be feared that the National Policy and the good star of a fatherly Government have not protected Canada altogether. From many districts, especially those of Ottawa and Kingston, reports have already been received of severe injuries to all outstanding crops.

THE POPULATION OF CHINA.

European statistics are gradually reducing their estimates of the population of China. It used to be put at over four hundred millions. Behm and Wagner reduce their estimates for China and Corea from 424,500,000 to 379,500,000. Peterson reduces his estimate by seventy-five millions, making the present total three hundred and fifty millions. Dr. Happer, missionary, believes this can safely be reduced another fifty million. Mr. Hippisley, acting commissioner of customs, thinks two hundred and fifty millions more nearly correct than three hundred and fifty millions. The losses by the Taeping and Mohammedan rebellions, and by the famine and pestilence which swept over the provinces of Ohis, Shantung, Shensi, and Honan, are variously estimated at from sixty-one to eighty-one millions.

CURED BY FAITH.

THE PRAYER TEST RECENTLY SUCCESSFUL IN IOWA

The Burlington Hawkeye vouches for this story:—

A young lady, whose name is withheld [illegible] residing at No. 530 Broadway, Council Bluffs, has been ill for many years with a spinal affection, has been completely restored to health. She has been afflicted with the disease for seven long years, and during that entire time has been confined to her bed. As the months and years passed slowly by her condition gradually became more alarming. Several skilled physicians attended upon the young lady, but under this treatment there was no appreciable improvement, but quite the reverse. Medical science was of no avail whatever, and it seemed relief could be obtained in death. Some months ago the young lady requested prayers of her relatives for a restoration of her health. The young lady herself prayed frequently for her recovery. Her friends complied with her request.

In a few weeks favorable indications manifested themselves, much to the surprise of all acquainted with her condition. Every day brought renewed hope to her, for the improvement was perceptible, and daily she became stronger.

The young lady became impressed with the idea that God intended her to get well; and the impression could not be eradicated from her mind. On last Wednesday, the 5th, to the attendants in the room she said: "Lord, I am well; I know I am," and with this faith is being made whole arose from the bed to which she had been confined for several years and walked across the room to a chair and sat down. Her friends are inexpressibly surprised and gratified at this termination of a long siege of illness. Since Wednesday she has been gradually gaining in strength, is able to move about unassisted, and to all appearances has completely recovered. The faith of the young lady is wonderful, and she attributes her recovery alone to the prayers offered to God by her and her friends. In all, this is one of the most remarkable faith cures on record. The skeptical and believers in the efficacy of prayer can draw their own conclusions as to the "cause" of the restoration of the health of this young lady.

THE WAR CLOUD IN EUROPE.

Rumors of trouble between Germany and Russia again appear in our telegrams, and threaten the revival of the old "Eastern Question." The fighting strength of the two nations, not counting Austria, which would, of course, take sides with Germany, is as follows:—The German empire has a standing army of 450,000 men, with an enrolled and trained reserve of over a million, besides another to be used for defence in case of invasion. This army is considered the best armed and trained in the world. Russia has a military establishment of over 1,100,000, besides a reserve of 1,000,000. Austro-Hungary has an army of 260,000, with a reserve of 900,000. Such being the warlike force of the possible belligerents, we may take a glance at the European nations.

France supports a standing army of 525,000, backed by two reserves, which together include every able-bodied man in the Republic, and amount to over 1,750,000. Italy has an army which, on a peace basis, numbers 325,000, with another 325,000 in active training, and a third body of militia amounting to over 275,000, and the reserve, which includes everybody else capable of bearing arms; that little kingdom has an army, all told, of over a million and a half of men. The same crushing army system prevails in Spain, in Belgium, in Turkey, and, to a less extent, in Great Britain. Every workingman in Europe is obliged to carry a soldier on his back, and at any moment the jealous emperors and kings may involve the whole in bloodshed, misery and ruin. How would America get along, suppose every state and province had a king, a court and a standing army? But a day is coming when the dynastic systems will be "in one red burial blent."

THE FATHER OF THE REFORMATION.

WITTENBERG, Sept. 18.—The celebration of the quarter centenary of Martin Luther's birth was a great success. Portraits of Luther and mottoes from his sayings and writings were displayed in many windows. The number of visitors is estimated at 50,000. At Schloss Kirche the Crown Prince placed a splendid laurel wreath upon Luther's grave. The Crown Prince said:—"May this festival serve as a holy exhortation to uphold the great benefits of the Reformation, and to strengthen our resolution to be ready always to defend the evangelical creed of liberty, conscience and religious toleration. May Luther's anniversary help to strengthen the Protestant feeling. May it preserve the German evangelical church from disunion, and lay the foundation of everlasting peace.

DIDN'T WHIP HIM.

A boy met a youthful acquaintance in the street and exclaimed: "Didn't I tell you, Jack Busby, that I was goin' to whip you when I caught you out?" "Go away, Bill, I don't want to fight." "Maybe you don't think I can whip you?" "It don't make any difference whether you can whip me or not, I don't want to fight. My mother——" "Yes, your mother knows I can whale you." "My mother's dead. She died this morning." In a moment the braggart boy was transformed into a gentle child. "I didn't know it, Jack," he said, and you musn't think hard of me. I ain't got nothing against you. I wouldn't hit you, and if another boy waster come up and hit you now, I'd knock him down. There, don't cry. What yer got in that bundle?" "A black dress." "Come on and let me carry it for you."

WHY HE WAS HANGED.

The sermon from the scaffold are generally productions which might be omitted, but there is a deep human in the pathetic words of the poor negro who was hanged at Plaquemine, La., on Friday. He said: "You young men, take warning from me and let whiskey alone. It was whiskey brough me here." From how many scaffolds, from how many prisons, jails, almshouses and hearts and refuges of vice and misery, could the same words be truly spoken! The prohibition sentiment of the West is not to be wondered at. Drink is the cause of more evil to this country and of more crime among our people that all other causes put together. In the fact, ever-ready revolver and the ever-ready drink between them furnish the temptation and occasion for nearly all the crime which is committed.—N. Y. Herald.

THE WHOLE WORLD BECOMING JEWISH.

Instead of dying out the Jewish body shows increasing vitality. They cannot be stamped out or swallowed up. They pass from country to country to become practically masters wherever they go. They get the land in Germany and Hungary, and grow rich in Russia; they are the great bankers in London and Paris, and the centres of European commerce. In ten (recent) years the Rothchilds furnished $100,000,000 in loans to France, England, Austria, Prussia, Russia and Brazil. They increase larger than Christians, and of every 100,000 persons only 80 Jews die to 143 Christians.

NO STUFF TO CUT,

Mr. Caldwell, the well-known lumberman and mill owner of Carleton Place, has 800,000 logs lying in the Upper Mississippi River and its tributaries. He cannot get them down on account of the decision in the McLaren-Caldwell case, and his mill is at present idle for want of stuff to cut. Mr. Bethune, Q. C., declared, after inspecting the river, that all the dams, slides and etc., in creation could not make the stream in question any better than it is in a state of nature for practical purpose in floating logs in the spring time.

Invalids who take WHEELER'S ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA remark how promptly and uniformly increased appetite and improved digestion follow its use. This is explained by the universal adaptability of the preparation to the most sensitive, irritable conditions of the stomach, which secures its absorption and distribution to the nerve ganglia. Phosphates being, par excellence, the food of the nervous system, it is easily seen why this elegant compound has proved of such great value in so wide a range of diseases depending on failure of nerve power and blood impoverishment.

Mr. W. J. Guppy, of Newbury, informs us that he has used Burdock Blood Bitters in his family with good effect, and adds that the Rev. J. R. Smith has used it and speaks of it in high terms of praise. It is the great system-renovating tonic that cures all diseases of the Blood Liver and Kidneys, acting harmoniously with Nature's laws. 25,000 bottles sold during the last three months. 38-2t

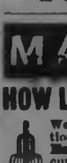
MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED



We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Thorough instruction given in all departments. French and German a specialty. Advantageous arrangements offered for evening pupils. For prospectus, etc., apply to the Rev. E. C. Wilson, Peterborough. 32-6t.

The Argus.

Rat Portage has long remained without a newspaper worthy of the enterprise and industry of the people in that portion of Ontario. The Argus, and Northeastern Ontario and Lumbering Record is the title of the new paper. It is a neatly printed journal, ably edited, and displays a sound patriotic spirit in taking up the Ontario view of the disputed boundary. The Argus has our best wishes for its success.

Being Repaired.

The Milling News says:—"Mr. John Hall, of Lakefield, Ontario, has his flouring mill shut down for repairs, and undergoing a thorough overhauling and remodelling. The Jones' stone rolls are being added for the reduction of middlings. Additional purifiers and improved grain cleaning machinery are being put in, the Consolidated Purifier Co., of Toronto, supplying the entire outfit for the improvements and additions. Mr. Prout, of Bowmanville, is the millwright, and is doing the business in a most thorough manner.

Watches, Clocks, Jewellry, etc., carefully repaired and warranted at Hughan's. Office lately occupied by Elias Burnham, Simcoe Street. 18-tf Removal.

Dr. O'Shea has removed his office to Brock street, nearly opposite the Bank of Commerce, and one door west of the Post Office.

Shipment of Cattle.

Mr. Alex. Watts, of Dummer, shipped to Montreal last week a car load of fine cattle, and realized handsomely. This was Mr. Watts' first venture in cattle shipping.

Eye, Ear and Throat.

Dr. G. S. Ryerson, of Toronto, will be at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 2nd and 3rd, for consultation in all diseases of the eye, ear and throat.

A Solid Business Firm.

The Port Hope Times says:—"Our readers will be sorry to learn that Messrs. Fair & VanEvery intend removing from Port Hope to Peterborough shortly, as they are live business men such as we can ill afford to lose. We trust the move may prove an advantageous one to them."

Runaway.

Thursday afternoon, Mr. Wand's team, of Ashburnham, ran away and, becoming excited, took a header into the river. The cool waters calmed their excited nerves, and after swimming out a short distance they returned to land, where they were again secured. No special damage was done.

Sample of Wheat.

Mr. J. C. Robertson, of Fraserville has presented us with a sample of Spring Tuscan wheat, grown at Elbow, New Zealand, which we have on view in our office. The wheat appears to be of excellent appearance and sound quality and suitable for growth here. Mr. Robertson has a small quantity of the grain in his possession, which he will show to those who wish to see it.

Traffic Returns.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Sept. 8th, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $9,518.84; freight, $15,752.73; total, $24,271.57, as compared with $23,924.54 for the corresponding week of 1882, being an increase of $347.03; and the aggregate traffic to date is $71,725.507, being and increase of $24,072.42 over 1882.

A New Paper.

The Dominion Mechanical and Milling News is the title of a new monthly published in Toronto, the first number of which has just reached this office. It is pinted on the finest of paper, with the best type and contains many articles that must prove of interest to those engaged in the manufacturing industries. If the present standard is maintained it will deserve the patronage of those interested.

Anniversary.

The Anniversary services in connection with the Charlotte Street Methodist Church will be conducted on Sunday next by the Rev. Dr. Cochran, President of the Toronto Conference. The rev. gentleman will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening, and will take part in the anniversary tea on the following Monday evening. The ladies of the church are making arrangements for an enjoyable evening. It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance on both occasions.

Sale of Unclaimed Freight.

Last Saturday Mr. Chas. Stapleton sold by auction all freight, not claimed during the time required by law from the Midland Railway. A large number of articles of every description were put up and knocked down to the highest bidder. Quite a wild spirit of speculation was exhibited, but few had special cause to thank their lucky stars, while several regretted they had sunk their ducats in a moth-eaten suit of shantymen's clothes or other such choice articles.

Presbyterian Church.

Mr. John Robson has received the contract for building the new Presbyterian church. The mere building, irrespective of any furniture or fittings, will cost about $24,000. He has sub-let the brick work to Mr. J. J. Hartley. It is expected that the expenses connected with the new church will be between $30,000 and $35,000. The work is to be commenced in the spring. Capable men have the contract in hand, and when completed, the church will be both a credit to the contractor and to the town and to its able resident pastor.

Burglary.

Sunday morning, the fruit store of Mr. H. E. Smith was burglariously entered and $130.00 in cash were secured as booty. Entrance was effected from the rear by forcing a staple, and once in the building, a window was smashed and admittance gained into the store, where the safe was. Mr. Smith thinks the safe must have been left unlocked in the hurry of closing up Saturday night, as the money was abstracted therefrom and neither the door nor any other part appeared to have been tampered with. In their haste, the thieves omitted to take about $18.00 in American silver. No trace of the midnight sports has as yet been acquired. As Peterborough seems to be visited by crackamen in the fall, it would be advisable for storekeepers and others to take extra precautions to guard their premises.

Military.

57th Battalion of Infantry, "Peterborough Rangers,"—To be major, from the 10th September, 1883, Captain and Brevet Major Robert William Bell, M.S., from the Adjutancy, vice Rogers, promoted.

No. 2 Company, Peterborough—To be lieutenant, from 10th September, 1883, 2nd Lieutenant Robert J. Lee, M.S., vice Miller, appointed quarter-master. Captain and Paymaster John Burnham is permitted to retire retaining his rank of captain. To be quarter-master, from 10th September, 1883, Lieutenant John Wesley Miller, V.B., from No. 2 Company, vice Samuel Robert Price, who having the relative rank of captain is hereby permitted to retire with the honorary rank of captain.

46th Batt.—No. 5 Company, Springville—To be 2nd lieutenant, provisionally, from 10th Sept., 1883, Corporal Thomas James Johnston, M.S., vice Archibald Goodfellow, jr., deceased.

Band.

The Fire Brigade Band played at the Toronto Exhibition last Monday.

A Beauty.

Mr. W. R. Lundy, has presented his brother, Mr. J. J. Lundy, of this town, with a beautiful elk's head. The original animal was captured in Manitoba, and is noted for the conspicuous symmetry and elegance of his horns.

Death.

We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Richard C. Wright. He has been suffering for some time and passed away quietly on Tuesday. He was connected for many years with the store of Mr. Thos. Menzies, and his familiar figure will henceforth be missed. Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, of which was a member, will attend the funeral this afternoon.

Legal.

The Toronto Globe of Sept. 15 says:—A case has arisen in the township of Glamorgan which is likely to prove of great interest to lumbermen generally. Mr. Hilliard, of Peterborough, and a number of other timber licensees from the Government, have been assessed for their interest in timber in question. This is the first time that such an interest has ever been assessed. A rule nisi for a prohibition to the township from proceeding with the assessment was applied for by Mr. Barron, of Lindsay, and granted yesterday. Lumbermen in the township are much intrested in the result of the case, which will shortly be argued at Osgoode Hall.

Toronto Exhibition.

Amongst those who are contributors to the Exhibition are the Ontario Canoe Company, William Forsythe and the Hamilton Manufacturing Company, all of Peterborough. The Globe of the 15th inst. contains the following:

The other exhibitors are the Ontario Canoe Company, Peterborough, who contribute a small fleet of canoes. These canoes are all very handsomely built, some of them of basswood, others of cedar, and two folding boats of painted canvas. The folding boats are called the Berthon-Douglas folding boats and are very cunningly constructed for packing away supplies, etc., in small compass for transportation and carrying over the rough roads of a portage. The entire collection of skiffs and canoes is not large, but the articles are pretty and serviceable, and attractive in display.

Wm. Forsythe, of Peterborough, shows a fanning mill with the shoe suspended by iron strips from the sides, which are well made in one solid piece of boarding. The sieves are adjustable to any inclination, resting in crotches at the back, and being held by an iron rod resting in a row of knotches at the front. Various little improvements have been made in this mill during the past year.

Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of this association was held last Tuesday evening at their rooms for the purpose of hearing reports, adopting a constitution, the election of officers, &c. Mr. G. M. Roger, the retiring President, occupied the chair and after devotional exercises called on the late Secretary, Mr. Minore, for his repo which is as follows:—

To the Officers, Directors and Members of the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association:

BRETHREN,—In presenting for your consideration my second annual report I do so with pleasure. I say with pleasure because, if you remember, when I last addressed you, a cloud seemed to darken the progress of our association. Now, through the blessing of our Heavenly Father, apparently to a great extent the cloud has disappeared, and to night we can, as it were, rejoice in having been led into green and refreshing pastures. Instrumentally this has been brought about through the conclusions arrived at by the directors of the association to engage a general secretary, at a fixed salary, to devote his entire time to the work of the association. Acting upon their conclusions, they invited the general travelling secretary, Brother Cole, to visit Peterborough, so that the association might consult him about this matter. Bro. Cole accepted the invitation. The result of his doing so was that owing to that fact, together with the generosity, or liberality, of our citizens, we have been rather to raise funds sufficient to warrant us in able engaging a secretary. The association empowering the directors to do so, they left the matter with Bro. Cole, who, together with the Executive Committee, recommended the brother we now have with us, and who we trust has been sent to us by God, I refer to our brother and Secretary, Geo. E. Williams, of Montreal. I think you will agree with me in saying this is a subject upon which the association may be congratulated. The state of our finances is also a source of joy, but I need not enlarge upon this, as you will have laid before you the Treasurer's report, which will fully explain our financial standing. I will now turn to the mission fields, and here also I need not take up your time, because the Chairman of the Devotional Committee will furnish you with a full report. It is sufficient for me to say that the work at the railway camps, Tully's School House and also Nassau Mills has been fairly attended to, but, I must not forget to inform you that through the persistent efforts of Mr. Brundrette a meeting is now held every Sabbath afternoon at the Railway Station, especially for the employees of the Railway, and is being attended well and much good, we feel, will be accomplished. Our rooms during the year have been well patronized. Statistics will be furnished by Bro. Smith, who has had charge of the Reception Committee.

In conclusion, your Secretary would respectfully suggest that more time should be given and our efforts directed for the purpose of doing more work in town, and that an effort be made to make the rooms of the association more comfortable and enticing. And now, as I retire from the position to make room for one more competent to fill the position, I thank you for your kindness to me, and willingness on all occasions to assist me in furthering the interests of the association. Trusting that God will bless our united efforts in the future, I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,
W. G. MINORE.

The Treasurer's report was then given, showing a balance on hand of $46.12, against which, however, there are some small accounts.

A draft of constitution was then read and after discussion adopted, a few changes having been made in it.

The business of the evening closed with balloting for the officers and Executive Committee required under the constitution, with the following result:—

PRESIDENT—Dr. Fife.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT—W. J. Minore.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—William Best.
TREASURER—H. Grundy.
GENERAL-SECRETARY—George E. Williams.
COMMITTEE—D. Gardiner, H. Rossiter, A. Jones, Wm. Smith, O. G. Lougford.

This committee will have a meeting during the present week to organize the work for the season.

Rev. Canon Cooper, F.R.G.S., has completed the special mission tour in the North-West, on which he was sent by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. He travelled from Troy to Prince Albert, and from thence via Carleton, Battleford, Fort Pitt, Victoria, Edmonton, to Calgary, a distance of 1,000 miles, in a few days less than two months, driving the same horses all through.

Turnbull's stock of Rich Velvets, Plushes, Feathers, Flowers, Pom Poms, &c., is being rapidly made into stylish millinery for the ladies of Peterboro and vicinity to select from.

THE COBOURG CAMP.

First Visit of the Vice-Regal Party to a Militia Camp.

Enthusiastic Reception.

His Excellency the Governor-General, Her Royal Highness Prince Louise, and Prince George of Wales visited the district camp at Cobourg. The reason for the Vice-Regal party leaving Toronto at the early hour of 7 in the morning was in order to pay a visit to the camp at Cobourg in acceptance of an invitation which Col. Graveley, the Mayor of Cobourg, had extended to them on behalf of Col. Villiers the Commandant. On the arrival of the train, the Vice-Regal car was drawn some distance beyond the station to the Darcy-street crossing, only a few hundred yards from the camp ground. On their alighting a royal salute of 21 guns was fired by the batteries on the grounds, while all the town bells rang forth a merry peal of welcome. Carriages were in waiting provided for the Vice-Regal party and the suite. The escorte of honor was furnished by the third cavalry under the command of Lieut.-Col. Rogers. The camp ground itself was filled with an enthusiastic crowd numbering thousands at an early hour, although it was not till Thursday that the intention of their excellencies to visit the camp was definitely known. On arriving at the ground the party was received by the Commandant and staff, the brigade, which was received by the commandant and staff, the brigade which was drawn up in review or order, presenting a royal salute. The carriage drove slowly along in front of the crowd to the brigade marquee, which had been most charmingly and tastefully decorated by a committee of ladies composed of Mrs. Villiers, Mrs. Vance Graveley and Mrs. Boulton. On alighting the Vice-Regal party was received by these ladies, the two former of whom presented boquets. After a pleasant conversation, in which the Princess expressed her admiration at the fine appearance of the brigade and the beautiful situation of the camp, the carriages were re-entered and the distinguished visitors were driven along the front of the line of troops, with the bands playing and colors drooped. They then returned to the marquee where all the commanding officers of the various battalions, in compliance with brigade orders, were introduced, each being honored with a cordial shake of the hand and words of friendly greeting from His Excellency, the Princess, and Prince George. On the arrival of the fast express, in which the Vice-Regal party was to proceed to Kingston, after once more expressing their thanks for the reception and the satisfaction it afforded them, the distinguished visitors left the ground amid three ringing British cheers from the troops and the assembled multitude. Altogether the affair was a most decided success, and it must be regarded as a distinguished compliment paid to the active militia of Canada, as this is the first and likely the last military camp their Excellencies have visited during their residence in Canada. The royal party seemed in their happiest mood, the appearance of the young Prince particularly evoking favorable comment by the populace. The weather was everything that could be desired—in fact Queen's weather—although the morning had been so lowering that rain was much feared. The troops presented a very creditable appearance; and the crowd was large and enthusiastic. The brigade is now getting down to business in splendid style. On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the march out will take place. Thursday afternoon Major-General Laurd, who arrives on Tuesday night, the guest of Mayor Graveley, will inspect the brigade. The Hon. Mr. Caron, Minister of Militia, has intimated his intention to visit the camp before it breaks up.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

CELEBRATING THE NINTH ANNIVERSARY.

Dr. Cochran's Eloquent Sermons on Sunday—The Anniversary Tea—The Financial Statement—Dr. Cochran's Chat About Japan—Good Receipts—Liberal Subscriptions—A Most Successful Celebration.

On Sunday, the services in connection with the ninth anniversary of the opening of the church were held. In the morning there was a large congregation, and Rev. Dr. Cochran, President of the Toronto Conference, preached an eloquent and fervent sermon. His text was from Hebrews, Chap. XII, ver. 22 to 24:

"But we are come unto Mount Zion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels,

To the general assembly and church of the first-born, which are written in Heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect.

And to Jesus, the Mediator of the new Covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel."

This epistle was written in time of of trouble by Paul to the Hebrews, when it fell to the latter to decide whether to go forward in the path the steps of Christ had marked out, or to go back in the old paths. The two lessons taught by the text were the perfection of the Christian worship, and the perfection of the Christian fellowship. The condition of the Hebrews in their sojourn in the wilderness in the lawgiving on Mount Sinai, with its awful accompaniment, and the progress of the people till they reached the promised land, and passed into the enjoyement of the privileges of worship at Jerusalem and Mount Zion, were graphically depicted by the preacher. They were no longer awed by the terrors of the law giving, but were enjoying the blissfulness of worship, and the shelter of the rook of ages. Paul in his letter in effect assured them that in going to Christ they were not returning to the terrors of Sinai, but to the enjoyment of a new Jerusalem, and Mount Zion. The preacher then eloquently showed that man in becoming a christian comes into perfect worship. A distinguishing feature of the Christian worship was its entire spirituality. There were no longer need of altars, priests, vestments, and ordinances, for they were supplemented by spiritual services. In former times the priests appeared for the people to help them to come to God, but the gospel shows that there was nobody concerned in salvation but man and his God. The catholicity and universality of the christian worship was another grand feature. Once Jerusalem was the focus and centre of worship, but under the gospel the cloud of the Divine presence spread over the entire world, and the whole earth was a Mount Zion. The text showed, besides, that the gospel was truth, not in the contrast with error, but in reality—in contrast with types and shadows. The typical representation of Christ was done away with, for the gospel gave us Christ himself, the only and abiding mediator—Emanuel, God with us. The new covenant in contrast with the old, was always new, always permanent. The conditions were perfect; there was perfect sacrifice that "spake better things than the blood of Abel;" full attonement for sin, everlasting salvation. Under the gospel we also had christian fellowship—the citizenship of the heavenly Jerusalem on earth. Love and virtue united all humanity; sin disintegrated and separated us from God and from each other. God's grace restored the wrecks of sin, and recalled us, first to God and then to our fellow man, and brought us into communion with the angelic and heavenly hosts. The speaker proceeded to recount in glowing terms the grand privileges of enjoyment of the universal church, which was the sum of all the churches, the universal brotherhood in Christ, and painted a graphic picture of the exalted bliss of communion with the spirits of just men made perfect, culminating in the unchanging fellowship of the blest in heaven. The Church of God was a heaven on earth—an undivided, living unity, only divided by the narrow stream of death from the church triumphant above. The latter was more truly the church of God, for the church of God on earth was subject to fluctuations and to changes, but the church in heaven never fluctuated nor changed, but was as permanent as the everlasting King.

IN THE EVENING

there was an immense attendance, the church being literally packed, many having gone away unable to gain even an entrance.

Rev. Dr. Cochran again preached, and if possible surpassed his eloquent effort of the morning. His text was from 2nd Corinthians, chap. II, ver. 15, 16:

"Now thanks be unto God, which always causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest the savor of his knowledge by us in every place. For we are unto God a sweet savor of Christ in them that are saved and in them that perish:

To the one we are the savor of death unto death, and to the other the savor of life unto life."

The second epistle of Paul to the Corinthians was the most personal and least systematic of all the great apostle's inspired letters. He had had great success at Corinth, and had left there a flourishing church. But after he had gone he heard of the evils they had fallen into, and how they had departed from their high estate. He was grieved, and under these circumstances he wrote his first epistle, reproving them boldly and urging that discipline be enforced. Titus brought in the glad tidings that his epistle had been heeded, the evils had been removed, and the church had returned to its first love, and the second epistle was the outcome of his great gratitude. The figure of the Roman triumph used in the text, Paul used as one his readers could understand, and he also used the figure of the Roman triumph to show them the triumph of the gospel. God's triumph was ever marching on, and his purpose whether men lived or died was the same. If a man gave himself up to Christ whether he failed or succeeded he was accepted. The great alternatives of life or death that waited on the hearing of God's words were pointed out. To the believing and obedient it was the "savor of life unto life," and to others of "death unto death." Life and death had spiritual significations. Life was not mere existence, it was blessedness added to being. Spiritual death was not annihilation. A man might live, move in the world, be gifted and great, and still be dead to God and spiritual things—"dead in trespasses and sin." The great aim of the gospel was to raise the dead, to give life. In this respect the gospel was unique among the religions and philosophies of the world. While followers of other plans dreamed and despaired the gospel gave life. The Lord Jesus Christ stood in the midst of a world of dead, and the hour, as the gospel declared, was coming when the dead should hear the voice of the Son of Man, and they that heard and heeded should live. Christ removed the legal impediments and paved the way to our restoration to life. One alternative is life—life that is most vigorous when the body dies—that culminates in the glorious life of the eternal world. The other alternative was the most important and determinate in the world—the "savor of death unto death." It was an awful responsibility to hear the gospel; it changed man as he never was before. God sent the gospel for life. If we accepted we were saved; if we neglected we determined our own future evil condition. The greatest sinners were not the worst before God, but they who had heard the gospel would in the judgment be the most guilty, for they would have thwarted the purpose of God's love in Christ's sacrifice. That would be the great condemnation. The acceptance or rejection of the gospel set man on the upward or the downward road. God was bound according to the principles of his government to deal with us according to our own choice. He proposed life, and if we chose death the fault was our own. All could heed the call of the gospel without stepping out of their places in the world. We could love God and fulfil all the duties of life, and spread a glorious influence abroad in the world. And our reward would be progressive, ever moving on and progressing up to the eternal reward of reigning as kings and priests unto God in heaven.

Rev. Dr. Cochran is a smooth, powerful, logical and effective preacher, and both his sermons were listened to as rare examples of living pulpit eloquence.

MONDAY NIGHT'S TEA.

The tea on Monday night, the closing event of the anniversary series, was a fitting complement to the success of the entire affair. But the stormy, wet weather made the attendance less than it would otherwise have been, yet, a large number was represented by tickets sold, which contributed to the financial result, but detracted somewhat from the social success. The refreshments provided by the ladies were on a scale of excellence, variety and abundance, characteristic of the ladies of the congregation. After tea Mr. James Stevenson was appointed to the chair. In a few remarks he stated that he owed the honor of being chairman to the fact that Mr. Cox was absent, being very reluctantly compelled to go to Hamilton on business. Referring to the church, he stated that twelve years ago the late Alex. Morrow proposed the building of a church. At first the undertaking was considered too great, but after reflection made its feasibility more apparent, the idea was encouraged, the work went on amidst great opposition, and at last the church was built, but not in so substantial a manner but that it required radical repairs. At the time the repairs were decided on the growth of the congregation suggested the enlargement of the church, which was also decided on, and one thing following another, the present church, commodious, comfortable, complete in all its appointments, carpeted throughout, with a good organ and a good choir, resulted. The expense had been much larger than at first intended, growing from a $4,000 estimate to an actual $8,000. There was still a debt remaining which must be removed.

Mr. A. L. Davis, Treasurer, then read the

of Charlotte Street Methodist Church to the 17th September, 1883.

In submitting a statement of the present financial position of the church, I prefer to commence at the date that the improvements were undertaken. At that time the liabilities were $2,500 under a mortgage to Wm. Thomson, $60.00 arrears of interest thereon, a note in the bank of $400.00, and a balance due the late Treasurer, James Stevenson, Esq., of $432.65, or a total of $3,432.65.

The receipts and expenditures since that time have been as follows:—

RECEIPTS.

New Mortgage	$1,500 00
James Stevenson	1,500 00
George A. Cox	1,500 00
D. Belleghem	60 00
G. Webber	20 00
H. Beavis	5 00
Pew rents	300 00
Collections since opening of church	306 66
Proceeds of $3,000 note discounted in bank	2,945 35
Total	$8,945 41

EXPENDITURES.

Paid J. Alford in full as per contract	$3,847 92
Paid Law & Brashaw, for castings	119 45
" James Montgomery, carpenter work	63 00
Paid J. J. Hartley, bricklaying, etc.	73 00
" Mr. Whitehair, plastering, etc.	171 00
" Warren, for organ	1,200 00
" Lyons & Co., stained glass	215 00
" Carpet	288 00
" D. Belleghem, cushions, etc.	456 95
" Sundry small accounts	247 10
" Interest on $4,500.00 mortgage for 6 months ending 30th June, 1883	120 00
Total	$8,937

This leaves a balance of $1,178.45. Out of that amount we have paid the $400 note in the bank and the $60 arrears of interest on $2,500 mortgage, which leaves us with a balance in the bank of $674.45.

All outstanding accounts for improvements, new organ, carpets, cushions, etc., have been paid in full, and the total liabilities to-day are represented by a mortgage of $4,000, a note in the bank of $3,000, and the balance due Mr. Stevenson, $432.65. It is the desire of the Trustees that the two latter amounts due Mr. Stevenson and the bank, $3432.65, should be provided for at this meeting, as against it we have cash in the bank amounting to $674.45, leaving only $2,758.20 to raise.

In justice to the members of the church and congregation it must be stated in explanation of the few names that appear as subscribers up to the present, that this is the first opportunity that has been afforded for a general subscription, the Trustee Board feeling that after the improvements had been completed and a full statement of the receipts and expenditure submitted to the congregation, would be the most opportune time for asking them to make up what was necessary to put the church upon an easy financial footing. Looking to the enlarged and very much improved condition and comfort of the church, cushioned and carpeted throughout, and with a handsome new organ, it must, I am sure, be gratifying to the congregation that they are only called upon to raise $2,758.20; and, as a still further encouragement, I am authorized to say that Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Cox will make their subscriptions up to $2,000 each upon condition that the necessary amount be raised. As it will only require, therefore, $1,758.20, it is confidently expected that very little difficulty will be experienced in raising the amount here to-night.

Peterborough, 24th Sept., 1883.
A. L. DAVIS,
Treas. C. S. M. Church.

The report was adopted, and Mr. J. L. Hughes moved that the hearty thanks of the congregation are due especially to Messrs. Cox and Stevenson for their munificent subscriptions and for the deep interest they had taken in the renovation of the church.

Mr. Hughes made a few appropriate remarks, and Mr. J. F. Jeffers in a neat little speech referred to the satisfactory and beautiful result of the improvements as carried out. It was the object to attract people within the range of good by a neat, tasty church, a good organ and good music. He thought, however, that all the credit was not due to Messrs. Cox and Stevenson. To Mrs. Cox was due the credit of doing most of the urging on, and to her taste the beauty, harmony and neatness of the appointments of the church are due. The motion was warmly adopted.

Rev. Dr. Cochran complimented the congregation on the beautiful church they now had, and was sure that they had the right men in the right place, that they had a good organ, good choir and good organist. Subscriptions were then invited and in a few minutes the sum of $668 was subscribed.

A FEW MINUTES IN JAPAN.

Dr. Cochran then gave a delightful sketchy address upon his observations in Japan, whose native signfication was the "sun source land," or the land of the rising sun. It was 1,225 miles long and 150 broad, with about 4,000 smaller islands. Vasco di Gama made his way to Japan two or three centuries ago. Departing from the island he rescued a man who had committed a crime and, reaching India, the man was converted under the labours of that great missionary, Francois Xavier, and the two went to Japan, where Xavier planted the banner of the cross. But so little progress was made that after a century's work the people feared the new religion was an attack on their liberties and the Christians were driven forth, the culminating act of persecution being the slaughter of 35,000 persons. An edict was made against God and Gods's people. In 1873, when Dr. Cochran went to Japan the only relics he found of Christianity were the use of tobacco by every man, woman and child, gunpowder, and a boundless ability to make sponge cake. (Laughter.) The speaker proceeded to give an interesting description of Japanese religions and modes of worship, describing their temples, their gods, the purchase of prayers printed on bits of paper, which were chewed in the mouth, then flung at the god, and if they struck the prayer was answered. Temples were thicker there than here, and were always thronged with the devout, who never thought of performing an act of worship without first giving money. His description of the temples and the worship was most interesting, but space forbids a detailed report of it. The lesson to be learned was that with all their senseless mummery of worship and superstition, the Japanese were as intelligent, cultured and polite as ourselves, showing how spiritually degrading was man's condition without the Gospel of Christ. The domestic life was racily sketched, with quaint bits of decorous humour thrown in. Country life was pictured in graphic style, and the speaker closed an intensely interesting address, with the remark that civilization was progressing rapidly and radically in Japan; the Gospel was being received and a grand future was in wait for the "sun source" land.

The address was listened to with intense interest and attention, and loudly applauded.

At its conclusion the usual votes of of thanks were given.

The music provided for the entertainment was worthy of the highest praise, and the solos rendered by Mrs. Chambers and Mr. Porteous were received by the audience with a warmth of applause that showed they appreciated high class vocalism. The singing on Sunday was of a similary excellent character, and the whole exercise of the anniversary celebration were marked with signal success.

The collections on Sunday amounted to nearly $140, the tea meeting netted $100, and the subscriptions amounted to $668, not counting the gift by Mr. D. W. Dumble of a town lot, which was turned over to the trustees, half of the price to become part of the building fund of the church. The social on Tuesday night netted $25. Thus the floating debt of the church is reduced to about $700, which balance, it is pretty certain, will be speedily disposed of. With a renewed, enlarged and beautiful place of worship, and enlarged and renewed school room, used for the first time last Sunday, with a clever and zealous minister, with a large and liberal congregation, it is plain that a future of prosperity is before the Charlotte Street Methodist Church.

BEARS KILLED.

Last Monday it was reported that a bear was in the woods near Mr. Sutton's. Messrs. Petit, Dinwoodie, Cochrane, Casement, Steele, Henderson, Moore and others were soon on the war path. The bear was soon started, jumped a fence under a volley from our crack marksmen, escaping unhurt. But unfortunately for Bruin, Mr. Dinwoodie had headed him; his second shot took effect, the third breaking his back, and a fourth putting him out of misery. Mr. John Moore, the day before, shot one near the same woods, having the fun all to himself. A very large one escaped the Saturday before from Mr. Dinwoodie and P. Hunter in Miller's Bay, he having at first been mistaken for a log.

Directors present: McKibbin, Bell, W. Fitzgerald, G. W. Fitzgerald, Quinn, Elliott, Preston, and the secretary, Mr. M. S. Devon. The principal business was the appointing of judges for the coming show, which takes place on the 9th and 10th of October. There will probably be a very large exhibition this year. Intending exhibitors would save themselves much annoyance by forwarding to the secretary at Bridgenorth a list of the articles they wish to enter. The secretary will return by mail the tickets for each entry properly numbered. Those who are not members should enclose $1. By complying with the above, exhibitors will have no delay in entering on the day of the exhibition, and much confusion avoided.

PETERBOROUGH, SEPT. 27, 1883.

United Methodism.

On Wednesday last the first general conference of the United Methodist Church closed its session in Belleville. The accomplishment of its work—the unification of the different bodies of Methodists in Canada and their consolidation into one religious organization is an important and grand episode in the progress of religious movement. The result is one of the most powerful—in numbers and perhaps in wealth—of religious nominations in Canada, and one that will have an incalculable influence for good upon the national life. Although the separate bodies were doing a grand work in their respective spheres, yet wise members of two or three of the churches long since saw the advantages that would result from union, and set themselves to work, honestly and intelligently to bring about the result that has just been consummated. There were serious difficulties to overcome, there were denominational jealousies to subdue, there were conflicting interests to be reconciled, and a thousand obstacles that seemed to stand immovably in the way, but they have all been successfully subjected to the sentiment of union. That the subjugation of sentiment and interest to the common good was accomplished with so little friction shows that the zeal for the cause of the faith professed, and the honest earnestness of those concerned, developed a spirit of sacrifice that made the subordination of personal interests, predilections, and affections easy in view of the accomplishment of so great and momentous an event as the union of the various Methodist bodies into one grand ecclesiastical organization. That the power of the church for good will be increased manifold will not be doubted. This will be especially noted in the mission field, where hitherto crippled and divided resources and conflicting interest have been unable to accomplish what a consolidated and greatly augmented fund and a greater abundance of labourers will be able to bring about. In every respect there will be advantage, which will not be fully realized till the changes involved by the new arrangement are successfully carried out. Among these will be an amalgamation of all the denominational newspapers into one, and the more important matter of founding a theological college, capable of meeting the demand for labourers for the harvest which the expanded field and augmented resources of the united church will create. Apart, the zeal and success of the various bodies now composing the united church, have been in the past little short of marvellous; united, they have become a moral power mighty for good, beyond the feeble range of human calculation.

Tenure of Land.

The investing of single individuals with immense tracts of land subject to their control, which is again subject to their cupidity and avarice is one of the chief causes of the evils that afflict Ireland. The subject is receiving increased attention in different parts of the world, and the right of individuals to hold lands in idleness is being seriously questioned, especially by those who suffer gross injustice at the hands of speculators in real estate. The question of the right of individuals, although sanctioned by law, to manage their estates in a manner conflicting with the general interest, is destined sooner or later to be seriously disputed. Even in staid old England, at the Trades Congress at Birmingham, the subject has been sensibly and temperately debated. And in Austria in one of the provinces, the dog in the manger practices, which landholders as a class indulge in, have led to a serious uprising that arouses international anxiety. When the evils of land grabbing are shown so clearly in the old world, it would be thought that statesmen on this continent, when they had the power, would close the gate against the possibility of such evils finding an entrance here. But if our public men had deliberately and purposely set their faces to transplant to this country the evils that threaten to disintegrate the nations of the old world, they could not have done so more effectually than they have done by the mode which they have adopted in dealing with our public domain. Instead of the present Government carrying out the policy of the Hon. Mr. Blake, which devotes the public lands solely to the settler, the very opposite course is pursued. Immense tracts of land are made over to private individuals and corporations, and under conditions involving political corruption, that add intensity to the naturally resulting evils of investing these parties with such immense landed rights. The evils resulting are two fold in their nature. The first and most formidable one is, the speedy development of the country by settlement is seriously blocked. This is an evil that seems likely to be permanent, or at least likely to last for centuries to come. The other phase of the evil is that whose like comes under daily notice in Ireland and other countries of Europe—perpetual poverty and subjugation to landlord tyranny. It is not worth while to amplify the evidence that the present Canadian land policy is directed in the course indicated. The proof is too plainly put before us to require demonstration—it is self evident. It is perhaps, too late to entirely undo the evil that has been done, but it is certainly within the competence of our legislative powers to enact laws to mitigate the evils that exist. Under present conditions land holders will make the most of their opportunities. But if legislative enactments were made, imposing extra, exemplary, taxation on all lands available for, but held from settlement, the temptation to hold vacant lands—withhold them for settlement, would cease to exist. It would seem that such enactments could be framed as would meet the purpose required. When a land grabber found out that the taxes imposed would make it unprofitable to withold his land from settlement at fair prices, it would be thrown into the market. The temptation to hold his lands in an unimproved state, and have their value increased by the exertions of surrounding settlers without cost to himself, would be removed. Legislation leading to the end suggested, would of course be difficult but certainly not impracticable. In view of the certain permanency of an evil system without something of this sort being done, the experiment is well worth trying.

Notes of the Day.

The Bull Run veterans are talking of holding a reunion at the spot where it has been said that, if they did not run, they did the fastest walking on record. These veterans may claim to be the originators of the go-as-you-please races.

The number of bowie knives and dirk knives has greatly decreased in the Southern States since the passage of laws prohibiting their carriage. Mr. Blake's law aimed at the suppression of revolver carrying, has had a similar effect in Canada.

Canada's revenue is decreasing, England's is increasing. England is Free Trade, while Canada is N.P. Will the people that blindly swallowed N.P. theories as blindly swallow protection excuses for this state of affairs under a protective policy?

The session of the United Methodist Conference at Belleville were brought to a close Wednesday. The business was principally of a formal character. The Conference adjourned to meet in Metropolitan Church, Toronto, on the first Wednesday in September, 1886.

A citizen of Goderich has just shipped a boxful of cats to the North-West, where, he says, there is a ready market for them at $5 apiece. Can it be that the Tory canvasser in Lennox who paid $2 for a cat and forgot to go after the animal had an eye on the Manitoba market? The indications rather are that the $2 were given in lieu of frozen whiskey.

The Ottawa Citizen, says Mr. Crooks, was bad enough, but he was better than the acting Minister of Education, Mr. Hardy. If, says the Toronto World, he is judged by his other administrative work, Mr. Hardy must, on the contrary, be pronounced a capable minister. He is not a blunderer, he has tact, and he has what few present or past Reform ministers possess, an engaging manner.

It is noted that the Exchange Bank, which recently failed, held more Government deposit on demand than any other bank in Canada, with but two exceptions. Of these exceptions one has a cabital of twelve millions, and the other of six millions, while the Exchange had capital of only half a million. We trust it is not treasonable to suggest a slight doubt as to Sir Tilley being a heaven-born financer.

The cotton mills could not run full time, it was alleged by the Tories, because of the lack of Protection. Well, they got Protection, and now they have decided to run only two-thirds time. While the operatives are tightening their belts to lessen the pangs of hunger, will the Tories tell us, asks the Tiser, what remedy they propose now? Do they want more Protection, or are they flies on the wheel, unable to do anything?

This closing down of the cotton mills for one-third of the time means that $2,900,000 of the $8,500,000 which we have been proudly pointing as invested in cotton manufacturing in the Dominion is to lie idle; that 160,000 of the 360,000 spindles are unnecessary. The average employee will get $1.46 per week instead of $2.18, or $75.92 a year instead of $109.80. In 1879 we are told that he got $245.50 per annum. So much for the home manufacturers' employees under the late era of the National Policy.

It appears that there is to be an active crusade in the interests of independence. Goldwin Smith's Bystander is to be changed to a weekly with a Canadian title. The editorship is offered to Chas. G. D. Roberts, a graduate of New Brunswick University, a poet of much ability, and a very excellent writer. Mr. Roberts is strong and determined upholder of Independence views, and is very earnest in his desire to give Canada the spirit and life of a nation. Of course, Goldwin Smith will be a leading contributor, and Mr. Charles J. Dent, R. W. Phipps, C. P. Mulvaney, and others will assist. Mr. Roberts is about to remove at once to Toronto.

Lecturing before the Philosophical Association of Brooklyn recently, Prof. Winter contended that the best way to educate a child was to put a pencil in his hands. He said it was a commonly accepted idea that drawing was a mere accomplishment, and that it should be abolished because of its expense. He demonstrated upon the blackboard the utility of drawing as a practical help in conveying ideas. Before the pyramids were built their designs were sketched upon papyrus; before a railroad could be built a plan had to be laid out with a pencil. Let the child learn the one universal language—the art of designing. A tailor who could draw could make a better fitting suit of clothes than one who could not. In one year a child could learn to make designs of its own. All progress was at the end of the pencil.

Now is the time to prepare for winter; a good assortment of Canadian, Saxony and Scotch Fingering Yarns, in all shades, at Turnbull's.

According to Mr. Chapleau, Secretary of State, who is stumping Jacques Cartier for Mousseau and neglecting his own department—in fact he has never been guilty of paying very much attention to his departmental duties—the Province of Quebec is in a wretched condition as the result negligence and apathy on the part of the present Tory Government. This is a generally recognized fact, but we did not expect that Mr. Chapleau would admit the same.

THE DUTY ON COAL.

Our esteemed contemporary the Hamilton Specator wishes some one to inform it who pays the duty on coal. The question is one the answer to which will stand a little elaboration. The duty is sometimes paid by one person and sometimes by another. For instance, if plain John Smith buys a ton of coal to keep his family warm and cook his victuals, John Smith pays the duty on that coal as sure as fate, and don't you forget. But if Mr. McCallum, the owner of a number of tug boats and Tory representative from Monck wishes to import coal for use on his boats, the duty is paid by the people of Canada generally, as the Dominion Government remits the duty to Mr. McCallum. We trust our esteemed contemporary will see that its question cannot be properly answered without this little explanation.—London Advertiser.

A NEW SOCIETY.

[Kingston Whig.]

If a correspondent from Sydenham can be relied on they have a fine way out there of ridding the place of inebriates. He begins by saying that the Blue Ribbon Army have done much to suppress the drinking habits of Sydenhamites, but it is the Norwegian redcoats that do the business. Every wine bibber (or rather whiskey bibber) found drinking after night in the village is seized, blackened and read out as an inebriate. The story goes that one poor fellow was chased a long distance and finally captured in the millpond. He was rescued, though nearly drowned and given the benefit of the degrees of the order. The man was sheared, and then blackened. The remedy, though harsh and disgraceful, was effectual and the individual now regularly attends church in good clothes.

SPARED FROM FATAL DISASTER.

MELVILLE INVITING RENEWED RISKS.

By our having devoted in our issue of July 28 fully a column to insertion of matter in verse and prefactory prose, directed to the singularly sad condition of the celebrated Arctic explorer, chief engineer George Wallace Melville, U.S.N., we became to the section of this regions press, leaders of attention towards noticing facts, and a topic that if alone by association of this brave and good yet most sorely tried man therewith, fairly claims consideration of every one commending bravery and fortitude, generously directed to observance of whatever is fairly claimable of the adventurer midst hazards for and towards relief of any jeopardized comrade. Any father desirous of encouraging emulative fidelity in his son may, unhesitatively offer to him, G. W. Melville, as a lustrous example. It again happens that upon incontestable authorization we guide the observation of our readers to the hardly credible fact, that this very man, who together, and in a whale boat, with his section of the foundered Jeannette crew during many weeks, was supposed to have shared the fate of Commander De Long and Lieut. Chip with their doomed parties as an elect conductor alone escaped, yet with all of his crew from the horrors of Arctic exposure to regained safety and civilization. Here possibly quite as properly as in the subsequence it may be stated that a close acquaintance as comrades previous to this ill-fated enterprise had been matured to fond intimacy between his commander and Melville, of whose wondrously cheery deportment and alacrity for meeting each and every new cast of exigency and of duty, De Long in his recovered notebook, found with him, in warmest admiration or approval impressively speaks. Yet by years in prime of life! powerful by mould and vigorous of appearance, as active of inclination and movement, he, however, is sensibly less fitted for severe trials of the remarkable hardihood and endurance formerly elements in all plenitude of his. Notwithstanding an abatement so naturally consequent on the exhaustive demands for endeavour with exposure so prodigally met in resummoned resolution, this unappeased adventurer again proposes engaging far within the frigid zone and its terrible dissuasives in kindred exposures and familiarity with the liabilities he has so marvelously survived. By reminding our readers that thro' the wreck of the U.S.S. "Greely," in Smith's sound, all on board of her, as it is most seriously feared, if surviving, are in extreme jeopardy, we advance towards explanation of a fact, we are permitted to thus make known, and coupling this recurrence to a casualty, yielding one more accession to the record of northern ice disasters, we announce Melville's having tendered his services as leader of the rescuing party, it is proposed shall forthwith leave the U.S. with all possible speed, for the region so fertile of calamities incident by distress, appalling and prodigal loss of life. Upon Melville, after he had advised his superiors of the recovery from the scene of his demise of De Long's remains with those of his companions, devolved by home instruction the exceeding solemnising office of interring in a region rigorious as remote, these inanimate strangers, and likewise of raising a suitable monument of a permanently enduring stamp, commemorative of the tragedy and indicating as a conspicuous landmark the site sepulchral. All this he at great pains effectually did; but in a prevalent desire to have the victims of this lamentably dire enterprise committed to a suitable mausoleum amongst national and kindred surroundings, the resolution was cast that their sleeping place shall be within their home land, and they are to be exhumed and returned across the ocean. Notwithstanding the extreme difficulty attending disinterment after so delayed a term, and with all possible attention to the prevension of decomposition's advance, the required arrangements have been made and are in application. At a council expressly convened to determine on the modus operandi for dealing with the difficulty, Melville, as one of its constituents, on being asked, gave as opinion what is to be accepted, by proposing the immediate immersion of each of the subjects in a metallic vessel of alcohol, of course hermetically sealed. The removal of the vessels and contents from the Lena to the most proximate terminus of the line of rails to St. Petersburg is to be by strongly constructed sleighs and over a distance of several thousand miles—the whole length of transport to the United States exceeding seventeen thousand miles. Relative to the proposed rescuing party and its leadership, we are free to say, without by any means warming to the idea of this daring by intrepid example of adventure again placing life in extreme peril that such has been the well earned confidence secured Melville, not alone by his happy introduction in the Jeannette's enterprise and its subsequencies of the arduous duties devolving on him, but by his prior and conspicuous fulfilment of most trying services in the Tigress, while that ship was out in search of the lost Polaris, or still and yet farther, by the uniformity of his high repute for thorough trustworthiness in every cast of emergency, it is highly probable his proposed line of movement and his service as leader will be accepted. His design is to accept conveyance to and be landed on Lady Franklin's coast. Quite too much, however, of Melville and experience and bravery as a leader and a father has been in our encouragement for us to infer, much less to promulgate the supposition, arise for enterprise or the incentives impelling adventurers emulous of fame, is so potentially stimulous of this daring hazarder of life in new peril, as at first may seem. Sorrow, chagrin, and unmerited contumely or obloquy under fell injustice may readily incite to desperately injudicious movement and rash adventure, and possibly we may uncover sufficient of his afflictive experience as a husband and a parent to render it fairly a question, if anguish and misery are not gravely influential of Melville's willingness to face what the heavy masses would be deterred by.

THE RETIRING GOVERNOR.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE ON HIS OFFICE, COURT ETIQUETTE AND OUR FUTURE.

Replying to the address of the City Council at Toronto, on the occasion of his recent visit, the marquis of Lorne said: I have the honor again to thank you for a loyal and affectionate address, conveying your reverence and love for the Queen. Already several of the Queen's children have visited Canada; on this occasion you have been welcoming, kindly and cordially, a grandson of Her Majesty. (Cheers.) On all occasions on which members of the Queen's family have visited this country they have met with a welcome which tells that you are determined to maintain the Empire in which Canada occupies so large a place. I thank you, sir, for what you have stated with regard to my term of office. You have had the good fortune to enjoy five years of prosperity and progress. I confess that I am not so desirous of any personal popularity, but I am jealous of the position of the Governor-General. I need not tell you, who know it already, the value of constitutional rule, or what its functions are. They who would disparage it by telling you that it is one of no influence would be the first cry out against its powers, and they would be right to do so should they be used in excess of constitutional privileges. It is sufficient that the ministers both of this last Government and the present regard it as valuable, and wish for its continuance. In some quarters, although not, I am satisfied, by the people at large, the presence of a Governor-General is held to imply something called "etiquette" (laughter), and implies also the establishment of a court. I wish to say that from my experience in Canada I am sure that it is not at all the case. Etiquette may perhaps be defined as some rule of social conduct. I have found that no such rule is necessary in Canada, for the self-respect of the people guarantee good manners. (Cheers.) We had no etiquette and no court. Our only etiquette has been a prohibition of any single word spoken by strangers at the Government house in disparagement of Canada. (Cheers.) Our only court has been the courting of her fair name and fame. (Cheers.) Now, my ladies and gentlemen, you may ask me why it is that I am so enthusiastic a Canadian. I believe I am perhaps even more Canadian than some of the Canadians themselves. I ascribe it to the very simple cause that I have seen perhaps more of your country than have very many amongst you. I know what your great possessions are, and to what a magnificent heritage you have fallen heirs. I know the great forest world out of which the older Provinces have been carved. I know the great central region of glorious prairie land from which shall be carried in the future promises as glorious, or yet more glorious than those of which we now proudly boast. I know also that vast country beyond the Rocky Mountains, that wondorous region sometimes clothed in gloomy forest, sometimes smiling beneath the sun in pastoral beauty of valley and upland, or sometime shadowed by Alpine gorges and mighty mountain peaks—the territory of British Columbia. And in each and all of these three wide sections of your great country, I know that you have possessions which must make you in time one of the foremost among the nations, not only of this continent, but of the world. (Cheers.) It is because I have seen so much of you and your territories that I am enthusiastic in your behalf, and that the wish of my life shall be the desire to further your interests; and I pray the God who has granted to you this great country, that He may in His own good time make you a great people. (Cheers.)

A LAUDABLE DESIRE.

Mr R. O. Gowan, Glen Walker, Ont, desires to make the following facts as public as possible. He says he had a very bad attack of rheumatism in his shoulders, which was so severe that he could scarcely move without the greatest agony, and further, that he was cured by the use of Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. Mr. Gowan does well in making his wonderful cure public, thus giving hope to thousands of sufferers from rheumatism and kindred diseases.

James Brayley, Hamilton says:—"I read the testimonials for Mogregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value, we had plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away, I was as bad with Billious Fever and Indigestion as I think any one could be, I have taken three bottles and am nicely well and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be." Free Trial bottles at J. McKEE'S Drug Store. 39-2t

PETEBBOROUGH, SEPT. 27, 1883.

Abusing their Trust.

Sir Charles Tupper is not to be allowed to enjoy the glory of being a contract broken in solitary state. The great chieftain is following his evil example, and has instituted for himself the new office of timber limit broker. This new office involves sins of different kinds. In the first place in granting timber limits to Hon. Mr. Costigan, Sir John has assisted the Minister of Inland Revenue to prostitute his position as a minister, to his own profit. Hon. Mr. Costigan is not content with getting a salary of $8,000 a year from the public chest, but he must use his position to secure timber limits out of which to make money for his private purse. Sir John has granted to his associate 3,000 acres of timber limits on Whitefish Bay, Lake-of-the-Woods. This is where the second wrong comes in. Mr. Costigan's timber limits are in Ontario territory, in which Sir John has no more right to grant liberty to cut timber, than he has to permit a man to cut the trees in the Court House Park, Peterborough. Thus Hon. John Costigan has used both his position as a member of Parliament and a Minister of the Crown to secure timber limits in Ontario territory, and Sir John has added to the many already inflicted on this province, another act of injustice and spite towards Ontario. In their personal greed and lust for power, the Tory Government at Ottawa have no regard for the rights of the public, no sense of personal nor political shame, and the chief use they seem to make of their positions is, regardless of the public weal, the promotion of their party's interest, through favors lavished on political hangers-on.

Insult Added to Injury.

One of the most brazen and shameless specimens of political puffery ever perpetrated in Canada was the Tory testimonial pow-wow at Bothwell last Thursday. On this occasion the Tories presented the notorious member-of-Parliament-maker, Jim Stephens, Sir John's partisan returning officer for Bothwell, with a golden watch and a brazen address. The watch was a reward for Stephens' fraudulently returning J. J. Hawkins as member of the riding over his opponent, who had a majority of the votes, and the address was an official endorsation, by the Tory party, of the fraud. The whole affair is an important admission of the partizan nature of Sir John's returning officers. Returning officers are held to be rigidly impartial, and most of them are, except the creatures appointed by Sir John. In reply to the brazen address, Mr. Stephens, regardless of the infamy of the admission, assured the crowd of his sympathy with the Tory party. He, the honorable and impartial returning officer, says: "I have been always ready and willing to take part in the battles in the Conservative interest." And we believe him; for he went so far as to forget his oath as returning officer, and fraudently return Hawkins who had a minority of votes—in the "Conservative interest." This shameless admission is proof positive, if it had been wanting before, of Jim Stevens' partizan study of Sir John's interests. And the assembled Tories applauded the infamous boast, and Hawkins, in his "effective speech," endorsed it. To commit a crime is bad enough, but to boast of it as Stephens, the Bothwell Tories and J. J. Hawkins did, is adding insult to injury. The Jim Stephens "divvy" of the spoil at Bothwell is a plea of guilty of the iniquitous practices by which the last Dominion election was won, and one scene in a picture of corruption, by gerrymander, partizan returning officers, and bribery in all forms, at which the most pliant morality may well stand aghast.

Editorial Notes.

THE trial of the election petition against Major Gray, Tory, East York, is going on.

One charming feature of the Dominion Government's North-West land policy is, that it holds that squatters have no rights which the Government is bound to respect.

The Stratford Herald says that the petition against Mr. Trow, M.P. for South Perth, has been virtually dropped. If so it is because Mr. Trow's persecutors discovered that if they went further they might fare worse.

A Montreal telegram says that cotton mill owners there contemplate a stoppage of 20 per cent. of their looms next month. One hand out of every five will thus be thrown out of work. They will appreciate the glories of the N.P.

THE Algoma election campaign is going briskly forward. The Tory bribery brigade is operating in full force, and there is no doubt Peterborough is represented in it. Either Mr. Lyon will be elected, or another Muskoka outrage will be perpetrated.

Sir John A. Macdonald was examined before a commissioner on Friday last in the case of the Canada Land Corporation vs. Paleston, and confessed total ignorance of the land grant branch of his department. He could give no information of any use in the suit. The country is paying pretty dearly for the Premier's incompetence.

This is the verdict of Judge Ryan, of Minnedosa, Man., upon the Boundary Question, as given to a Winnipeg Free Press reporter:—

"I have studied it, and am well satisfied that Mr. Mowat is right. When last in Ottawa I argued the question at length with a political and personal friend of Sir John Macdonald's, a man 'on the verge of the Ministry,' as Lord Beaconsfield would say, and upon finally putting the question: 'Is it not a good geographical boundary?' he replied, 'It is, but a bad political one,' meaning, evidently, that it did not suit Mousseau, Masson, et al, as they have themselves declared."

The Toronto Globe says the Industrial Exhibition this year was undoubtedly the best ever achieved by the Association. Marked progress was shown over former years in many important respects. It condemns the character of some of the special features, such as the balloons ascensions, and the issuing of 16 licenses to sell liquor on the ground. It also recommends the appointing in future of one reponsible judge instead of three as heretofore.

Mr. H. H. Smith has returned to Ontario from his European tour. His friends note with considerable amusement how quickly his "business of public importance" is concluded after the judges have refused to issue summonses to compel him, with others, to show cause why they should not be disqualified for corrupt acts committed in the Muskoka election. Probably the Review will now tell us what this business of importance was? The mayor should be asked to rise and explain.

Hon. John Carling, Postmaster-General, may make good beer, but as a minister he is very "flat." The department under his control, one of the most important—the most important as affecting commercial interests—of the Government, is wofully mismanaged. Complaints of inefficiency and delay are numerous and well-founded. But nothing else could be expected from the policy of appointing members of the ministry for political reasons, regardless of their fitness for the duties of the office.

In the Court of Appeal on Saturday in the Muskoka election case, Mr. Bethune, Q.C., said:—"After careful consideration the petitioner in the Muskoka case would drop his claim to the seat and the scrutiny consequent thereupon. The reason for this action was the ground of expense, as on calculation he had found that the probable time consumed would be a year and a half, and the probable expense over thirty thousand dollars." Mr. Bettes has, as will be seen, owing to the enormous cost likely to be incurred, abandoned his claim to the seat, which is therefore vacant.

In reply to the question asked by the Hamilton Spectator as to who pays the duty on coal, the London Advertiser gives the plain answer:—"The duty on coal is sometimes paid by one person and sometimes by another. For instance, if plain John Smith buys a ton of coal to keep his family warm and to cook his victuals, John Smith pays the duty on the coal as sure as fate, and don't you forget it. But if Mr. McCallum, the owner of a number of tug boats and Tory representative for Monck, wishes to import coal for use on his boats, the duty is paid by the people of Canada generally, as the Dominion Government remits the duty to Mr. McCallum.

"In this country the Opposition has not been so prudently reticent. Its journals have not only been anxious that Sir John Macdonald should make his bow, but have the wish which fathered the thought that led them to publish false rumors about the Premier's health. They hungered not so much for his retirement, which they knew was out of the question, or his defeat, which they could not compass, as his death, which they earnestly desired. Their benevolent wishes have all been denied them.—Toronto Mail.

The author of the above paragraph is a malicious calumniator. There is not a Reform newspaper in the country which has published a line that can excuse such a slander. The Reform press hold Sir John Macdonald to be an unscrupulous politician, he has done great mischief to the country, but they would be sorry to see him out of public life, in any way except by the votes of the electors of the country.—London Advertiser.

"OVER-PRODUCTION."

(From the Hamilton Times.)

What is meant by over-production? It will certainly not be contended that every family in Canada has all the cotton that can be advantageously used. There are thousands of houses in which an extra dozen sheets and a few new shirts would be most welcome, and all the boys and girls are not over-stocked with hosiery and under-clothing. The supplies on manufacturers' hands could easily be disposed of, if the people could afford to buy all they need. It is lack of ability to buy, rather than excess of goods in the market that makes the mischief. And what causes this lack of ability to buy? Have the Canadians people been lazy and idle? No, but their earnings have been drained away by unnecessary taxes. The 50 cents on the ton of coal, the cent added to the cost of a pound of sugar for Mr. Redpath's sake, the 35 cents on each dollar's worth of furniture, the $5 on the stove worth $20, the 50 cents on the pair of $2 boots—the little tax on nearly every article purchased to eat or wear has left the worker's purse empty. That is why the cotton manufacturers have millions of yards on hand, while working people have less cotton than they need to clothe their families and furnish their beds. What is the proper remedy? To raise the price of cotton as the manufactuers have done? No. That means a decrease of sales with no addition to the ability of the public to purchase. Free the people from the needless taxes. Leave the money they earn in their pockets, instead of filching it away to swell Sir Leonard Tilley's surplus and the bank accounts of a few dozen monopolists. Then the people at large will have money to spend. Then they can buy cotton freely and the mills can run full time. The other plan has been tried and it failed. Why not adopt the plan that has worked so well in England? Let the people buy cheap goods, and they will dispose of any overproduction.

Compare two products of Canadian industry, according to the records of the census of 1881 and the trade and navigation returns of 1881-82:—

	Production of 1881.	Export in 1881-82
Cotton	$3,759,412	$ 1,373
Cheese	4,464,454	5,500,868

Allowing for inaccuracy in the Government figures, it would seem that these two industries are very important ones. There has been no overproduction of cheese in Canada. Why? Because the surplus can be exported to markets where the demand is unlimited. But the surplus cotton cannot be exported, because it costs more to make it in Canada than it will sell for in any foreign market. The natural remedy for this state of things would be for some people to quit making cotton and go to making cheese—exchange an unprofitable for a profitable employment—let Canadian labour find its employment in those lines of production in which Canada cannot be excelled. There would be just as much employment in Canada, and the wages of labour would be quite as high, if every cotton factory was closed, and we exported cheese to pay for all the cotton required in the country, for the cheese could not be produced without labour.

A MIGHTY BODY.

The Anglican Church in Canada Described by Lord Carnarvon.

A MESSAGE OF GOOD WILL.

In the Provincial Synod at Montreal the Clerical Secretary, Rev. Cannon Norman, moved a suspension of the rules, and he, along with Mr. A. H. Campbell, of Toronto, were appointed a deputation to wait upon Lord Carnarvon, and in a few minutes returned. His Lordship having been introduced and invited to address the House, said this invitation to speak, as it were without premeditation, was a great surprise to him, but the invitation was so flattering that he could not but comply. He had now been for some time—not a stranger, no Englishman was a stranger in Canada—(applause)—but a passing guest in this great city of Montreal, and he felt that it was impossible for him to leave city and country without paying a visit to the Synod and assure them of his interest and love for the Canadian Church. Canada politically was entirely free and untrammelled as far as domestic legislation went,—(applause)—and the Church in Canada was also entirely free—(applause.) This quasi-independence did not in the least affect Canadian loyalty, however.

LOYAL TO THE CROWN.

Wherever he had gone he found in Canada fervent loyalty to the Crown, and on the part of the Church unbounded loyalty to the great mother church. (Applause.) In England they looked with great and increasing admiration upon the manner in which the Church in Canada was progressing. At home they had so many difficulties to encounter that the Canadians knew nothing of, that it was almost in envy that they looked upon the progress of the Church. Although he was not one of those who considered the future of the Church of England a dark one—in order to do that he must needs be an infidel—yet troubles and difficulties, particularly the warfare of party, was almost sufficient to stay the progress of the Church in the motherland. When however, they saw the mighty growth and spread of the Church in the colonies the hearts of all true Churchmen would rejoice in its future greatness. In Canada they are a mighty body growing daily. In the United States the Episcopal Church was and further south and round the world it was ever a triumphant Church, like a mighty cedar tree with its branches in the clouds and its roots watered by the St. Lawrence. As a layman of the Church of England, he made bold to bring them from the laity of that Church, and he would go further and say from the clergy as well, a message of hearty good-will and love, and for himself he would bear a most pleasant recollection of this visit. (Prolonged applause.)

His lordship then took a seat on the platform and for some time listened to the debate on missions retiring at last to pay a similar visit to the House of Bishops.

BOWMANVILLE.

Two men out shooting on Saturday found the remains of a man in the woods about three miles from town. The body was so decomposed that no description can be given. There was nothing in the pockets of the clothing to identify it. It is supposed to be the remains of a tramp who was about the neighbourhood in the spring.

ORMERE.

On Wednesday morning, about nine o'clock, Grace L'Estrange, infant daughter of Mr. John Balfour, a bright little girl of one year and four months, died from poison. It seems that about 7:30 in the morning a tin box, containing a number of pills composed of strychnine and iron, was given to the little one to rattle, and she in some way managed to get the cover off. Before noticed she had eaten a sufficient number to cause her death after an hour and a half of intense suffering.

Repairs to the viaduct are almost completed. The men engaged in the work have been employed for a number of weeks replacing broken and injured parts of the brick portion of the buttresses.

The annual fair of the Township of Manvers Agricultural Society will be held on their grounds at Bethany, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 16th and 17th of October, when a large number of prizes will be offered for competition.

The Sailor's Union, at a recent meeting, advanced their rate of wages to $2 per day. The vessel-owners accepted the situation and advanced their rates on lumber to $1.20 per thousand. The shippers gave one or two cargoes at this price, but refused to continue paying it, as they claim it is higher than they can afford to pay, and more than is charged at other points. We understand that with the exception of Mr. Vindin, who has agreed to the terms, they are unanimous in their refusal, and the vessel-owners in their turn decline to reduce their rates.

It will doubtless be anything but agree able to the various municipal clerks interested to learn that is has been intimated by some of the revising officers, the county judges, that failure to have voters' lists prepared and printed before the 15th September may result in the delinquent officials being fined in the neat little sum of two hundred dollars. The work of preparing these lists is a very onerous one in large municipalities, especially when the subdivision of lots has been made on an extensive scale, and hence it is doubtless that some municipal officrs are not up to statute time. A fine of $200, however, where that sum covers the year's salary, would be a severe lesson.

"I should like to be excused, your honor, 'said a Chicago man, who had been summoned on a jury. "What for?" "I owe a man five dollars and I want to hunt him up and pay it." "Do you mean to say you would hunt up a man to pay a bill, instead of waiting for him to hunt you up" Yes your honor." "Do you belong to Chicago?" "Yes, sir." "You are excused." I don't want any man on the jury who will lie like that."

An exchange informs its readers that servant girls are flocking to China. American servant girls always were death on that kind of crockery. China needs to keep her weather eye open or the domestic may succeed in breaking her.—

"Now, Johnny," said a school teacher, "what happened after the angel with the fiery sword drove Adam and Eve out of the garden of Eden." He knew it was something about the sweat of the brow, but this is the way Johnny put it: "They had to eat bread to make them sweat."

A NORTH side boy who is learning to read found under the picture of his primer several sentences like this: "The-dog-is-a-big-dog." "The-cat-has-a-kitten." "The-boy-has-a-book." After patiently spelling them out he turned to his father with a look of disappointment and disgust and said: "Papa, why don't the book tell me something I don't know? I knew the boy had a book before I read it." Let the publishers of children's literature take this criticism to heart.

The public are cordially invited to call and inspect Turnbull's handsome display of Fashionable Millinery, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 2 and 3.

The Mortgage on the Farm.

We worked through spring and winter,
Thro' summmer and through fall,
But that mortgage worked the hardest
And the steadiest of us all;
It worked on nights and Sundays';
It worked each holiday;
It settled down amongst us,
And it never went away.
Whatever we kept from it
Seem'd a'most as bad as theft;
It watched us every minute,
And it ruled us right and left.
The rust and blight were with us
Sometimes, and sometimes not;
The dark-browed, scowling mortgage
Was forever on the spot.
The weevil and the cut-worm
They went as well as came;
The mortgage stayed forever,
Eating hearty all the same.
It sailed up every window,
Stood guard at every door
And happiness and sunshine
Made their home with us no more.
Till with failing crops and sickness
We got stalled upon the grade,
And there came a sharp foreclosure,
And I kind of lost my hold,
And grew weary and discouraged,
And the farm was cheaply sold.
The children left and scattered,
When they hardly yet were grown;
My wife she pined an' perished,
An' I found myself alone.
What she died of was a "mystery,"
An' the doctors never knew;
But I knew she died of mortgage—
Just as well's I wanted to.
If to trace a hidden sorrow
Were within the doctors' art,
They'd ha' found a mortgage lying
On that woman's broken heart.
I am helpless an' forsaken;
I am childless an' alone;
I haven't a single dollar
That it's fair to call my own;
My old age knows no comfort,
My heart is scant o' cheer;
The children they run from me
As soon as they come near;
The women shrink and tremble—
Their signs are fear-bestowed;
The dogs howl curses at me,
And hunt me down the road;
My home is where night finds me,
My friends are few and cold;
O, little is there in this world
For one who's poor and old!
But I'm wealthy in experience,
All put up in good advice,
To take it, or not take it,
With no difference in the price;
You may have it, an' thrive on it,
Or run round it, as you please;
But I generally give it wrapped
In some such words as these:
Worm or beetle, drought or tempest,
On a farmer's land may fall,
But for first-class ruination,
Trust a mortgage 'gainst them all.

Value of the Sunflower.

Prof. Bergstraud, of the Royal Agricultural Academy of Sweeden, publishes a most laudatory report on the virtues of the sunflower seed cake as a food for cattle. He states that it presents a remarkable constancy of composition, rarely if ever met with in other cakes as met with in commerce. It contains from 13 to 16 per cent. of fat, and 35 to 36 per cent. of protein substances, and, has therefore, a nutritive value far above that of most ordinary feeding stuffs, besides which it has a most agreeable taste, and is altogether free from bitter or any injurious matters. Some careful experiments on its effects upon milch cows have been made at the Uituna Agricultural Institute by Baron Akerhjelm, which tend to show that it both improves the quality and increases the quantity of their milk, the latter from which is also of exceptional excellence. Many practical farmers in the neighborhood have also made trial of the same food, and are unanimous in their favorable verdict. Their milch cows all took greedily to the cake from the first day it was fed to them, and in all cases an improvement in the quality of the milk was quickly noted. For draught oxen and fattening bullocks also it is equally suitable, especially for the latter, whose meat presents an unequal richness of flavor when thus fed, and it may be given in small quantities to horses with much advantage, mixed into a thick mash with chaff. In comparison with other feeding stuffs this cake is very cheap, and it can be given in larger quantities than most other cakes without any ill effect.

Fall Ploughing.

Fall ploughing should be done early, and as often as possible. Wheat and rye stubble should be ploughed without delay if they have not been seeded, because the covering of it under four or five inches of soil will destroy the immature Hessian flies. But it must be done at once, or the flies will escape from their hiding places and spread abroad to infest the newly sown grain. The stirring of the soil starts myriads of weeds into growth, which will soon cover the ground, and may be destroyed with the greatest ease by a good harrowing. More can be done in this way than by any other work. Besides, this fall cultivation of the land prevents many weeds from seeding and scattering their thousands of seeds broadcast to make several year's weeding in the future. Another agvantage of fall ploughing is that the soil is more benefitted by its exposure to the air and the sun's heat then if left fallow by the winter's cold.

Value of Potatoes as Hog Feed.

Much of the value of potatoes as hog food depends upon cooking. Indeed, if to be fed largely raw, they produce scouring, and do not all digest. Potato is composed so largely of starch that cooking is almost indispensible to aid digestion. A little raw potato is beneficial to the hog's stomach, when fed largely upon corn. It is laxative and cooling, allaying the feverish tendency from the heating effects of the corn. But when fed to get the most out of them for fattening, potatoes should be boiled soft, and if grain is fed with them it would be best to boil both together. In large kettles this would not be very much labor, even for a large number of hogs. Potatoes and corn go very well together—the potatoes give bulk and the corn gives concentrated nutriment. Hogs are like to be much healthier fed in this way than on corn alone.

To Keep Salt Pork from Spoiling.

Farmers often wonder why their pork spoils in summer when there is so much salt in the brine. It makes no difference how much extra salt there may be in the brine, nor how strong the brine is, if the grease and impurities in it which always rise to the surface, are allowed to remain there for any length of time, the pork will be injured. The grease and other impurieties on the surface coming in contact with the air, they decay, which produces putrefaction, and this in turn taints the brine, which of course affects the pork. It is plain, then, that no amount of salt or strength of brine will prevent this result, unless the grease and other impurities mingled with the brine are removed.

Sites for Apple Orchards.

A correspondent says: We seem likely to have many of our notions as to the proper sites for apple orchards very decidedly corrected. The rule has been, as to the east to choose the highest and driest swells and ridges. But on those the trees are not only barren after a few year's crops, but they are dying in an alarming way. Yet as some measure of compensation, orchards set on low, sloughy and swampy land have not only healthy trees, but are this year laden with fruit.

Good Words for Jersey Cattle.

Let the Jerseys increase, because,

1. Jerseys make more butter annually compared with the food they eat, than any other breed.

2. Jerseys make better butter than any other breed—better grain and better flavor.

3. Jersey milk is the most profitable, because it contains more butter per quart than that of any other breed; its cream rises quicker and its butter comes quicker.

4. Jersey butter brings from two to ten cents a pound more butter than any other, as a rule throughout the United States; hence on 99 farms out of 100 where butter is a specialty, the introduction of Jersey blood will change butter making from a dead loss to a net profit.

5. Butter farming is more profitable and healthful and refining than truck-farming, beef-farming, poultry or pig-raising.

6. For every cent lost on account of the Jersey's smaller carcase, there are two cents gained on account of her better butter and larger annual yield.

We want Holsteins and Ayrshires for the general milk and cheese supply; we want Shorthorns and Herefords for their beef; but the country wants the Jersey for her butter—so let us have an end to the opposition with which this breed has met with for forty years. He who specializes wins. The "general-purpose" cow's is an impossible animal. Let each farmer decide whether all circumstances point to a beef, a milk or a butter breed, and choose his stock accordingly.

Fall Farm Notes.

If you have time, cut bog or marsh hay with which to protect the strawberries next winter. Pile it ready for use on the field near the berry patch.

In gathering apples, besides handling them carefully, assort them according to quality rather than dump them into barrels or piles. Fine apples, well handled, always bring good prices.

Save your seeds from the best plants. Label them properly, and put them in a cool, dry, safe place, away from all vermin.

Before you begin to store your fruits and vegetables in the cellar, do you think it would pay you to give it a thorough cleaning out and airing, ending up with a good whitewashing? Think it over a bit.

Are you fond of the fragrant hyacinth, the beautiful tulip, etc.? If so, now is the time to obtain and plant the bulbs. In the spring, before the leaves or other flowers appear, their beautiful and varied flowers add much to the beauty of the flower garden.

Save some good, vigorous stocky potatoes for next year's seed. Many farmers prefer to save the small pig or unmarketable potatoes, but it does not pay. Next spring grow a row of potatoes from each kind of seed under like conditions, and notice the difference.

In picking grapes, either for market or winter keeping, exercise care in the handling of them. It costs no more, and the grapes keep better for it. It is well to cut the clusters off with small scissors, and cut out all imperfect berries.

Now that the season of agricultural fairs is in full blast, we would say, avail yourself of the many opportunities to compare your own farm products with those of your neighbors, and see wherein you may benefit yourself. Spend more time in examining and studying the exhibits and less on the horse trots.

CENSUS TROUBLES.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

If it be true, as the Toronto Globe's Ottawa correspondent says, that Mr. J. G. Layton, chief census compiler, is to be superannuated, the department will deserve congratulation. But the correspondent is not thoroughly posted. Mr. Layton thought to superannuated, for the simple reason that he was appointed very recently. He may, however, be dismissed with a gratuity. The correspondent further says: "The Government, it seems, are anxious to find a scapegoat to bear the responsibility for the deplorable blunders of the their census volume, and Mr. Layton has been selected as the victim. He is not in any way to blame for the census blunders, the staff of assistants furnished him being made up chiefly of incompetent servitors of the Tory party."

No doubt the enumerators were about as worthless, generally speaking, as they could be, but, as we pointed out when reviewing the Census, there was no revision of their work. The most glaring absurdities were gravely accepted and compiled. Here is where Mr. Layton demonstrated his incapacity. He appears not to have known enough to put common sense construction on the bungling returns sent in by the enumerators, the consequence has been that monument of lunacy the third volume of the census. If the Minister has really decided on Mr. Layton's removal—selecting him for "a victim," as the correspondent puts it—we must say Mr. Pope has laid his hands on the right man.

It so happens that we know a good deal about this branch, and the miserable persecutions of hapless clerks, both male and female, which has been permitted. We also know of the not very edifying reports afloat in the rooms and corridors. Perhaps under provocation we may publish them—that provocation will be failure to do justice to those who have been deeply wrongfully injured. Mr. Pope will understand our meaning, and, as we believe that he has no desire that any one under him should suffer unjustly, he will probably set matters right. At any rate he will make no mistake in shelving Mr. Layton, and if he were to start a colony in the North-West with a few others it would be better for the department and his own reputation. Mr. Pope, however, cannot escape responsibility for the failure of the census. He was shown through these columns in the most convincing manner how incompetent were the men he employed; yet he has retained them down to the present. The removal of Mr. Layton is, therefore, at this time, no reparation for his persistent error.

A CHAIR IN HEAVEN.

(Kingston Whig.)

About a week ago a Kingston citizen was taken ill with a severe fever, but his wife would give him nothing to stay the disease. She asserted that she had a vision and that she saw a vacant chair in heaven for her husband. On this account she thought it a needless expense to give him any medicine. Some days ago the poor suffering man, frantic with a raging fever, arose from his bed and, in a semi-nude condition, crawled through the window and escaped upon the street. He was followed, placed in a cab and removed to the Hospital, where we learn he is slowly recovering.

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUBEBEH COMBINATION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.

For pamphlet or any address, on receipt of Price: $2 per package—sufficient for one months treatment.

SUICIDE OR MURDER?

MYSTERIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES SURROUNDING THE DEATH OF HUGH MACDOWELL AT COBOURG.

Late particulars in connection with the death of Hugh McDowell, a carpenter employed with Mr. John Thompson, of Cobourg, point to a terrible murder rather than a case of suicide. McDowell, it appears, had been drinking a good deal during the day, and came home about six o'clock and lay down. He was shortly after called for by a shoemaker named James Caffrey, who lived on the ground floor of the same building. Caffrey was also under the influence of liquor, and the two went to Caffrey's shop together, ostensibly to have a drink, and very shortly afterward Mrs. McDowell heard a loud noise on the stairs and her husband calling her, and going down she found him lying back on the steps bleeding profusely and uttering imprecations. He had been stabbed in the abdomen, and from a long, deep, terrible gash the bowels were protruding. There were also two serious wounds in the neck. The dying man told his wife he had been stabbed. Medical aid was immediately summoned, and Constable Work was also communicated with. The constable discovered lying on the floor of Caffrey's shop a blunt-pointed shoemaker's knife, covered with blood, and also some clots of blood on the chair, on which evidently McDowell had been sitting when the deed was committed. No evidences of a struggle were apparent. A deposition was made by the dying man, but he implicated no one. He said the deed was committed in Caffrey's shop by a person he did not know. The wounded man died shortly after making his deposition. The scene of the murder later on in the evening was visited by Constable Work, in company with Drs. Craig and Clarke, and while they were inspecting the room Caffrey came in. He was asked who stabbed McDowell, and he asserted a stranger did it, and by means of a small knife showed how the wounding was done. He was arrested on suspicion. John Doyle, who had been drinking with McDowell during the earlier portion of the day, was also arrested. The facts elicited thus far by the enquiry being made into the matter by Coroner Ewing throw little light upon the case. There was found to be absolutely nothing to implicate Doyle, and he was discharged. Caffrey swore that he went out for a pitcher of water, and when he came back somebody was standing in the shop with his back to him. He did not observe the man particularly, but went and lighted a lamp, and when he turned the stranger had gone. McDowell was not in the shop and he did not see him after that. He and the deceased had always been on good terms. Dr. Craig testified that McDowell had told him he did not stab himself, and he did not know who did. Dr. R. H. Clarke testified that Caffrey had told him a strange man had stabbed McDowell, and he had asked him not to do so. The inquest is not yet concluded. Caffrey is still retained in custody.

A MEAN ADVANTAGE.

The Cobourg World says that one of the volunteers in camp, from Kingston,—the papers call him Tim Lane—was the victim of a mean trick on the part of what is sometimes called his "better half," after he came to camp. As soon as she got him safely out of the way, she packed up and cleared out with another fellow. We don't know the woman; but if we hear of her realizing the truth of the old adage that it's a long Lane which has no turn, we shall not be sorry.

A WOMAN HORSEWHIPS HER HUSBAND.

The wife of a Rideau street hotel-keeper, Ottawa, created a sensation on Sparks street by publicly horsewhipping her husband. He sought refuge on the platform of a street car, but she followed and rained blows on his back at every second step. The story she related to the chief of police was that she caught her husband in bad company.

COMMUNION WINE.

[Published by request of the Montreal Woman's Christian Temperance Union.]

It is a well known fact that when fermented wine is used for Sacramental purposes the reformed drunkard cannot put the sacred cup to his lips without incurring the danger of a relapse into former habits. "One of the members of our church told me that before we gave up using intoxicating wine, i was with the greatest difficulty that he was able to resist taking more after the taste was excited," writes a deacon in a western church; and this man's experience is that of many. For this reason, if for no other churches should be careful to use unfermented wine, and they would no doubt be glad to do so if they knew how to obtain that article. Miss Willard, in her book entitled "Women and Temperance," tells how the problem was solved in a church in an American city. The lady who solved it, says: "Some time ago our church decided not to use fermented wine, but somehow a sort of logwood decoction got into the chalices, which was entirely out of place and harmful to our cause. Some of the deacons said, 'We cannot have such a mixture as this—it will not answer'; and they were right. The matter troubled me. At last I said to my husband, 'I can't go out much to the temperance meetings, or take an active part in the work of the Woman's Union, but I can prepare wine enough for our church of eight hundred members for all the Communions of this year, and I'll do so.' It was no easy undertaking. It kept me in my kitchen wide awake, and on the alert for several days; but I've got the wine all bottled up, and the people are well pleased with it." "Let some lady in each church," says Miss Willard, "go and do likewise, and she will have helped our many sided cause in an noble, efficient way." This lady's recipe is as follows:

Take twenty pounds Concord grapes and add two quarts of water. After crushing the grapes put them into a porcelain kettle; when at a boiling heat the juices separate from the pulp and skins. Then strain through a tin sieve or cullender, using a little more water; add six pounds granulated sugar. After the sugar is all dissolved, strain through a thick cloth. Then heat hot and pour immediately into stone bottles, and seal tightly while hot. The above will make three gallons, and if properly put up will keep any length of time; but all air must be kept from it till wanted for use. It is better to use bottles that will hold the quantity needed for each Communion.

A Montreal lady has for a number of years prepared all the wine used in the church to which she belongs, from a very similar recipe, at the small cost of 25c. a bottle. Her plan is as follows:

Take 25 pounds of grapes and a pound of sugar, mixed with a quart; bring to the boil, and when cool squeeze through a jelly bag. Mix the juice with four pounds of sugar, boil 15 minutes, and skim and bottle while hot in bottles taken out of boiling water. Seal with bees waxor resin. This makes a very excellent article.

Another well-recommended recipe is the following:

Take one gallon of grapes, mash them well, add half a gallon of water and let stand in an earthen jar for three days. Then run off the liquid which is at the bottom, being careful to disturb as little as possible the skins and seeds that have risen to the surface. Add a pound of the sugar to each quart of grape juice, bring to the boil, and while at that temperature can in self-sealing jars or sealed bottles.

These directions are published in the hope that temperance ladies throughout the country will take the matter up, and see that the churches are provided with a pure wine for the Communion table. In regions where grapes are not to be had, arrangements might be made with a Woman's Christian Temperance Union in some other place to provide the necessary quantity at a reasonable price.

CAREER OF O'DONNELL. THE CAREY MURDERER

The Times says O'Donnell is 45 years old, a native of Merecladdy, county Donegal, Ireland, has been in America several times, served in the American war, lived in Philadelphia, and kept a public house near the Canadian border. He invested in silver mines and Fenian bonds, lost money, returned to Ireland last May, and frequented the company of Irish-Americans in Londonderry. He carried a revolver, and was considered a strong nationalist but opposed to the invincibles. When Carey turned informer O'Donnell declared he would burn him by inches. He went to the Cape to seek work, because he considered America played out. He had never seen Carey before taking his passage, and had no idea the informer was on board. The defence will probably be that Carey tried to shoot O'Donnell.

A DYNAMITE SPORTSMAN HURT.

Howe, a resident of Ottawa, who has been working at Buckingham, went fishing yesterday and adopted a plan very common among "pot-hunters." It consists in exploding a dynamite cartridge in a pool known to be the resort of fish. The explosive stuns the fish and causes them to float to the surface, belly upwards, and apparently dead, when they can easily be captured. When young Howe was preparing to carry out this scheme the cartridge prematurely exploded in his hand. His right hand and thumb and the first two fingers of his left hand were blown off. His left eye was destroyed, both arms had a large portion of the flesh torn off, and his chest and stomach were badly injured.

Incidents of travel enliven the work.

TO BE HANGED.

MANN THE MURDERER OF THE COOK FAMILY SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Mann, the murderer, pleaded guilty at the L'Orignal assizes on Monday and was sentenced to be hanged on Oct. 12. The horrible tragedy at Little Rideau, near Ottawa, on the 2nd of January last, will be fresh in the minds of many. On that morning a young Englishman named Frederick Mann lately out from London, and employed for about three month with Mr. R. W. Cooke, a farmer, attacked Emma Cooke a daughter of his employer, strangling her with a rope. Mrs. Cooke, who came to the assistance of her daughter, he strangled in the same way. He then attcked Mr. Cooke, in the barnyard with an axe and literally chopped his head to pieces, after which he returned to the house, and rushed up stairs to the room occupied by the son George, on whom he inflicted two terrible blows on the temple. He attacked the son Willie in his room, cutting a fearful gash in his thigh. The two sisters of the boy Maggie and Fanny, rushed to his assistance. The former succeeded in securing the axe, and the murderer, after hurling a lamp at Fanny and striking her a terrible blow, fled from the awful crime. Mr. Cooke, Mrs. Cooke, and Emma, and George died from the effect of the wounds inflicted by the frantic assassin. The murderer was arrested at Lachute the following day.

POTATO PROSPECTS.

The potato prospects in many portions of the Dominion is thoroughly discouraging. Throughout Middlesex and adjoining counties the rotting process has invaded the crop to such a degree that many farmers are already engaged in lifting what the rot has spared. The northern portion of Huron and the country of Bruce, however, promises to produce an excellent crop. The rains in this section, although frequent and heavy, do not seem to have had so disastrous an effect as in many other portions of the Dominion. The potato here is not only unusually large and palatable but the yield also promises to be very satisfactory. The farmers of this section therefore who are able to grow more potatoes this season than they require for home consumption may count confidently upon realizing even more than paying prices. That there will be during the coming winter a general scarcity of potatoes throughout the country is unquestionable, and proportionate high prices are also certain to pervail.

LINDSAY'S WHARF, AUG. 22ND, 1883.

Messrs. Churchill & Co., Gents,—I have been afflicted with Salt Rheum for the past three years, and have been treated by some of the best doctors in Eastern Ontario without any lasting benefit. I was recommended by Mr. C. J. Lindsay, of Kars, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles of the fountain and two bottles of your Climax Salve, I believe I am perfectly cured. My general health is also much improved, and I now feel like a new man.

Yours truly,
ROBT. BURNETT,

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Sep. 15th, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $7,106.29; freight, $13,260.83; total, $20,367.12, as compared with $25,315.92 for the corresponding week of 1882, being a decrease of $4,948.80; and the aggregate traffic to date is $737,622.19, being an increase of $19,123.62 over 1882.

Prevented by Illness.

On the Saturday before the Toronto Exhibition Mr. Joseph Redmond was taken suddenly ill and was unable to exhibit his splendid pens of pigs which were ready for the show. We are pleased to know that Mr. Redmond has recovered, for he is one of that enterprising class of farmers, that this county could not afford to lose. His efforts to improve the stock of the county have been invaluable.

An Unusual Visitor.

On Tuesday a muskrat was captured in the cellar of a new house being built for Mr. Starr, on London street. Here the soil is high, dry and gravelly, and is nothing like what is supposed to be the preferred haunts of this aquatic rodent. If this stray muskrat had been caught almost any place in Lindsay, one would not have wondered at the fact, for mud is its "native element."

Thanksgiving Services.

The annual harvest festival services will be held in connection with St. Luke's Church Ashburnham, to-day, the 27th of September. There will be an evening service at 7.30, when there will be delivered a sermon on a subject appropriate to the occasion. The music will be of a specially interesting character, a volunteer choir kindly aiding in it. The offertory will be for the church funds. The Church will as usual be decorated with fruit, flowers and grain.

Matrimonial.

We find the following interesting announcement in reference to a former resident of Peterborough, in a Rochester, New York, paper:—

"At St. Bridget's church, Tuesday, Sept. 18th, Miss Sarah Gertrude Dwyer, of this city, was united in matrimony to Mr. Timothy O'Connell, of Peterborough, Ont., by the Rev. Father Kiernan. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Kitty Dwyer, and the groom by his brother, Mr. David O'Connell. The young couple were the recipients of numerous elegant presents. They will make Rochester their future home."

Court House Park.

At a meeting of the Horticultural Society on Friday night, Messrs. James Stevenson, J. H. Condolence.

At the regular meeting of Court Peterborough, C.O.F., No. 127, the following resolution of condolence was adopted unanimously:—

Moved by Bro. R. Robertson, seconded by Bro. Geo. Kingdon, and resolved,

That whereas it has seemed good to the Almighty Father to remove by death from this Court to the High Court of Heaven, one of our most faithful, respected and useful brothers, in the person of Richard Wright, we hereby put on record our deep sense of the loss this Court has sustained by the removal of one who as a Forester, faithfully lived up to the obligations of the order, and as an officer, holding the responsible position of secretary for two years, worked zealously, intelligently, and to the satisfaction of all concerned to promote the interests of this Court and the order. In this capacity especially his absence will be severely felt. While sorrowing on account of our loss this, Court would not forget one of the first principles of the order—sympathy with the bereaved and afflicted—and it would hereby respectfully and sincerely tender to the late brother Wright's mother and relatives, its deepest sense of condolence with them in the affliction they have sustained in the death of a dutiful and affectionate son, and a kind and considerate brother, and prays that the Great Comforter will vouchsafe the consolation which his hand alone can give.

And that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mrs. Wright with the assurance that in due course this Court will express its sympathy in a more substantial manner, than mere words, however earnest and heartfelt, can do.

A Good Word in Season.

The superior advantage city manufacturers have over places of smaller size is manifold, because of the many visitors brought in by cheap excursions. Besides, there is in the former an ever floating population who never see the place again, all buying more or less for their wants, under the impression of getting good bargains. But is such really the case? I am often told that South Sea seal sacques can be bought at $125 to $150, and naturally so; but give them an order for the best Alaska seal and what would be the price then? There are seals very different in quality, but I will only mention two kinds, the Copper Island and the Alaska seal, differing as much in price and quality as day and night in the matter of light. Then there is again a difference between small sized skins and large ones, the latter being by far the most valuable. The same holds good for all other kinds of fur. Seeing in the Toronto papers a notice of an intention of supplying the police force with Persian Lamb caps at the price of $7.25. I myself could make them for $7.00 if an order of an many as Toronto would require would be given; so much for competition. With such chances offering as cities have, I could sell for less money to faces I might perhaps never see again, but which under present circumstances, I should not attempt to do, as that custom which has been built up carefully, and has been the result of my efforts for the past twenty-three years, would fast disappear. There are many, and they are the majority, that do not understand the value of furs, who judge only by the little extra stitching of a silk lining, which, if it were made of good farmer's satin, would outwear the inferior fur outside. Having opened, and having now ready for inspection a stock of selected furs, made up during the past seven months, which would surprise any city manufacturer, I invite public inspection. Parties intending to remove to the North-West will save from 25 to 30 per cent. by purchasing here.

A Narrow Escape.

On Tuesday a team of horses ran away from the Queen's Hotel yard. They took the walk, and knocked down a four-year old son of Mr. W. Denoon, who was not much hurt, though it is a wonder he was not killed.

A Run of Visiting Pastors.

No less than four visiting pastors occupied our pulpits last Sunday—Rev. Principal Cavan, St. Paul's; Rev. S. A. Dyke, Baptist; Rev. Mr. Wendell, St. Andrew's, and Rev. Dr. Cochrane, Charlotte-street Church.

Lacrosse.

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club not having any lacrosse club in the district with sufficient "sand" to contest the permanent possession of the Gildersleeve cup, is resting in inglorious inactivity. The Maple Leafs of Kingston think they can beat Peterborough on neutral ground; if neutral ground means cantankerous conduct, rough play, and "kicking" over a square defeat, it must be admitted they can beat our boys, but, at lacrosse, not this year. No more, or at most very little, lacrosse being in prospect this season, we would suggest to our boys the formation of a snow-shoe club. It would be a fine, bracing exercise, and would tend to keep the muscular system in trim for another season's play.

Borough Brevities.

The 57th is about the only battalion that Gen. Luard spoke of in terms of praise, at the Cobourg camp.

A match game of football will be played between the Toronto and Peterborough clubs on Saturday, October 13th.

The True Blues will hold dancing assemblies weekly during the season, on Friday nights.

St. Luke's School, Ashburnham, opens very encouragingly. There are fifteen boys in attendance, and more coming.

The Auburn Mills employees held their annual pic-nic on Saturday. They went down to Hastings on the Grand Junction.

The Fire Brigade Band won laurels at the Toronto Exhibition, and according to some Torontonians, "took the shine" out of the Queen's Own band.

We are told that Mr. Birdsall intends rebuilding at once the stables on the site of the late fire. Fitzgerald & Stanger's factory building will be at once repaired and business resumed.

Col. Rogers, of the 57th, lost a fine horse at the Cobourg camp. The animal took sick, and the Colonel laid $175 on the altar of his country.

Messrs. J. W. Flavelle and B. Shortley collected the price of another horse for Mr. Bacon, to replace the one burned in the late fire in Kenneally's stables.

The Kingston Lacrosse Club is worse than a bull dog, which will take a drubbing without squealing—There's many a slip betwixt the "cup" and the lip.

The lacrosse match between the Clippers and Cretes on Tuesday, for the Sanderson cup, resulted in a draw, although the Cretes played a team, half composed of their second twelve.

PERSONAL.

We learn from the Calgary Herald published under the shadow of the Rocky Mountains, that Mr. R. Green of this town has been visiting that place, and that Mr. F. J. Daly another former Peterboroughnian is talking of building a hotel in Calgary.

Mr. W. G. Fergeson arrived home from a visit to Scotland last Thursday.

Mr. J. McWilliams, jailor is recovering, we are pleased to know, from a severe attack of illness. Dr. Oldwright of Toronto visited him professionally.

Mrs. W. J. McKibbon has been appointed judge on ladies' work at the Provincial Exhibition at Guelph, and left for that place on Monday morning.

AUTUMN ASSIZES.

Sittings of the High Court of Justice.

A Very Light Docket—Carmenino, the The Italian Murderer, out on Bail—No Witnesses Appearing.

The Autumn Assizes opened in the Court House on Monday last, His Lordship, Hon. J. H. Haggarty Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench division, and President of the High Court of Justice of Ontario, presiding.

THE BAR

was represented by W. Kerr, Q.C. Cobourg, in charge of the Crown business, Laidlaw, Hamilton; G. S. Goodwillie, Georgetown; C. A. Weller, County Attorney, E. B. Edwards, R. Dennistoun, G. M. Roger, R. E. Wood, C. W. Sawers, N. D. Beck, E. A. Peck, J. O'Meara, James Henry, F.W.G. Haultain and W. A. Stratton.

The following gentlemen composed the

GRAND JURY.

W. C. Sanders, Foreman,
James Alexander,	R. H. Braden,
Ewen Cameron,	Robt. Dunlop,
R. B. Davidson,	John Erskine,
Edward Foley,	T. E. Fitzgerald,
Charles Fuller,	J. S. Griffin,
John Knox,	J. J. Lundy.
H. LeBrun,	Richard Nichol,
Andrew Yelson,	Joseph Payne.
James Purdy,	Robt. Renwick,
Samuel Scott,	Wm. Snelgrove,
Geo. T. Stephenson,	James Stothart.

His Lordship's address to the Grand Jury was of the briefest. He referred to the small amount of business demanding the attention of the Court. There was only one criminal case, that of Carmenino, the Italian, charged with murdering a fellow laborer. When the jury had performed their formal functions he would be happy to discharge them.

CIVIL BUSINESS.

The civil docket was very light, being composed of only one defended issue, tried by His Lordship without a jury.

JOHNSTON VS. MATHESON, et al.—This was a suit brought by Mrs. Ann Johnson, of Cavanville, to recover the amount of $388.50 from the plaintiffs (Matheson & Goodwillie, who had at one time carried on business under a legal partnership at Milton.) The firm had collected for the plaintiff the sum claimed, which Matheson assumed to borrow from Mrs Johnson in the name of the firm, and applied to his own use, without Goodwillie's knowledge. The question as to Goodwillie's liability—Matheson having left the country—is a matter of law. The case was argued and decision reserved. Hatton & Beck for plaintiff, Laidlaw, of Hamilton for defendents.

MAHONY VS. O'DONNELL.—An action brought by Thos. Mahony, of Peterborough, against Patrick O'Donnell, of Douro, to recover damages to the amount of $1,000 for slander in asserting that Mahony, who is a grain buyer for Mr. W. H. Wrighton, had cheated him (O'Donnell) in some grain transaction. The case having been called the plaintiff did not appear either in person or by counsel, and the case was dismissed with costs. W. H. Moore for plaintiff, Messrs. E. B. Edwards and E. A. Peck for defendant.

The Jury then made their

as follows:—

To Hon. J. Hawkins Haggarty, Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench Division and President of the High Court of Justice:

The Grand Jury at the present Assize beg leave to present:

That they have examined the jail and found everything in the best of order.

They find a number of persons, not charged with any crime, confined as vagaants. In the opinion of the Grand Jury, the county and town of Peterborough should join in the erection of a House of Refuge, with a quantity of land attached, as a home, where such persons could be employed at some suitable labour.

The Grand Jury congratulates the county on its freedom from crime.

The Grand Jury have much pleasure in seeing your Lordship on the bench in this county after the lapse of several years, in apparently improved health, and trust that your Lordship may be spared many years to fill the high position which you have so long and ably occupied.

W. C. SANDERS, Foreman.

Peterborough, Sept. 24th, 1883.

His Lordship in reply referred to the proposal respecting a House of Refuge with commendation. The matter had been mooted in several counties. All counties had to deal largely with tramps. The hard labour to which the Grand Jury had alluded would be one of the most effective deterrents to this class that be devised—they hated the name of work. He would direct copies of the presentment to be sent to the municipalities interested, and as the matter was a most important one they might take action. Alluding to the present sittings he remarked upon the insignificant character of the business presented. In his experience of twenty-eight years he could not recollect an assize with so small an amount of business. While this was gratifying to the county, it was hard upon the lawyers. He felt grateful to the jury for their reference to himself. Wherever he had appeared officially, he had always received the greatest courtesy, and he appreciated and felt thankful for the kindly references the Grand Jury had made to him.

THE ITALIAN MURDER.

Carmenino, the man who murdered a fellow-labourer at Norwood last spring was then placed in the dock. It will be remembered that both men, Italians, were working on the Ontario & Quebec Railway, in the township of Asphodel, when a dispute arose between them concerning the use of the stove at the boarding shanty, and they went out to fight on Carmenino's challenge. Deceased caught up a knife and prisoner armed himself with a stone and a sharp-pointed stick. In the struggle deceased was fatally stabbed with the sharp stick, which entered his lung.

Mr. Kerr, Queen's Counsel, informed the Court that the witnesses were not procurable, nor was there any hope of securing their attendance at this Court, and it was decided to allow the prisoner out on bail, his personal recognizance to be taken in the sum of $500, to which was added $50 in cash, half of the money belonging to the prisoner when committed. Mr. O'Meara appeared for the prisoner.

Mr. Joseph Lambert, paymaster to the Italians on the Missing Link R.R. contract, kindly assented to fill the office of interpreter, and the prisoner's assent was through him obtained to the conditions above recited, the recognizance was made out, Carmenino received back the balance of his money, exchanged prison garb for his own, and was a free man once more. It is not likely that the prison dock of the county of Peterborough will ever be honored with his occupancy again. He is in poor health, and will likely make use of his liberty to recuperate and then place a conveniently safe distance between himself and Peterborough.

Turnbull's Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms will be opened on Tuesday and Wednesday, 2nd and 3rd Oct.

Infanticide.

On Friday morning the dead body of an infant was found floating in Rogers' mill dam, Ashburnham. The body was entirely naked and apparently that of a child a month old. Dr. Fife summoned a jury to hold an inquest, but nothing was learned respecting the parentage or author of its evident murder. Dr. Clark's post mortem led him to the opinion that death was caused by drowning, and death by "drowning at the hands of some unknown person" was the verdict of the jury.

WEST RIDING EXHIBITION

Good Weather—A Large Attendance—A Glance at the Exhibits—The Prize List.

The annual exhibition of the West Riding Society took place on Tuesday and Wednesday last. Generally the exhibits were superior to those of last year.

THE FIRST DAY

was, as usual, devoted to placing the exhibits in the "palace," and the awards of the judges. In the evening the public attendance was fair. The Peterborough band furnished excellent music till ten o'clock. The display was good. There was a large show of grains, but the vegetables were not numerously represented, though what was shown was excellent. As might be expected the display of fruit was meagre. Not much cheese or butter was shown.

In woolen goods Messrs. Gemmel & McKee made a full display, and farmers, handiwork was fairly represented. The show of quilts, counterpanes, etc., was very good.

The display of ladies' fancy work was exceptionally excellent. There was a beautiful show of fancy work, needlework, etc., etc., in which great skill of manipulation and refinement of taste were evident.

The fine arts lines were well filled, and the specimens were of more than usual merit. They included pencil drawing, pen and ink, crayon, sepia, India ink, water colors and oil paintings. In the latter class, Miss Edmison, of town, showed five canvasses of great merit. A specimen of free hand map drawing by Miss Emma Mitchel, a self-taught child of twelve years, that indicates promising talent, was shown. Two birds in water colors by the same little artist were worthy of great praise.

In the department of vehicles Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald was the chief exhibitor. His display consisted of a lumber wagon of blue oak with varnish finish, leaving all the parts exposed and showing the straight grain and first class quality of the wood. A canopy top platform phæton upholstered with morrocco was a beauty, good judges who saw both saying that there was nothing to surpass it at the Toronto exhibition. A family folding top phæton was also shown, made for Mr. Hawthorne, of Oshawa. A top buggy with Whitby side bar was also shown, and an Eureka gear open buggy. All these vehicles were finished in the highest style of the art. In their finish and equipment they leave no room for improvement, and it was no surprise to see the red ticket adorning them.

Mr. W. M. Hamilton showed a fine collection of corn broom brooms and whisks,—a very fine display.

The Ontario Canoe Company had half a dozen of their splended canoes on hand, cedar rib—vertical and horizontal—and basswood; all finely finished.

Mr. Wm. Forsyth showed an I.X.L. fanning mill beautifully finished, and with all the latest improvements. It is perhaps the best mill made in Ontario. It was sold to Mr. Samuel Wright, Emily, and was also taken to the Central Exhibition, Lindsay.

In harness Mr. Wm. Metcalf, Hunter street, opposite the Oriental, shows four sets—two single sets, one of which is an English phæton set, all hand stitched, white oak leather, and finished in the finest manner; a gold mounted double carriage set made for Dr. King, and a set of draft harness. All these sets are hand sewn and are fine samples of harness.

Mr. W. J. Devlin also showed a fine set of single harness of excellent workmanship.

Mr. Alex. Gibson, city shoeing shop, south George Street, had a splendid display of hand wrought horse shoes, made the day of the show. They were all finished with the hammer, and in smoothness and trueness of shape were wonderful evidence of Mr. Gibson's skill with that tool. Cast steel hammer-wrought trotting and running shoes were also shown. Of beautiful form and finish they were fit for the fleet feet of even "Jay-eye-see." The hammer is a wonderful tool in Mr. Gibson's hand.

In sewing machines, Mr. G. A. Mitchell showed six Wheeler & Wilsons, which took first prize at Toronto, and also fine specimens of their work.

Mr. J. E. Murray was on hand with the Singer—9 machines, of different grades, and numerous samples of their varied work produced on the spot.

Mr. I. Hendricks showed six of the "Light Running Domestic."

Mr. E. J. Hartley had a fine display of musical instruments.

Taken altogether the inside show was an improvement over last year.

Agricultural implements were fairly represented.

Mr. P. Hamilton showed the Hamilton Reaper, a sulky hay rake, the Farmers' Friend feeder and drill, one sod and two general purpose ploughs (all iron beam), and a horse hoe.

Mr. Robert Fife showed a "Little Brantford" cord binding reaper, operated by two horses, and selling for $250 each. It must be popular with farmers, who may get full particulars from Mr. Robt. Fife, Peterborough.

W. Graham, Peterborough, showed the Champion Combined Seed Drill, a potato digger, spring tooth cultivator and and harrow, and one and two horse ploughs.

The show of stock was not at all a fair representation of the good stock of the county. The classes were not well filled. Mr. Charles Moore, of Smith, showed a grand pair of fat steers. The prize list will furnish further particulars. There were several pairs of sheep, including a pair of Shropshire Downs, imported by Mr. John Carnegie, M.P.P., this summer. A very small show of swine. The poultry class was fairly filled.

SECOND DAY.

On Wednesday there was a good attendance of spectators, and the chief attraction was the speeding in the ring. There was a pretty fair show of horses. Further information can be gleaned from from the following copy of

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 4, 1883.

Onderdonkery.

It was to be hoped that Sir Charles Tupper, when he sacrificed about $200,000 of the people's money to favor Onderdonk in giving him the contract on what is now known as the Onderdonk section of the C.P.R. in British Columbia, would see that the work was well done; would see that the country did not burn its candle at both ends. But Onderdonk is still to be favored at the country's expense, and is allowed to do his work as suits his fancy and cupidity. Information is received "that the section of the C.P.R. in question was being seriously degraded, and the work performed of a character lamentably below the requirements of the plans and specifications. There have been complaints of this kind before, and the persons who now entertain any faith in Onderdonk's regard for "plans and specifications" are not found except with a good deal of difficulty. The whole Onderdonk business was born in corruption, and it should surprise no one that it is being developed in corruption, and on the alleged completion of this Onderdonk contract should the country have handed over to it a road-bed which will have to be reconstructed within a very early period, the fact will only be the natural product of the vicious influences which governed the awarding of this contract, and marked the whole progress of the work." The result will be that this section of a road that has cost and will yet cost the county such immense sums will have to be rebuilt. Sir Charles is a "great stretcher" in the matter of veracity, but he is no stretcher in making the public money go as far as possible by economical expenditure of it. A trail of corruption has followed his devious political course throughout.

Our Departing Governor-General.

As successor to so brilliant, eloquent and popular a man as Lord Dufferin the position of the Marquis of Lorne was a trying one. Lord Dufferin's reign was a most successful one. He had become so exceedingly popular, and had won so high a record for ability, eloquence and fitness for his position that the popular standard of what a Governor-General should be, was very much elevated. His successor would naturally have to show himself approximately clever to succeed to Lord Dufferin's popularity as well as to his position. Through coming into office under these conditions Lord Lorne has succeeded admirably. It is not claimed by his most ardent admirers that he possesses the astuteness and fervid and graceful eloquence of our former representative of Her Majesty, but he possesses many compensating qualities. He has evinced a genuine desire to be of use to the country, and to this end has studied its people, resources and extent with commendable diligence. Quietly affable in his manner towards his subjects, he has won warm regards for unfailing courtesy from all classes. In his more official capacity he has studied to make himself useful both at home and abroad to the Canadian people. He has travelled over the Dominion pretty thoroughly, and is, perhaps, generally better acquainted with its natural resources than any native Canadian. The knowledge thus gained has not only been of present benefit to the country but will also be for her advantage hereafter. It may be depended on, that wherever the high destiny that awaits the Marquis of Lorne, places him, he will always be willing, as he is able, to speak a good word for Canada, and enlist an active interest in her vast natural resources. Lord Lorne's royal consort, the Princess Louise, has also a warm interest in the Canadians. In the more refined sphere of art, her influence has invariaby been exercised in favor of enlarging the views and stimulating the ambition of the national taste for art. In leaving Canada, the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise will take with them the love and respect of the people of Canada, who will still retain an abiding interest in their future success, and pray for their success and happiness. For the last quarter of a century at least, Canada has been exceedingly fortunate in her Governors-General, and it is gratifying to know that our next ruler, Lord Lansdowne, gives promise of being worthy to fill the place of his immediate predecessors.

Notes of the Day.

It is roughly estimated that the holding of the Industrial Fair has been the means of causing to be set in circulation in the city of Toronto, between eight hundred thousand and a million dollars.

The County Judge of Hastings has decided that a husband is not bound to pay for jewelry ordered by his wife without his knowledge The question now to decide is whether the hardship falls upon the wife or the jeweler.

The Indian Commissioner of the United States Government has issued an order directing certain Indian tribes to discontinue polygamy. It would be much more consistant if the white men were to put down polygamy among white men before interfering with red Mormonism.

The next session of the Supreme Court of Canada will be held on Tuesday, 23rd October, when a heavy list of appeals is expected. The last day for fixing cases to be heard at that session will be Tuesday, 2nd October, the last day for depositing factums the 6th, and for inscriptions the 8th.

Port Arthur, Ont., formerly called Prince Arthur's Landing, has suddenly become of considerable importance as a lumber market. Shipments have been large and active. It is mentioned that at that point one lot of 6,000,000 feet is being cut out for a Winnipeg firm, to be used in building elevators in the North-West. It is estimated that over 25,000,000 feet will be transhipped at Port Arthur this season.

The interior of the House of Commons Chamber has been undergoing repairs and alterations. The desks of the members have been reduced in width and the floor arranged so as to bring all the desks forward towards the main aisle, leaving room for an additional row of desks in the rear. This will obviate the necessity for enlarging the chambers for a quarter of a century at least, as it will give room for 28 additional members. The openings in the floor for ventilation purposes have also been enlarged.

A Roman correspondent says that the Pope has decided to found a historical academy, which will be of exceptional importance. This act may be considered as a sequel to His Holiness' letter to the three Cardinals of the 19th of August. The academicians will be of two classes—those who will receive emoluments for the execution of certain previously established work, and honorary academicians, whose admission will be attended with much pomp and formality. There will be competitions, as in the Paris academy, and secular as well as clerical personages will be eligible,

The Dominion Government advertise that they will receive tenders from Wednesday, October 17th, to Saturday, October 20th, for four million dollars currency bonds, bearing interest at four per cent., payable half yearly from November first, the principal to be repaid at Ottawa in twenty years, and the bonds to be convertible at any future time into registered stock. Tenders must be made for not less than $1,000 and multiples of $1,000. The object of the loan, it is stated, is partly to provide for the payment of debts maturing or redeemable in the course of the current fiscal year, and partly for expenditure on public works.

Goldwin Smith, though he wrote and spoke in favor of the Tory party when they were fighting for office in 1878, is not by any means enamored with the taxation policy which the present Government has carried on since its advent. In Bystander, just issued, he says:—"The boom is over, and we have come to that season of depression which follows the use of false stimulants in the case of protectionist legislation, as well as in the case of brandy. Cotton men are holding councils to limit production, and of course employment at the same time. We commend to them the policy of the protectionists of Java who used to burn all the spices above a certain quantity in order to keep up the price. Would that the Finance Minister had adhered to the policy of common sense."

Touching upon the shutting down of the cotton factories two days out of six, a "Workingman" thus speaks in the columns of a contemporary:—"We were led to believe by the speeches of National Policy advocates and by the press which backed up the assertions of these speakers, that this policy would give us good wages and steady work. When our votes were solicited by private canvassers in the election of 1878 and 1882, this view of the case was put forward in hard, unmistakable English, and many of us were induced to vote for the Conservative candidate by the very positive character of the the inducements held out. Is it right that we should be thus deceived?" Of course it is not right, but then who is to blame. Were the mechanics not told by the Reformers what the result would be, and they were not believed? Now it has all turned out as they predicted.

A LIVE LAKEFIELD ENTERPRISE.

Mr. John Hull's Improved Grist Mill.

Important Additions to His Facilities—One Hundred Barrels of Flour Evolved from Five Hundred Bushels of Wheat in a Day—Excellent Flour Produced—A First-Class Milling Establishment.

Since Mr. John Hull, merchant miller, Lakefield, came into possession of the grist mills he now occupies, improvement has been the order of the hour; and now, in their enlarged and improved condition, the "oldest inhabitant" would hardly recognize in them the comparatively insignificant nucleus that existed at the time he took possession of them nearly a fifth of a century ago. He has added to the grist mill proper and erected a commodious store room for flour, above which is a store house with a storage capacity of

THIRTY THOUSAND BUSHELS.

His arrangements for the reception of grain, of which he consumes over 500 bushels per day, are complete.

Determined to place his mill, also, in the front rank of such establishments, last May Mr. Hull began the extensive improvements that make his mill as complete and good a one as stands this day on the Otonabee river. These improvements consist in the machinery necessary to convert his mill, in a modified way, into one for producing patent process flour. The system used is the

JONES PATENT PROCESS,

and the necessary machinery for making the change was furnished by the Consolidated Purifier Company, Toronto, and by Mr. William Hamilton, and put in by Mr. James Prout, of Bowmanville. The new machinery added is, first, a zigzag separator, in passing through which the wheat is thoroughly freed from foreign material, before passing into an Eureka smutter, which brushes, cleans and polishes the berry in the most thorough manner possible. The essential patent process machinery is a stone roll revolving horizontally, which grinds the middlings, and a middlings purifier of the latest improved pattern. The wheat, after being as described, is reduced by two stones, as in the ordinary flat grinding process. An improvement in these stones is the silent feed, which does away with the noisy clatter of the old style hopper, so often sung in poetry and celebrated in romance. The ground grain is conveyed from these stones to an upper story, where the meal, heated in the grinding, is passed through the cooler. After this it passes through the bolts in the ordinary way, and the flour (the strong bakers') is separated and also the middlings. These are passed through the middlings purifier, where further impurities, such as all fine, light, fluffy material and minute particles of bran are entirely removed from the middlings, which pass through the stone rolls, which are corrugated cylinders of hard stone running horizontally. From the stone rolls the reduced middlings go to a reel provided with a No. 13 bolting cloth, where they are bolted, and the patent process flour of a splendid quality is the result. Of a given amount of flour produced, twenty-five per cent. is patent and seventy-five per cent. strong bakers'. Mr. Hull claims that a of flour is produced by the combination of the flat grinding and the stone roll process than by the all-rolls process alone.

THOROUGHLY CLEANED,

LARGER PERCENTAGE

The flour produced in Mr. Hull's mills is certainly of a splendid quality, possessing, when subjected to the usual tests, all the conditions answering to first-class flour.

Further improvements in facilities consist in two self-acting flour-packers, which pack from a barrel to a twenty-five pound sack.

The capacity of the mills is

100 BARRELS PER DAY.

It is the intention of Mr. Hull to run the mills night and day. They are now, and have been for fifteen years in charge of the head miller, Mr. Joseph Caldwell, who, in experience, knowledge of the business and attention to it, need yield second place to no miller in Ontario.

Mr. Hull is quite

SELF-CONTAINED

in his business. He has his own store house and elevator, and has the best of receiving facilities. The capacity of his two weigh hoppers are 63 bushels each, at a draft. He also has his own cooperage, where two men are kept busy furnishing barrels for the shipment of his flour.

Mr. Hull has been sending considerable flour to Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, and he has completed arrangements for placing the bulk of his manufacture in the Maritime Provinces.

CUSTOM WORK.

It must not be infered that Mr. Hull's mill are devoted exclusively to manufacturing milling. He is also prepared to do custom grinding with great promptitude, his new facilities putting him in a position to give his customers the best of satisfaction in gristing and chopping. He also pays the highest cash price for wheat, oats and other coarse grains.

Mr. Hull's refitted mills are equal in excellence of work to any in the business, and are not only a credit to the enterprising proprietor, but to Lakefield also.

About Strainers.

In straining milk or any liquid, you are careful to have the strainer sound and clean. See to it then that nature's strainer is kept healthy. The Blood passes through the Liver, which should retain and throw off all impurities. See the cause of all your troubles? ZO-PE-SA acts upon the Liver, hence it is a natural and wonderful Liver Regulator, Dyspeptic cure, Blood Purifier, corrects the Brain and the Kidneys. ZOPESA is a certain cure for Headache from Foul Stomach or Nervousness. A good dose taken twice a week will cure Sick Headache. We warrant ZOPESA to do this. Try a sample bottle. 39-tf

Messrs. Churchill & Co., Dear Sirs,—I have been troubled with Piles for the last five years, and during that time I have taken medicine from five doctors which failed to effect a cure. I have used only one box of your Climax Eye Salve, which I purchased from W. F. Ritchie of Osgoode Station, and can recommend it as a safe cure to all afflicted with the same disease. CONSTANCY.

HE SAID:

And leaned as he spoke on the pasture bars,
That he vowed by the heavens blue—
By the silvery moon and the shining stars—
To ever prove leal and true.

Men change, 'tis true," he said, "but oh!
Believe me, my own dear love,
Affection like mine, as time will show,
Has a strength that no power can move."

SHE SAID:

No fear or doubts, beloved, have I,
For deep in this heart of mine
Is a love that will never dim or die,
But will last for aye—like thine!"

He gave her a ring and a fond caress,
While her tears like a torrent fell;
As with fait'ring words and in sore distress,
He bade her a long farewell.

But the man in the moon, who had often viewed
Such tender scenes, I ween,
Winked, knowingly then, as the lovers stood
Beneath in the silvery sheen.

* * * * * *

Two summers with blossom and bud were gone,
Two winters with frost and snow;
And again, the man in the moon looked down
On the whirling world below.

And what did he see? Why, the lover had won
A widow with wealth galore,
While the maiden had wedded, that very morn,
The clerk of a dry goods store.

Both the man in the moon: "It's exactly now
As it was when the world began,
No weaker thing than a woman's vow,
Excepting the vows of a man."

Some things have given the man in the moon
Cynical views of life
But this is the reason he lives alone,
And never has taken a wife.

O'DONNELL COMMITTED.

EVIDENCE TAKEN AT THE PRELIMINERY EXAMINATION.

O'Donnell was brought into court under a strong guard. The court was crowded. When Jones, the boatswain on the steamer Melrose, repeated O'Donnell's expression to Mrs. Carey, "I did not do it," the prisoner, who had maintained a cool demeanor throughout the examination, smiled as if the expression amused him. Parish, a servant on the steamer, testified that he saw no evidence of passion on O'Donnell's part during the shooting. Carey's son, when cross-examined, stated that O'Donnell was sitting when he fired the first shot. His father did not grapple with O'Donnell. He admitted he might have testified at Capetown that O'Donnel said to Mrs. Carey, "I had to do it," or "I did do it." The witness maintained, however, that his statement on Tuesday was correct that O'Donnell used the words, "I was sent to do it;" until he was closely pressed by the cross-examiner, when he said he was not quite clear what the words used by O'Donnell really were.

Mrs. Carey was dressed in deep mourning and excited the special interest of spectators, among whom murmurs of sympathy were heard. She recounted the incidents of the voyage corroborating the other witnesses in regard to the circumstances of the murder, except that she swore that after her husband was shot she said to O'Donnell: "You shot my husband." O'Donnell replied: "Don't blame me, I was sent to do it," whereupon the woman who was with him said: "Don't mind O'Donnell, you are no informer."

Cross examination failed to shake Mrs. Carey's testimony. She denied that she had talked to her son about his evidence. The magistrate asked O'Donnell if he had anything to say in answer to the charge of murdering Carey. O'Donnell replied, "not at present." The prisoner was then committed for trial at the next session of the central criminal court.

THE COMING COMET.

Through the illimitable realms of space, with an incalculable velocity and an undefined and unrestricted orbit there is rushing towards us the comet of 1812. The comet is said to be rushing with appalling speed towards the earth and the sun, and those fearful of terrestial and celestial disturbances may well be apprehensive. An authority says that it is impossible to contradict autoritatively either the man who says he could carry a comet home in his pocket if properly packed, or one who asserts that a comet's nucleus is equivalent to an iron ball one hundred miles in diameter. We have the reassuring assertion that a comet's encounter with the earth would simply furnish a magnificent shower of stars. The great comet of last year we are told brushed through the corona. It has been computed that a comet would strike the earth once in about 15,000,000 years and it is known that the orbits of at least three comets cut the earth's path so closely that should they ever again reach the crossing at the same time as the earth a collision must occur. The comforting assurance given us by astronomers, however, is that these comets may cease to exist before that time. Comets are now popularly believed to exercise a beneficent influence on things mundane, albeit they were at one time regarded with great terror. The comet which is now rapidly approaching, will be visisible to the naked eye at Christmas time.

THE MEANEST OF MEN.

A Toronto gallant, named Foley, takes the cake for low-down meanness. It appears that Foley took two young ladies to the Exhibition last week in a hack. On the way there he playfully took a ring from the finger of Miss Martin, who upon remonstrating with Foley, was assured that he would give it to her when they returned home. To make matters worse the strap of Miss Martin's satchel was broken. In this satchel she had a pair of cuff buttons, and of these Foley offered to become the custodian. On their return home Foley was asked to give up the jewellery, but said that he would do so on the following day. But when asked again the next day he said that he would on Sunday. Sunday came and on the articles being demanded from him he said that he would retain possession of them until such time as Miss Martin had paid a little cab bill amounting to $6. As the young lady did not hire the hack, she refused to do this and so had Foley brought before the police court. The upshot of the matter was that Foley gave up the ring and buttons to the lady and was remanded to appear when called on, and he should be called on to hang himself at once. It's a comparatively easy thing to take a young lady for a drive provided she foots the bill.

TOMATOES.

This vegetable is always a favorite, for the vines, like the orange, often contain blossoms, green fruit, and that fully ripe at the same time. They bear until frost, and although seemingly dead and withered at times, renew their efforts and push forward again. Can them for winter, make catsup of them, and use them while they are plentiful, as the tomato is certainly one of the most wholesome articles grown in the garden. Select a few of the smoothest and hardest fleshed for seed.

A DEATH-BED ROMANCE.

A POOR GIRL MARRIED TO A COLORADO MILLIONAIRE.

Two years ago Mrs. Rives, the widow of a Southern planter who had been wealthy but who died poor, went to St. Louis to begin the battle for existence. Her oldest daughter took a position as chambermaid at Hunt's hotel, where her splendid beauty attracted the attention of everyone who saw her. Suitors were many, but she rejected all advances until finally she accepted the addresses of a gay man in the sewing machine business, and engaged herself matrimonially. There was a quarrel and a break in the engagement, when in June, Prof Stager, a metallurgist of Garfield, Colorado, was a guest at the hotel and fell in love with Eloise as soon as he saw her. He had made $150,000 in his calling, and believed his happiness would be complete with such a good and beautiful woman for his wife; but she did not receive his attentions with favour and the professor returned to Colorado. He had been too deeply wounded, however, and returned to St. Louis and the hotel only to be still rejected. Three weeks ago the girl fell ill and was removed to the house of a friend. Blindness came of her sickness, and Professor Stager because of her misfortune. Money came without stint to supply her with every comfort and luxury. Flowers and fruit and every obtainable delicacy were sent to her beside. His devotion was not in vain, and the girl finally gave way and consented to grant his appeal and become his wife. The ceremony was performed Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Dr Vichal. The fair girl reclined helplessly on her couch. The perfume of rare flowers filled the room, and the invalid's hands clasped a spray of forget-me-nota. During her illness see became blind, and could not see the quivering lips and moistened eyes of the manly fellow who had come to call her wife. She recognized his voice quickly, however, and with an effort turned her head towards him. The meeting was very affecting, and those who witnessed it vainly tried to conceal their emotion. The fond embrace over, the gentle girl said she was ready. Through the open window the sun shone brightly, throwing slanting sunbeams upon her wasted form. At her side stood her future husband, while around her bed were gathered her mother and sisters, Mrs. Waterhouse, who had helped to nurse her, and the friends of the family. Solemnly and quietly the two were wedded for life. While the ceremony was being performed she helplessly extended her hands to her adorer, as if to keep him ever near her, and as he placed a wedding ring upon her finger a bird flew in at the window and perched at the head of the bed. Stager insisted that the coming of the bird was a good omen, but it did not prove true. At noon on Monday Eloise was dead.

GRIEVED AND LOVED HER ALL THE MORE

KEEPING GRAPES.

There are quite a number of ways for preserving grapes for Winter use, among which the following are well spoken of: Simply placed in packing boxes with alternate layers of paper, one grower says his grapes keep in good condition during the Winter. Another picks his grapes on a clear, dry day with grape scissors, so as not to handle them much, and all imperfect berries are removed. They are then placed in clean, dry earthen jars in layers a bunch deep, dry straw paper being placed between the layers, and the jar filled in this way. A double sheet of paper is placed over the top layer and the lid put on. Strong, unbleached muslin is pasted entirely over the lid, or cover, so as to entirely exclude all air. When the covering has dried and hardened, the jars are buried on a dry knoll, deep enough not to be touched by frost. Isabellas have been kept in this way until late in February. Very good success has attended bagging with paper sacks, then packing with dry sawdust (the bags remaining on the clusters) in a tight box and storing in a dry, cool cellar. A temperature of 40 degrees is best for keeping the grapes in, the air being kept clear and dry. No decayed or imperfect berries should be allowed to remain on the bunches. Great care should be taken in handling them.

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 4, 1883.

Algoma Election.

The election contest in Algoma has resulted in the return of the Reform candidate, Mr. Lyon, by the handsome majority of 123. This result, according to Tory claims, secures the Mowat Government's tenure of office another four years at least. The Tories asserted that, if Algoma went Tory, "Mowat must go." But it has gone right, and now Mr. Meredith's hopes of sitting in the seat of the Premier have vanished into thin air. The result is certainly unexpected, when the disgraceful tactics employed are considered. The infamous means used in Muskoka were plied by the same agencies. The Shield's gang operated with the zeal with which the promise of a fat reward from Sir John inspired them, and Premier Norquay exercised his authority as Premier at every opportunity to prevent the holding of an honest election. The dodge of getting in the votes of navvies and other unqualified voters was diligently tried, but it was to a certain extent checked, and to the experience of Muskoka is largely due the vigilance on the part of Mr. Lyon's friends, that prevented sufficient of these bogus votes being polled to defeat Mr. Lyon. The result shows that the electors of Algoma fully recognise the gallant fight which the Mowat Government has maintained in the general interests of the district, and in its territorial interests especially, and that they are actuated by higher motives than the hope of reward from the bribery fund of the Ottawa Government.

The Late Eection Contest.

The people of Algoma have done themselves the greatest possible credit by electing the independent Liberal candidate, Mr. Lyon, and leaving at home the Meredith-Norquay candidate, Mr. Plummer. To have made a different choice would have inflicted indelible disgrace upon the district. The danger from the manipulation of the treasonable conspirators in Algoma was very great, owing to the laxity of the election law which obtains there. They have virtually manhood suffrage in Algoma, and something more. Every property holder and every one who has been six months a householder can vote if he is willing to swear to his qualification. With a horde of Dominion Government placemen and intriguers in the district, led by men like Shields, Anderson, Pringle and Wilkinson, the wonder is, not that Mr. Lyons' majority was not large, but that he was elected at all. In some places the Norquay managers succeeded in running in a considerable number of bogus votes, but they were so skilfully checkmated that all their nefarious attempts were in vain.

One of the means used to head them off, was the choice of a trustworthy returning officer, and there was a proper selection of polling places. Both of these things have fired the virtuous heart of our neighbour, the Review, to unwonted indignation, but both are quite capable of being defended. Before saying anything in defence of the Government arrangements, however, we may be permitted to make two observations. In the first place we do not recollect that the Review showed any indignation against Sir John Macdonald for altering the law about the appointment of returning officers, or even for the infamous trick of gerrymandering over 50 Ontario constituencies, without a shadow of excuse, and for the sole purpose of snatching a verdict at the polls. In the second place, not even the Review can deny, in the face of the Muskoka revelations, that the Ontario Government had no right to suspect the intention to resort to similar tactics in Algoma, from the fact of Shields, Anderson, Kirwan, Wilkinson, Pringle, and the other members of the Muskoka gang being sent up there with plenty of money in their possession.

As to the choice of returning officer, it must be borne in mind (1) that the election law gives the Government the right to choose any person they please in the District of Algoma; (2) that as the election head-quarters was to be at Port Arthur, it was expedient to appoint as returning officer a resident of that place; (3) that the sheriff of Thunder Bay was actually appointed; (4) that he declined to act, giving as his reason a physical ailment which made it inconvenient for him to undertake the work; (5) that the registrar at Rat Portage was not a person at all suitable for so onerous and responsible a position; and (6) that the man chosen by the Government was well qualified, and known by his fellow-citizens to be so. What Government with such a district as Algoma to defend and such a band of unscrupulous agents to checkmate, would not have availed themselves of the privilege afforded them by the election law of seeing that all the deputy-returning officers were men not only of integrity but nerve? A Norquayite returning officer, would have meant deputies of the same stripe, shoals of bogus votes at every polling place, the nominal election of Mr. Norquay's candidate, and more scandalous and disgusting revelations in the election court.

So far as we are at present aware, the arrangement of polling places was a wise, fair and liberal one. All the places prescribed by the statute were included in the list, and a number of others were added in new centres of population. The Norquayites wanted some others added. The places for the selection were for the most along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the chief exception being Cockburn Island. We do not know why the latter place was made an exception and we are willing to wait for the information before condemning the Government. We can easily understand why polls were not opened along the line of the railway. The employees of the company and of the contractors are not generally bona fide settlers and are not entitled to vote unless they are. To have opened polls for their convenience would not only have added greatly to the expense but have provided facilities for running in bogus votes, the very thing the Government wished to prevent. In this they will be justified by the people of Ontario who certainly do not want to have their territory voted away by a number of men who have no stake in the country and are not even bona fide residents of it. If there is anything more in the Algoma polling-place question than this, the editor of the Review will have a chance to unearth the iniquity when Parliament meets. Till then he had better possess his soul in patience.

Sir John's Tools.

Sir John, in his desperate efforts to debauch Ontario constituencies, and to elect therefor creatures who would do his bidding, is, to do him justice, restrained by some redeming considerations. It is notorious that the leaders of the Ontario opposition are politically his most servile and pliant tools, yet there is work that he wants done of so disgraceful a nature that he even excuses these gentlemen from doing it. In all the Algoma canvass, when it would naturally be expected that the leader of the opposition, Mr. Meredith, would take the stump, as being the person chiefly concerned, and endeavor to talk over the electorate to his way of thinking, he kept at the practice of the law in London, and tamely submitted to be pushed aside, and to allow such characters as John Shields et al to be sent in his place. Sir John had disreputable work to do, and he, even he, refrained from putting forth Mr. Meredith or Mr. Morris, Mr. Creighton or Mr. Lauder as his tools. Mr. Meredith would not like to be connected with such bank drafts as came to the surface in Muskoka. Mr. Lauder, as a Methodist, wouldn't look very dignified in marshalling a bar-room full of illegal voters, up to a bar and treating them to watered whiskey out of thick bottomed tumblers. Mr. Morris is too respected a member of the Presbyterian Church to spend Sunday morning in bringing in sleigh loads of frosted whiskey, and propitiating chamber-maids by presenting them with the trunks that had contained the congealed Tory argument. None of the leading members of the Opposition would care to stoop to what Shields and his gang actually perpetrated. It was a little too much to ask respectable men who had any decency or character to lose, to do. If they would not serve Sir John as he wanted to be served in Muskoka, neither would they in Algoma. Messrs. Hardy and Pardee were in Algoma representing the Government and speaking nightly to the electors, placing their claims to their suffrage before them. Why were they not opposed on the platform by Mr. Meredith or Mr. Lauder, or other respectable oppositionists? Simply because to the Tory party it wasn't that kind of a contest. Oratory did not answer the purpose. Money spent in bribery, whisky, fraud, coercion and every species of illicit influence must be the means employed, and Shields and his gang were the tools selected to use them. These means to make Mowat go have failed because their effect was counteracted by a vigilance learned from the history of Muskoka as unfolded in an election court. Mr. Meredith should be profoundly thankful that Sir John did not require him to lead a Shield's brigade in Algoma, for if he had done so, Mr. Meredith judging from his shameful obedience on the Boundary Matter, would have found it hard to refuse. For the credit of the country we are sorry Mr. Meredith was not selected. Neither he nor his political associates, careless of Ottawa's interest and servile as they are, would have stooped to the political infamy that Shields and his—pals have made unparalleled in the political history of civilization.

Editorial Notes.

The Mark Lane Express declares that the grain trade throughout England is dull. The market for flour is very dull, and the prices rule lower than during the corresponding week of last year.

Our esteemed contemporary the Brantford Telegram, speaking of the presentation to Jim Stephens, says it was an "acknowledgement of the services he had rendered." A returning officer rewarded for partisan services is a pretty spectacle.

Fancy, if your imagination can indulge in such extravagance, a British statesman being a contract broker or a timber-limits broker. Sir Tupper and Sir John, however figure in these roles without losing caste among Tory admirers.

In the Welland election case the judges find that corrupt practices were proven in two cases, but, in respect of these, they have reserved their decision of the question of agency till the decision of the judges in the West Simcoe appeal case may furnish a precedent.

A Tory journal makes the ingenious discovery that the time when the N.P. benefits the farmer is when his crops are a failure and he has nothing to sell; the tariff keeps Yankee grain out of Canadian markets. At such a time it is also a boon to those who have to buy bread.

Sir John writes that he cannot attend the Tory pic-nic in East Elgin—he is too busy. It seems to require a good deal of labour by the Chieftain to put himself into a state of dense ignorance in reference to the affairs of the Department of the Interior, over which he is presumed to be the head, which he acknowledged in court a few days ago.

The advocates of high taxation at the time they were palming off the fraud of an N. P. on the people, asserted that everybody would have constant employment at high wages, and that depression in business, want of employment and low wages were the fault of the Government. The ingenuity of these same gentlemen will be somewhat taxed to explain why business failures are booming, and why cotton operatives are being thrown out of employment by the score.

An Ottawa despatch says:—"Although Sir John Macdonald's organs have been denouncing the Ontario Government for not forcing the sheriff of Algoma to act as returning officer, the Premier has not hesitated to pass over the sheriff of Lunenburg and select as returning officer for that county a violent partizan named H. W. Joats. In defence of the Government's conduct it is charged that the sheriff of Lunenburg is the "creature" of the Local Government, which happens to be Liberal. This defence completely answers the Tory charges in reference to the Algoma officer, for the sheriff of that district is appointed by the Ontario Government, and accoording to argument is as much the "creature" of that Government as the returning officer."

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Bishop Jamot's Circular Letter.

Last Sunday was St. Michael's day, and at St. Peter's Cathedral mass was celebrated at seven and eight o'clock, and high mass at ten o'clock, and his Lordship Bishop Jamot preached on the subject of devotion to the Rosary. At vespers, Rev. Father Keating preached a sermon on the subject of the Angels. The following is the Bishop's circular to the clergy and laity of his diocese, on the devotion to the Holy Rosary, in compliance with the directions of the Holy Father:

DEAR BRETHREN,—I am informed by His Eminence, Cardinal Simeoni, Prefect of the Propaganda, that our Most Holy Father, Pope Leo XIII., has deigned to give new and abundant blessings to the faithful, to induce them to cherish devotion to the Rosary of the B. V. Mary. He reminds us that in the past, when the Church was exposed to the inroads of heresies, or to other great calamities, the pious recitation of the Rosary had been a powerful means by which special favors have often been obtained; that the Roman Pontiffs have opened on several occasions the heavenly treasures of indulgences to encourage that devotion.

Walking in the footsteps of his predecessors, Leo XIII., to avert the great dangers which in our days threaten the Church, directs that the special assistance of the B. Virgin should be secured by means of the Rosary.

He orders then:

1st.—That this year the feast of the Most Holy Rosary be celebrated with a special devotion and solemnity;

2nd.—That from the first day of October until the second day of November next, at least five decades of the Rosary with the Litany of Loretto, be said in all the churches used for public worship.

The Holy Father directs also that those devotions be observed in any Church or Oratory dedicated to the B. Virgin, and that it is left to the discretion of the Ordinary to determine which is the most useful and suitable manner. He also expresses the desire that, wherever convenient, besides the Rosary, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass be celebrated, and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament be given to the people.

That the faithful may more readily and with greater spiritual advantage practice this devotion, the Holy Father deigns to grant the following indulgences from the treasury of the Church:

1st.—A plenary indulgence to be gained by all those who, on the Feast of the Holy Rosary, or, when there is not a sufficient number of priests to hear confessions, on any day within the Octave, receive the Sacrament of Penance, go to Holy Communion, visit a church in which they will offer fervent prayers to God for the wants of the Church, according to the intentions of the Holy Father.

2nd.—An indulgence of seven years, and of as many quarantines (40 days) to be gained by any of the faithful each time he, as aforesaid, piously recites the Rosary in a Church, and prayers according to the intentions of the Holy Father. However, His Holiness mercifully grants the same indulgence to those who, prevented by some lawful impediment, cannot perform those exercise in a church, recite in private the Rosary and the Litany, and pray according to His intentions.

3rd.—His Holiness grants another plenary indulgence to be gained by those who will have performed ten times the aforesaid exercise of the Rosary, on any time from the 1st of October to the 2nd day of November, or, if prevented, will have fulfilled it privately, provided they receive the Sacraments of Penance and Holy Eucharist, and, as aforesaid, pray according to His intentions, said indulgence to be gained on any day within the specified time.

I am sure, Brethren, that you will eagerly receive this new favor from the Holy Father. The Church is attacked from every side; she wants now, more than ever, a special protection from Almighty God. It is the duty of every one of us to join in those public prayers, ordered by the venerable Head of the Church. Ecclesiastical history tells the great blessings which have been obtained by saying Rosary. St. Dominic brought back to the Church by means of that prayer thousands of thousands who had strayed away.

I, therefore, cheerfully comply with the orders of the Holy Father; I hereby direct the Pastors of souls in the Diocese of Peterborough to conform faithfully with all the regulations above mentioned; to read this Circular from the Altar of the Masses on next Sunday; to explain its contents; to celebrate with all possible solemnity the Festival of the Rosary, which this year falls on Sunday, 7th day of October, inviting as many people as possible. I should say all, to receive Holy Communion that day or within the Octave; to say, as directed, every day, from the 1st of October to the 2nd of November, after morning Mass, at least five decades of the Rosary and the Litany of Loretto; to invite the people to come to that daily Mass as often and as many times as possible, and those who cannot, to say, as directed, those prayers privately.

Dated at Peterborough, the 26th day of September, 1883.

† JOHN FRANCIS JAMOT,
Bishop of Peterborough.

OPERA HOUSE, PETERBOROUGH.

VOCALISTS AND BELL PLAYERS.

The Alleghanians announced to appear at Bradburn's Opera House for a concert on Tuesday evening, have recently returned from a very successful tour of eleven years in Europe. The troupe comes to us with the highest praise from the European press, as well as an unequivocal endorsement from the American press—both before they left and since they returned from Europe. As vocalists they delight their audience wherever they appear, and as bell players they have no superiors. Our exchanges speak of their concerts in a most positive endorsement, as will be shown by the following extracts and clippings:—

"The genuine and hearty applause accorded the performers must have convinced them that their wonderful performance was appreciated." Liverpool (England) Mercury.

"In Quartet they are marvelously effective. The 'Burning Ship' was given in a splendid manner—the vocalists throwing, seemingly, their whole souls into the music and thrilling the audience. N. Y. Herald.

"The delightful music of the Swiss Bells charmed all, while the brilliant execution astonished the most critical." Edinburgh (Scotland) Courant.

"I have so freely expressed my opinion of the merits of these entertainers, that I have only to add, as a word of advice, 'Go and hear them.'" Rev. Mr. Spurgeon, London, Eng.

"The quartets and songs were admirably sung, and the very able manner in which the airs with variations were rendered on the Swiss Bells greatly delighted the audience, and called forth well merited encores." Standard (London, Eng.)

"Miss Hiffert's songs were highly appreciated. This lady possesses a voice of much sweetness and power, and is a charming actress." Glasgow (Scotland) Herald.

"Mr. Field displays a quiet humor and his style, somewhat American, will make his songs popular." Liverpool (Eng.) Courier.

"Mr. Boulard is the basso, with a voice of extraordinary compass, deep pure and thoroughly musical." New York Daily Times.

The Alleghanians will favor our lovers of melody with but one evening, when the prices will be placed at a popular rate, Reserved seats can be secured for their extraordinary entertainment at Thomas Menzies book-store where Reserved Seats can be secured without extra charge.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company.

A Flourishing Financial Institution—The Director's Report—Successful Management—Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company was held at the Board Rooms, Water street, on Tuesday, October 2nd. There were present, Messrs. Gen. Haultain, President, in the chair, John Walton, Vice-President, A. P. Poussette, Secretary, Geo. A. Cox, Rev. V. Clementi, Richard Hall, Dr. Fife, and A. C. Dunlop.

THE FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT, of the Directors of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, (Limited), for the year ending May 31st, 1883, was read as follows:—

GENTLEMEN.—The Directors, in presenting their annual report at the expiration of this, the first quinquennial period of the Company's existence, are able to look back with some degree of satisfaction, over the success of its operations. Commencing business in the autumn of 1878, with a paid up capital of $273,000 (£56,095 17s 10d, sterling), that amount was, before the end of the year, by the issue of shares in Scotland, increased to $330,000 (£67,808 4s 5d), and the Company's debentures, bearing 5 per cent interest, were, as soon as placed on the Glasgow market, readily taken at par, so that at the end of the first year, (31st May, 1879), the paid up capital stood at $330,000 (£67,808 4s 5d), showing an increase of $57,000 (£11,712 6s 7d), the investment account at $361,000 (£74,178 1s 8d) and the debenture account at $24,000 (£4,931 10s 2d). From that time forward the increase, in all its sources of strength, has been continuous and rapid, as will be seen from the following comparison:—1878, Investment Account, $245,000 (£50,342 9s 4d; 1883, $741,000 (£152,260 5s 6d); increase, $496,000, (£101,917 16s 2d). 1878, Debenture Account:—$401,000 (£82,525). Increase, $401,000 (£82,525.)

The Company's success in placing its debentures may be largely attributed to its having secured agents in Great Britain of exceptionally high standing.

The first issue of debentures, amounting to £20,000 will mature on the 1st of December next, and those holding those debentures to the extent of £15,000, have already intimated their intention to renew for a further period of five years, thus showing their confidence in the security held by them.

The new loans made during the year just ended, amounted to the sum of $171,000 (£35,136 19s 9d) and the repayments of principal amounted to $76,000 (£15,616 8s 9d) leaving a net increase in the investment acc't of $95,000 (£19,520 11s 0d). All loans have been made with the same regard to security as hitherto, and the fact that, during the year, the company has found it necessary to bring to sale only two properties, which realized much more than the amount owed upon them, indicates the satisfactory nature of its investments.

The usual statements certified by the auditors are submitted herewith,

F. M. HAULTAIN,
President.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

To the Directors of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, (Limited):—

GENTLEMEN,—We have audited the books and accounts of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, (Limited) for the year ending 31st May, 1883. The above statement of Assets and Liabilities and Profit and Loss account agree with the Ledger and are certified as correct. We have also inspected the mortgages, and find the aggregate thereof agrees with the amount under the head of Mortgage Securities.

EDG. PEARCE,
CHAS. D. MACDONALD, } Auditors.

Rev. Mr. Clementi, in moving seconded by Mr. Walton, the adoption of the report, referred in most decided terms of commendation to the satisfactory showing made in the report, a result largely due to the good management of the Board, and especially to the unwearied diligence and careful oversight maintained by the investment committee. He referred in feelingly eloquent terms to the loss sustained in the death of Col. Haultain. The report was adopted.

Moved by Rev. V. Clementi, seconded by Mr. Poussette,—That this meeting desires to express the deep sense they entertain of the loss sustained by the company in the death of one of the most active and intelligent members of its Board, the late Col. Haultain, and in the death Gilbert Hern, Esq., who by his well known character for integrity and sound judgment, proved of the greatest assistance in promoting the company's interests in Great Britain.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Geo. A. Cox, seconded by Dr. Fife,—That the thanks of the shareholders, are hereby tendered to the Investment Committee, who have so carefully and prudently guarded the interests of the company, that, while reporting to-day investments to the extent of $681,142.16, they are able to add that not a dollar has been lost on any investment of the company since its establishment.

In moving this resolution Mr. Cox wished to say that in his opinion the care that had been exercised, and the close attention that had been given to the selection of the loans made by the company, the Investment Committee were entitled to more than a formal vote of thanks. He believed that it was the extreme caution of the Investment Committe, themselves, rather than the shareholders, that prevented a substantial recognition of their services being made. He should therefore hope that not many annual meetings would pass until the surplus earnings of the company would overcome the modesty of the committee, and that the one would be willing to give and the other to accept, fair remuneration for arduous and responsible duties, that have been well and faithfully performed. Having only been connected with the company for the past few weeks, it might not be out of place for him, (Mr. Cox) to say that as a Peterborough institution, he had for the last 3 or 4 years watched its progress with more than ordinary satisfaction, and he was gratified to see a monetary institution, of such creditable proportions, quietly and steadily extending its operations in our midst. A home company of this kind was, he said, an advantage to the borrower, who could come direct to the head office of the Company and deal with gentlemen whom he knew, and from whom he was sure of receiving honorable treatment, and of getting his money at an equitable rate of interest, without trouble, delay or exorbitant commissions and expense. It was an advantage to those who had fortunately secured stock in the Company to know that their capital was being carefully and prudently invested in securities with which they are acquainted, thus giving to them, without anxiety or risk, the handsome dividend of 7 per cent. It was also an advantage to the community at large to have an institution of this kind in its midst, that has already brought in something over $400,000 of foreign capital, that has been employed in improving and extending the operations of the farming community.

The resolution was adopted and the Board adjourned.

OFFICERS.

At the meeting of the directors, who are the same as last year (with the addition of Mr. Cox), that is, Gen. Haultain, Jno. Walton, Rev. V. Clementi, Richard Hall, A. P. Poussette, A. C. Dunlop and H. J. Lefevre.

Gen. F. M. Haultain was re-elected President, and John Walton, Vice-President.

Messrs. Jno. Walton, Richard Hall and Geo. A. Cox were appointed the Investment Committee, and Edg. Pearce and C. D. Macdonald, Auditors.

GRAIN OUTLOOK.

A TOUR THROUGH ONTARIO—EXCELLENT CROP OF BARLEY—PRICES WILL OPEN LOW—WHEAT POOR.

Kingston Whig.

Friday afternoon J. F. Story, one of the leading malsters of New York State, and C. C. Gay, of the firm of Gay & Quinby, Commission Merchants, Albany, arrived here on a tour of inspection and enquiry as to the condition of Canadian crops. Five weeks ago these gentlemen entered Ontario, and since then they have visited all the villages, towns and cities in the Province where there are good grain markets. This is the nineteenth time Mr. Story has been over the route. He reports the barley markets extremely dull. There are about 1,500,000 bushels of old grain in Canada which must be moved out before the new crop is touched. The barley generally is good and there will be a larger quantity of feed for sale than there was last year. In 1882 the Bay district afforded the best article, but this year the crop around Millbrook and Lindsay and in the vicinity of Gulph eclipses that in the east. Prices must range very low. Mr. Story believes that little grain will be shipped by vessel owing to the fall work which farmers have to attend to. The grain will, all over the country, then be moved by rail. The crop of oats in Ontario is unprecedented. Buckwheat and potatoes are very poor yields, fall wheat is a failure, but spring wheat is very good. "Ontario will not have enough wheat to feed itself," said Mr. Story.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

A week ago Nellie Malcolm, a young girl about 13, the adopted daughter of Conductor Lewis, of Owen Sound, put up at a boarding house on Front St. Toronto. On Sunday night she complained of illness, and the next morning was a corpse. Tuesday morning the body was shipped to Owen Sound by two young men, employees of the Toronto Grey & Bruce, who were well acquainted with the deceased, without the necessary certificate of death being shown to the railway authorities. The police have the matter in hand, as it is expected the girl has met her death through an attempt to commit an abortion.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

On Saturday evening, a large number of friends, acquaintances and well-wishers of Daniel Costello, having become aware of the latter's intention of leaving the township, and wishing to make him a present, readily collected funds for the purpose, the Rev. Father Kealty nobly heading the list with five dollars. A friendly farewell meeting was held at Mr. Costello's house, lot 9, con. 6, Ennismore, to wish him good-by and success in the new undertaking in which he is about to engage. After assembling, and friendly greetings having taken place, Thos. Telford was called to the chair, who, after a few preliminary remarks, read the following address:—

DEAR SIR.—It was with great reluctance we could at first believe it, when informed of your intention to remove from amongst us. However, being convinced of the fact and knowing it of no avail to contend against the inevitable, we felt it at once incumbent upon us, your friends and well-wishers, to show in some tangible manner our esteem and respect for you, although at the same time regretting you should sever the tie which has so long bound us together. Reflecting on the many pleasant hours spent in each other's company, we do thus in our parting with you more keenly feel the separation, and sir, wishing you every success in your new undertaking, and that it may in every way fulfill your most sanguine expectation, we now in the name of your friends and well-wishers in the township of of Kanismore, present you with this watch, as a small token of their kind feeling to and respect in which they hold you. On looking on this small present as time rolls on may it not only bring to your remembrance the humble donors, but the place of your birth and childhood up to the present separation. May your partner in life be long spared to share in that prosperity which we hope awaits you, and in whatsoever land or clime our lot in the future may be cast, may recollections of our friendship never fade or feel a passing cloud, and the confidence, esteem and regard we have placed in you never be tarnished. While saying good-bye to-night, knowing we have lost a sincere friend, we hope it will be for your benefit.

A handsome watch with chain was then presented by Patrick Brick, containing the following inscription:—"Presented to Daniel Costello by his many friends and well-wishers in the Township of Ennismore, September 29th, 1883." Mr. Costello replied in fitting terms, expressing his sincere thanks for the unexpected and valuable present, and more especially for the unwavering confidence placed in him, of which he had ample proof, and that he could look back with pleasure to his long friendship with many of the contributors, and above all, to this, their last meeting, at least for a time. Mrs. Costello was also the recipient of a valuable present from her lady friends. Great praise is due to Mrs. Costello, and those assisting her, for the magnificent supper which was spread out in all its inviting splendor, to which ample justice was done, as our evening drive through a sharp wind and drizzling rain had given our appetites double power for the inviting good things prepared. On removing the cloth, songs, toasts, speeches and pleasant greeting reigned till the near approach of Sunday morning. Altogether this was one of the pleasantest nights ever spent in Ennismore.

PHYLLIS.

The shadows closed on the orchard glooms,
The scent of the locust filled the lane,
The light winds kissed the mist-trees' plumes
And bore on their wings the kiss of rain.

Clouds in the red west dimmed the skies
With fleecy fingers, cold and gray,
As the sweet-breathed kine with Juno's eyes
Came down the clover-perfumed way.

And the milkmaid there, in the morning light,
With red lips fashioned like Cupid's bow,
Her clear gray eyes so tender bright,
And white brow catching the sunset's glow.

I will hear her speak when the lowing herd
Is folded under the walnut trees,
Soft as the note of a singing bird—

She hit a brindle cow over the hip with a cedar pail, and said: "So, brute, so! Hud-dup your foot! Stand over! I'll spike your tail to the fence if you strike me with it again! So, brute, so!"

His coat and a bottle of liquor were found a short distance from him. The body was very decomposed.

BOBCAYGEON.

The Agricultural Show to be held on the 10th, is the subject of discussion throughout the township. Evidence of interest is to be found in many quarters. In consequence of the good arrangement of pens last year, an increase of entries is spoken of.

The Swing Bridge has progressed sufficiently to show that the alterations will be a great improvement. Operations are temporarily suspended. The floating bridge would be a great convenience if left for the winter at the head of the canal. The wooden bridge is to be lifted and supported.

A report was current that a slight shock of earthquake had been felt in the neighborhood of Silvery Lake. The Independents does not vouch for the correctness of the report, but it is not entirely improbable, for it says the movements of that neighborohood have always been erratic.

NORWOOD.

The clothes-line of Mr. McGregor, of the McGregor House, was visited by thieves who completely stripped it.

Work on Messrs. Munsford, McMahon McDonald's, and Lewis' contracts on the Ontario & Quebec railway has been completed and these portions of the road are now ready for the iron. Track-laying is proceeding rapidly, from Crow River west, and it is expected that this place will be reached by the latter end of October.

As Mr. Robert Anderson, of Belmont was returning home from this village in company with a boy named Johnston, one night last, week, his team became frightened while going down a hill near Mr. R. Wigmore's, and ran away, throwing both of them out of the waggon. Mr. Anderson was severely cut about the head and body, and his companion (Johnston) had his leg broken. Under medical treatment, we are glad to learn, they are both doing nicely.

PORT HOPE.

The new school building on Pine street, is rapidly approaching completion.

The Chapel of Trinity College School was re-opened on Sunday last after having been temporarily closed for alteration.

Mr. J. H. Pillen, who represents Prof. N. J. Degalles' Dancing Academy of Toronto, has arrived in town and opened his classes.

The storm of Monday night last was a most severe and destructive one in this section of the country,—Port Hope coming in for its due share of the damage. Fully one hundred feet of the new breakwater west of the harbor was demolished and washed away, and other portions of it seriously damaged. Many of the limbs of trees were completely twisted off, and thrown to the ground, others merely broken and left hanging. An immense amount of fruit was also blown down, thousands of bushels in this town and vicinity being found on the ground in the morning.

LINDSAY.

The fall assizes open at Lindsay on the 10th of October.

Rev. Dr. Wild, of Toronto celebrity, will lecture in Lindsay during the second of October in aid of the funds of the Methodist Sunday school.

The Salvation Army are to hold a great banquet in Lindsay, the 16th October. Major Moore, of Brooklyn, N.Y., Captain Hall, of Toronto, and Captain Wass will be present on this occasion.

Mr. Geo. Dean has a curosity in the shape of a petrified beaver's paw, found in the creek back of Beaman's hotel, where many years ago a beaver dam flourished.

Mr. R. Douglass, formerly engineer on the Midland, in which service he lost a leg, has taken the hotel at the corner of Kent and Lindsay streets (Adam's block), and had it renovated and refitted. Old railway men as well as the public in general will give Mr. Douglass a call, for he is popular with every one.

A school teacher while on her way to Lindsay about a month ago from a visit to her western home lost her trunk in some way on the Midland. She fortunately retained her checks, and has put in a claim of $180 on the railway. A man was sent along the line to search for the missing trunk but without success.

THE JERSEY COW.

THE BEST BREED OF BOVINES FOR BUTTER.

This breed has attained the front rank in the United States as the great butter-maker, and judging by the high prices ruling at the great auction sales held in New York, there must be "merit in the breed," as our American cousins generally obtain value for their expenditure.

For many years the Jerseys were looked upon as animals adapted to "the lawn" only, as they were bred more for their beauty than usefulness, but since the Americans became interested in them, while retaining great beauty, their power of turning their food into milk, rich in butter globules, has been largely developed, and the value of a cow is now determined by the amount of butter she can make per day on a limited quantity of food. If she has inherited this, or has given this power to her offspring, her value as a breeding cow is still more enhanced. There are in the United States over 300 cows, with and authenticated record of over 14 lbs. of butter per week, and there are individual cases of from 23 to 25 lbs. per cow per week, and one cow with a record of 781 lbs. of butter in eleven and a half months—and these tests have been upon ordinary dairy feed. The highest test of one (25 lbs. in one week) having been made under the supervision of a committee composed of gentlemen of the highest standing, who saw the cow ("Value 2nd") milked night and morning, retained the milk and cream under lock and key, saw the cream placed in the churn, and remained at the churn until the butter came, thus ensuring the absolute honesty of this test; this is called an official test.

FATTENING SHEEP.

A gentleman having an extraordinary fine lot of Cotswold sheep in the New York market early last spring, was inquired of as to his manner of fattening them, when he gave the following statement:—

"In the first place, I secure a good breed. That is the most important point. The next thing to do is to keep them growing, from the time they are weaned till they are taken to the slaughter house, never allowing them to grow poor at any season of the year. I have fed them all the hay, peas and oats they will eat. Peas are better than Indian corn for making mutton. Oats furnish nitrogenous matter for the formation of necessary muscle. Peas produce more fat than the same number of pounds of cereal grain."

"Do you feed any roots and straw."

"Yes, each sheep gets not less than one or two pounds of turnips daily, with all the straw to eat and lie on that he wants; and a good shed is provided, with a supply of pure water, and salt to lick at pleasure."

About Sick-Headache.

For years and years the writer had been having sick or nervous Headaches after excitement, mental labor, noise or long rides. ZO-PE-SA cured me entirely. I now take about two tea-spoonfuls about twice a week, enough to operate about twice, and never have a headache. I eat well, sleep sound, my system is regular in every way. ZOPESA is a grand thing for the Liver, Dyspepsia and general system. May everybody know it and try it. 39-tf

James Brayley, Hamilton says;—"I read the testimonials for Mcgregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value, we had plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away, I was as bad with Billious Fever and Indigestion as I think any one could be, I have taken three bottles and am nearly well and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be." Free Trial bottles at J. McKEE'S Drug Store. 39-2t

LINDSAY'S WHARF, AUG. 22ND, 1883.

Messrs. Churchill & Co., Gents,—I have been afflicted with Salt Rheum for the past three years, and have been treated by some of the best doctors in Eastern Ontario without any lasting benefit. I was recommended by Mr. C. J. Lindsay, of Kars, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles of the fountain and two bottles of your Climax Salve, I believe I am perfectly cured. My general health is also much improved, and I now feel like a new man.

Yours truly,

THE CANADA LIFE.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

It is not sufficient to say that the Canada Life Assurance Company is the first among Canadian Companies. It would almost be correct to say, as was said on the occasion of a celebrated yacht race, that there is no second. The Canada Life is in the position of doing about as much business as all the other companies put together. It has established more than a national reputation for solidity and honorable dealing, while at the same time offering to insurers greater advantages than are offered by any other safe and stable company. It must be borne in mind that the rule which applies to ordinary business applies to insurance—the greater the volume of business done, the smaller is the proportionate expense. As the proprietary of the Canada life are content with moderate dividends, and as insurers get the benefit of the profits in dividends, reduction of premiums, etc., it follows that this great company offer inducements which no other Canadian company can afford to offer.

It is a matter of great gratification and pardonable pride to the company that its offices are now settled in the new building on the corner King and James streets. The structure is one of the finest insurance buildings in existence. A prominent insurance official of Chicago told the editor of the Inland Architect that he had seen all the principal insurance offices in North America, and that for elegance, comfort and suitability, he unhesitatingly placed that of the Canada Life at Hamilton at the head of the list. It is gratifying to know that the room not needed by the company lets to such advantage that the money spent on the building proves a renumerative investment.

The success of the company is due in a great degree to the ability and tireless energy of its president and manager, Mr. A. G. Ramsay. This gentleman's name is almost synonymous with that of the company. The building up of the business has been his life work; the history of the company is his history; its marvelous success is his highest praise. He is ably assisted by Mr. Mills, the secretary, Mr. Ramsay, the younger, inspector of agencies, and a large clerical force.

The report submitted to the company proves that the business is steadily increasing at an accelerating pace, though the utmost caution is observed, and every possible safeguard is thrown around the assured. In fact it is the absolute security which the Company offers which advertises it and makes it so great a favorite with the public. The man who insures his life must have confidence in his company. Otherwise he feels that he is not insured. The Canada Life must grow as the country grows. It must continue to be the great Canadian company. Mr. Geo. A. Cox is general agent for Eastern Ontario for this old, reliable and popular company.

BETHEL SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Methodist S. S. at Bethel, on the Keene circuit, held its anniversary tea last Wednesday afternoon, Sep. 26, which was a very pleasant and successful affair. The entertainment consisted of music, recitations and dialogues. Proceeds $38. A very pleasing event took place during the progress of the meeting, in an address and presentation to Miss Sara J. Carter. The address below speaks for itself:—

DEAR TEACHER,—We, the undersigned, scholars of the Bethel S.S., wishing to manifest our gratitude towards you for the amiable manner in which you have taught us as a class, to sing, and conducted the singing of the S.S. during the past summer, herein present you with this token, namely, "Royal Anthems." Wishing you success and happiness as a teacher in our S.S. we sign on behalf of those taught,

DOMINION GOVERNMENT COSTS.

There are seven provinces in the Dominion, viz.: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia, and Manitoba. The total population of these provinces is 4,352,080. The executive authority is vested in the Queen, exercised through the Governor-General, who receives $50,000 a year as salary. The Goveror-General has thirteen advisers, known as the cabinet or "Queen's Privy Council of Canada," each of whom receive a salary of $7,000 per annum and $1,000 in addition for each session of parliament, except the premier, who receives $8,000 and an additional $1,000 per session, making the total annual salaries of these officers $155,000, $49,000 in excess of that paid to the President of the United States and his cabinet. A member of the Canadian cabinet must be either a senator or a member of the House of Commons. Each senator and member of the House of Commons receives $1,000 per annum as compensation.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army has celebrated its eighteenth anniversary. At the last anniversary there was only 320 corps and 766 officers; the army now possesses at home and abroad 591 corps and 1,539 officers. In India a sufficient number of natives has joined the Army to provide interpreters in the most prevalent languages of the principal cities; and the work has been, with the exception of £100 or £200, entirely supported by funds raised in India. The growth of the Army in the the Australian colonies has been the marvel of the year. Twelve years ago there were only some three or four corps established in South Australia. Now, in the four Australian colonies and in New Zealand the Army has twenty-four corps under forty officers. Half a dozen buildings have been erected or purchased.

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUSEMIN COMBINATOIN REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.

Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $1 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.

J. E. Kennedy, dispensing chemist Cobourg, says that no blood purifier that he has ever handled has had such a large sale as Burdock Blood Bitters, and adds, "in no case have I heard a customer say aught but words of highest praise for its remedial qualities. 40-2t

Love is born of confidence, reared in affection and lives in adoration.

C. S. Judson, Wallaceburg, says, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for Summer Complaints is a splendid preparation, and I do not know of a single case in which it has not given satisfaction, but on the contrary have had many testimonials to its efficacy. 40-2t

Those who speak loudest usually say the least.

Age should always command respect, in the case of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry it certainly does, for 25 years that has been the standard remedy with the people for Cholera Morbus Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Colic and all Bowel Complaints. 40-2t

To mould a man to your own will, you must first let him see that you have confidence in him.

There is no remedy known to medical science that is more positive in its effect to cure Cholera Morbus, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentry, Cholera Infantum, and all Bowel Complaints than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. 40-2t

To marry for money is a mistake. It vitiates affection, and makes a business transaction of a holy privilege.

Hard working men are those who never find time to do a wrong action. Industry lifts a man above temptation.

True merit brings its own reward, in the case of Burdock Blood Bitters it is rapidly bringing its reward in its increasing sales, as a prominent Druggist recently said, "it now sells on its merits." It is the grand specific for diseases of Blood, Liver and Kidneys, 25,000 bottles have been sold, during the last three months. 40-2t

A lady once said "A man's heart is like unto a lobster's claw, when broken, another soon replaces it."

STILL IN THE WORKSHOP.—To do good work the mechanic must have good health. If long hours of confinement in close rooms have enfeebled his hand or dimmed his sight, let him at once, and before some organic trouble appears, take plenty of Hop Bitters. His system will be rejuvenated, his nerves strengthened, his sight become clear, and the whole constitution be built up to a higher working condition. 40-2t

If you intend to perform a mean action, defer it till to morrow. If you are to do a noble one, do it to-day.

It is a great mistake for a woman to marry a man to reform him. Reform him first, then you marry him with more safety.

"Slow and steady wins the race." Surely, but not slowly, Kidney-Wort is distancing all competition for universal popularity and usefullness. This celebrated remedy can now be obtained in the usual dry vegetable form, or in liquid form. It is put up in the latter way for the especial convenience of those who cannot readily perpare it. It will be found very concentrated and will act with equal efficiency in either form. Read advertisement.

A woman's heart is like the snow, impressible and plastic under genial influences, but let the cold north wind of misplaced affection blow across it, and it becomes crisp and unlovely.

THE KIST O' WHISTLES.

FUTILE ATTEMPT TO THROW AN ORGAN OUT OF CHURCH.

The Presbyterians of Shannonville (near Belleville) having erected a handsome new church, which was dedicated in January last, they resolved to purchase an organ for use at the services. The gentleman ministering to the congregation is a student of Queen's College, Mr. Young. He has a musical taste, and moreover, a considerable musical talent. Having, he says, secured the consent of every member of the congregation, the organ was purchased and two weeks ago placed in the church. On the Sunday when the instrument was first to be used Mr. David Brown, a respected member of the congregation who conscienciously objects to instrumental music in the church, proceeded to the edifice some time prior to the hour of service, and alone and unaided dragged the obnoxious "kist o' whistles" down to the door with the intention of throwing it out of the door into the street. As he got it near the door, however, two lady members of the congregation confronted him, and, seeing him determined, closed the doors and holding them

SCREAMED FOR ASSISTANCE.

This was almost immediately given them. Mr. Brown was compelled to abandon his intention, and the organ was replaced in the front part of the church. The service afterwards proceeded as usual, the congregation dispersing at the close. Mr. Brown, however, remained in his seat and would not stir. Mrs. Brown, after endeavoring to persuade him to come out, left and drove away home, a couple of miles distant. Mr. Brown remained in the church some two hours, when two members of the congregation entered the church and compelled him to retire. They then locked the doors. The matter was considered by the session, and the members were ten to one in favour of the organ, and the congregation twenty to one, Mr. Brown's son only opposing it. Mr. Brown holds that the minister cannot set up an organ without first obtaining consent of the congregation.—Ontario.

A TERRIFIC HURRICANE.

IMMENSE LOSS OF LIFE IN THE BAHAMAS —DESTRUCTION OF THE CAPITAL— SINKING OF A STEAMSHIP.

New York, September 27.—The steamship city of Alexandria arrived to-day with particulars of the hurricane at Nassau on the 8th inst. All the wharf property of the city was destroyed, including the Sponge Exchange and market. One hundred frame buildings were blown down, and over one hundred vessels were lost in the harbor of Nassau and many more at the neighboring islands. About seventy lives were lost. The mail-boat Careton, from Nassau for Inagua, was wrecked, twelve passengers drowned. Among the passengers lost are the Rev. J. S. Higgs and wife, of San Salvador, and Judge Anderson, wife and daughter. Those lost were swept of the deck while the vessel was foundering, or drowned by the swamping of the ship's boats. Only two boats reached the shore safely. The steamer had a valuable cargo.

PROGRESS OF THE ONTRAIO AND QUEBEC.

Work on the Ontario & Quebec R.R. is progressing rapidly. The construction train is expected in Arden, Addington County, in a few weeks. The rails are now laid to within six miles of the village from the east, and in its vicinity there are about 200 men at work. There are several sink holes on the line that seem almost unfathomable. The quantity of material that has already been placed in them is enormous. Most of these sink holes fringe a shelving rock and a good foundation cannot be secured. As soon as the hole is filled up the gravel, brush, timber, etc., slip off, leaving a depression. It is expected that the line from from Sharbot Lake to Peterborough will be open in a few months.—Whig.

A REMARKABLE "FIND."

EARL DUFFERIN'S PRESENT TO AN IRISH MASONIC LODGE.

Not the least interesting among the incidents attending the erection of the Masonic Hall at Bangor, Ireland (says a local paper), is the gift from Lord Dufferin of a mallet which His Lordship dug out of a temple tomb in Egypt. Lord Dufferin's antiquarian love is widely recognized, and when he writes in these words to Lord Clanmorris, the W. M. of the lodge to which the present has been made, the value of the gift is not likely to be under-estimated:—"Its great merit is its genuineness; on that you may rely, for I myself dug it out of a temple tomb, erected by King Mentu Hotep, of the thirteenth dynasty—a personage who certainly flourished before Moses. The mallett was buried beneath the sand and ruins, with a number of other articles of the same date, and its handle still shines with the sweat of the old Egyptian masons, and I have great pleasure in presenting it to your honorable lodge." The implement in question is in a wonderfully good state of preservation, the handle being quite perfect. The wood of which it has been made in color resembles cedar, but is of a much stronger fibre, and in all probability is the Gopher wood referred to in Scripture. The base has been considerably damaged, alike by the influence of time and by some accident which must have occurred to it in the remote period when it was wielded by an Egyptian operative mason. Of course the great value which attaches to it is its unquestionable antiquity. In the age of the world with which it is associated, Freemasonry was operative as well as speculative; therefore, this tool will always symbolise to the Bangor masons those principles of their craft which are older than the Pyramids and lasting as eternity. It is Lord Clanmorris' intention to have the maul mounted, appropriately inscribed, and placed in the lodgeroom.

THEN AND NOW.

Once upon a time the Mail said to the workingmen:

"At the present moment The Globe is endeavouring to stir up the mechanics classes against the Dominion Government on the ground that the hours of labour are too long, the wages too low, the price of things too high, and immigration too profuse. * * The average intelligent workman knows that what he has to depend on is hard, steady work, sustained by unflinching sobriety and reasonable self-denial. * * When and where did Sir John Macdonald promise to provide by law that every man should have six days' labour at good wages? * * Labour is protected now very greatly, for whereas all that even the Grit organ complains of now is the competition of a few immigrants. * * Even the few immigrants who come in competition with our workingmen are not especially encouraged to come here. They, in fact, are not competitors at all. They have no effect on wages. * * The temporary depression in the cotton trade does not affect all industries. The working people have had four or five years of undoubted prosperity. A brief depression is no unnatural thing; they must prepare for such things as well as their employers. The 'rainy day' is common to all. * * It is a forunate thing, as we have many times pointed out, that there is a ravenue which is capable of a drain."

Was it thus the advocates of high taxation talked to the workingmen in 1878 or in 1882?

CATCHING DEER WITH FISH-HOOKS.

Will Hendrick, while out fishing one day last week, on Lake Superior, captured a 175 pound deer with large horns. The young dentist had no shooting-iron with him at the time, but on seeing the animal enter the water he cautiously pulled his little row-boat between his buckship and the shore, and drove him out into the bay, where, after a hard and long spell of rowing he managed to catch him. He hooked into the deer's neck with a couple of fish hooks, and then with his fish line he managed to steady the boat until he could lasso it, which he did by throwing the boat's painter over its horns. The buck was not to be bagged so easily, however, for he turned upon his pursuer and a lively tussle was had. An old buck will fight hard at such a time. If there is any doubt in the matter let him ask Hendrick. At one time he struck the boat a blow which nearly capsized it. Will hung on to the rope like grim death, and by the dexterous use of an oar he finally knocked the buck out and brought him in.

PROGRESS OF THE MURRAY CANAL.

Those who have not paid a personal visit to the canal, says the Belleville Ontario, cannot form anything like a correct idea of what has been done there during the past year. The earth from the bed of the canal line is piled up mountains high in some places, and at several points there is now from five to seven feet of water in the canal basin. During the summer about 400 men were employed part of the time, and ninety span of horses were kept an work drawing the earth away. The channel is now pretty well cut through from the bay to Presqu'Isle, but of course a large amount of work still remains to be done; in fact the canal will not be ready to receive a vessel for at least two years yet.

FUNCTIONS OF COMMON SCHOOLS

The New York Times says that to teach Latin and Greek in public schools is a misuse of the public funds. The few persons whose children need instruction in those languages should pay for it from their own private pockets. It is equally true that shoemaking, bookbinding, woodcarving or typesetting cannot be taught in common schools without gross injustice to taxpayers who have no wish to train their children for those trades. The education of the common schools must be general, not special.

DOES POULTRY PAY?

If proper care is taken of poultry there is no doubt that it pays. We cannot expect to make any business profitable unless we give it our attention. A great many people feed their poultry regularly but neglect to give them drink, and then say that it does not pay to keep poultry.

The best drink for hens is sour milk, and if possible it should always be kept by them. Scraps of meat, fish skin, etc., are excellent food. Do not feed on clear corn or meal, but vary their food as much as possible. In the summer feed once a day, but in the winter give them a second feed just before they go on the roost. Always give just what they will eat up clean. Hens fed in this way will lay all winter, if they are of the right breed.

A GROOM OF 80 AND A BRIDE OF 70.

Mr. Jacob Hess, aged 80, of Cannonsville, and Mrs. Smith aged 70, living near Harvard, N.Y., were married a few evenings ago. The aged couple were very much excited on the afternoon of the marriage, fearing that the minister would not appear at the appointed time, 7:30 o'clock. The marriage is said to be a love match, and there are many romantic incidents connected with it.

School Board.

Adjustment of Insurance.

Mr. James Saulter, inspector of the Citizens' Insurance Company, having been in town, was employed to adjust the insurance interests arising out of the recent fire on Water street. Mr. Frank Birdsall receives $2,852 on the carriage factory buildings, they having been insured in the North British and Mercantile, and Phœnix Insurance Companies for $3,500. Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger were insured for $3,000 in the Fire Insurance Association, and receive according to the adjustment $2,680. Mrs. R. E. Birdsall gets the full insurance of $200, in the Royal Insurance Company, on Kennedy's stables.

Cricket.

Last Friday a Campbellford eleven played a match game with the home eleven, and some fine cricket was the result. Owing to the lapse of time, the visitors having to catch the train, the match was a draw, in favor of Peterborough. In the first innings the home team piled up the tidy total of 107—of which W. A. Stratton contributed 12 and T. Rutherford 44, the only double figures. Campbellford's first innings resulted in a score of 101, also a creditable total, with double figures to Tait, 18, and Farrar, 36. In the second innings Peterborough's last wicket fell for 77, of which the double figures were, Cooper, 12, Giroux (M.) 37. This left the visitors with 84 to make to win, but time was up and play was over.

Matrimonial.

In the usual place will be found a notice of the marriage of Mr. Bolton of Chathem to Miss Annie Stavely, an employee in THE EXAMINER composing room for over two years. Out of respect to the fair bride, her late fellow employees presented her with a handsome silver cake basket and cruet, and they have to acknowledge the receipt of a liberal allowance of bridal cake. We offer our warmest congratulations. If Mrs. Bolton makes as good, faithful and invaluable a wife as she did an employee of this office, and no doubt she will, her husband has secured a treasure.

On the same day Mr. M. J. Sullivan and Miss Kate Tierney were matrimonially united at the Cathedral by his Lordship Bishop Jamot. Miss Mary Dunn was bridesmaid and Mr. M. Tierney best man. The bride received a host of handsome presents, and his employees presented Mr. Sullivan with a splendid silver cake basket. We extend our best wishes for happiness.

Funeral Sermon.

The regular monthly meeting of the Council of the above village was held on Monday evening. There were present the Reeve, John Burnham, Esq., M.P., and Councillors Calcutt, Mowry and Wand. A communication was read from Wm. Mills, Esq., J.P., asking to have a village engineer appointed in accordance with the Municipal Act. A by-law appointing Mr. R. B. Rogers., C.E., to the position was passed. After the amending of a by-law so as to convict females as well as males of indecent exposure, and the ordering of payment of the following accounts the Council adjourned;—A. Comstock, $8.50; P. Clancey, 75c.; J. Erskine, $1.82 C. Young, $1.95; roadoverseer, work done on roads, $180.66.

Presbytery of Peterborough.

Rev Wm. Bennet, Clerk of the Presbytery, kindly furnishes the following resume of the proceedings:—The Presbytery met on Sept. 25th, in St. Paul's church, twenty ministers and thirteen elders present. The Rev. C. H. Cooke was chosen Moderator for the next six months. Mr. Tully, of Mitchell, being present, was invited to sit as a corresponding member. Very interesting reports were received from delegates who had been appointed to visit the mission fields within the bounds of the Presbytery. Those were all handed to the Home Mission Committee for consideration. The report of the Committee appointed at the last meeting to visit Ballyduff, showed that provision had been made for removing all the liabilities due by that station. Liberty was given to moderate in a call at Cartwright and Ballyduff as soon as promises made by the latter had been fulfilled. A number of session records were examined and ordered to be attested. The claim of Mr. Meikle for services in the mission field was ordered to be paid. On motion of Mr. Carmichael, of Norwood, a committee was appointed to consider the best means of bringing the subject of "augmentation of ministers' stipends before the notice of all our congregations." Very satisfactory and full reports were given by the committees appointed to hold Presbyterial meetings in all the congregations. The reports showed that every pastoral charge, with only two exceptions, had been visited, and that much good would be likely to ensue. The Home Mission report was read by Mr. Cameron, and its recommendations were adopted. The next meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in Port Hope on the third Tuesday in January, 1884, at 10 o'clock a.m., in the Mill-street Church.

Lights o' London.

This spectacular melo-drama will be presented in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday evenings next, for particulars of which see advertisement in another column. The Montreal Herald in noticing the Company's appearance in Montreal, says:—"The opening performance of the above melodrama drew out a very large and fashionable audience. The play had been well advertised, and the public had been led to expect a very fine entertainment, and was not disappointed. The scenery and effects far excelled anything we expected. The play opens at Armytage Hall, with a scene showing the hall, lodge and grounds, which is very fine. The audience becomes deeply interested in the first scene, and the play is wrought with the deepest interest throughout. The company is good, and in some instances remarkably strong. No better character was ever seen in this city than that of Seth Preene, a North country man. It seemed as near perfect as it is possible to make a character. Joe and Mrs. Jarvis, of Jarvis Temple of the Legitimate, were simply immense, and kept the audience in a constant roar of laughter whenever they appeared. Harold, Clifford Armytage, Bess Marks and Hetty Preene were all excellent, acting with spirit, force and remarkable good taste. The company is very evenly balanced throughout, and without the beautiful scenery, would give a more satisfactory entertainment than has yet appeared here this season. The scene of the Bridge, Regent Park, by moonlight was very beautiful, far exceeding anything ever before attempted here, and the acting of the little child as Jim, the waif, with the policeman, was a phenomenal bit of work that is seldom seen. Altogether, the Lights o' London is worthy the patronage and attention of all lovers of art and amusement, and we advise those who did not witness the performance last evening to attend to-night, and they will never regret it."

A Good Word in Season.

The superior advantage city manufacturers have over places of smaller size is manifold, because of the many visitors brought in by cheap excursions. Besides, there is in the former an ever-floating population who never see the place again, all buying more or less for their wants, under the impression of getting good bargains. But is such really the case? I am often told that South Sea seal sacques can be bought at $125 to $150, and naturally so; but give them an order for the best Alaska seal and what would be the price then? There are seals very different in quality, but I will only mention two kinds, the Copper Island and the Alaska seal, differing as much in price and quality as day and night in the matter of light. Then there is again a difference between small sized skins and large ones, the latter being by far the most valuable. The same holds good for all other kinds of fur. Seeing in the Toronto papers a notice of an intention of supplying the police force with Persian Lamb caps at the price of $7.25, I myself could make them for $7.00 if an order for as many as Toronto would require would be given; so much for competition. With such chances offering as cities have, I could sell for less money to faces I might perhaps never see again, but which under present circumstances, I should not attempt to do, as that custom which has been built up carefully, and has been the result of my efforts for the past twenty-three years, would fast disappear. There are many, and they are the majority, that do not understand the value of furs, who judge only by the little extra stitching of a silk lining, which, if it were made of good farmer's satin, would outwear the inferior fur outside. Having opened, and having now ready for inspection a stock of selected furs, made up during the past seven months, which would surprise any city manufacturer, I invite public inspection. Parties intending to remove to the North-West will save from 25 to 30 per cent. by purchasing here. W. LECH.

OBITUARY.

The Late James McWilliams.

We are deeply grieved to have to record the death of Mr. James McWilliams, the jailor of this county, who died at his residence, in the Court House, on Monday morning, Oct. 1st, at 3 o'clock. The deceased gentleman was sixty years of age, having been born in the County Cavan, Ireland, on May 12th, 1823. He has been a resident of this county for over fifty years, having settled in Asphodel (on the present site of Norwood.) The deceased entered early into the service of his country. When he was fourteen years of age the Rebellion broke out, and he loyally shouldered his musket and served three years. In 1856 Mr. McWilliams removed to town, to enter upon the duties of deputy sheriff of the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria. He was an ardent Reformer, and took an active interest in Liberal politics for 30 years before his death. He was one of the oldest Orangemen in the district, the warrant of Norwood Lodge No. 34, dated 1847, being still in his name. He was District Master for a number of years, and was one of the first Orangemen to take a stand on the Liberal side. He was appointed jailor of this county in 1867, and has faithfully and efficiently discharged the duties of the office till about a month ago, when his illness first attacked him. Deceased was twice married; the first time to Miss Sarah Ann Bannon, of Dummer, who bore him five children, one son and four daughters. His first wife died on Sept. 20th, 1852. His second marriage was to Miss Mary Long, and two girls were born of this union. All his children are living, except his eldest daughter, who died twelve years ago. During his last illness deceased received the most unremitting attention from his family and neighbours, and the attendance of seven physicians, one of them being Dr. Oldwright, of Toronto. The funeral took place on Tuesday, and the large attendance testified to the high respect in which the late Mr. McWilliams was held.

New Printing Company.

The Conservatives of Peterborough for some sufficient reason have decided to place the management of the Review in the hands of a joint stock company. The Canada Gazette contains notice of application for the incorporation of "The Peterborough Review Printing and Publishing Company (Limited)." The Company is to consist of John Carnegie, printer and publisher, Edward John Toker, printer and publisher, John Hilliard Carnegie, gentleman, George Hilliard, lumber manufacturer, and Robt. Archibald Morrow, gentleman, all of the town of Peterborough. Messrs. Carnegie, Toker and J. H. Carnegie are to be first provisional directors of the company.

Real Estate Revolution.

Otonabee township has been visited by a sort of real estate earthquake. The following shows what changes have recently been made in the township of Otonabee farms. The gentlemen concerned evidently believe in changing farms as well as seed grain.

The Peter Robertson farm has been sold by tender to Mr. Thomas Taylor of Otonabee for $6,575.

Mr. W. Evans of Otonabee, has purchased Esson the estate farm for $9,500—about 200 acres.

Mr. Matthew Breakenridge has purchased the east half of Mr. Evan's farm, Otonabee, for $4,500.

Richard Elmhurst has bought the west half of the same farm for $3,100.

Mr. A. Shearer Otonabee has bought the Brodie farm, Harvey.

Mr. Robert Borland has bought Mr. A. Turner's farm, Otonabee, for $5,000.

Mr. A. Turner has purchased Mr. Andrew Armstrong's farm for $4,000.

Can any county show a livelier specimen of rotation of farms?

From Mr. O'Connor, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, stating that there were eighty-two pupils at present, of whom, owing to the fees, very few were from the country, and suggesting preparatory classes, which could be organized without extra expense.

From Geo. Tighe, caretaker of Central School buildings, asking increase of salary.

From H. Kay Coleman, Headmaster Public Schools, presenting report of attendance for September:

	No. on Roll.	Av. Att.
Central School	579	501
South Ward	230	183
West Ward	175	140
Total	984	824

From H. Kay Coleman, suggesting printed forms for monthly reports, and for reports of attendance to parents. Suggestion, on motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. McClelland, adopted, and the Principal of the High School was requested to adopt the same system.

From Miss Preston, tendering her resignation as teacher in the Central School, to take effect the first of November.

From the Education Department, stating that the intermediate examinations had been regularly conducted and that the examiners were entitled to their fees. —Received.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Dumble, chairman, read the report of the Committee on Appointments, which recounted that the committee had considered the matter of supplying a teacher to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of Thos. Braden. Acording to the custom, which has always prevailed, the Chairman of the Board procured Miss Fair to take charge of the room until the Committee on Appointments had considered the matter. The committee afterwards, after much deliberation, approved of the selection and now begged to recommend that, subject to the approval of the Board, Miss Fair be engaged to take charge of Mr. Thomas Braden's department, at the salary lately paid to Mr. Braden ($500), and that Miss McLeod be appointed to Miss Fair's department in the South Ward School at a salary of $280 a year.

On motion to adopt the report an almost endless discussion arose, which took on numerous ramifications; and even a synopsis of many of the remarks made would not affect beneficially educational interests concerned. The matters introduced were not always relevant to the motion before the Board. The portion of the discussion relevant to the motion, chiefly arose from the action of the committee being sharply criticised by several members, but their means of arriving at the recommendation of their report, was the point chiefly complained of. Nobody found a word of fault with the selection of teacher made, in respect of qualification or fitness for the position, and indeed warm praise was elicited on these points, but it was urged that there had been a disregard of a more obviously equitable mode of promotion in making the appointment, and a preference for a male teacher was expressed. Finally

Mr. Rutherford moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. McClelland, that the report be not adopted, but that in the interest of parents and pupils, a male teacher be selected, and that the secretary be authorized to advertise for a male teacher in the Mail and Globe.

The amendment was lost on the following division:

YEAS.—Messrs. McClelland, Rutherford, Weir, Denne, Sproule and Kendry —6.

NAYS.—Messrs. Cox, Wrighton, Robinson, Sawers, Stratton, Dumble and Stevenson—7.

The original motion was carried by a similar division, the yeas and nays reversed, and Mr. Sproule voting yea.

HIGH SCHOOL OPTIONAL SUBJECTS.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Dumble, that, as it has been customary heretofore for pupils to attend certain classes in the high school without the formality of passing the entrance examinations, be it resolved that persons wishing to take certain classes be allowed to do so in future, on payment of the regular fees, so long as the rooms and classes are not crowded; such pupils not to be included by the teachers in their returns to the Government.

MR. O'CONNOR'S COMMUNICATION.

On this being brought up, Mr. Dumble asked Mr. O'Connor for explanations regarding certain clauses of it, and this gave rise to a deluge of questions respecting high school matters, and Mr. Coleman, head master of the public schools, was also drawn into range of the fire of interrogatorries. Although a long time was consumed, and the proceedings were to a certain extent informal, a large amount of valuable information was elicited, regarding both schools, which will greatly assist members of the Board in their future deliberations.

CARETAKER.

On motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Sawers, the sum of $50 was granted to Mr. Geo. Tighe for extra services during the past year.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.

Moved by Mr. Cox, seconded by Mr. McClelland, that this Board accepts the resignation of Miss Preston, but with great regret, as during the long period of Miss Preston's connection with this Board, the relationship has always been of the happiest and most pleasing character. The Board has much pleasure in testifying to the ability and faithfulness of Miss Preston's services; they recognize her as an able and useful teacher, and accept her resignation with much reluctance.—Carried.

FILLING THE VACANCY.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Sawers, that the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Preston be filled by promotion of teachers from below, and appointment of Miss Keele to the vacancy thus caused.

Mr. Cox moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Stratton, that the matter be left to the committee on appointments.

The amendment was adopted.

TEACHERS' QUALIFICATIONS.

Mr. Denne moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the Inspector be requested to give in writing the names of all teachers who have not the necessary qualifications, at the next meeting of het Board.

Mr. Stratton moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Cox, that the inspector be requested to report to the Board at its next meeting the grade of certificate held by each teacher in the public schools.

The amendment was carried and the Board adjourned.

OBITUARY.

The Late William Eastland.

The beautiful simile of the Blind Bard—

Like leaves on trees the race of man is found,
Now green in youth, now withering on the ground,—

has a pathetic significance; at the present season the sere and yellow autumn leaves are dropping swiftly to earth, while our old citizens are drifting into another world. The latest loss the community has sustained is in the death of Mr. William Eastland, an old and highly respected resident, whose death may be regarded as the removal of a well-known social landmark from our midst. His death, which took place on Thursday evening last, was comparatively sudden. During the day he had been making preparations for a camping tour in the back country, such as he annually delighted in. About six o'clock, not feeling well, he lay down, and with a strange premonition of the great change, informed his wife that he would soon die. And death did come in about an hour afterward. Mr. Eastland was of English birth, and was sixty-eight years of age. He has been a resident of Peterborough for over 50 years, having come to this country in 1831. The deceased was in business for years, and retired about a dozen years ago. He held a commission as Justice of the Peace, and was honored with several municipal offices. Mr. Eastland was a faithful member of the Church, and was the oldest member of the congregation of St. John's, was Churchwarden for many years, and was an humble, earnest and devoted Christian gentleman. The funeral took place from St. John's last Saturday. On Sunday evening the musical services of St. John's had special reference to Mr. Eastland's death. There was a full choir, and Mr. Ewing, organist, rendered in his peculiarly excellent manner, during the offertory, Chopin's Funeral March, and at the conclusion of the service the Dead March in Saul,—the latter so effectively, that many of the congregation remained in their seats to listen to to the sublimely solemn strains. In the beautiful closing hymn, beginning, "Days and moments swiftly flying,", Mr. Alex. Elliott very creditably sustained the basso solo.

BENSFORT METHODIST CHURCH.

A Fine New Church in Course of Erection at Bensfort—Laying the Corner Stone—Well and Truly Laid—A Sumptuous Tea—Addresses and Fine Music—An Interesting Ceremony Successfully Accomplished.

On Tuesday afternoon last the corner stone of a new Methodist Church at Bensfort, South Monaghan, was laid with all the honors. The ceremony was to have been performed by Mr. Geo. A. Cox, but, in his unavoidable absence, caused by business engagements, Mr. E. W. Cox, his son, efficiently acted as his proxy. There was a very large attendance of people to witness the ceremony, the ladies especially having been largely represented. Before the ceremony, tea—a most sumptuous and elegant repast, provided by the ladies of the congregation—was served in the venerable old church, which has been used as a place of worship for years. After the tea the ceremony of was proceeded with in the usual orthodox manner, Mr. E. W. Cox performing the ceremony with an ease and grace worthy of a more experienced adept at the business. As a memento of the occasion a handsome silver trowel, furnished by China Hall, was presented to Mr. Cox. The trowel bore this inscription:

LAYING THE CORNER STONE

"Presented by the Building Committee of the Bensfort Methodist Church to Geo. A. Cox, Esq., on the occasion of his laying the corner stone, Oct. 8th, 1883."

Mr. Cox pronounced the corner stone well and truly laid and, to confirm his declaration, weighted it down with a one hundred dollar bill. The usual assistance was given by the architect, Mr. J. E. Belcher, the indefatigable chairman of the building committe, Mr. Wm. Emberson, Mr. Dawson, secretary, and others.

After the ceremony was concluded the assemblage retired to the old church, when Mr. Emberson took the chair and mode a short address, during which he stated that this was the 37th church with the building of which Mr. J. E. Belcher, the architect, had been professionally connected, and called on that gentleman for a few remarks, during which Mr. Belcher asserted that the present was the fourth or fifth Methodist church at which he had assisted Mr. Cox in laying the corner stone, and on each occasion Mr. Cox added to the interest of the ceremony by a handsome donation. He was followed by Mr. E. W. Cox, who made his maiden speech most successfully. Rev. Mr. Johnson, the pastor of the church, introduced a former pastor, Rev. Thos. Manning, of Peterborough, who delivered one of his characteristically eloquent addresses. The excellent music, furnished for the occasion by the Fraserville choir, is worthy of especial commendation.

THE CHURCH

is to be of brick, 60x35 feet in area, built in Gothic style, with a choir arch at the rear end and an elevated gallery for the choir, over the pulpit platform. The roof will be of open timber work, of an elegant design, stained and varnished. The windows will be glazed with stained glass, and the seatings will be roomy and provided with cast iron bench ends. Underneath the rear of the church will be a furnace for heating purposes. Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., Peterborough, is the architect, and Mr. J. W. Alford, of Peterborough, the contractor. The church, when completed, will be a most elegant and substantial structure, costing $2,600. Of this sum $1,600 has been secured, leaving only $1,000 to be provided for.

Remember, at R. Stenson & Son's is the only place you can buy Rock Island Hand-made Boots and Shoes, the best in the market for fall weather.

Belleghem's Furniture Business.

There are few establishments in Peterborough that have made more rapid strides of improvement than Belleghem's furniture business, and there are few premises that are more creditable to the town than Mr. Belleghem's in their improved and enlarged condition. This spring he found his business expanding so rapidly that he was compelled to enlarge his premises and increase his manufacturing facilities. Among the latter is the putting in of a 30 horse-power boiler and new engine, the old one being too small for the requirements of the business. Now he has a splended building, the three floors of which contain, together, 9,000 square feet of space, all devoted exclusively to the furniture and undertaking business. These improvements have necessarily demanded a good deal of attention and orders have not been filled as promptly as it is the motto of the establishment to have them done. But the way is clear now, and everything is ready for a big boom of business, and in the future all orders can be promptly and well attended to. Mr. Belleghem is now receiving, as fast as the Midland Railway can deliver it, the largest stock of furniture of all kinds ever brought into Peterborough. It is of every description, hall, parlour, dining-room and bed-room, and is of the best character, and will be sold at moderate prices. The chance for display afforded by the enlarged establishment is unequalled in town, and the chance of selection by customers is one that has not before been presented here. The handling of carpets has been added to the business. Carpets of all kinds and qualities are on hand at the lowest living prices. Carpet making and laying a specialty. A fine department has been fitted up in the undertaking line, and a superb stock of caskets and funereal appointments, including shrouds, gloves, scarfs, &c., awaits the inspection of customers. In fine D. Belleghem's establishment is complete in every respect, and there are few furniture warerooms in Ontario that present greater attractions, either in beauty of appearance, extent of stock, or reasonableness of prices. Customers will recognize Mr. Belleghem's warerooms by remembering that they are opposite Sullivan's Hotel on Hunter street, and that the front of the shop with it plate glass windows, and beautifully ornamented pillars, is the finest on Hunter, or perhaps, any other street.

FALL OPENINGS.

Where Hats, Bonnets, and Mantles Abound.

Within the past few days the terror of the pockets of paterfamilias and marital purveyors, to wit, millinery openings, have been formally, and in Peterborough this year, brilliantly accomplished. The inventive resources of fashion's artists are without limit; with all the beautiful styles, forms, materials, colors, etc., that have been so richly provided in the past, every recurring season brings something new, original and enchanting, and this season has been no exception. Last Tuesday and Wednesday four of our local millinery and mantle establishments held their openings.

The colors that call for popular admiration are the bronze, olive green, terra cotta and acier gray. The prevailing shape of hat is large, while the bonnets continue small. There is nothing starting in standard shapes, but jockey and Pekin are new hat shapes, that will look charming and nobby over young, pretty and piquant faces. For trimmings, ribbon-velvet, birds and wings, pompons and rosettes will be in demand; plush and velvet combined with satin crowns, will largely compose the bodies of hats and bonnets.

MISS DELANEY'S ESTABLISHMENT

was found to be worthy of the crowds that visited it on opening days, in fact the genial proprietress asserts that almost every day recently has been an "opening day." Here will be found an excellent stock of all the newest shapes in hats and bonnets, with suitable trimmings:—feathers, flowers, birds, etc., etc. Miss Delaney's stock of plumes and feathers is superb in quality and variety, and very extensive. She shows the bewitching jockey hat, in brown satin, and the Pekin, also in satin—in shape, a modified Tam O'Shanter, and the Spanish turban, and the most charming array of the "sweet little bonnets" that are destined to put the crowning touch to beauty's outfit this season. Miss Delaney makes a specialty of mantles and dolmans, of which she has an immense stock. Her stock also comprises short tweed jackets, coachman jackets fur lined circulars, etc., etc. Her stock will be found extensive, varied and select. Making a specialty of millinery and mantles, it is apparent that Miss Delaney can compete, under most favorable circumstances, for the patronage of the public.

MR. J. C. TURNBULL

has made the most complete arrangements for the fall and winter trade. His shop is packed in every quarter with a fine stock of new goods, which were highly appreciated by the crowds of customers and visitors that found their way to his establishment on Tuesday and Wednesday last. His stock includes a a full line of boys' underclothing, the most recent and stylish shades of all wool dress goods, ladies' hosiery, housekeeping requisites, such as table linens, towellings, etc., etc.

His millinery show rooms this year maintain the high reputation that past seasons have won for them. The millinery department is in charge of Miss Irons, whose reputation for good taste, neatness and style in the making up of millinery goods is a proverb. The stock on hand is large and fine, every requisite in this line being completely fulfilled, and the lady who could not be suited here would be hopelessly critical and exacting. Mr. Turnbull devotes especial attention to mantles of every variety, and has unusual facilities for the manufacture of goods in this line. He also shows a fine stock of fur-lined circulars, exceedingly cheap. All the latest and richest mantle materials on hand, all the newest trimmings, and a perfect fit guaranteed. In fine, Mr. Turnbull presents his long array of customers with greater attractions than ever before.

MR. JAMES ALEXANDER

is, with good reason, proud of the success that marked his opening days last week. His fall and winter stock is extensive, varied and well selected. While his general stock of dress goods is elaborately complete, his mantle department challenges special attention. His stock of fur lined circulars is very large, and the prices compared with those of last season, are temptingly low. A fine stock of mantle materials, with the newest trimmings to match, and a first-class cutter and fitter, with a capable staff of assistants, invites the patronage of the the public. In the millinery department will be found an unusually attractive display of hats and bonnets. The tasteful and beautiful adornments of the room, composed of artistically disposed displays of materials and trimmings, are very taking. Miss Winter, who has charge of this department, shows a large number of beautiful hats and bonnets in the most fashionable shapes, shades and trimmings, and the milliner's art is so skilfully carried out, and the unlimited supply of material so elaborately wrought, that the most fastidious must be able to to make a satisfactory selection. No description—nothing but a personal inspection—can give an idea of the beauty or variety of the hats and bonnets comprising the stock of this department. The public will be made cordially welcome.

MESSRS. HALL, INNES & CO.

This old, established and reliable firm of dry goods merchants is so well known, and years of honest and honorable dealing with the public, has made so enviable a reputation for them that perhaps the mere announcement that their show rooms are now open for the inspection of the public, might be sufficient. Their fall importations have resulted in a stock that has never been surpassed for variety or excellence. Their millinery show rooms are exceedingly attractive—containing all the latest novelties in English, French and American pattern hats and bonnets, suitable both for early fall and also for winter wear. A splendid stock of mantles is also a leading feature. In mantles, dolmans and ulsters there is everything new, fashionable and elegant. The general stock of goods is complete in all the departments of household, dress goods, lace curtains and lamberquins and carpets; while the tailoring department is especially complete, and such a variety and excellence of cloths is presented that the full capacity of the department, with as large a staff of operatives as can be accomodated, is severely taxed.

PETEBBOROUGH, OCT. 11, 1883.

Anitralian Annexation.

A despatch has been forwarded by Lord Derby to the Australian Government stating that Britain deprecates the proposed annexation of the Pacific Islands to the Australian colonies. The noble Lord cites the case of the Samoan Islands, where the German, British and American consuls exercise their influence jointly or separately, and says Great Britain and Germany have made treaties with Samoa, which is looked upon as an independent state, and therefore its annexation to Australia might lead to a violation of international law.

This decision on a most difficult subject is, we believe, eminently just, although it will not prove acceptable to the Australian Government. There is no statesman, and scarcely a reasonable Englishman, who is desirous of extending the boundaries of the British Empire at the present moment. Mr. Forster said recently that the responsibilities of the Government of Britain are getting beyond the power of any country to undertake. Only fate and destiny compel British statesmen to go on adding to the dominions of our beloved Sovereign. Part of the west coast of Africa has been added in this way, the rule over Basutoland has been resumed, Egypt is practically under British sway, and something must be done in New Guinea. The principles which should guide our statesmen in the matter of the extension of the Empire, should be thoroughly understood. Wherever our enterprising countrymen carry their trade and commerce, the Government should at least secure for them the maintenance of law and order. They need both protection and restraint. If they settle among savage tribes and go to countries where there is neither law nor justice, Britain is bound to establish both, so far as lies in her power. But no country should be seized merely because it lies adjacent to a British colony. Neither should the possibility of some other government laying claim to ownership be considered a sufficient excuse for our appropriation of stray islands.

This, however, to some extent, seems to be the plan now adopted by the Australian Government in their recent proposals. They are not content with annexing New Guinea, on which are settled many colonists and which lies adjacent to Australia. They desire also the annexation of the Western Pacific Islands, and it is to this claim Lord Derby sent the above reply. They are anxious to secure not only the islands known as the New Hebrides, but also all those specks of land which dot the ocean from Fiji to Australia. This wide claim is made by the Governments of three colonies, viz: New South Wales, Victoria and Queensland. Their claims are based on the necessity of repressing crime and maintaining order in the islands of the South Pacific. Owing to the spread of commerce, and probably the lust of white men, constant collisions are taking place there between the natives and traders from Australia. The British in those regions have no authority whatever over the natives. Outrages made against them by unscrupulous traders are only met by reprisals, and these in turn cannot be suppressed except by the presence of a British man of war. Such an unsatisfactory state of affairs certainly calls loudly for a remedy.

Then the colonies of Australia dread the foreign occupation of these islands, very naturally. This feeling is not merely jealousy of other nations intruding themselves in fruitful islands and reaping benefits through trade and commerce. No doubt they apprehend positive injury from their occupation. Indeed it is asserted that the French, ever on the look-out for pastures new, propose to employ many of the South Pacific islands for the reception of debased criminals. Nor does France propose to look after these dangerous customers when landed on the islands. They merely desire to leave them there to get rid of them, so that they can ply their old trades, or endeavour to reach other shores for the practice of their nefarious habits, if this is within their power. No wonder, then, that Australia, tired long since of so undesirable a class of emigrants, is both indignant and alarmed at such a prospect.

It might be better to form some kind of federation of these countries, or to appoint an International Commission to exercise authority in the South Pacific. Simple annexation would scarcely settle the evils complained of, and, as we have shown, the feeling of Britain in any case, is against a further extension of the Empire. But no doubt some plan will be proposed which will relieve Australia of its well-grounded fears and establish law and order in these regions. It does seem singular that a Government so averse to growth and extension has the annexation of wide dominions thus again and again forced upon it. It is only another proof of the wide supremacy of British sway, and of the fact that her superior civilization is attracting to her and consolidating together the most powerful races on the earth in a manner hitherto utterly unknown in history.

Editorial Notes.

Reports from Montreal state that cotton mill owners contemplate a stoppage of 20 per cent. of their looms next month. This one step will be the means of throwing one out of every five hands now employed out of work—another wholesome lesson to those who imagined that the N. P. was intended for the benefit of the workingman.

In its frenzied anxiety to have "Mowat go" the Mail has never stuck at anything it thought might assist the going. Its latest and most barefaced falsehood is the statement that the Mowat Government intended to give out the Government printing without calling for tenders, when its own advertising columns contained an advertisement calling for tenders for Government printing. The Mail's unsupported statement cannot be received.

The Tory Government in Quebec is hastening to its fall. Its extravagance has plunged the Province so deeply in debt, and it is generally so corrupt and incomplete that its own friends are turning from it. Mr. Mousseau, who was made Premier by Sir John to save the tottering concern, narrowly escaped defeat in Jacques Cartier the other day. He was elected by a majority of 100 against a majority of 364 a few months ago, and such shameless bribery was needed to secure even this diminished majority that Mr. Mousseau is likely to be a second time unseated through the medium of an election petition.

The freight rate on coal, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, from Port Arthur to Winnipeg is $5.10, which is thirty-five cents more than the price of coal f.o.b. at Charlotte, the most convenient lake port to the Pennsylvania mines. This shows how anxious the Government were for the interests of the Winnipeggers when they sanctioned a monopoly that makes them pay $12.25 a ton for coal The Syndicate improve their monopoly. The whole road from Port Arthur to Winnipeg was presented free of cost to the Syndicate, and the latter had nothing to do but to go on making money at fair instead of extortionate freight rates. But the Government, by vetoing the Winnipeg and Duluth railway, prevented competition and confined the power of the Syndicate to exercise a grinding monopoly. Under proper conditions the Thunder Bay branch would be a great benefit to the people of Winnipeg. As it is, under the unscrupulous greed of the Company, it is a commercial curse.

Discussing the boundary question in the current number of the Bystander, Prof. Goldwin Smith puts the case clearly thus: Governments are bound by acts of their predecessors even though their predecessors may have been of the opposite party. So careful a lawyer as the late Chief Justice Harrison ought to have been able to construct the language of the instrument under which he was appointed. To his fitness and competence, or to those of the other arbitrators, Sir Francis Hincks and Sir Edward Thornton, no reasonable objection can be taken. Sir Francis and Sir Edward are not lawyers; but if none but lawyers could form a judgment on geographical and historical evidence our geographies and histories would be in a bad way. Practically, we feel sure that the award would have been accepted and that the necessary measures, whatever they might be, would have been readily taken to cure any technical flaw in it, and to give it effect if party had not intervened. Quebec rules at Ottawa, and Quebec regards with jealousy any extension of Ontario. * * * * Justice Ontario must have, and she must support her Government in their legal proceedings till she obtains it.

TOWN COUNCIL.

SPECIAL MEETING.

The Collector's Bonds—A By-law Appointing Collector of 1883—Mr. Wm. Cummings Appointed—His Bonds $25,000.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Thursday evening, Oct. 4th. Present,—Acting Mayor Menzies, in the chair, and Messrs. Cahill, McNaughton, Kelly, Sawers, Yelland, Douglass, Denne and Rutherford.

On a motion being put to dispense with the reading of the minutes, Mr. Sawers objected.

The motion was carried providing that when the special business for which the meeting had been called was transacted, the Council adjourn to meet at the call of the Mayor.

The Mayor said the meeting was called to consider the surrender of the Collector's bonds.

Mr. Sawers said he had an important communication from the Ontario Government to read, and communications being the order, he claimed as good a right to read the communication as the Clerk.

Mr. Menzies explained that Mr. Cummings, Collector, had asked him (Mr. Menzies) to give up his bonds, but he had no power to do so without the consent of the Council. The Town Treasurer had given his certificate that the rolls had been properly returned.

Mr. Denne asked who had issued hand bills inviting the ratepayers to be present.

The Mayor—I don't know.

Mr. Sawers—It was not done at the town expense, was it?

The Mayor—Certainly not.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Denne, that the bonds of 1882, held by this Council from Mr. Cummings and his sureties, be returned to him at once.

Mr. Sawers moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, in amendment, that the bonds be not given up till the Council examine the Collector's accounts, as to their correctness, in accordance with the Municipal Act.

Mr. Sawers asserted that these accounts had not been certified as correct by the auditors, in fact, the Collector's name was not mentioned in their report. He then branched off to the question of his communication with the Ontario Government. He asserted that he had letters from the Government, dated Sept. 7th and 21st, which stated that no returns had been received of the Auditors' certificate as to the correctness of the Treasurer's accounts.

Mr. Cahill said he would vote for the resolution now, it being so near to the end of the year and it being necessary for the Collector to get to work. He would not have voted for the resolution in the absence of the Treasurer's certificate of the roll being properly returned. He did not think there was anything wrong with the Collector's accounts, or those of the Treasurer. If Mr. Sawers knew of anything being wrong he should make some specific charge. It was not fair to the Treasurer to make vague insinuations.

Mr. McNaughton inquired if a by-law was to be passed to-night appointing a Collector.

On being told there was, he withdrew his seconding to Mr. Sawer's amendment, and the original motion was then adopted: Mr. Sawers calling for the yeas and nays, they were taken, Mr. Sawers alone voting nay.

COLLECTOR OF TAXES FOR 1883.

A by-law was introduced and duly passed, appointing Mr. Cummings Collector for 1883, at a salary of $400 per year, defining his duties and requiring him to give $25,000 sureties, himself in $5,000 and two sureties of $10,000 each, the bonds to be approved of by the Mayor and Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Mr. Sawers rose to his feet and said he had a matter to bring before the Council, whereupon Messrs. Rutherford, Denne and Douglass, assuming that the special business for which the Council had met, had been transacted, withdrew.

Mr. Sawers then said he had something to say concerning the charges he had made against certain members of the Council at a former meeting, and he was surprised that the gentleman who had retired, did not stay and face the music.

Mr. Davidson said he was not afraid of investigation, and insisted on Mr. Sawers making a specific charge against him.

Mr. Sawers said the charge against Mr. Davidson was that the firm of which he was a member had supplied nails for walks to the corporation, and that the bills therefor had been paid by the Treasurer without proper authority, and he asserted that he was prepared to prove the charges before the County Judge.

Mr. Davidson said the books and papers were on hand, and the charge could be proved or disproved in the presence of the considerable number of ratepayers present.

Mr. Sawers then read a motion adopted by the Council in February last, which required that the Street Inspector's pay list be referred to the Street Committee for approval, for which purpose the latter shall meet every two weeks, and if a quorum be not present, then the men to be paid, and the pay-sheets referred to the committee at their first meeting.

Mr. Sawers read law applying to the matter, but in the midst of an informal discussion relating to the mode of bills being paid, the Mayor interrupted and said the meeting had been called to consider special business, and as that had been done, he would leave the chair. He proceeded to do so, when Counciller McNaughton moved that the Council adjourn till next Monday night; the Mayor returned to the chair, put the motion, declared it carried, and the Council adjourned.

MEREDITH A LA "GRIP"

The humiliating position Mr. Meredith occupies, is well shown in a cartoon by that humorous sheet, Grip. John Shields, mounted on a barrel of frozen whiskey, is driving a ricketty old cart to Algoma, having as a passenger John A., sitting on a trunk of money. Mr. Meredith is dragged in the mud at the tailboard of the cart, and as he can't see what is going on in the wagon, he exclaims. "Of course, I am not supposed to know anything about it." A fine figure, indeed, for a man who aspires to be Premier of the Province.

Well your Liver must be invigorated. Your food must digest properly. Now save a doctor's bill with a bottle of ZO-PE-SA. You will be surprised with a few doses. ZOPESA is a positive cure for these troubles, because it acts upon the Stomach and Liver and through the Liver the system and Bowels must be regulated. Ask for a sample. 41-4t

EAST RIDING SHOW.

Number of Exhibits not up to Former Years—The First Day Devoted to Arrangements and Judging in the Hall—The Second Day a Successful One—Excellent Exhibit of Horses, Cattle etc—The Norwood Brass Band.

The nineteenth annual exhibition of the East Riding Agricultural Society was held at the village of Warsaw on Tuesday and Wednesday, 2nd and 3rd of October. The torrents of rain which fell on Tuesday morning, the opening day of the show, dampened even the ardor of the energetic committee, who were fearful of the consequences; but towards ten o'clock the sky became broken and the sun, brilliantly shining, dispersed the clouds and restored the weather which marks a Canadian autumn day.

The first day was devoted chiefly to receiving, arranging and judging the exhibits in the hall, where the display of fancy work, fruit, grain, roots, etc., was exhibited.

In fine arts, the ladies of the riding are close competitors, and many fine samples of their handiwork adorned the space set apart for them. The entries in this department, as well as in roots and dairy produce, were not up to former years. Grain was fairly exhibited. The judges were busy all afternoon in the hall, and in the evening it was opened to the public, the attendance being fair.

Mr. J. W. Millar, representing the Singer Manufacturing Co'y, exhibited an elegantly furnished family sewing machine.

Mr. Lumsden exhibited a very nice organ, and Mr. Doughty several stoves

ON THE GROUNDS.

The outside part of the show, which took place on the farm of Mr. S. Coyne west of the village, was decidedly better than the hall display, and was nearly equal to former years.

The show of horses and cattle was exceptionally good and numerous.

The display of sheep and hogs was somewhat meagre, yet the samples were good, Mr. J. W. Millar, of Otonabee, being the principal exhibitor in sheep.

The weather on Wednesday, although cold was highly favorable, and the crowd on the grounds was very large, and the hall was was thronged towards the evening with all classes. The entries numbered this year about 800, against 1000 last year, and the gate and door receipts were $130.12 against $300. But the amount of entrance money taken was $50 more than when the exhibition was held at Warsaw.

The Norwood band was present on the second day and played a choice selection. Below we append the prize list, which will be found correct.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 11, 1883.

The "Review" and the Algoma Election.

Our local contemporary would do well to cut short its references to the late contest unless it can discuss matters in cooler blood. The success of Mr. Lyon should not have been sufficient to disturb its equanimity to such an extent, seeing that it means a determined effort to secure the awarded territory for Ontario, to which, in even the Review's opinion, it belongs. Had Mr. Lyon been defeated, those who are trying to keep us out of owp would have had their hands materially strengthened. Things are much better as they are, and our contemporary had better admit the truth.

One of the Review's troubles is that on account of the late date of the election a petition against Mr. Lyon's return cannot how be tried till after next session of Parliament. As it happens, the same thing would have occurred even if the election had been brought on sooner, for it could not have taken precedence of petitions filed after the general election, and some of these will have to be tried after the session, owing to the amount of work thrown on the judges of the Superior Courts. If the Review would bring its great influence to bear on the Dominion Government to secure the appointment of an incumbent to the fifth appeal judgeship, provided for by Mr. Mowat's legislation, election and other cases might be more speedily disposed of than they are at present.

We have already dealt with the Review's charges about the appointment of a returning officer, and the selection of polling places. Port Arthur having been selected as the most convenient headquarters of the election, and properly so, Sheriff Clark of Thunder Bay was appointed returning officer. In order to discharge the duties devolving upon him a good deal of travelling was a necessity, and this, for some physical reasons, Dr. Clark was unwilling to face. When he resigned, the Government, as they had a perfect right under the law to do, passed over the registrar at Port Arthur and chose a far superior man for the position. The result proves the wisdom of the choice, for the returning officer's deputies have shown themselves to be men of such integrity that all efforts on the part of the Norquay emissaries to bribe them were failures, and they proved themselves to be adepts at checking bogus votes wherever such a procedure was possible under the statute. The Review should rejoice at the success of a well digested plan which has resulted in allowing the voice of the legitimate electors of Algoma to be heard, though Mr. Lyon's majority is not so large as it ought to have been.

The Review lays great stress on the fact that no regular poll was held in the Rainy River district, and more than insinuates that the failure of the messengers to reach Fort Francis with the ballots and ballot-boxes was the result of collusion. Now what are the facts. A steamer makes periodical trips across Lake of the Woods from Rat Portage to Rainy River. The messengers with the ballots arrived at Rat Portage from Port Arthur before the usual time of the vessel's departure, and found that she had been gone for some time. As no other steamer was likely to make the trip in time they started in a canoe, and when they reached the open exposure of the lake, some 18 miles across, they found the wind so high that it was impossible for a canoe to live in the sea. There is nothing surprising in this, seeing that the same wind delayed on the other side of the lake expanse, a tug-load of Tory voters, who had been collected for the purpose of getting their votes polled at one of the Rainy River polling places. Surely where a tug-load of Tories were afraid to peuture their precious lives, two messengers might be excused if, having only a birch bark canoe, they determined to wait for calmer water. In spite of the storm, however, the ballots would have arrived at their destination in time but for the pig-headedness of Attorney-General Miller of Manitoba, who by the combined use of his influence and authority kept a vessel from leaving Rat Portage in time to carry the messengers to Fort Frances. Mr. Miller's fear was that the vessel would carry scrutineers enough to prevent the running in of the Norquay bogus votes, and be succeeded in preventing any votes of any kind from being regularly polled. This will not affect the election, however, for according to the most trustworthy accounts the actual majority polled for Plummer at Fort Frances was only 17, and it is known that at least half of the voters in the district are supporters of Mr. Lyon. The Election Act provides that "no election shall be delared invalid by reason of a failure to hold a poll" if it appears to the Election Court that the election was conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in this Act, and that such failure did not affect the result of the election.

The Latest Insult to Ontario.

Sir John Maadonald has always cared more for power than for the people, and he is by no means scrupulous as to the means employed to secure the one or infringe upon the rights of the other. He has for years persistently and offensively shown his hostility to Ontario. Of all the injuries and insults heaped by "the statesman" upon this Province, the last is perhaps the most outrageous. If the people of Ontario were so regardless of law and order as to require soldiers to make them behave on an election day, surely it would have been humilating enough to have been overawed by our own soldiers, but extra sting added to the insult by importing volunteers from another Province, and that Province, too, hostile to this one, and asserting a claim to a portion of its territory, makes the outrage superlatively insulting. By sending the Winnipeg detachment of volunteers to Rat Portage on election day, Sir John has committed an outrage upon Ontario, and injured the fair reputation of this country by introducing into a peaceful Province the worst features of the old world military despotisms. He has practically informed the world that the country where batteries and soldiers are required to maintain order on so peaceful an occasion as an election, is not a safe or desirable one in which to seek a home. But when Sir John has a purpose, no matter how unworthy, to serve, he is the last man to be restrained by considerations involving the good name or prosperity of the country or by respect for the rights of its citizens. He could not have been in ignorance of the fact that the presence of a military force on the occasion was utterly uncalled for. Hon. Mr. Hardy, Provincial Secretary protested against the outrage in no uncertain terms, and his words in so doing are worthy of reproduction. He, at least, acting for the Government, appreciated the depth of the insult, and bestirred himself to save the good name of Ontario for law-observance and order from the opprobium that has been placed upon it. In a letter to Col. Kennedy, the officer commanding the Winnipeg field battery, dated Sept. 25th, amongst other things, he says:

"I respectfully call your attention to the fact that the territory into which it is proposed to send this armed force is claimed by the Government of Ontario as belonging to that Province, and in any case forms part of what is known as the "disputed territory" and to the further fact that your responsibilities in this connection may by reason thereof be greatly increased.

The Winnipeg Times newspaper, in this evening's edition, intimates that the force is being sent out in connection with the election in progress in the District of Algoma for the Legislature of Ontario. I desire to protest in behalf of the Government and people of Ontario against the unseemly and high-handed course contemplated in sending the 'Field Battery' of Winnipeg, organized and resident in the Province of Manitoba, into Ontario, another Province of the Dominion, in connection with an election to the Legislature of the latter Province, and in which the citizens of Manitoba can have no interest."

Sir John, or his apologists, may assert that Norquay is alone responsible for the presence of Manitoba troops at Rat Portage on election day. But even the notorious credulity of "the marines" cannot swallow so improbable a statement. Norquay has long been the servile and pliant tool of Sir John; no one would credit him with brains enough to concoct so diabolical a plan for pleasing the Quebec Bleus by bringing Ontario into discredit. Moreover, Norquay would not dare to take a step involving such an outrage on constitutional rights, on his own responsibility. Sir John had the power to compass or prevent the outrage, and he must be and is held, as Norquay's adviser and political guardian, responsible for it.

One of the Tory plans for electing a Copperhead in Algoma was to have a lot of ballots marked and deposited by Winnipeg roughs who were ready to swear that they were voters. The deputy returning officer, it is alleged, refused to give the men ballots, knowing them to be unqualified. The Tory organs say that he exceeded his powers; that he should have accepted the vote when the applicant was willing to take the oath, and the question of qualification could be settled later by the courts. They threaten an appeal to the law on this point. All right, says the Hamilton Times, bring on your law. It will be edifying to see the great Tory party convicting itself of bringing a Winnipeg bummer out to Rat Portage on a special train, for the purpose of having him commit perjury.

Editorial Notes.

Mr. Mousseau's election for Jacques Cartier is to be appealed against. The most flagrant cases of bribery and corruption by Conservatives are reported.

It is asserted that a protest will be entered against the return of Mr. Lyon for Algoma. We wonder whether the seat will be claimed for Plummer or Shields.

The petition against Sir John Macdonald's return for Lennox in the House of Commons, began on Wednesday at Napanee, before Judge Armour. The particulars contain 129 charges of corrupt practice.

The Tory Hamilton Spectator considers it disloyal for Mr. Hardy, an Ontario Minister, to own land in Dakota. "Is it also disloyal," asks the Times, "for Mr. Chapleau, a Dominion Minister, to own land in California?" Yet a few months before he sold the North Shore Railway, Mr. Chapleau declared that all he was worth was his debts.

Hon. John Carling, Postmaster-General of the Dominion, is a most hard-worked official. It appears that he has neglected his beer business long enough to send a despatch to Mr. Dawson, Algoma, promising Rat Portage a money order office immediately—this was, of course, before the election. Who can say now that Mr. Carling does not attend to the interests of the—Tory party?

The revenue returns for the quarter ending Sept. 30th show, that while the expenditure has been increasing the revenue is falling. Compared with the first quarter of 1882-83, the figures for the quarter just ended show an increase of $449,978 in expenditure and a decline of $797, 683 in revenue. At this rate it is easy to calculate how soon Sir L. Tilley's surplus will be absorbed in unnecessary expenditures.

Partizan returning officers are not the only outgrowth of Tory ingenuity. London has produced a genuine partizan assessor. At the the London East court of revision the town assessor acted as Tory petitioner for putting on Tory voters and striking off Reform ones. The Tories may have as many tricks as the fox of the fable, but they will eventually find that the one trick of honesty will serve their opponents better at some future time of need.

There is every reason to believe from the latest information that had the official messenger with the ballots and the ballot-box been able to reach the Rainy River district in time, the majority of Mr. Lyon would have been considerably increased. Mr. Norquay's Attorney-General evidently took this view of the situation, or he would not have used his influence to prevent the sailing of a vessel which would have carried the messengers to their destination in good time.

For the nine months ended, Sept. 30th, the failures in Canada were 1,075, representing $19,385,840 as compared with 523 failures, representing $8,892,385 for the corresponding period of 1882—an increase of almost 100 per cent. This is a bad showing and is mainly due to the incompetence, carelessness, recklessness and extravagance of the present Government. Moreover, such a state of affairs is in direct opposition to what was promised in 1878, by taxation advocates. But this is not the first instance of broken N. P. promises, and unfortunately will not be the last. The "white elephant" is rapidly developing.

The cotton monopolists have at last come to an agreement—which is that 30 per cent. of the machinery is to be stopped, which of course means that one-third of the workmen will be discharged. This shows that one of the false doctrines of the N. P., namely, that pretection benefits the employer and the employed, is a bogus one. It always benefits the former, the monopolist; but the poor workingman is made to suffer. The outlook for the cotton trade in Canada is a dark one, but the manufacturers are looking to themselves, and the poor embloyee may starve or beg, for all the cotton lords care.

The civil service employees at Ottawa are quite indignant that they should be called on to pay municipal taxes. There is no earthly reason why they should not do so. They derive all the advantages of civic protection and privileges. They get better salaries than they earn. They have short hours, and their labor consists chiefly of sucking the head of an attenuated cane, and looking down in contempt on hard working artizans who pay their taxes without grumbling. The laws of Ontario require that even dogs—mere puppies—shall pay taxes, therefore it is absurd for average civil service employees to claim exemption.

The Tory journals profess to be astounded at the alleged unfair means employed by Reformers to secure Mr. Lyon's return for Algoma. Their whole souls went out in favor of a pure election. That must be the reason that the brigade headed by Shields, Wilkison Kirwan, Madill, Fauquier, and others of their stripe were sent to Algoma. The Tories would have us believe that this delectable gang went up on purpose to secure a pure election. Out upon such midsummer madness! We all know that they were sent to Algoma to elect Plummer, the Tory candidate, by the most iniquitous means that depraved political diablerie could suggest. Their game was anticipated, watched, defeated, and that is where the shoe pinches. Tory journals mouthing hyprocritical homilies on the purity of the franchise, in the face of the history of the party, is a thousand times worse than Satan rebuking sin.

"Father Wylie"—the father of Canadian journalism—has sold the Brockville Recorder, which he established over sixty years ago, to Mr. Bell, formerly of the Picton Times. It has always been a firmly and unflinchingly Reform journal; in the valedictory words of Col. Wylie, one that "has ever given its support in favour of measures for the people. At a time when oppression and persecution were the rewards of battling for the right, it stood in the foremost ranks of the press of Upper Canada, performing its duty, and contending for civil and religious liberty, and it is a matter of pride that the principles then opposed have been granted to the people, and that they now possess privileges the fighting for which sent men to the scaffold and exile." Col. Wylie retires from the editorial chair of the Recorder full of years and honor, and it would be a graceful act if the journalists of Canada, to whom Col. Wylie has been for a number of years a sort of mentor, would recognize his journalistic services in some more or less permanent and substantial manner.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DEPARTMENT

And they may be assured the enterprise shall have that attention which it deserves at my hands. My Show Rooms were opened on the 2nd and 3rd instant, and were visited (without any exaggeration) by the largest assemblage of Ladies I have ever seen, and I am satisfied that not one went out without testifying to the s being the very best assortment of Trimmed Millinery, Ribbons, Satins, Silks, &c., &c., ever shown by me, and the Mantle Department, without exception, was complete in every particular, consisting of Fur Lined Satin Capes, Astrachan Jackets, Ottoman Cloth Jackets, Brocade Cloth Jackets, Plain Cloth Jackets, and Tweed Ulsters.

GRAND DISPLAY

DRESS GOODS!

As in former years, Dress Goods form a leading feature, and it is only necessary to state that my present assortment excels anything previously shown by me. I do not boast of possessing the largest and best assorted stock in the trade, but I can confidently say that my stock will be found selected with the view to meet the requirements of the trade generally. Amongst the most desirable lines I am showing for the Fall, are Foule Cloths, Ottoman Cords, Brocades, Plaids, Serges, Union and All Wool Cashmeres, in Black and Assorted Colours!

TRIMMINGS.

This Department contains everything new in GIMPS, VELVETS, SATINS, SILKS, &c., &c.

I would call particular attention to my PLAIN and TWILLED WINCEYS, from 5c. per yd. up.

THE OTONABEE MISSIONS.

Interesting Sketch of their Progress.

The services at the various stations in this district continue to be held at the regular intervals by the Rev. E. C. Wilson.

It was thought advisable, about a month ago, to discontinue the Sunday afternoon service at Allandale; as it was found that the congregation could assemble more conveniently in the evening. Alternate Sunday evening services are now held at Keene and Allandale.

The service at St. Mark's is also now held alternately; one Sunday at 10.30 a.m., and the next Sunday at 3.30 p.m. The St. Mark's Sunday School has been better attended of late, though it is contended that a greater number of scholars than should attend than at present. Arrangements have been made to hold the Festival

HARVEST FESTIVAL

St. Mark's on the 11th instant; the Rev. J. Farncomb, of Lakefield, having promised to preach the sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson wishes to take this opportunity of thanking those ladies who so kindly interest themselves as teachers in St. Mark's Sunday School. Thanks are also due to Miss Graystock for presiding at the organ, and to Mrs. Fowler, who so kindly performed the duties for a considerable period, during the organist's absence.

The service at Keene has been fairly well attended; and Miss Gallon deserves a hearty thanks of all the congregation for her kindness in leading the singing, which has much improved of late.

At Allandale there is the largest attendance of any station in the mission. It has been calculated that, on two recent occasions, as many as one hundred and thirty persons were present in the hall. There is a nice instrument at Allandale, but unfortunately no organist. The people certainly showed great energy in raising funds for an organ; but, it would have been better if some provision had been made to secure an organist. Mr. J. Dinsdale has worked very energetically in connection with the services at Allandale, and the Rev. Mr. Wilson wishes to acknowledge the great kindness he has always received from him and his family. At Douro a fortnightly service has been held at 3 o'clock. It has been thought desirable to establish a Sunday School at the station, and it has been decided to hold the school from 2.30 to 3.30 p.m., and then for the service to follow. The Rev. Mr. Wilson wishes to thank Miss Dinn and Mr. Porter for having so kindly led the singing at Douro; and he also wishes to state that he considers the contributions of the various districts have responded their confidence to him quite as readily as he expected.

LITERARY NOTES.

Dio Lewis's Monthly

October is the best of its three numbers. Our Rich Men, by Dio Lewis, ought to help many persons who fancy that happiness and money are synonymous. Our Young Women, by Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, is a brave discussion of an enormous but fashionable evil. Idol-Worship in India, by Amrita Lal Roy, will set many Christians to thinking: evidently we have not understood idol-worship. Hawaiwich Island Sketches, by Dr. C. L. Mitchell, is the first of a series of instructive and interesting sketches of the little kingdom. Crossing the Mediterranean, by Anna Ballard, will recall some of the most remarkable scenery of the world to those who have made the same trip. The Shakers, by Dio Lewis, will give new ideas to those who have not studied that singular people. Weight of the Human Brain, by Dio Lewis, will deeply interest all who keep up with modern thought in this important field. A true story of Lake George, by Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake, is one of the best of this charming writer's stories. A True Ghost Story, by a Boston Lawyer, is capital, and gives one a vivid notion of the high sense of honor and duty among college men. Open the Cage Door, Treatment of Prisoners, and Treatment of the Insane, all by Dio Lewis, will be read with interest by the philanthropic. House-Drainage, by Col. Waring, of Newport, is a thoughtful paper by an eminent expert. A Fine Complexion, is by a well-known lady writer, who knows what she is talking about. Our Brains and Nerves, by Dio Lewis, is in his happiest vein. The Check-Rein, by Hon. Geo. T. Angell. The Hygienic Department is full of variety and interest. Beer, is by one of our best writers upon this class of subjects. Diphtheria, by Dio Lewis, is a clear discussion of the causes, prevention and treatment of this dreaded malady. About Nursing, by Dr. Lewis, is commended to young women. The Fashions (illustrated), Aunt Bonnybell, will be read with eager interest by the ladies, and it will make them think, too. Our Cooking School, by Miss Julia Colman, grows better and better. Stray Thoughts, will interest and amuse.

The Art Interchange

for September 27th has as one of its supplements an outline study in color of a beautiful female head, by Sir Frederick Leighton. This charming sketch is worth framing. There is also another supplement, full working size, of a handsome embroidery pattern with darned background. Two excellent designs for plaques are given; one shows a beautiful girl in a Rubens costume, the other an equally attractive girl in a Vandyck costume. These two pictures can be used to advantage on plaques or panels, or ladies can gather from them hints for fancy dress costumes. Good examples of Persian and Turkish embroideries, illustrate a well written article on these styles of needlework. In the Notes and Queries Department are given replies to a number and variety of questions. Among other answers, are some relating to Claude Lorraine glasses, draperies for parlour windows, colored glass for church windows, suggestion for table cover, wall and ceiling coverings, scheme of colour for painting donkey's head in oils, mixing of colors for complexion, and mottoes for book-case curtains. An entertaining article on "The Nuremberg Museum" is illustrated with drawings of curiosities to be found at the Museum. The book and art news departments of the paper are full and interesting. The Art Interchange is a fortnightly paper published by William Whitlock, 140 Nassau street, New York, at $3.00 per year.

A Peterboroughonian's Enterprise.

The Lindsay Post says that Mr. J. J. Lundy, of Peterborough, the owner of the brick block on William street, was in town on Monday making arrangements with Mr. George Ingle (Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald, is however, the party employed by Mr. Lundy) for the rebuilding and alteration of the block from stores into dwellings. Some years ago a fire destroyed the rear of the block and it has been without tenants ever since. It is intended to replace the shop fronts with brick, and a mansard roof will be put on the building the whole length. This will add to the appearance. As houses are greatly in demand the improvement will pay, as it will place four or five neat dwellings at disposal.

WEATHER NOTES.

September with its cold, frost and rain has come to an end. Rain fell on 14 days to the depth of 3 1-100 part of an inch. We had only one thunder storm, on the 27th. There was frost on 9 mornings, the severest of which was on the morning of the 10th, being 8 degrees below the freezing point, which did a great deal of damage throughout the country to the late grain and vegetables, but more especially to the gardens adjacent to the towns and cities, which in one night had their summer growth swept away. Such a severe frost seldom occurs so early in the season. The highest temperature was at sundown on the 17th, the thermometer standing at 72, with a total average for the month of 51 22-100 degrees. Rain fell on 10 days in September of 1882 to the depth of 3 18-100 inches, but in one thunder storm alone, on the 21st, it fell nearly 1¼ inches of water, making the downfall for the month very light. We only had frost on three nights, leaving a mean temperature for the month of 55 degrees.

On the 3rd of October we had some dashes of rain, hail and snow mixed, being the first of the season.

On the 30th of September of 1883, a large amount of grain still remained in the fields, a considerable amount of which was to be cut. Potatoes are the only root crop yet to be harvested, and will only be about three-fourths of a crop. Other roots generally will yield a small crop.

THE PUMP FOR DEEP WELLS.

The following letter which we have received speaks for itself:—

To the editor of the EXAMINER:

Sir,—Would you kindly permit me through your columns to testify to the very satisfactory manner in which Mr. Henry Owens, the well known pump manufacturer of your town put in a pump for me in a well 80 feet deep. The pump is one of the new improved cone pumps specially fitted for deep wells, and from the satisfactory manner in which it works I have no hesitation in recommending this make to all in need of a pump for deep wells. For ease in work, its non-liability to getting out of order, and general utility I have never seen any pump to equal it. Those requiring one cannot do better than order from him.

Thanking you for inserting this,
I am yours truly,
CHARLES MILLS.

A CANADIAN JERSEY'S REMARKABLE RECORD.

TWENTY-SEVEN POUNDS OF BUTTER IN SEVEN DAYS.

During the first seven days of October the famous Jersey cow, Mary Ann, owned by Mr. Valancy E. Fuller, Hamilton, was tested in the matter of butter making by a committee of practical men. All the processes, from milking to the weighing of the butter, were done under their watchful eye, and the result, it is affirmed, has never been equalled. The net amount for the week was 26 lbs. 9 oz. of unsalted butter, and 27 lbs. 9¾ oz. of salted.

Sir John Macdonald has been attending the meetings of the Salvation Army in Kingston. It is fairly open to question whether the gallant knight's visit was prompted by curiosity or conscience. Politically regarded, Captain Abbie has a tough job on hand.

The Mormon leaders claim to have had another revelation from Heaven encouraging them to remain firm to the filthiness of the faith of polygamy. At a recent council held at Salt Lake they decided to adhere to their polygamous practices in spite of the United States authorities. Such a plague spot is a disgrace to any civilized country.

BORCAYGEON.

J. T. Robinson has commenced buying grain, and has already some thousand bushels of wheat ready for shipment. There appears to be a disposition to sell early this year. Some severe lessons have been learnt through holding over for higher prices and it is becoming understood that nine times out of ten it is best to sell as soon as the grain can be got ready for market.

The fire originated in the cellar. The barn and driving sheds belonging to J. R. Dundas, M.P., were totally destroyed destroyed by fire at 6 o'clock the same morning. It is supposed to have been incendiary. The loss is about $500; insured in the Western for $250.

The Central Fair, says the Warder, which was held here this week, fully keeps up the reputation of Victoria County farmers for getting up a good show. Fortunately the week was fine, and, as over 2,000 entries had been made people flocked by the thousand to see the exhibition. The display in live stock, etc., was very large and fine and more than did justice to the already enviable reputation this county has for fine stock, while the cereals and farm produce were more than equal to former years. The exhibit of agricultural implements, carriages, wagons, etc., were equally good.

NORWOOD.

The Norwood high school has an attendance of 35 scholars.

Last week Mr. Hugh Beckett threshed for Mr. J. C. Peat, of Asphodel, 600 bushels of spring wheat in ten hours.

A large black bear was killed on the farm of Mrs. Jas. Thompson, lot 17 in the 8th con. of Seymour, on Friday last. He measured 7½ feet from snout to tail.

It is our sad lot to announce, says the Register, the death of one of Norwood's most amiable and promising young maidens in the person of Miss Josie Reynolds, who passed away after a short illness on Friday, Sept. 28th, at the early age of sixteen years.

As Mr. Ira Cummings was driving on the Belmont road on Sunday last he saw a large black bear cross the Ontario and Quebec Railway track in the vicinity of Mr. R. Wigmore's. Bruin exhibited no sign of fright on the appearance of Mr. Cummings, but walked leisurely into a thicket on the other side of the road and disappeared. A farmer who resides in the vicinity of Round Lake reports having seen three very large bears in his corn field the other morning.

COBOURG.

On Tuesday night, some miscreant entered the residence of Mr. Alex. Fraser, near the Ontario Woollen Mills, and stole a quantity of plated ware.

On Sunday morning last, about 11 o'clock, the barn of Mr. Jas. Plews, in the Township of Haldimand, north east of Baltimore, was entirely destroyed by fire, with all its contents.

On Sunday morning, between three and four o'clock, fire was discovered in the barn of Mr. William McBride near Centreton; and in a short time the whole building, with most of its contents, was consumed.

The highest pole used by the telephone company in Canada was erected last week in front of the residence of Mr. James Woods, King street west. It is 68 feet high.

Mr. J. D. Hayden returned from Philadelphia on Tuesday evening last. He made the best batting average of the team of cricketers who visited that city from Canada.

James Caffrey was tried last Friday for the murder of Hugh McDowell in Cobourg on Sept. 13. Both lived in a tenement house on King street. No one saw the fatal stab inflicted. A verdict of manslaughter was returned, and the prisoner was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On the evening of last Sunday the review of the Sabbath school lessons took place in both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches. There was a good attendance at the Presbyterian church in the evening. The lessons were reviewed by the Rev. Mr. Andrews. The singing was also excellent.

The Presbyterian congregation contemplate building a new brick church next year. We wish them success in their undertaking, as the old church is out of repair and much too small for the present congregation.

We believe the services of the Keene brass band have been secured to play for the township exhibition to be held in Keene on Friday next. Under the leadership of Prof. Freeman they are making such rapid progress that even he (the Prof.) is surprised.

The brass band excursion from Keene to Hastings on Saturday week was a complete success. They charmed even the most fastidious. The Hastingsites were surprised at their ability and display of musical talent. We must remember the band has not been under practice a year. Come and hear them at the fair.

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

A Startling Discovery.

Physicians are often startled by remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and all Throat and Lung diseases is daily curing patients that they have given up to die, is startling them to realise their sense of duty, and examine into the merits of this wonderful discovery; resulting in hundreds of our best Physicians using it in their practice. VARENNES.

Stormed and Carried by Rogue Ballot Holders.

Through Work of the Machine—How Voters were Qualified—Election to be Protested—The Military Movement—Damaging the North-West.

(From a Winnipeg Correspondent.)

The result of the so-called election in Varennes is the return of Attorney-General Miller by a very large majority. But history often repeats itself in political contests. And even Muskoka must take a back seat after this as the banner riding for bribery and corruption. The first move of the Manitoba Government immediately after the nomination was to grant $1,000 of our impoveriahed revenue, ostensibly for public improvements in the village of Rat Portage, but it was sent to several party hacks to be used in the more congenial work of buying up votes. Then an office was opened in the city, and the secretary of the Conservative Association sent a private circular to the leading members of the party and and others, soliciting their aid in the election by canvassing "or otherwise," which in plain English meant money. But, as bank accounts are rather at a low ebb here now, it is presumed that the most of the "otherwise" came from Ottawa. There was plenty of it, however, and if it came from some unknown source there is not the least mystery as to the way it went. A vote factory was started with it in the Selkirk Club Chambers, which is the headquarters of the gentleman's party here. Social extremes meet in the Tory ranks, and high-toned officials and bar-room loafers fraternised on the most familiar terms for a few days. Voters for Miller were made to order, till the supply was greater than the demand. It is said that mining stock is a company of which Norquay is president, and worthless town lots in a muskeg near Whitemouth, were given away to qualify bogus voters, with cheap whiskey and a free ride to Lake of the Woods thrown in. The next question was to carry the crowd to the polling places at the expense of the country. The Manitoba Magistrates at Rat Portage were induced to petition the Government to send down the Winnipeg Field Battery, on the pretext of preventing serious disturbances on the day the election, and of course a special train had to be chartered for this purpose. One coach would have been sufficient to convey fifty young volunteers there, but four extra cars were attached to the train and filled with about 300 of Miller's newly made constituents, in charge of Norquay and John Wolf. To say they were drunk and disorderly would be putting it too mildly. I have seen crowds of hard cases in American frontier towns and elsewhere, but that was the most vulgar, vicious crowd I ever saw in all my life. They were sent down the night before the election, and when they arrived in Rat Portage the next morning it was a sight to gaze upon—to see the unique procession, headed by the Premier, marching to the polls, the military, headed by Col. Kennedy and another officer, following in the rear. Of course they carried the election by storm, but to call a victory, won by such means, a verdict of the people would be utterly absurd. Gillespie got a majority of the legal votes in the riding, but Miller's manufactured majority is over 300! "Vote early and often" was the motto of the Government mob, and some votes were repeated as often as Davy Crockett's coon skin. Miller's election will be protested at once. He will no doubt be unseated, if not personally disqualified.

DEFAMING THE NORTH-WEST.

The railway monopoly and unjust land regulations are serious hindrances to the prosperity of the North-West, but Norquay's insane act in sending the military to Rat Portage last week will retard the settlement of the country more that all other causes put together, as the American immigration agents will exaggerate it into an open rebellion. Their great object now is to disparage the Canadian North-West, and prevent people from coming here. It is well known that many of the best class of immigrants leave Europe on account of the military despotism there, and and they are not likely to come here when they are informed that soldiers are employed by the Government to carry elections. I heard one of the leading Conservatives in the city say the other day that it would do the country more harm than many bad seasons.

METHODIST GENERAL CONFERENCE.

The Christian Guardian says: "Somebody wants to know exactly what was done by the recent General Conference, and what is the shape in which things are left for future action. We will answer this enquiry as briefly as possible. The General Conference, composed of representatives of the uniting bodies, gave itself mainly to the work of preparing and adopting rules and regulations for the government of the future united church. Taking the discipline of the Methodist Church of Canada as a basis and guide in all matters not settled in the basis of union, the conference framed a discipline, and regulations for the future conduct of the publishing, missionary, educational and benevolent interests of the Church. But, as the discipline of no church provides for its dissolution, all of this work was regarded as provisional and tentative, till the doings of the Conference and the constitution of the united church are formally legalised by Act of Parliament. All existing Conferences will first meet and review their work for the year; after which the new Conferences, as arranged by the Committee on Boundaries, will meet and station the ministers. At present the united church is like a mill having all its machinery in order, but waiting for the turning on of the water or steam, to set it in motion. All the machinery of the church is in order, when the Parliamentary legislation goes into effect, all will be put in motion."

Yes, Sir.

One can't expect to succeed in business or in pleasure either, for that matter, unless one feels all right in health and spirits. This is the first consideration. Now, its a small matter when this remedy, ZO-PE-RA, is recommended so highly, even guaranteed to renew one's energy and spirits by invigorating the Liver and aiding Digestion, by clearing the Brain, opening the pores of the skin, regulating the Bowels and system, to go to the drug store and get a single bottle of Zopera as a trial. It is a duty every one owes to himself. Try a bottle then. 41-4t

The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUBEBBIN COMBINATOIN REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Mr. and Mrs. Beatty, of Cobourg, cele- brated their golden wedding on Saturday, The auspicious occasion was graced by the presence of an unusually large number of children of the venerable couple and other relatives, and the presents were numerous and appropriate.

STRENGTH is a valuable quality under any circumstances. The strongest are always the greatest whether in the king- dom of mind or muscle. Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment is one of the stongest remedies known, but when used externally, when the skin has not been broken, its effects in relieving pain are most grateful and soothing. For Rheum- atism, Lumbago, Neuralgia and the like it has no equal.

A desperate attempt was made by three convicts in Kingston penitentiary to escape on Saturday afternoon. It is be- lieved that had they not been frustrated, their design was to let loose the whole of the seven hundred prisoners in the institution. One of the men was concerned with three others in a successful attempt two years ago, but was afterwards re- captured.

The skill in combining a complicated medicinal preparation with the various ingredients so adjusted and harmonized as to secure toleration and assimilation by irritable stomachs, and the special ac- tion or form of energy of each separate agent, and at the same time an effect peculiar to the chemical manipulation of the compound, is acquired only by long and patient study of the properties and uses of medicine, and cannot be imparted from brain to brain any more than a jug- gler can endow an onlooker with the capa- city of keeping a number of balls in mo- tion in the air by showing him how it is done. This explains why WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, an outcome of experience, accomplishes the object contemplated, while the fraudulent imi- tations substituted by some druggists, dis- appoint the invalid.

RETURN OF THE "INNOCENTS" FROM ALGOMA.

HIRED SCRUTINEERS AND BRIBED CANVASSERS.

Toronto, October 3.—A dozen weary looking citizens arrived on the Northern last night, travel-stained and evidently much disgusted. They belonged to a battalion of Conservative politicians sent to Algoma to look after the voters. Some of them were scrutineers, others can- vassers, while among them were a few who had gone to Port Arthur to meet Shields who was supposed but Shields did not turn up and some of the party who had received an advance on their wages, spent the time pleasantly in fishing and shooting instead of work- ing for Plummer. Your correspondent interviewed one of them to day. He said that he and about a dozen others were hired two weeks ago, without wages being specified, to go to Algoma as scrutineers and canvassers, the engage- ment having been made with Alderman Blevins of this city through John Small, the member for West Toronto.

TO CARRY THE FUNDS,

A TEN DOLLAR BILL

was quietly slipped to those who were not "flush," and it was hinted that there would be more forthcoming at Port Arthur, where, indeed, some of them did receive a gift of money, though not as much as was expected, and this they at- tribute to the failure of Shields to arrive from Rat Portage. The "scrutineers" and "canvassers" are this afternoon on the trail of Mr. Small and Mr. Blevins, but have not yet succeeded in getting any more money from them. They feel

DISGUSTED AT THE RESULT of the election, and while pleading that Plummer was an unpopular man and ad- mitting that a good deal of money had been spent among the electors, they freely insinuate that some of the parties entrusted with the bribery money, had kept it in their pockets. They still en- tertain a faint hope that Plummer may be counted in.

Turnbull's Millinery Show Rooms ar now open. Call and inspect my display of Millinery and Ready-Made Mantles.

MAKING A MISTAKE.

The Toronto World a staunchly indep- endent journal, which, in the matter of assailing wrongdoing, hits wherever it sees a head, says:

The French Canadians, by opposing On- tario in the matter of the boundary are laying themselves open to criticism and perhaps the ill-will of a portion of the Ontario press. Hard things are begin- ning to be said of the Quebec people and especially of the bleus, and if things are not soon settled harder things will be said and much ill-will engendered. The French of Lower Canada, the Norquayi- tes of Manitoba and and the conservative of Ontario who have allied themselves with them to deprive this province of her rights, will yet regret the step they have taken. There is a limit to forbearance, and rant as the Mail will, nothing is more certain than that limit has nearly been reached. Even so astute a leader as Sir John Macdonald can put his foot in it— in sending the Winnipeg field battary to Rat Portage to interfere in an Ontario election, he made a grave mistake.

IRON MINING IN ONTARIO.

(Kingston Whig.)

A syndicate of capitalists is being form- ed in Cleveland for the purpose of develop- ing iron mines in Central Ontario. The amount to be invested is $1,500,000. The iron ranges to be opened are nine miles from Lake Ontario, with an area of of 60,000 acres, a part of which is in pos- session of Canadian and New York parties. The Central Ontario railway, now being built, will open a way to the market and be sustained by the new carrying trade. The railway will terminate at Weller's bay, Lake Ontario, where ore docks and pockets have been already contracted for. Ten mines have been located, and the out- put for the first year is estimated at 100,- 000 tons.

A WOMAN BREAKS HER NECK.

A terrible accident occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock on Friday at Mr. Turner's premises on the mountain, near Hamil- ton. Mrs. John Turner, better known as Mrs. Buckingham, was helping her hus- band to load up and draw in some oats. They had no wheeled conveyance handy and used an old sleigh. Mrs. Turner was standing upon the load and by some means slipped off head foremost to the ground. On examination it was discovered that the unfortunate woman had broken her neck by the fall. Mr. Turner sum- moned his neighbors, and the body was removed to the house and word was sent to relatives and friends residing in Hamil- ton and elsewhere. The Turners live at the top of the Jolley Cut.

SHIPMENT OF CANADIAN COAL.

(Winnipeg Times.)

A Medicine Hat despatch says the first shipment of coal from the North- western Mining and transportation com- pany, Woodworth's mine, was made west to Calgary, being the first instal- ment of a one thousand ton contract they have made for that place, and the first native coal ever shipped west by rail in the Northwest. The coal is all that could be desired, burning clearly, without bad odors from gases, and forming white ash and no clinkers. In about ten days Woodworth will be in a position to delievee five hundred tons per day.

THE OLDEST IN THE WORLD.

London Lancet.

At Auberive-en-Royans, a village in France, situated between Valence and Grenoble, may be seen an old woman living in a hut in a narrow street, who has reached the extraodinary age of 123 years. She has no infirmity, except slight deafness, being in full possession of her mental faculties.

According to her marriage certificate, she completed in January last her 100th year since her marriage. She was a 'can- tiniere' under the First Empire and had sons killed at the battles of Friedland and in Spain. She is supported entirely on the alms given her by visitors, who go from great distances to see her as an object of curiosity, and her neighbors help her to do her household work.

She lives almost exclusively on soup made with bread to which is added a little wine and sometimes brandy. Dr. Benne, who practises in the neighborhood, states that she is never ill. Her skin is like parchment but she is comparatively up- right and is of scrupulously clean habits.

Dear Sirs,—For over twenty years I have suffered greatly from Nasal Catarrh; sometimes being unable to smell or taste properly. The disease caused a severe pain over the eyes, and frequently stop- ped my writing on account of dizziness. The phlegm in my throat gave me much annoyance, especially in company, balls of which would occasionally fall down into my throat, and I could seldom breathe through my nose. I have taken quarts of various medicines without any apparent benefit, until I was induced, by your agent of 69 Muter street, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles I am prepared to give it as my honest opinion that for the cure of Catarrh it is a grand success. I have re- commended it to many of my friends, one of whom encloses his testimonial with mine.

Wishing you deserved success.
I am gratefully yours,

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edi- tion of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous De- bility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once sim- ple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sadly Sudden Death.

On Sunday evening last, Mr. Thomas Gemmill, Sheridan's Terrace, lost the wife of only a year by a sadly sudden death. Her illness, spasmodic asthma was only momentary, death claiming his victim before medical aid could reach the house.

Town Collector.

Mr. Wm. Cummings has been re-appointed collector of taxes for the town of Peterborough. He has in the past made an efficient officer, and it is plain that the money collected is amply protected by sureties, the collector's bonds and those of his sureties amounting to $25,000.

Real Estate Change.

Messrs. John and Joseph McGuire, of Harvey, have purchased from Mr. Joseph Brodie, his farm (in that township) of 100 acres, for $18 per acre. Mr. Brodie and his brother, who are the only members of the family left in Ontario, will join their father and brothers in Oregon, where they have for some time resided.

A Fortunate Selection.

The Monetary Times says: A fortunate selection has been made in the person of Mr. Geo. A. Cox, of Peterborough, to fill the vacancy on the board of the Western Assurance Company, caused by the death of Mr. Barnhart. The large experience that Mr. Cox has had in the insurance business renders him a valuable acquisition to the directorate.

Traffic Returns.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Oct. 4th, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $10,316.81; freight, $21,466.09; total, $31,782.90, as compared with $30,733.77 for the corresponding week of 1882, being a increase of $49.13; and the aggregate traffic to date is $798,977.48, being an increase of $22,442.90 over 1882.

Important Auction Sale.

We would direct the attention of our readers to the great credit sale of horses, cattle, sheep, lumber and shingles, advertised in our columns to-day. The sale takes place at Young's Point, on Wednesday next, Oct. 17th. More than 50 head of stock will then be sold, including two thoroughbred bulls and a number of milch cows. Further particulars supplied by the advertisement.

At the Lindsay Central.

Peterborough was well represented at the Lindsay Central Exhibition, by Mr. Wm. Forsyth, whose IXL fanning mill created so favorable an impression among the farmers that several were ordered on the spot from the agent, Mr. S. McIlwane—by Peter Hamilton, who made a fine display of his combination ploughs and straw cutters. The Ontario Canoe Company exhibited four of their excellent manufacture of canoes.

Smith, Ennismore and North Monaghan Show.

The annual exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore, and North Monaghan Agricultural Society was held in the Village of Lakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 9th and 10th of October, and was in every respect a decided success. The exhibit of ladies' work was splendid, and the hall was well filled with articles usually shown under cover. The cattle, horses, sheep and pigs were unusually fine, and altogether the Society is to be congratulated on the success of its show this year. Owing to our going to press early on Wednesday evening we are unable to give particulars and prize list this week.

Robbery.

A young man named Cardiff has had an experience that will tend to sour his milk of human kindness. On Tuesday night he shared his room at Darcy's hotel with two young men who were 'strapped.' When he woke in the morning he was in the same condition, his friends and sixty dollars of his hard-earned money having disappeared.

Haultain; Horticultural Society prizes ($2.50), Mr. Lech; $20, cash, St. Andrew's church; basket apples, Mrs. K.

Council Meeting.

There was no meeting of the Town Council last Monday night as expected, there being not a quorm of members present at the time the acting mayor was ready to take the chair. During the evening the following members put in an appearance, Acting Mayor Menzies, Messrs. Davidson, Hartley, Sawers, McNaughton, Yelland and Cahill, though these were not all present at one time. There was a good audience on the back benches, but they were defrauded out of their fun, for at eight o'clock they were informed that there would be no "performance," and a member of the Council jocularly intimated that "the money would be refunded at the door."

Appreciated.

A reverend gentleman in a neighboring town writes as follows: "I see by the tab' on my EXAMINER that it is time to renew my subscription for another year, and herewith enclose you $1.50 for that purpose. I look with pleasure for its weekly visit, and it keeps me pretty well posted in regard to my Peterborough friends." We are thankful for such kind words and the accompanying tangible evidence of their sincerity. There are many of our subscribers from whom we should like to hear in a similar manner; and if it is more convenient, they may omit the compliments so long as they remit the cash.

A Base and Baseless Insinuation.

In its issue of Thursday last, repeated in that of Friday, the "associate" editor of the Review, in the absence of his responsible partner, speaking of the proprietor of the EXAMINER, was guilty of a deliberate and contemptible insinuation which he dare not put in a more tangible form, and which had not even the flimsiest veil of truth to cover the utter nakedness of the falsehood conveyed. We have heretofore hinted that this insignificant, yet the very greatest and most illustrious specimen of a long line of s-Toker-s, had missed his calling, and we might say of him what a fond mother said of her precocious child: "Why he can make a lyre (liar) out of his head and have lots of soft wood left." He should never refer to the financial standing of any man. Were it not for the misplaced idiosyncracy of a stupid relative who, out of mere commiseration left him a legacy, we imagine ere this, the author of the alleged insinuation, together with his "sublime imaginings," would be gracing the recesses of some country poor house.

Football Match.

The pupils of St. Luke's school, Ashburnham, played a match on Saturday morning last against a town team, captained by Mr. F. Sherwood. Play commenced about 11 o'clock, and terminated at a quarter to one. The town team, however, proved too strong for the school; and after an exhibition of some very good play on both sides, the school had to succumb, with a loss of three goals. Lunch was afterwards provided in the grounds of St. Luke's school by the Rev. E. C. Wilson, to which twenty-six of the rising generation (including the players and their friends) sat down, and did ample justice. After amusing themselves for some time in the afternoon with football, and practising in the St. Luke's school gymnasium, the town boys took their departure, expressing themselves highly pleased with the game, and the entertainment generally. A return match has, we believe, been decided on, when we hope that St. Luke's school will have practised the Rugby rules of the game sufficiently to prevent their opponents again gaining so easy a victory.

Grand Trunk Crop Report.

From a most elaborate report compiled by the Grand Trunk authorities, respecting the condition of the crops in the country through which that railway, or lines runing in conection with it, passes, we clip the following in relation to the crops in Peteborough and vicinity. New Dry Goods Firm.

We always note with pleasure the advent of new commercial establishments in town, but it is an additional matter of gratification when the new arrival is a firm of the enterprise and business push of Messrs. Fair, VanEvery & Co., late of Port Hope. These gentlemen have purchased the extensive stock of Mr. T. Bradburn, Golden Lion, George street. Hereafter the Golden Lion, in a business sense, will roar, for the new firm intends making things brisk in the dry goods trade. They have bought the extensive stock of the late firm at a large discount for cash, and rare bargains will be offered in every department. Besides, the purchaser of the firm has just returned from the markets, where he has bought a full supply of the latest and most fashionable goods. The public are particularly invited to attend the grand introductory sale which the firm has begun, for the purpose of inaugurating their business career in Peterborough. Unheard of bargains will be secured at the Golden Lion.

A Peterborough correspondent, of the Toronto Sportsman, who has certainly one of the popularly presumed requisites for a lawyer, says there are 27 lacrosse clubs in Peterborough.

A camping party on Deer Lake, consisting of Messrs. Wm. and H. F. Brownscombe, Thos. Emerson and Arthur Tebb, added the killing of a 250 lb. bear to their sports.

A telephone has been placed in the fire hall. Now, when it is necessary to communicate with the water-works pump house in case of fire, it can be done at once and damaging delay prevented.

Out of sympathy with the failure of the fall wheat crop, the justice mill does not receive its average supply of victims. Police Court business is very light these days.

Mr. Cluxton, President of the Water Works Company, gives the Hose Company sensible advice when he suggests to them practice with hydrants—coupling and uncoupling hose.

On Saturday an Apsley aspirant for criminal fame, a boy, was committed to jail. He had been stealing cigars from Thos. Pratt, Apsley—and "that's what's the matter with (Joseph) Hannah."

Our New Watchmaker, Mr. Hughan, comes well recommended, and we are sure any work entrusted to him will be done in good style. Office lately occupied by Elias Burnham, Simcoe Street. 18-tf

The demands of his trade have forced Mr. Wm. English to enlarge his manufacturing space, and the lower story of the building on Charlotte street is being fitted up to make the necessary additional room.

Ex-Commodore Edwards, of the American Canoe Association, modestly suggests through the press, to the ladies of Peterborough, that some twenty flags are still required for prizes won at the Stony Lake regatta last August. A word to the fair should be sufficient.

There are at present nine persons confined in the county jail—eight males and one female. Of this number six are incarcerated as vagrants—that is, six persons are confined in felons' cells for no other crime than poverty. A house of refuge is the place for them.

RANGE AND RIFLE.

Bullet and Bullseye.

Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association—An Interesting and Successful Meeting—Good Shooting Done—The New Targets—The Prize Winners.

The County of Peterborough Rifle Association held its annual matches on Thursday and Friday last. The attendance was fair and the weather good, especially the first day, but the members have been so accustomed to shooting in high winds in former years that they were a little "set back" by the intense calm that prevailed during the last shooting. The firing was done very expeditiously, the revolving canvas targets, used for the first time, being enthusiastically endorsed by all the marksmen except two or three who, wedded to the old iron discs, missed the spanking spat that announced a hit under the iron regime.

The new targets admit of the marking being done with greater rapidity and less danger to the markers.

The prizes offered for competition this year were of exceptionally good quality and value. The most of them were purchased by the funds of the Association, the contributions of the general public not having been as abundant as in former years. The officers of the Association deserve credit for the successful arrangements made for the match, but the lion's share of the work naturally fell to the efficient Secretary, Major Bell, whose duties in this position require unremitting attention to little details, and a ceaseless vigilance, both of which were duly exercised.

The list of the prize winners and prizes is given below.

OTONABEE EXHIBITION.

The attendance at the Otonabee Agricultural Society's fall show on Friday last was large notwithstanding that it rained heavily during the forenoon. The number of entries was larger than in former years by about 60, with a considerable falling off inside and a nearly corresponding increase outside. This show has always been limited exclusively to the township. The most unusual feature inside for this year was the quantity of everything except the ladies' work—which was not as numerous as heretofore. The cattle, horses, sheep and swine exhibited were of superior quality.

J. M Mather had an exhibition a handsome open single buggy and a top buggy, also a very fine double carriage and waggon, the latter being finished in oil, showing the superior quality of the wood.

Messrs. Wright & Payton had several very fine pumps on exhibition.

Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., representative of the East Riding, was present during the day, chatting pleasantly with the intelligent yeomanry of the township.

The Keene band enlivened the proceedings with a choice selection of music under the leadership of their bandmaster—Mr. A. Freeman. The pressure on our columns this week precludes any detailed notice of the attractions, and we can do no more than give the prize list.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The directors of the Smith, Ennismore, Lakefield and Monaghan Agricultural Society meet in the Council Chamber tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The show lately held proved a great success, the entries exceeding that of any previous year. In some classes, grain for example, we are told the display was superior to the Central. We hope to see steps taken to secure a ground, the lack of which the society feels very much.

A PORT HOPE HOMICIDE

CONSTABLE RANKIN SHOOTS AN ESCAPED CONVICT DEAD.

About noon last Wednesday information was received at the police headquarters in Port Hope that McCabe, an escaped convict from the Kingston penitentiary, was lurking around town. Constable Rankin went to look for the man, but was unsuccessful. About eleven o'clock last night word was sent to Mr. Rankin that the man was at the Turner Hotel. He with an assistant then went to make the arrest, but as soon as McCabe saw the constables were on him, he bolted for the door and ran. Rankin followed him, and when about to lay hands on him McCabe turned and drew his revolver, and said if the constable came a step further he would shoot him dead, but Rankin was too sharp for him and shot first, killing the man instantly. The ball must have struck in a most vital part, for the burglar had not time to fire his revolver, which was found cocked in his hand, when he was picked up dead. There seems to be no question that if Rankin had not been quick in taking the first shot he would have been in the dead burglar's position. The constable immediately gave himself up, and is now in the lock-up awaiting the action of the coroner's Jury. Coroner Maxwell opened the inquest at 10 o'clock this morning, when the deceased was fully identified as the escaped burglar McCabe, an inquest was held and the jury brought in a verdict justifiabl homicide.

TELEPHONIC TALK.

The telephonic system connecting Peterborough with neighboring towns is now completed eastward as far as Cobourg, and to the west and north it includes Omemee, Lindsay, Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph and intermediate places, and to the south Millbrook and Port Hope. The central office in Peterborough is now ready for the transaction of telephonic business with these places. A new connecting switch board of fifty wires, of the most modern and approved style has been put in, as well as an auxiliary twenty wire switch board. But these will not long be sufficient, for with the connections with outside towns, the present number of subscribers in town—sixty-two—will receive rapid additions. The local rates to subscribers, that is, the fees for the privilege of chatting with our neighbors, are, to subscribers in Peterborough, 15 cents for the privilege of five minutes conversation with Millbrook, and 25 cents for the same boon with Lindsay or Port Hope. Those who are not subscribers may enjoy the same privileges for 25 and 50 cents resp

Agricultural Fairs.

The series of agricultural exhibitions in this county have been held, and, in general, they have been comparatively successful, so far as attendance and evidences of public interest go; but whether their effects in promoting agricultural and industrial interest, in realization of the objects for which they are ostensibly held, is another question. Speaking of success, the West Riding exhibition is perhaps the only one that conspicuously failed to come up to what it should be. It did not come up to even the expectations that the efforts of former years naturally aroused. It is not a matter of dispute that some of the minor exhibitions contested the palm with the west riding show with very creditable success, and, in some respects, the East Riding exhibition far exceeded it. But when it comes to be compared to the Central Exhibition recently held at Lindsay the contrast becomes painfully and humiliatingly distinct. The Lindsay exhibition was a signal success, and was, as an agricultural exposition, a great credit to the enterprise of Lindsay and Victoria county. Now if a town like Lindsay can successfully promote and manage to a successful issue an exhibition like that, what could be done in Peterborough, a town with nearly twice the population and a large area of magnificent agricultural country within the county? It is only a question of going to work in the proper manner, to successfully eclipse any county exhibition that can be held in this district. If the project were taken hold of by some live men and liberally dealt with there is no question of success. As it is, the agricultural exhibition of the West Riding is declining year after year, and if there is not new blood infused into it, it will die a lingering death, before very long too. To anyone attending the last show, the idea, of presenting the exhibit made as a fair representation of the stock-raising, agricultural, dairying and industrial interests of the West Riding of Peterborough, was palpably absurd. Something to awaken new interest must be done soon, to redeem the credit of the town and riding. If some public spirited gentleman should make the attempt we are sure their endeavors would be generally encouraged. The town and riding have the right men, if they could be induced to take action.

Notes of the Day.

Hon. Adam Crooks will sail for Canada on the 18th of this mouth. He is said to be in good health.

A statement of the foreign commerce of the United States for August, 1883, corrected to the 27th of September, shows an excess of exports over imports for the month of $3,984,843. The excess of exports over imports for the year ended on 31st August was $113,906,355.

It is announced that no fewer than twelve hundred applications had been received for the position of public executioner, vacant in consequence of Marwood's death, up to the 21st of September. They have been forwarded to the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex to investigate the claims of the aspirants for the office.

The trustees of the Brooklyn bridge have voted to allow themselves and wives free passes over the structure. Two have refused to accept. We forget at the moment whether the fare is one or two cents. Anyhow, it requires a great deal of backbone to refuse a pass for a couple of cents—and a great deal more to accept it.

The announcement comes from Minneapolis that the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway will soon be transferred to the Canadian Pacific. It is also stated on good authority that Mr. J. J. Hill, who controlled the Manitoba & Southwestern Railway, has transferred the whole of his stock to the Canada Pacific. The Syndicate, therefore, will control the only rival route across the border.

The Globe finds fault with the way in which the wealth annually taxed by the Dominion Government is being robbed, with the connivance of the Dominion Government, by the operations of Mr. Shields. This contractor took out and sold 800,000 railway ties at 40 cents each, $320,000. He also took out and sold 200,000 feet of timber at 50 cents per foot, $100,000; total, $420,000 stolen—actually stolen—from Ontario.

At a recent meeting of trades confraternity in France, a deputy said that there are 140,000 houses in France without a window. He said these figures were taken from official statistics. "In these houses," he went on to say, "which have no other flooring than the soil, which are without chimneys and without light, whole families live with the domestic animals for companions, and with the pig as a guest.

There is an interesting split in the Conservative party in Quebec. At present it applies to the Local Legislature, but it will undoubtedly exert a reflex influence in Dominion politics. The politics of Quebec are notoriously corrupt, and the struggle is, at bottom, one for the loaves and fishes. The result will probably depend upon which section can secure the influence of the priests, who seem to manage things pretty much as they please in the sister Province. They can make which ever end of the plank go up or down as they see fit to put their weight on one end of it or the other.—Ex.

The total expenditure of the Canadian Government for ordinary purposes during the year ending with June last, was $28,-805,229, against $23,506,158 for the year 1878. If we add to this the cost of the Dominion land surveys, and the sums in the Intercolonial Railway expenditure, which are now charged to capital account, the difference will be six millions in favor of the last year of Mr. Mackenzie's Government, and the incapables who now manage our affairs are the parties who complained of Mr. Mackenzie's extravagance, and who boasted of what they would be able to save were they entrusted with authority. The people accepted them at their own estimate. They put them in office and they see now that these men, like beggers on horseback, have taken to the broad way, and are doing their best to take the country with them.

HALL'S FLOURING MILLS.

More Complete than Ever.

New Improvements Added—The Mills Now Complete—As Good Mills and as Good Flour Made as any Mills or any Flour in Canada—The Perfection of the Flat Grinding System—Capacity, Fourteen Tons per Day.

The flouring mills of Mr. Richard Hall, situated on the banks of the Otonabee, just north of "Invelrea," have always been noted for the excellence of the flour produced by them, but former customers of the establishment will be more than pleased to know that improvements recently put in, have added to the excellence of an article that before was of prime quality. The new appliances added, though not numerous, supply the "missing link" necessary to the completeness of the machinery, and are such important essentials, that the mills now lack nothing to place them on a par with the best in Canada. They are now in thoroughly good order from top to bottom. The new machinery, intended to perfectly clean the wheat and remove every possible particle of foreign matter and every refuse of the berry possible of removal by any machinery, consists of a new smut machine, a new brush machine and an Eureka separator. These machines are of the latest make, and combine all the improvements that inventive genius has, so far, been able to contrive They were put in by Mr. Nathaniel Shaw, the veteran millwright, whose name connected with any work in his line, is an undoubted guarantee of its excellence. The added machinery produces a thoroughly clean, well-brushed and polished berry, one of the first requisites for the production of good flour.

The mill is a

FLAT GRINDING

process one, and though the mechanical appliances are of the best of its kind, a good deal of the credit of the A 1 flour produced, is due to the manipulation of the head miller, Mr. John King. He came direct from Devonshire, and has been five years in Mr. Hall's employ. He is an enthusiast on the subject of flat grinding, and claims that this process properly managed, as it is in these mills, produces flour equal to any made by any other system, both in quantity and quality. As a burr dresser he has few equals, and his management of the mill stones is such that, in Hall's mills, running from week to week, there is not the slightest sign of "sweating"—one of the chief objections made by its opponents to the flat grinding system. The flour produced by this mill has always enjoyed a good reputation, but, with the recent improvement, it is better than ever, and bakers who have tested it speak in high terms of praise of its excellence, and have shown the sincerity of their commendations, by increasing their orders. The mills are capable of turning out a ready market for which is found among local consumers, and what they do not want is shipped, chiefly to Montreal and the Maritime Provinces.

140 BARRELS PER DAY,

The public are so well acquainted with these mills that a detailed description of them is hardly necessary; besides, our space is so much encroached on by the fall fairs prize lists that we shall have to content ourselves with a general allusion to them.

The mills are five stories in height, and throughout have the best available machinery. There are five runs of stones. Of these, three are used for grinding wheat, one runs on middlings and the other is used for feed. There are two purifiers of the best make, and the auxiliary machinery, such as belt rocks, coolers flour packers, both merchant and retail, etc., are of the very best. The receiving weigh hoppers, two in number, are of 60 [illegible] draft each. The rest of the staff consists of Mr. John King, head-miller; Mr. Thos. Kemp, second-miller; Mr. John White, bookkeeper, weigh-master and general overseer; Mr. Michael O'Brien, delivering agent; and Mr. Isidore Maynard, general utility man. The cooper work required by the business is done on the premises. The dam has been extensively repaired this summer; everything, in fine, is in tip-top condition, and with their now thorough equipment of machinery and appliances, with a capable and careful staff of employees, with a past reputation for square dealing and first-class work, Hall's flouring mills have a new career of prosperity before them. Long may they flourish!

LORD LORNE'S SUCCESSOR.

THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND PARTY SAIL FOR CANADA.

Lord Lansdowne, the Marquis of Lorne's successor in the Governor-Generalship of Canada, with Lady Lansdowne and Lord Charles and Lady Evelyn Fitzmaurice, with suite, embarked on board the Circassian, of the Allan Line, at Movile Friday afternoon. They were accompanied to the vessel by the Duke and Duchess of Abercorn, Lord Claud Hamilton, and a distinguished party of visitors. A lunch was served on board the vessel and partaken of by the company, after which Lord and Lady Lansdowne and party were bade a regretful farewell, and the visitors returned to shore. The embarkation took place under the happiest auspices. The weather was brilliant. Special arrangements have been made for the comfort of the Governor-General and party during the voyage, and a pleasant trip across is anticipated. Mr. Andrew Allan, chief of the Allan Line of steamers, is also aboard the Circassian.

HASH CALLED UP BY A LOCOMOTIVE BELL.

On one of the Northern trains recently was an old lady who evidently had never before made a railroad journey. After looking about her some time in curiosity, her eyes alighted on the bell line and she asked the water boy, who happened to be passing at the time, what it was for. "That, marm," said the boy with a wicked twinkle in his eyes, "is to ring the bell when you want anything to eat," and passed on. Shortly after the old lady got down the family umbrella and reaching up to the bell line gave it a vigorous pull. Of course the brakes were applied, the windows thrown up, questions asked, etc., the old lady sitting calmly through the confusion. Presently the conductor came rushing into the car, exclaiming, "Who pulled that bell?" "I did," replied the old lady meekly. "Well, what do you want?" snapped the official impatiently. "Well," said the old party meditatevly, "you may bring me some hash."

THE LAKEFIELD SHOW.

The union show of the townships of [illegible], North Monaghan, Ennismore and [illegible], was held in the village of Lakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Previous to this year the show was for the above places only, but this year Harvey and Douro were admitted. The days were especially fine, the turnout large, and the show on the whole the best ever held under the same auspices, and double discounting the West Riding at Peterborough, the week previous. The display inside indicated clearly that the people approve of sheep and no other than superior articles, and while in these in most departments there was a full supply, that of the ladies work, unusually so. The exhibit of grain was the largest ever made, there being no less than 67 bags. The first prize barley weighed 52 pounds to the bushel, and the second prize 54 pounds. Those who were present say that the quality of the wheat exhibited was superior to that shown at the Provincial. The oats and rye were of good quality, and the peas excellent. The spring wheat, apples, tomatoes and potatoes were superior to anything we have seen this year. The first prize for potatoes was taken by Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald, the seed being imported from New Zealand. Mr. John Garbutt was the only exhibitor in turnips.

There was a splendid display in domestic manufactures, and the dairy produce was up to the mark.

There were five very fine canoes hung around the hall, of different makes.

Mr. Arthur Strickland exhibited a very fine walnut centre table, made by himself, and also a canoe, which were greatly admired for their fine finish.

A new feature of this show was the exhibit of canned pickles and fruit by Mrs. John Garbutt and Mrs. T. E. Bell. Mr. Chapin had on exhibition several pieces of handsome furniture.

Messrs. Gemmel & McKee had a fine display of blankets, flannels, cloth and tweeds.

Mr. G. A. Mitchell attracted a large number of the fair sex, whom he was busily showing the advantages of the celebrated Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines.

Mr. J. E. Murray took several orders for the machine he was representing, the American Singer, and was kept busy answering the inquiries put to him respecting the superior advantages of his machines.

There was a fine show of cattle. The exhibit of horses was very large, and the general impression was that they were of better quality than any former year, and more suggestive of a riding, than an [illegible] townships show. Swine were plentiful, and sheep of a superior quality. Mr. W. A. Hall's celebrated ram, the champion prize winner of this part of the country, was greatly admired, so much so that he disposed of him to Mr. E. Sanderson, for the sum of $35. He has taken first prizes wherever shown, taking the first ticket at the last three Central Exhibitions. He weighs 370 pounds, ten pounds less than the one that took first prize at the Industrial Exhibition in Toronto this year.

Mr. T. E. Bell believes in keeping first-class well-bred poultry, and exhibited 22 pens of birds that would be hard to beat by any of the breeders. His mammoth turkey, weighing 40 pounds, was a whopper.

The judges thus awarded the prizes:

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electros and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

A SUICIDE'S FREAK.

George Weishburger of Toronto tried but failed to kill himself. From the few incoherent statements that could be got from him it appeared that he sat down before a mirror, and, revolver in hand, proceeded to take aim by his image in the mirror; the reflection deceived him, however, and saved his life, he having pointed the weapon at an angle contrary to the one he intended, so that the bullet made but little more than a trifling wound.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.—One of the most valuable discoveries in medical science, for the benefit of mankind, was made when Burdock Blood Bitters were invented. This medicine positively cures all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin and blood. 25,000 bottles have been sold during the last three months. 42-2t

Failing!

That is what a great many people are doing. They don't just know what is the matter, but they have a combination of aches and pains, and each month they grow worse.

The only sure remedy yet found is SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS, and this by rapid and thorough assimilation with the blood purifies and enriches it, and rich, strong blood flowing to every part of the system repairs the wasted tissues, drives out disease and gives health and strength.

This is why SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS will cure kidney and liver diseases, consumption, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, biliousness, intermittent fevers &c.

I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and for several weeks could eat nothing and was growing weaker every day. I tried SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS, and am happy to say I now have a good appetite and am much better in every way.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 18, 1883.

Sir John Unseated in Lennox.

For sixteen months Sir John Macdonald hung on to the seats of Carleton and Lennox with a tenacity as intense as it was unjust. But an election court has loosened his grip on Lennox in mighty short metre. The trial of the petition against Sir John's return for Lennox began at Napanee on Wednesday of last week, and as far as the investigation of the 117 charges in the bill of particulars was concerned, had hardly begun, when the evidences of corrupt practices were so strong that Mr. McCarthy, Sir John's counsel, threw up his brief in despair, with the intimation that he could not resist such direct proof of the corrupt manner in which the contest had been manipulated in the chieftain's interest. The panorama of corruption that would have been unfolded had the whole 117 charges of corrupt practices been investigated, can only be pictured in imagination, aided by the revelations brought out in the trial of the few charges that were probed to the bottom. One would have thought that the foul nest of corrupt practice discovered by the Election Court in Muskoka could not be paralleled; but for brazen effrontery and cold blooded corruption the election contest in Lennox last June, "wins in a canter." The chief distributor of the corruption fund of Sir John Macdonald, "Canada's greatest statemen," as the Tory toadies call him, was A. H. Roe, the present Tory representative of Lennox in the local Legislature. Mr. Roe was recently "whitewashed" subject to appeal, the petition against his seat having been dismissed. But the fact is, that Mr. Roe so thoroughly bought up the riding with Sir John's money in June, that it staid bought till the following local election. The evidence shows that Mr. Roe bought votes on the cash system with a recklessness that cost his chieftain his seat. Still he used an economy of labor by sometimes doing the buying wholesale. To a father he paid $20, which was to answer, and it did answer, for the whole family—three sons. To another $2 was sufficient. A hand shake with Mr. Roe was followed by bank bills clinging to the elector's palm. Mr. Roe did an immense amount of work of this kind, and so well was his business known, that his approach was recognized as a signal that a vote was to be bought. Mr. Roe was not mean in money matters either. One party demurred to the price of his franchise and Mr. Roe magnanimously doubled his figures. But he was not alone in the business. Mr. Elijah Starr, president of the Conservative Association, a pillar in a church, and a gentleman who "holds forth" on occasion, was exceedingly active. Though an old man, in his zeal he made nothing of a two mile tramp through the snow-piled—as they always are—winter roads of Richmond to distribute the bribery fund. This was only the beginning of the investigation, and Mr. McCarthy was too sharp to let the investigation proceed—The record would have been too black; so the sponge was thrown up and the "chieftain" was declared unseated.

It was often a matter of wonder why Sir John, in disregard of political decency, clung to the two seats of Carleton and Lennox with such leech-like tenacity. Now it is no wonder. His return for Lennox was disputed; he knew that the trial would unseat him, and he wisely kept Carleton to fall back upon. That he was aware that such iniquitous bribery was going on, there can be no doubt, for his chief agents were the most prominent in it. Of all the "pets" on the "chieftain's" political chessboard the Lennox blot is the most infamous. Where was the magnetism of presence, the personal popularity, the marvellous record of statesmanship, that made Mr. Allison's candidature a laughing stock to Conservatives? Why was it necessary to expend so much money to elect the most popular, brilliant and finished statesman of the day, and father of the N. P., and head of the Government to boot, over a mere private gentleman? There is a vast deal of sham laudation of Sir John, which should be dropped, when it is proven that, in an intensely Tory constituency the great man was compelled to buy with hard money, disbursed by a characterless agnostic, as endorsation of his past services of his policy and his popularity.

Lord Lansdowne.

Lord Lansdowne, the new Governor-General of Canada, set sail for Canada last Friday, and in a few days will have set foot on the shores of the Dominion. From Ireland have come our best vice-regal rulers, and Lord Lansdowne also comes from the Green Isle. Our new Governor-General's estate is in the county of Kerry, Ireland, and extends half way between Kenmare and Kilgarvan. His estate contains thousands of tenants, and the testimony of Bishop Higgins, corroborated by a resident gentleman, of Kenmare, is given to show that Lord Lansdowne is a liberal, generous and considerate landlord. He has lived as much as possible among his Irish tenants, and all through the recent disturbances and troubles he has gone among the people unarmed, at all times, disdaining police protection. An unpopular and grinding landlord would not have dared to do that.

Lord Lansdowne enters upon his reign with a kindly feeling towards Canada. Unlike many British statesmen, he possesses an accuracy, minuteness and extent of information respecting the country which shows that he will enter upon his duties as Governor of the Dominion intelligently. In person Lord Lansdowne is of middle height, of dark complexion, and has a great deal of the friendly manner and courteous bearing whose possession contributed so largely to Lord Dufferin's popularity. Lord Lansdowne is an able statesman, and we are sure his future rule will verify the universal prediction of those who know him best, that he is pre-eminently the right man in the right place. Our Governor-General is often considered a mere figure head, a mere ornametal constitutional appendage; but it is in his power, as he may be disposed, to add immensely to the influence of the country by bringing its resources in prominence before the world. Lord Lansdowne seems warmly disposed, by entering conscientiously and intelligently upon the duties of his high office, to promote in every way the interests of Canada by a wise and faithful exercise of his gubernatorial functions.

Editorial Notes.

Sir John lost his seat in Lennox by being Roe-d out.

New York Democrats talk about one hundred thousand of a majority this fall. The Republicans do not deny them a certain victory.

The Tory journals, that assume the greatest airs in discussing the situation in Lennox, show their fitness for the task by being ignorant of the name of the candidates at the last local election.

The appointment of the Hon. J. G. Blanchet, M.P., to the position of Collector of Customs at Quebec will make a vacancy in the representation of Levis in the House of Commons.

The preliminary hearing of the charge against O'Donnel for the murder of the informer, Carey, has resulted in the accused being committed for trial at the next session of the Central Criminal Court, London, England.

Sir John was terribly disgusted with the result of the election protest in Lennox. But he did not denounce the bribery by which he won the seat. He only condemned in his graceful "statesmanlike" way the indiscretion of his chief briber—"D——n Roe!" was his terse comment on Mr. Roe's ill-judged zeal.

The stock argument of the Mail's recent editorial columns to show why "Mowat must go," is that Mr. Hardy owns a little land in Dakota. It would be just as logically idotic an argument to say that the Senate must go, because Senator Plumb has extensive real estate interests in Pennsylvania.

Mr. George Tait Blackstock, of Toronto, who is known here as a frequent visitor in the capacity of counsel at our law courts, is spoken of as the Tory candidate in Lennox, vice Sir John, unseated. One can safely wager his last, that Mr. Blackstock, in case he becomes a candidate, will not employ Roe as his disburser—he knows him too well.

The Review, in referring to the action of the Algoma deputy returning officers in refusing to allow bogus voters to commit perjury by swearing in their votes, virtuously asks who made them judges? It would, perhaps, be pertinent to ask our cotemporary who made Mr. James Stephens, a returning officer for Bothwell, judge, when he declared Mr. Hawkins elected, when the electors by their ballots said they wished Hon. Mr. Mills to represent them?

The Lindsay Warder announces that Canadian cotton operatives are leaving for Massachusetts. Yet the Warder and its ilk, assured us that protection would give workingmen perpetual employment and high wages and secure Canada for Canadians, in every sense.

Mr. Bethune, Q.C., is taking steps to have Mr. A. H. Roe, M.P.P. disqualified for the bribery he practised in connection with Sir John's election in Lennox. Mr. Roe is a champion agnostic, but he now knows at least one thing—about how much money it takes to elect the greatest living statesman in one of the most pronounced Tory ridings in Ontario.

The writ for a new election in Muskoka cannot be issued because the Muskoka case is now in the Court of Appeal, as are also the West Simcoe, Prescott, South Victoria, East Northumberland, East York, West York and Lennox (local) cases. The West Simcoe case has been argued, but the time for arguing the others has not yet been yet fixed by the Court. Of the remaining petitions, Welland and South Renfrew have been postponed—the former to the 26th December and the other to the 17th November. The East Huron, West Hastings, North Renfrew, North Ontario and North Victoria cases have been postponed indefinitely, and the East Simcoe, East Middlesex, Cardwell, West Middlesex and West Gray cases are to be tried this fall. All the cases are being appealed on both sides, and until the Court of Appeal renders its decision no writs for new elections can be issued.

LIBERAL VICTORY IN THE WESTMORELAND ELECTION.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 14.—Mr. Killam, Government candidate, is elected in Westmoreland by a majority of 272 over Wells (Conservative), Opposition. The Conservative leaders insisted that the election should be a trial of strength between the two parties. Mr. Killam, however, received many Conservative votes, and the effect will be disastrous to the Westmoreland Tories. Mr. Landry threw himself into the contest against Mr. Killam, but could not control the French. This is very significant. The result of the contest will be to strengthen the Government and the Liberal party. Wells probably got the whole strict Conservative vote. The break was in the French vote, which is neither Liberal nor Conservative. The election shows that the Liberals can redeem Westmoreland at the next election for Parliament.

THE DAKOTA MARE'S NEST.

(St. Catharines News.)

The denial of Mr. Hardy must and will be believed by loyal Canadians before the evidence of any number of Western newspapers who, probably, speak from hearsay. But we agree with The Globe, and ask whose business would it be if Messrs. Hardy and Pardee do own lands in the North-West, or bonds of the railroads of the North-West, or of any other American concern or institution? All purchases of that kind are for speculation, and are open to the world. Half the railways in the United States were built by English capital; the war in the United States was waged with British and French money, and there is no more harm in accepting the rise in the price of lands than the price of bonds. The Spectator is simply making itself ridiculous.

LINDSAY.

The annual meeting of the Lindsay Curling Club was held at the rink on Friday evening, 5th October. A very fair attendance of members were present with the president, J. D. McIntyre, in the chair. Business was at once taken up and a report from the committee on medal matches read and received. Messrs. W. J. McMurty, J. G. Hall, E. J. W. Burton and F. H. Dobbin were elected members of the club. Election of officers were taken up when E. Bradburn was elected president, John McMillan vice president; J. R. Dundas, patron; Rev. S. Weston Jones, chaplain; G. H. Bertram and Jos. Cooper, representative members to Toronto; and F. H. Dobbin, secretary. Hon. S. C. Wood, Capt. J. Ross, D. Grant and D. C. Trew were elected honorary members for the current year. The skips for the coming season were not appointed, it being thought better to leave this matter over to be dealt with at a fuller meeting. Votes of thanks were tendered to the retiring officers and the meeting broke up.

COBOURG.

A sad accident occurred here Sunday evening. As No 2 express train from the east was coming into the station yard, a young man named Wm. Carswell, Jr., a painter by trade, jumped from the train while it was in motion, and in doing so he missed his footing and fell, the train passing over the right leg near the ankle, crushing it in a fearful manner. The leg was amputated a few inches below the knee, after the young man was removed to his home.

ENTERPRISE!

My thanks are due and hereby tendered to the Ladies of Peterborough and the surrounding country for their very liberal patronage and appreciation of my endeavour to cater for their wants in the

MILLINERY AND MANTLE DEPARTMENT

And they may be assured the enterprise shall have that attention which it deserves at my hands. My Show Rooms were opened on the 2nd and 3rd instant, and were visited (without any exaggeration) by the largest assemblage of Ladies I have ever seen, and I am satisfied that not one went out without testifying to the as being the very best assortment of Trimmed Millinery, Ribbons, Satins, Silks, &c., &c., ever shown by me, and the Mantle Department, without exception, was complete in every particular, consisting of Fur Lined Satin Capes, Astrachan Jackets, Ottoman Cloth Jackets, Brocade Cloth Jackets, Plain Cloth Jackets, and Tweed Ulsters.

DRESS GOODS!

For some years, Dress Goods took a leading feature, and it is only necessary to state that my present assortment excels anything previously shown by me. I do not boast of possessing the largest and best assorted stock in the trade, but I can confidently say that my stock will be found selected with the view to meet the requirements of the trade generally. Amongst the most desirable lines I am showing for the Fall, are Foule Cloths, Ottoman Cords, Brocades, Plaids, Serges, Union and All Wool Cashmeres, in Black and Assorted Colours!

TRIMMINGS.

This Department contains everything new in GIMPS, VELVETS, SATINS, SILKS, &c., &c.

I would call particular attention to my PLAIN and TWILLED WINCEYS, from 5c. per yd. up.

Asphodel Belmont hold Dummer Fall Show.

The annual exhibition of the above Society was held at Norwood on Tuesday, Oct. 9th. As is usually the case when an agricultural show is held in that village, the attendance from the surrounding townships was exceedingly large; and, in fact, it may be said that the success of the exhibition is largely due the large gathering of people who eagerly patronize it. The array of exhibits was indeed meagre when compared with former exhibitions of this Society, and it is quite apparent that interest is gradually being weaned from these minor exhibitions. The number of entries this year is only 395, as compared with 570 in 1881.

In the inside department the exhibits were of a superior class. Roots and vegetables were very good and were only lacking in quantity. Potatoes especially were worthy of mention. In domestic manufactures the quality was well up, but the exhibit also fell short in quantity. In grain the exhibit was, not to say large, but was remarkable for its superior appearance and quality. Samples of Colorado spring wheat shown by Charles Nichol, of Dummer, received much favorable comment, and well deserved the first prizes they obtained. In dairy products the exhibit was very small, but in quality was of a very fine discription.

The outside department contained very few animals on exhibition, even much less interest being evinced here than in the other. There were a few fine teams of carriage and draught horses. These were all that were worth mentioning. The cattle show was much below the average in numbers, and a great deal cannot be said of its quality. There was a good show of sheep, about the only redeeming feature of the outside portion of the exhibition.

Financially the exhibition was a great success, the receipts of the gate amounting to the snug sum of $109, a large increase over any former exhibition of the society, and, indeed, almost equalling the receipts received at the riding show held in Warsaw, where the figures represented an attendance of about 800 people, while here the sum realized from the admission fee showed that over 1,100 persons visited the exhibition. The Norwood band was present during the afternoon and enlivened the occasion by discoursing some excellent music. Below we append the WEDDING CHIMES.

We have much pleasure in recording an interesting social event in Smith. On Tuesday Mr. Geo. Elliot was united in marriage to Miss Fanny Davidson, daughter of Mr. James Davidson, all of Smith. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father and was performed by Rev. E. F. Torrance. Miss Elliott, sister of the bridegroom acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. John Moore as groom. The bride was the recipient of a fine array of elegant presents. The happy pair at the conclusion of the festivities, went to their future home, which was in readiness for their occupancy. We extend our most cordial congratulations.

After the ceremony the numerous and beautiful wedding presents were duly admired, and a party of about forty guests partook of the wedding breakfast. FARMER HAWK'S PHILOSOPHY.

"I have no faith in your bonds and stocks,"
Said Farmer Hawk to his city friend;
"And as for mines—they are only rocks;
Railroads are good to ride or send
One's produce to market; but not a cent,
Will I invest in them. How could I know
When the stock went down, where the money went?
For somewhere, you see, the money must go.

"No, Mr. I have no desire to invest;
I am quite content to remain as I am.
A farmer's life suits me the best,
And speculation's all a sham.
I do not long to grow rich in a day,
For money that's quickly won is lost
Quickly. I make what I can, and lay
Aside a little against the frost.

"If I should invest and lose the farm,
What would become of my wife and me?
George, my son, has a brawny arm,
And could work for himself, and Hannah might be
A servant, perhaps, in some neighbour's house.
But what would become of us? No, no!
I prefer that my daughter should milk my cows,
And my son his father's fields should sow.

"That's my philosophy, sir, and I know
Its just as good as you'll find in the books.
Think me, if you will, old-fashioned and slow—
I know you do; I can tell by your looks.
I have no doubt that your stocks are good
And just as safe a bird in hand;
I only say that the land has stood
By me, and I mean to stand by the land."

SOUTH MONAGHAN FALL FAIR.

The annual exhibition of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday last, the 10th day of October, at Centreville, and was one of the most successful shows conducted under the auspices of that society. The whether looked threatening during the day, but restained itself very happily from letting loose the tempest of its wrath. Owing to the fair at Millbrook the number of outside visitors was lessened, but this must have been a matter for congratulation by the directors, as the inside department of the exhibition was limited in extent and was jammed to the doors. The exhibit of cattle was splendid, and did not lag far behind the county show here. The ladies' work was well represented, and many of the prize samples were elegant and pretty. Altogether, the directors should feel eminently satisfied with the prosperous issue of their labors. The following acted as judges:—Jos. Redmond, Thos. Doyell and Jas. Dobbin, for horses; Henry Earl, Thos. Box and M. Eagleson, for cattle; John Tait, Joshua Turnbull and Jos. McLaren, for roots, grain and fruit; Mrs. Waddell, Mrs. T. Gillott and Miss Eagleson for ladies' work. Below will be found the

MANN THE MURDERER HANGED.

THE COOK FAMILY ASSASSIN MEETS DEATH WITHOUT FLINCHING—STEPS ON THE DEATH TRAP WITH A SMILE—"ONLY A HOP, STEP AND JUMP" INTO GLORY.

The little village of L'Original has been greatly agitated all this week over the intended execution of Frederick Mann, the murderer of the Cook family at Little Ridean on Jan. 2nd, last. Friday morning the excitement reached its climax. The scaffold was erected in the gaol yard, and the customary hour of 8 a.m. was fixed for all that was mortal of the cruel but youthful assassin to be swung into eternity. On the previous evening Mann appeared comparatively cheerful and quite resigned to his awful fate. He declared that he would meet death without flinching, in the sure and certain hope of the forgiveness of God. He ate heartily on his last day on earth and slept soundly last night. Sheriff Merrick, whose

FIRST AFFAIR OF THE KIND

it was, engaged three men to act as executioners, so that if one or two baoked out he would have a third to do the deed. The Rev. Mr. Phillips, has attended to Mann's spiritual wants ever since sentence was passed, was with him at the last trying moment, and took part in the melancholy procession to the scaffold, which was headed by Sheriff Merrick. Mann preserved a calmness of spirit, and ascended the steps with a steadfastness of purpose and nerve that is rarely witnessed by mortal in passing through such a trying ordeal. He stept upon with firmness, carefully inspected the pinioning of his legs, wore a cheerful smile, said "good-bye" to his attendants, and dropped into the everlasting, after an impressive prayer had been offered up by the Anglican minister. The executioner did his work in a cool manner, and nine and a quarter minutes after he had touched the fatal spring, the pulsations of the murderer's heart ceased. He died apparently without a struggle, and is credited with having said, "It's only a hop, step and a leap from a sinful world into

THE FATAL TRAP DOOR

AN ETERNITY OF LOVE."

In the morning he joined heartily in the devotional exercises, singing with great zest a good tenor to that beautiful hymn, "Abide with me, fast falls the eventide." At 8.30 o'clock, the body was cut down, and an inquest was held About fifty persons witnessed the execution.

TORY TACTICS.

A NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS OR, HOW SIR JOHN SUCCEEDED IN CARRYING LENNOX.

The trial of the election petition against Sir John Macdonald for Lennox was held last week, before Mr. Justice Armour. Sir John was in court all day. Mr. Bethune, Q. C., appeared for the petitioners, and D. McCarthy for respondent. The evidence was of the most ASTOUNDING CHARACTER.

as there were no less than twelve or fourteen farmers, mostly from the township of Richmond, who swore positively that they had been paid sums varying by A. H. Roe, M. P, P., and others, to induce them to vote for Sir John Macdonald. The closest and most severe cross-examination by Mr. McCarthy failed to shake the evidence, which was given with the fullest details as to time, place, and other circumstances. In some cases the money was slipped into the hand of the recipient while.

FROM $1 TO $20

SHAKING HANDS.

with Mr. Roe; in others the female members of the family handled it. It also transpired that within the last few days Mr. Roe has been going over his former trial, finding out what the witnesses would swear to, and in some cases endevoring to put in a plea of that the money was paid on account of or for charitable purposes. The witnesses, however, in nearly every case, asseverated that the money was paid to induce them to vote for the respondent, and for no other purpose.

The in face of the damning evidence elicited at the beginning of the trial, it is no wonder that Mr. McCarthy, Sir John's counsel threw up his brief in dispair, with the remark that he could not resist such evidence of corrupt practices. Through his counsel, Sir John pleaded "guilty" and the Judge unseated him out of hand.

Address W. H. Burk, Publishers, Detroit, Michigan, for a sample copy of his very excellent family paper, the Detroit Commercial Advertiser and Michigan Home Journal, and you will not be disappointed. The copy now before us fully sustains the growing reputation of this old established weekly and has more attractions as a general family journal than any paper that visits our sanctum. The 1st page is brim full of merry anecdotes and bits of information; the 2d page has a generous instalment of a short and very interesting serial story; while page 3 is devoted to the interests of the ladies and their gentlemen friends, who visit the Sitting Room to give information on and discuss subjects connected with home life. Pages 4 and 5 give editorials and news of the week. The former are spicily independent, the latter very full and complete. On page 6 the young people and the older members of the family circle find much to interest them, while the general market reports on page 7 must be invaluable to producer and buyer. Page 8 is especially the farmers' page, and besides interesting letters from subscribers on farm topics, contains many useful hintsoa agricultural affairs. To many, the liberal quantity of poetry, both original and selected, that appears in the pages of the Detroit Commercial Advertiser, is quite an attraction. Indeed we believe all will find much to commend in this worthy journal, a sample copy of which will be cheerfully forwarded by the publisher.

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUSALEM COMBINATION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition to one of renewed life and vigor.

Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $2 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.

The Corporation of the city of Cork presented Henry Irving, the actor, with an address on the eve of his departure for the United States.

It is now in season to warn our readers against the sudden attacks of Cholera, Cramp, Colic, and the various Bowel Complaints incident to the season of ripe fruit, vegetables etc. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the grand specific for those troubles. 42-2t

The United States Agricultural Bureau estimates that the wheat crop will show a deficiency of eighty-eight millions of bushels, as compared with that of last year.

"When all other remedies fail" for bowel complaint, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., "then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue." Thus writes W. H. Crooker, druggist, Watrdown, and adds that "its sales are large and increasing." 42.2t

When from loss of nerve power, or misusing the stomach, the digestive apparatus fails to convert enough food into blood to maintain the daily balance of supply and waste, it is more physiological to furnish those elements in our food that contain the potential energy of the nervous system and material for repair, as in WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, than to secure more work by over-driving the organic functions with stimulants and excitants.

The Catholic Congress at Naples opened Friday with, about twelve hundred delegates present. Humbugged Again.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters, my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging. —H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press. 42-2t

Despatches state that the action of the railway time convention at Chicago on Thursday has been very favorably commented upon by the U. S. press. A uniform schedule of time was adopted for the railways of the United States, founded upon what is known as the "hour basis." The proposed reform if carried out is likely to prove a great convenience to the travelling public.

In recent work Dr. Willis gravely announces that "mothers-in-law are not laughed at in Persia." This is nothing startling. Indeed, the information would be more surprising if Dr. Willis could tell us in what country mothers-in-law are laughed at. He would truly a be brave man who would hazard such an experiment, for, in such a case, "to laugh were want of goodness and of grace."

News of a swell wedding comes from New York. The bride—there are five hundred and seventeen pounds of her—is just sixteen, and is described as full of little girlish airs and corn beef and cabbage. Kidney-Wort Bitters will bear recommendation honestly. All who use them confer upon them the highest encomiums, and give the credit for making cures—all the proprietors claim for them. I have kept them since they were first offered to the public. They took high rank from the first, and maintained it, and are more called for than all others combined. So long as they keep up their high reputation for purity and usefulness, I shall continue to recommend them—something I have never before done with any other patent medicine.

THE DOMINION EULOGIZED.

The Times and Standard on Saturday published leading articles on the departure of Lord Lansdowne for Canada. Both papers express the hope that the Marquis will realize the largest measure of success in his new sphere of action. The loyalty of the Dominion of the Mother Country is warmly commented on. The recent progress of Canada is remarked upon in terms of pride and satisfaction, and the prospects of the Dominion are eulogized as of the most able and encouraging character. The Times is coming to its senses. It is not long since "Thunderer" had nothing but contemptuous belittling for Canada.

HOW TO DRESS THE CHILDREN.

There is no animal we know of born into the world in a state of greater helplessness than the human infant, and none more depedent upon artificial means to keep up the animal heat. It would very soon succumb to the cold if not protected. This is proved by the fact that a very much larger proportion of children die during the Winter than during the Summer months, although as regards the mortality of the young and the middle-aged there is very little difference between those seasons. The older a child gets the better it becomes able to resist cold, but—and we would that mothers would bear this well in mind—not until a boy or girl is well into his or her teens should fostering warmth be looked upon otherwise than as a deadly foe. Children in the cradle are seldom or never neglected by well-to-do parents, but it is when a child begins to run about, and is able to go out-of-doors, that mistakes are made about the clothing, which often lead to speedily-fatal illnesses, or sow the seeds of future ailments which render life a misery and a burden, that can only be laid down at the portals of the tomb. Instead of studying warmth and comfort in the clothing of their children, many mothers study only fashion. We speak advisedly, for we have proof of what we aver.

Those who are between the ages of 10 and 20 ought, therefore, to be warmly clad. Cold is fatal to the young; warmth is life itself; cold retards the building up of the tissues of bone and muscle; warmth encourages it; cold interferes with the due performance of the functions of the skin, throws extra work on the liver and kidneys, and blunts the nervous energy of the brain itself; warmth has altogether a contrary effect.

Some parents labor under the erroneous impression that they are making their children hardy by allowing them to expose themselves to the deleterious effects of the absence of warmth. To maintain the animal heat in the young it is not necessary that the clothing should be heaped upon them, nor that they be carefully made prisoners of in-doors, whenever the day is chill or the winds blow high. The clothing should be light rather than heavy—light and protective; and the material itself should be studied, not the quantity.

Yes, Sir.

One can't expect to succeed in business or in pleasure either, for that matter, unless one feels all right in health and spirits. This is the first consideration. Now, its a small matter when this remedy, ZO-PE-SA, is recommended so highly, even guaranteed to renew one's energy and spirits by invigorating the Liver and aiding Digestion, by clearing the Brain, opening the pores of the skin, regulating the Bowels and system, to go to the drug store and get a single bottle of Zopesa as a trial. It is a duty every one owes to himself. Try a bottle then. 41-4t

[illegible] over twenty years I had [illegible] tly from Nasal Catarrh; [illegible] unable to [illegible] of taste [illegible]. The disease caused severe pain over the eyes, and frequently stopped my writing on account of dizziness. The phlegm in my throat gave me much annoyance, especially in company, balls of which would occasionally fall down into my throat, and I could seldom breathe through my nose. I have taken quarts of various medicines without any apparent benefit, until I was induced, by your agent of 69 Mutter street, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles I am prepared to give it as my honest opinion that for the cure of Catarrh it is a grand success. I have recommended it to many of my friends, one of whom encloses his testimonial with mine.

Wishing you deserved success.

I am gratefully yours,

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

The Concert To-night.

The character of the concert to be given to-night (Thursday, Oct. 18th), in Bradburn's Opera House, is shown by the fact that Mr. Charles E. Pratt, late of the Neilson concert company, acts as accompanist. This company sold 500 seats for their concert in Port Hope, thus testifying to a reputation which their performance brilliantly sustained.

A Murderer Becomes a Maniac.

Angelo Carmenino, the Italian navvy who murdered a fellow labourer near Norwood last spring, and who was released on bail at the last assizes, in default of witnesses appearing, was brought before the Police Court on Monday, charged with being insane. Evidence showed that Carmenino had developed a most truculent and dangerous disposition. He was anxious to get 200 shot guns to perform a wholesale perforation of the public. He was considered dangerous, and was committed to jail as a lunatic.

Little Lake Cemetery.

It is no new thing for Mr. John Kelly, the painstaking and skilful custodian and superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery to receive compliments upon the success that attends his tasteful and persistent efforts to add to the beauty of the place. The other day he received a letter containing the amount of the annual account of Mr. J. H. Hall, of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, and the following well deserved words of praise; "I must compliment you on the beautiful appearance of the cemetery. It is gaining a widespread reputation as one of the finest in the Dominion.

"The Proof of the Pudding."

The work turned out by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, of Peterborough is not only very great in quantity but its quality has always stood the test of practical work. Recently the establishment supplied an entire equipment to the mills of the Georgian Bay Lumber Company, Waubashene, and its excellence and fitness for the requirements exacted of it, are proved by day after day work in a manner highly pleasing to both builders and owners. The mill is equipped with one large circular with steam feed, one of Hamilton's patent twin circulars with steam feed, one seven inch crank pony gang, one slabbing gang and one stock gang. Yet with this equipment the mill turns out in twelve hours 375,000 of lumber. This shows how greatly it will be to the advantage of intending builders of saw mills, or those needing perfectly built and reliable machinery of any kind, to call upon the William Hamilton manufacturing Company, Peterborough.

The number of prisoners committed to jail during the past prison year was 181, 9 females and 172 males. Of these the lion's share was for drunkenness, and a large number for vagancy. The large majority of all prisoners was reported intemperate. The total cost of maintaining prisoners, including all expenditures relating thereto, was $2,708.81.

Another Cup.

Now is a chance for the Peterborough lacrosse club to secure a companion piece to the Gildersleeve Cup. The citizens of Kingston have subscribed funds for another cup similar as to conditions of winning, etc., to the Gildersleeve cup. Our boys only want a chance and the cup will promptly be on display in H. LeHeun's window. It may stay in Kingston long enough to be looked at.

A Hobby New Shop.

Mr. John Webber has fitted up in a very neat and tasty style a shop on the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, opposite the Midland station grounds. Parties travelling and farmers attending the grainware houses, will find fine lunch rooms, where hot tea and coffee and lunch can be had at all hours. The shop will be a decided public convenience, see about.

St. Mark's Harvest Home.

The annual harvest festival held in St. Mark's church, Otonabee, on Thursday afternoon and evening, was a most gratifying success. The church was beautifully and appropriately decorated. Rev. Messrs. Wilson and Bradshaw conducted the services, and Rev. Mr. Farncomb, of Lakefield, preached the sermon. A liberal offertory for the mission fund resulted.

Two Deer per Day.

During last week Messrs. John Christopher Crowe and J.J. Crowe, of Dummer, performed some capital deer slaughter. At the head of Stony Lake, between Jack's Creek and Eel Creek, they shot ten deer in five days. Very few sportsmen could "buck" against such a record as this. The exploit is certainly something to Crowe over.

The Eichburg Quartette.

The Eichburg string quartette, accompanying the Mason Concert Company, which performs in Bradburn's Opera House to-night (Thursday, Oct. 18th), is composed of four young ladies, whose skill upon the violin receives enthusiastic applause wherever they appear. Miss Carrie Eugene Mason, the eminent prima donna and mezzo-soprano, also accompanies them.

Early Closing.

Corespondents, are agitating the early closing movement. If merchants could agree on earlier closing hours, there would be no loss of business, big gas bills would be saved and employers would find time —which they do not do now—to improve their minds and make themselves more useful to their employers. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Traffic Returns.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Oct. 10th, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $10,110.41; freight, $19,316.32; total, $29,426.63, as compared with $29,042.22 for the corresponding week of 1882, being an increase of $384.41; and the aggregate traffic to date is $828,404.11, being an increase of $22,827.31 over 1882.

An Evening with the Athletes.

A most successful athletic tournament under the management of Mr. T. McNaughton, was held in the Drill Shed on Friday evening. A first-class programme was presented to about five hundred spectators. It consisted of walking and foot races, club swinging, clog dancing, tumbling, etc. Wm. Hazlitt won the one mile walk; S. Martin the clog contest; M. Larone the tumbling contest, and T. Kindred the mile and half mile races. Music was supplied by the Peterborough Orchestra. The patrons of the entertainment were well pleased—Mr. McNaughton never indulges in hippodromes.

Police Court.

At the Police Court on Monday morning the following charges came up for hearing:

J. R. Stratton preferred a charge of assault against E. J. Toker, and also a charge of assault and battery. Upon application of counsel the latter charge was amended so as to make it a charge of committing an aggravated assault, by unlawfully and maliciously inflicting upon complainant, with a weapon, grievous bodily harm.

E. J. Toker charged J. R. Stratton with common assault, and with unlawfully and maliciously wounding complainant.

Police Constable Adams charged E. J. Toker and J. R. Stratton with breach of the peace. The date of all the charges was Oct. 13th.

Mr. W. A. Stratton appeared for Mr. J. R. Stratton, and Mr. C. A. Weller for Mr. E. J. Toker.

The sittings of the Chancery Court requiring the presence of Mr. Dumble and Mr. Weller, the cases were adjourned till Friday next at 10 o'clock. Mr. W.A. Stratton submitted that one of his witnesses wished to go away, but the magistrate said that if he were subpoenaed, he would have to stay till the adjourned hearing of the charges.

St. Lukes' Temperance Society.

St. Luke's branch of the Church of England Temperance Society is in a flourishing condition. At a largely attended meeting on Monday night the following officers were elected:—President, Rev. W. C. Rebuilding Rapidly.

A large staff of workmen is busy rebuilding Fitzgerald & Stanger's carriage works building. Under the contract of Mr. White the work is being pushed along energetically, and the premises will soon be completed and in a better shape than before. With an energy characteristic of the firm, work has been going on, though of course under difficulties, in the line of carriage building, and the firm is able to do all sorts of repairing, and to take orders for new work. When their premises are completed the public will hear from them.

The Douro Picnic.

The annual picnic of St. Joseph's Church, Douro, held on Thursday last, was as usual, a grand success. Though generally the last of the season it is always blessed with fine weather. There was a large attendance, Peterborough being well represented. The gathering was held in Mrs. Whibb's grove, in which a large platform had been erected, that was industriously used for the dancers which was the best patronized amusement. Martin's quadrille band furnished the music. There were two splendidly laid tables spread, which reflected the highest credit on the liberality and cooking capabilities of the ladies of the congregation. Rev. Father O'Connell, parish priest, beaming and benignant, was everywhere present, exerting himself to promote the pleasure of the people and the success of the occasion. Rev. Father Conway, of St. Peter's Cathedral, was also present. There were a large number of prizes awarded for competition in games and sports. Altogether the picnic was one of the most successful of the season, and though last was by no means least. The financial results were very handsome.

Peterborough Curling Club.

By an unfortunate oversight a report of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club was omitted in our last issue. The meeting, very largely attended, was held in the Caisse House parlours. The following officers, etc., were elected:

PATRON—Judge Dennistoun.
PATRONESS—Mrs. Dennistoun.
PRESIDENT—Dr. R. P. Boucher.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Robert Hall
CHAPLAIN—Rev. W. C. Bradshaw.
SECRETARY-TREASURER—C. McGill.
REPRESENTATIVE MEMBERS—James F. Dennistoun and A. Bertram (Toronto).
MANAGING COMMITTEE—Adam Hall, W. G. Ferguson, Andrew McNeil and Melville Miller.
SKIPS—Dr Boucher, Geo. Brown, T. P. Attrill, E. Philp and Geo. Dunsford.

The following gentlemen were elected to honorary membership:—Geo. A. Cox, Dr. Kincaid, John Burnham, M.P., Dr. Pigeon, T. Blezard, M.P.P., Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Dr. Halliday, Rev. V. Clementi, A. White, R. A. Morrow, James F. Dennistoun, John Carnegie, M.P.P., Jas. Campbell and Geo. Hilliard, M.P. The secretary-treasurer's report showed a good balance on hand. The thanks of the members were, on motion of Mr. J. R. Stratton, seconded by Hon. Robt. Hamilton, tendered the retiring officers. The sharp weather of the last few days seems to render superfluous the motion of a curler, that the committee be requested to secure ice at the earliest possible moment. The trophies for competition consist, this year, of two cups and a medal. A grand season seems to be opening out for the roarin' game.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A Wild and Windy, Breezy and Abusive Meeting.

Water Street Hydrants—The Corporation Baby—Accounts—Collector's Bonds—Miscellaneous Mischief—"Your's an Infamous Liar"—Confusion—Curtain.

The Council met on Monday night.

Members present—Acting Mayor Menzies in the chair, Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, McNaughton, Paterson, Cahill, Douglas, Rutherford, Denne, Hartley.

After routine, upon the motion being put to confirm the minutes of the last two previous meetings, Mr. Sawers objected, asserting that the resolution moved by Mr. Rutherford at the September meeting, in reference to charges made by Mr. Sawers, appeared in the minutes in an abridged form, as compared with the way in which it passed the Council; he (Mr. Sawers) objected to the minutes and asked to have this resolution expunged from the minutes, and he moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that the resolution be so expunged. The motion was lost, and the minutes were confirmed. The yeas and nays having been demanded, Messrs. McNaughton and Sawers voted yea, and the rest of the Council nay.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received.

From Wilmot Cumberland, Toronto, stating that the terms of maintenance at the Home for Incurables was $2 per week.

From Miss Isabel Roger, secretary of the Peterborough Protestant Home, stating that the invalid Noble's nurse had left and another could not be procured. Referred to the Charity Committee with power to act.

From Mrs. Beck, regarding a Mrs. Williams, of Peterborough, who is at the General Hospital, Toronto, and is without means to pay her board there, and asking that the Council will furnish funds.

From John Burns, respecting the stopping up of Calvert by the railway on Reid street, which floods his cellar on London Street, asking that action be taken by the Council. Referred to the Street Inspector, as was also the drain on Park street, diverted by the O. & Q. railway, and also the trouble at Mrs. Derry's, Park street.

PETITIONS.

From Geo. Hilliard and others, asking for hydrants on Water street, between Dublin and Brock streets. The petition was properly signed. Received and a by-law ordered to be prepared.

Mr. Paterson presented anew the petition for three hydrants on Aylmer street, but there was no certificate of signatures.

A by-law to give effect to the former petition was duly passed, providing for a hydrant on each block, the rental thereof to be defrayed by local taxation.

The by-law for the Aylmer street hydrant received its first reading.

From Messrs. A. McCrea and F. E. Bell, asking for drain on Hunter street to the river from their residences, or asking leave to lay a tile drain. Permission granted to lay tile drain.

From Mr. A. P. Poussette, secretary of the Mechanics' Institute, asking for an increased grant, as the membership had doubled, the library increased, while the grant remained the same.—Referred to the Finance Committe to report.

From Mr. Frank Mason, asking leave to enclose portions of Antrim and Harvey streets (the same being dangerous for public use), near his green houses.—Referred to councillors for No. 4 ward with power to act.

From David Wallace and others, asking for a drain on the boundary in front of James Campbell's. Received.

All of the above accounts, except the accounts of Jno. Lachear and Mrs. O'Brien, which were paid, were referred to the Finance Committee to report, and that of E. Thompson, of which payment was refused.

THE CORPORATION BABY.

His Worship presented an account of $11.00 for keeping the corporation baby. He stated that the baby had been left on his counter, and would have staid there, unless he had promised on behalf of the Council to give $2 per week for its support. The account was paid.

An account of G. M. Roger for $78.20 for work on Park street, was settled by the payment of $60, the amount agreed to be advanced to Mr. Roger by the town.

FINANCE.

Mr. Paterson, chairman, presented the report of the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of the following accounts:—

Gas Company	$439 20
J. R. Stratton	21 10
R. Pidgeon	4 95

Report adopted.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Mr. Rutherford, chairman, presented the report of the committee recommending the payment of the account of P. McNamara, extra work—cellar to lock-up—$55.25, and also that a tube expander be procured.

Mr. Sawers objected to the payment of Mr. P. McNamara's account, as it was not regularly ordered.

Mr. Rutherford presented a certificate from Mr. Belcher, certifying to correctness of the account, and also a letter stating the necessity of the work.

Mr. Rutherford said the cellar resulted from observations and suggestions made by Mr. Sawers himself.

The report was adopted, Mr. Sawers only voting against its adoption.

COLLECTOR'S BOND.

The Acting Mayor said that it was necessary that the collector should be at work, and that Mr. Cummings objected to the bonds required from him, binding him and his sureties "forever." He wanted the bond drawn so that it would only hold him till he returned the roll.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Hartley, that the by-law, appointing the collector of taxes, and the bonds tendered by Mr. Cummings, be submitted to the town solicitor, to ascertain whether or not they can be legally made to meet Mr. Cummings' views, and that when the Council adjourn, it adjourn till to-morrow night to dispose of the matter.

MR. SAWERS' CHARGES.

Mr. Sawers moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that whereas Councillor Sawers has made serious charges against members of this Council, of having improper dealings with the town while members of the Council and in other respects, it is therefore resolved that the County Judge be requested to investigate said charges and report to this Council, and that Mr. E. E. Edwards be instructed to take charge of the matter, and that if Mr. Sawers does not prove his charges he shall pay the cost of the investigation, and that Mr. Sawers shall have charge of the prosecution at Mr. Rutherford's request.

Acting Mayor Menzies asked if Mr. Sawers intended councillors to employ a solicitor to prosecute themselves? (Laughter.)

Mr. Sawers said the honor of the town is its brightest jewel and we should protect it. That was the object of his resolution.

Mr. Rutherford was willing to have such investigation take place, but the Council had already adopted his resolution seconded by Mr. Denne, authorizing an investigation like that Mr. Sawers' resolution contemplated,

Mr. Sawers said if Mr. Rutherford objected to the expense involved, he was willing to have added to the resolution that if he did not prove his charges he was willing to pay all the expenses, and to take the charge of it at Mr. Rutherford's request.

Mr. Douglass,—I object to that. No member of the Council should have a contract with the town. (Great laughter.)

The motion was declared lost, only Mr. Sawers and Mr. McNaughton voting in its favor.

A LITTLE HOSE DEAL.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Denne, that the Clerk be authorized to take steps to collect from Mr. McNaughton the sum of $29, the price of fifty feet of hose and coupling—fifty feet of hose at fifty cents per foot, and one set of coupling at $4.

Mr. McNaughton, the purist of the Council, had borrowed this amount of hose and had not returned it, Mr. Rutherford remarked.

ITCHING FOR FAME.

Mr. Sawers requested the reporters to note that Mr. Rutherford declined to have added to his resolution that steps be taken to collect from Mr. Arthur Rutherford the sum of $300—profit on fire hall stables contract.

Mr. McNaughton admitted that he had borrowed hose from Mr. James English, but could not say that it was corporation hose.

Mr. Rutherford said that the hose borrowed by Mr. McNaughton had been so exposed and neglected that it was useless, and Mr. McNaughton was responsible for the loss of it.

Mr. Yelland said that no private individual had a right to borrow hose belonging to the town.

Mr. McNaughton said he would pay for the hose if he had destroyed it, which he denied. As to Mr. Rutherford's assertion of its destruction, he told a confounded lie. (Laughter.) If Mr. English said he had destroyed the hose he would pay for it.

The motion was put and lost, only the mover and seconder voting for it.

Moved by Mr. Sawers, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that the Clerk be instructed to take steps to collect from Councillor Rutherford the sum of $300, the amount made by him out of the fire stable contract.

Mr. Denne objected to the motion as involving an expenditure of money.

Mr. Rutherford characterized the resolution as a disgraceful and unprecedented outrage. There was not the slightest foundation for the mean insinuations conveyed by it, and he asserted that the Mayor should not put the motion, and called on him not to do so.

Mr. Sawers,—I tell you I will have the motion put.

Mr. Hartley,—The motion is not a proper one, Mr. Mayor, and you are not justified in entertaining it a moment. (To Mr. Sawers)—You know that the resolution is a buncombe one, and that there is no truth in the implied charges.

Mr. Sawers,—I can prove them!

Mr. Rutherford,—Your's an infamous liar!

The Mayor then flung down the motion and left the chair, and the Council separated.

Special Meeting.

A special meeting was held on Tuesday night.

Acting Mayor Menzies said that in reference to the Collector's bonds, he had consulted Mr. Edwards, and he said that the Collector's bond as drawn could not be altered without invalidating it; he would not change it, and Mr. Cummings would not sign it as it was. If he wished another clause inserted a new bond must be drawn.

After burning town gas for two or three hours, the Council decided to submit the proffered bond to Mr. C. A. Weller to ascertain whether or not the changes required by Mr. Cummings could be safely made, and the Council adjourned till Wednesday night.

DR. WILD'S LECTURE.

Men with Iron Shoes.

On last Wednesday night the capacious interior of the George Street Methodist Church was filled with a large audience to listen to Dr. Wild's lecture on the subject of "Men with Iron Shoes." Rev. Mr. Johnson, Lakefield, led with prayer, and Rev. Mr. Shaw, acting as chairman, introduced the lecturer, who was received with applause.

Before proceeding with his subject, Dr. Wild complimented the congregation on the capacity and beauty of their church, adding that the growth and thrift of Peterborough had impressed him more forcibly than any other town in Canada since his return.

He said the Bible was a wonderful book, not only as to its antiquity and the multiplicity of subjects dealt with, but also for its immense and indispensable influence upon the civilization and christianization of the the world. The study of the Bible was an important duty, and a more important one was arriving at a correct mode of interpreting it. The Bible was a book that developed as our understanding of it became better. He clearly pointed out the difference between the doctrine of evolution and that of developement—is recognized a divine factor, and that placed the potentiality of development in the matter itself. The speaker defended his original modes of intrepreting the Bible, asserting that so long as he did not change any vital principle his mode of interpretation was justifiable. The bible in both material and a spiritual sense was written for man, whose existence combined both the the spiritual and the material, and a proper understanding of the material references of the Bible was absolutely essential to the correct interpretation and application of its spiritual truths. The "horrible pit and the miry clay" was instanced as an example. It was a mode of punishment used in those days, and when its physical nature was understood the spiritual application of the psalmist's reference was easy. He pointed out the dual meaning of the word "seed," used so frequently in the Old Testament. One meant the literal descendants of Abraham, the other, all the children of God by faith. All who ignored this distinction would make wrong interpretations of the Bible. Thus Tom Paine had fallen into the fatal error of trying to make Jehovah's denunciations of Judah and His promise of blessing to Israel contradictory. If he had known that since the year 725 B.C. the Bible made a distinction between Judah and Israel he would have escaped making himself absurd. The devices on the banners of the twelve sons of Jacob were also instanced. The inscription on the banners indicated the physical and material conditions of the twelve sons respectively. The devices on the banners explained the physical conditions of the owners, and also indicated the nature of the different portions of the promised land that fell to them in the division of the land by lot. The portion of Asshur, the man with iron shoes, was specially emphasized, and the distinguishing characteristics of the tribe pointed out—tribal distinctions, which descended from father to son so surely that in the inhabitants of England could be found men with iron shoes—that is, those who were fond of wearing iron on their shoes. The Copts, the descendants of Ephraim had no aspirate in their language, and their descendants among the English ignored the use of the letter "H." These same distinctions physically, could be traced through all the ten tribes, and were reproduced in modified forms amongst the Anglo-Saxon race, thus showing that the English and their cognate descendants were Israelites. Any one thus reading the history of the Hebrews must see that there was a God in their history, and the history of the British nation showed the existence of the same "divine quantity." England's physical power was out of all proportion to the other powers of Europe, yet with an army of 144,000 she held at bay the 9,000,000 soldiers of the rest of Europe. Her influence in the world could not be accounted for except by the presence of God with her. The speaker eloquently recounted the abortive attempts of the Spanish Armada and Napoleon I to crush and humble England, because they were prevented by divine interposition. The English were God's executive for carrying out his plans for redeeming the world to Christ, and as the heirs of Israel in the exercise of this executive function, they were the instruments for the christianization of the world. The reverend gentleman then recited with grand effect Bishop Heber's hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," and asserted that Britons and their descendants alone had the right to sing that hymn. Other instances were quoted to show that the British were the Israelites for God's purposes. In proof of the correctness of his interpretations, Dr. Wild showed that he had deduced from the Bible the fact of the Egyptian war. He showed by ingenious calculation how in 100 years English speaking people would outnumber all others, and that war would be an impossibility. The address was thoughtful, eloquent and instructive, and as the chairman said in thanking the lecturer, the audience had heard something they could carry home and think about.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FIRE AT ASPHODEL.

On Sunday morning, about 4 o'clock, a barn belonging to Mr. Thos. Cuthbertson, residing about half a mile north of Norwood, was destroyed by fire. In the barn at the time, were 280 bushels of wheat, 140 of barley, 850 stooks of oats, 32 loads of hay, a large quantity of farming implements, &c., which were all consumed, as well as a quantity of unthreshed peas and three pigs, which were in close proximity to the barn. The grain and hay were the produce of this year's crops; and Mr. Cuthbertson is now left without a vestige of his hard summer's work. It was with the greatest difficulty a valuable team of horses were rescued from the flames, so near was the fire to them that a portion of the harness was burned in being taken from its place in the stable. The barn was insured in the London Mutual for $100, and its contents insured for $720 in the Gore Insurance Company. The utmost sympathy is felt for Mr. Cuthbertson in his loss, which is estimated at about $1,100.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Building operations are now being extensively carried on in our village, and in almost every street can be seen masons or carpenters busy at work. On our north corner Mr. Roxburgh has now under way a handsome brick building, to take the place of the old roughcast structure which had done such good service in the past. The construction of our new school building, in the hands of Mr. John Alford, of Peterborough, is being pushed forward rapidly, while a number of other buildings, too numerous to mention, are approaching completion. The steeple to the Anglican church has just been completed, and certainly in a masterpiece of workmanship. Soon, perhaps, however, the steeple will require a new church, or some necessary alterations to adapt it in appearance to the improvement made upon the edifice by the addition of the steeple. The parsonage and grounds of the Methodist church have also undergone considerable addition and repairing, which have added materially to the value and appearance of that property. Other places in our village, either by alterations or additions, are also being materially improved, all indicating that Norwood is keeping pace with the times.

PERSONAL.

Messrs. Pratt and Ross, of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, arrived in town on Monday, and have since made an official inspection of the bridge abutments and other stone work on that line in this locality. Messrs. E. Cox and — Pringle, of the Royal Insurance Company, were in town last week, to arrange a settlement with the directors and proprietors of the Norwood cheese factory, recently destroyed by fire. It is very satisfactory to know that an equitable settlement was arrived at, and that all connected with the factory were highly pleased with the manner in which the details were conducted by Mr. Cox.

A LUNATIC'S FREAK.

Some excitement was caused in the neighborhood of Sherlock street, Birmingham, on Tuesday, by the spectacle of a middle-aged man, evidently of unsound mind, dangling in his night shirt from an attic window. A number of passers-by promptly assembled in the street below with the object of catching the unfortunate man if he should fall, while the police gave the alarm to the inmates, and ascended to the attic story. It was discovered that the man—Barret, a retired printer—was hanging by the tail of his shirt, upon which the window had chanced to close as he was getting out. No little difficulty was experienced in releasing him, as it was necessary to grasp the shirt firmly before raising the window. But the feat was successfully accomplished; and the lunatic, who was in a very exhausted state, was at once removed to the asylum.—London Times.

AN OWL EIGHTY-THREE YEARS OLD.

[Norfolk Landmark.]

An aged owl, the pet of a household on Middle street, Portsmouth, North Carolina, passed away recently and was buried at night with distinguished honors slow music and the recitation of appropriate lines from the "Burial of Sir John Moore." Above the grave of the pet bird (which by the way, was dubbed William) is the following inscription:

"Sacred to the memory of William Owl born February 22, 1800; died August 22, 1883." The owl came from Newbern, N.C., and, it is said, was actually eighty-three years old, having been handed down from family to family in Newbern and his history being accurately preserved.

PETERBOROUGH, OCT. 25, 1883.

MURDERING HER CHILD.

THE CRIME FOR WHICH MARIA McCABE IS TO DIE.

HAMILTON, Oct. 18.—The Tribune publishes the following account of the crime of Maria McCabe, recently sentenced to death:—"On August 2nd, children playing in the yard at 182 Hughson street north, discovered in a disused cistern what was afterwards found to be the body of a young child. When the police and the coroner were notified the mother of the child was soon connected with its death. The mother, a young unmarried girl, named Maria McCabe, was arrested and confessed the crime. The child, a boy, was born at the city hospital, and afterwards went with his mother to Mrs. Foster's, on Hughson street, where the young woman was employed as a domestic. When about to leave that place she threw the child into the cistern, which held two or three feet of water, and left it to drown.

A CHILD BURNED IN ITS CRADLE.

The Free Press, Ottawa, publishes further particulars of the death of Mr. Bourgeois' child by burning. It seems that Mrs. Bourgeois left her little boy, 5 years of age, to watch his infant brother, over 2 years old, who was then asleep in the cradle, while she went to Mr. Watters' store to get some groceries. In her absence the little boy got hold of some matches and set fire to a newly-filled mattress, and ran into the street. In a very few minutes the building was in a blaze. A number of men who were standing by did all in their power to get to the child, but it was useless, the heat being so intense. After the flames had been subdued the body of the child was found burnt to a crisp. The poor woman, whose husband only left three weeks ago for the woods, is in a pitiable condition.

PAUPER CHILDREN PROBLEM.

The object of the education of pauper children, writes Mr. Osborne Morgan, M. P., is to eradicate the workhouse taint which shows itself from generation to generation, and to fit them by this process of dispauperization to become useful and independent citizens. "Unfortunately the great educational lever is wanting: the family tie between parent and child, which counts for so much in the daily lives of both rich and poor, either does not exist at all, or has at the very outset of life been rudely severed. The pauper population, especially the female part, is drifting into the large towns, and swelling the aggregate of want and misery and crime. Surely the best thing for the state generally, as well as for the children themselves, is to devise some scheme by which, after due preparation and training, they can be transplanted to some country where they can have a fair start in a new world in which all their antecedents will be forgotten, and which needs the very thing that the country they have left possesses in abundance."

SALE BY CANDLE.

Sale by candle is a method of auction that was at one time common throughout England and Scotland and that still survives in some places south of the Tweed. In a form slightly differing from that which used to be almost universal in England, it may to this day be witnessed in Bremen, although the municipal authorities of that city have decided to abolish it at the end of the year. Every Friday afternoon in a room in the old Exchange a judge and his secretary take their seats, attended by a crier and a servant dressed in a flame-colored coat and supplied with a box of tiny candles, each of which is intended to burn for one minute. At a given signal a candle is lighted and the bidding for what happens to be for sale begins. At each offer from a would-be purchaser the burning candle is extinguished and a new one is lighted, and the property is only disposed of when a candle burns itself out ere a fresh bid has been announced by the crier. This custom dates from mediæval times, and it is said that for 500 years sales have been held and candles have been burned every Friday without interruption.

PHOSPHORUS, LIME, IRON, CALISAYA or Peruvian Bark. Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya combines these valuable remedies in the form of a delicious cordial. Phosphorous, a brain food; Lime, an excitant of nutrition; Iron, a blood maker; and Calisaya or Peruvian Bark, the only specific for chills and fever, and all conditions of nervous prostration and general debility. Phosphates are the only agents known that act immediately on the stomach, perfecting the digestion and assimilation of food, and determining the formation of pure blood. No combination ever discovered is so remarkable in building up constitutions run down with old complaints that have heretofore resisted all ordinary methods of treatment. Sold by all druggists.

POLICE COURT RECORD.

On Friday last, the adjourned charges and counter-charges against each between Messrs. E. J. Toker and J. R. Stratton, alluded to in our last issue, as arising out of an altercation on George Street last Saturday, were heard before Police Magistrate Dumble. Mr. W. A. Stratton appeared for Mr. Stratton, as prosecuting and defending counsel respectively, and Mr. C. A. Weller appeared for Mr. Toker in his case as complainant, whilst Mr. A. P. Poussette defended him in his case as defendant.

It was agreed to use the evidence in both charges of assault is common.

The first charge heard was that of Stratton vs. Toker, assault, to which Mr. Toker pleaded not guilty.

Mr J. R. Stratton, the first witness sworn, testified.—On Saturday morning, 13th inst. as I was proceeding to my office, I met Mr. John McClelland on George street. We stopped opposite the branch store of Mr. Adam Hall, and had entered into a conversation when Mr. Toker came up and addressed me in reference to an article that had appeared in the EXAMINER. I told him to go on and mind his own business, as I didn't wish to talk to him at all. I told him that anything he had to say to me to say it in his paper. I told him the second time to go on, when he struck at me with his fist, and then followed with a blow from his heavy walking stick, which I warded off with my umbrella. He made repeated attempts at blows, following me a short distance up the sidewalk, calling out "coward." When he struck at me with his fist he hit me on the right shoulder. When he struck at me with the stick I guarded with the umbrella, and the blow turned as hit me on the left arm.

The umbrella used was produced, and was torn and broken beyond redemption.

To Mr. Poussette,—The first words Mr. Toker used were in allusion to an article in the EXAMINER headed "A Base and Baseless Insinuation." The article was in my handwriting. I did not hear Mr. Toker ask me to retract a remark in reference to an insult to a deceased relative. He hit me on the breast with his left hand. He followed me up about twenty feet. He hit my umbrella in striking at me two or three times on that occasion. He called me a "coward." Didn't hear him say that I was a coward because I insulted a woman.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton,—While he was pursuing me he was using abusive and threatening language. There was no insult in the article intended to any lady.

Mr. John McClelland.—I saw Mr. Toker aim a blow with his fist at Mr. Stratton within striking distance. He followed Mr. Stratton up. When Mr. Toker came up he demanded an apology. Mr. Stratton denied that he had insulted anybody. Mr. Toker asserted that he had insulted a lady and demanded an apology. Mr. Stratton told him to go about his business, and that if he had anything to say to say it in his paper. Other words followed and then the blow.

To Mr. Poussette.—I saw Mr. Toker attempt to strike Mr. Stratton, and the latter warded off the blow with his umbrella. This was after he had struck at him with his fist.

To Police Magistrate.—I think Mr. Stratton raised his umbrella to strike Mr. Toker after he was struck with Mr. Toker's fist.

To Mr. Poussette,—Mr. Toker struck at Mr. Stratton twice; the second time he was not near enough to hit him. Mr. Stratton came after him and asked him to lay down his stick. Mr. Toker then raised his stick to strike, Mr. Stratton retired, picked up a stone and threw it at him. It was thrown with some force. Subsequently there was considerable verbal cross-firing. Mr. Toker was facing Mr. Stratton when the stone was thrown.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton.—Mr. Toker was approaching threateningly when Mr. Stratton picked up the stone. Mr. Stratton denied that he had insulted a lady. Mr. Stratton urged Mr. Toker several times to go about his business.

Mr. Charles Billings.—I saw Messrs. Stratton, Toker and McClelland talking together. I saw Mr. Toker give Mr. Stratton a pushing blow. The blow hit Mr. Stratton and pushed him back.

To Mr. Poussette.—After the blow with the fist Mr. Stratton raised his umbrella as if to stick, and Mr. Toker's blow was spent on the umbrella. When the blow was struck I was about half a yard from Mr. Toker. There was some talk about a newspaper article, and Mr. Stratton called Mr. Toker a "d——d blackleg," and then came the blow.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton.—I would naturally raise an umbrella in the same way if I was threatened with a similar blow from a stick.

Mr. Thos. Dolan.—I came up at the end of the battle. I did not see the stone thrown. I saw Mr. Toker making two charges with a stick on Mr. Stratton.

THE DEFENCE.

Mr. E. J. Toker, defendant testified: Last Saturday morning I was going down George street to my office. I saw Mr. Stratton and Mr. John McClelland at Mr. Hall's stove store. Mr. Stratton's back was toward me as I came down street. I faced Mr. Stratton as I came opposite him and said I wanted an explanation, and said, "I don't care what you say about me, but you have insulted a lady." He denied having done so. He told me to go on; he didn't want anything to say to me, and called me a "slouch." I demanded an apology for the article and, on his renewing his refusal I meant to give him a blow in the face. He retired. I raised my stick and it came in contact with the umbrella. I then went off about my business. Just after I inflicted somebody called out, "Don't throw a stone." A heavy stone was thrown, but I didn't see who threw it, as my back was turned.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton—Mr. Stratton said that he didn't insult a lady. I was not drunk and had not taken any liquor that day.

Mr. McClelland, recalled:—I heard Mr. Stratton say, "you're a slouch and a blackleg," after the blow had been given with Mr. Toker's fist.

Mr. Toker's counsel agreed to let the evidence given in the former case decide Mr. Toker's charge of common assault against Mr. Stratton.

ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO MAIM.

The first witness called was Mr. Toker:—I had farther difficulty with Mr. Stratton in front of the Review office. I came out of the front entrance of the Review office, intending to go upstairs by side entrance, and before I had stepped off the steps I came face to face with Mr. J. R. Stratton, who was coming down George street. I said to him, "You're an infernal coward to insult a lady and run from a man." He passed on, remarking that he would make me dance for it in the Police Court. I then asked him to stand still; he kept on. When he retired and abated my getting satisfaction, I went back and, as somebody called out, I turned and saw Mr. Stratton advancing with an umbrella, in the attitude of striking at me. Without turning round I struck out and felt my stick strike something, but am not sure whether it was the umbrella or Mr. Stratton. As I struck I saw Mr. Stratton partly off the walk, and I returned to the office. I heard someone say, "He's throwing stones," and I saw a stone pass me before I had turned. Before I had taken more than another step a heavy stone struck me on the head. I was on the office step. I received a considerable bruise and the skin was broken. I have been receiving treatment. It was a little before ten o'clock.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton—I had just stepped out of the office door; I saw nobody on the street except Mr. J. R. Stratton, and had spoken to no person. I have no recollection of speaking to any body while standing on the step. I called Mr. Stratton an "infernal coward." I went on with other words immediately following these words. I did not strike him. I followed him a few yards. I saw him with the clubbed umbrella and I turned and hit him. The blow of the second stone broke the skin so that the blood flowed. If the fight had continued I could not have used the injured hand.

Mr. L. Sherlock, Review office book-keeper:—I was standing in Review office when I saw Mr. Stratton pass down, followed by Mr. Toker, making use of some language. He was returning when Mr. Stratton turned and raised his umbrella as if to strike, and I sang out, "look out." Mr. Toker swung round his stick and struck the umbrella and possibly Mr. Stratton. Mr. Stratton seemed to slip on the walk. I saw Mr. Stratton pick up a stone and throw it. The second stone passed into the office (stone produced—about the size of a goose egg). I saw Mr. Toker's hand bleeding and swollen.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton—I was of opinion that Mr. Toker was pursuing Mr. Stratton. Mr. Toker came from north of the Review door. I do not think that Mr. Toker could have been standing on the Review entrance steps. I did not see the stone strike Mr. Toker.

To Police Magistrate—I couldn't tell whether it was Mr. Toker's blow that made Mr. Stratton slip.

Mr. Wm. Walsh, druggist, testified to treating a bruise on Mr. Toker's right hand. I have no reasonable grounds for believing it a serious wound. Thought he would recover. (Laughter.)

Mr. Menzies, foreman of the Review:—I saw Mr. Stratton going southward, followed by Mr. Toker. I saw Mr. Stratton turn and strike Mr. Toker. Mr. Toker made a swinging stroke in return. Mr. Toker was coming toward his office at the time of the blow. Mr. Stratton held the umbrella by the small end. Saw Mr. Stratton throw the stones. When Mr. Stratton turned to strike Mr. Toker he was about three feet from him.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton—The two stones were thrown in immediate succession. Think Mr. Toker was facing Mr. Stratton when the last stone was thrown. Mr. Stratton came behind Mr. Toker about three feet on tip-toes before striking him. On being cross-questioned as to the improbability of a man requiring to go on tip-toes at so short a distance to strike with an umbrella, witness said he was willing to "amend his evidence" and make it from three to six feet.

Mr. W. A. Stratton—We don't want any "cooked" evidence, that will do.

Henry Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan.—I saw part of the affair. As I came out of the Review office I think I saw Mr Stratton on the walk. I heard a tussle, and the first I saw was both an umbrella and a stick up. Thought that the umbrella struck Mr. Toker on the shoulders. At that time the parties were partially facing each other. Saw Mr. Stratton try to get a stick out of a pile of slabs, the stick not coming, Mr. Stratton then picked up a stone and threw it. He threw a second stone.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton—Mr. Toker was almost facing Mr. Stratton when the umbrella was raised, and when Mr. Toker struck with his stick, and had not his back turned towards him. I heard nobody shout "look out."

Mr. J. J. Lundy.—I was standing at my own entrance, about twelve feet from the Review office entrance, talking with Mr. Toker and Mr. Wrighton, when I saw Mr. Stratton coming out of Mr. Dumble's office entrance. We were talking about the previous occurrence. When I saw Mr. Stratton coming I left, expecting that there would be further trouble. Mr. Wrighton left before I did to go down street south. As I was on my way up stairs I saw Mr. Stratton pass, and Mr. Toker accost him and pursue him. I am positive that Mr. Toker could not be coming out of the Review office door when Mr. Stratton came forward. Was talking with him for quite a while.

John Fanning.—Saw Mr. Stratton and Mr. Toker making motions with their umbrella and stick. Saw Mr. Stratton's hat fly into the street. Saw Mr. Stratton throw two stones. When I first saw them I didn't think there was a row.

At this point Mr. W. A. Stratton said that since the adjournment (on Monday) two of his most important witnesses, who saw the beginning of the fray, and whose evidence was entirely contradictory of the prosecutor's, had left the country to reside in the United States. These witnesses would have given material evidence. At any rate the evidence already given would not sustain the charge of wounding with intent to maim. After a long argument the magistrate ruled it was only a case of common assault, and that the evidence of defendant was admissable.

J. R. Stratton.—On Saturday morning I laid an information before the Police Magistrate, and was going to the Police Court to have summonses issued. Saw Mr. Toker and Mr. Lundy conversing a little north of Mr. Lundy's hall entrance. As I approached Mr. Lundy went up stairs. As I was advancing towards Mr. Toker he said, "You d——d scoundrel you run from a man." As I was passing he drew his stick and hit me on the side of the head. I walked on and he pursued me. I told him I would have him before the Police Court. I walked on past his office door, he pursued me with his stick raised, using insulting epithets. I turned around and struck him with the umbrella. At the same time he swung his stick and hit my umbrella. I was turning at this time to go to the Police Magistrate and take out a second summons. Mr. Toker was not far from me, when I attempted to pick up a stick, and failing in that, picked up and threw two stones, the first of which hit Mr. Toker. The blow from Mr. Toker's stick struck me, and produced a wound which discolored the skin.

To Mr. W. A. Stratton.—Just after the second blow at me a stick not being come-at-able, I picked up the stones and threw them in rapid succession.

The charge of assault with intent against Mr. Stratton was reduced to a charge of common assault and battery, and in addition to evidence already given, I [illegible] was standing [illegible] and heard [illegible] Mr. Toker was [illegible] on his opponent.

The three counsels then made their arguments.

In the charges of Police Constable Adams—breach of the peace—both parties admitted them, and a fine of $1 each and costs was imposed.

In the first series of assault charges Mr. Toker was fined $10 and costs—$2.40—and in the second series of charges Mr. Toker was fined $10 and costs—$2.40, and the charge of assault against Mr. Toker was dismissed without costs.

MILLBROOK.

Mr. Spiers, of Lindsay, is again at the station, for the purpose of buying grain.

Mr. Jacob Atkins, who has been absent in Manitoba the past season, arrived home last week and is on hand to receive cash for Major Howden.

OMEMEE.

We are informed that over 2,000 bushels of wheat and barley were taken to the storehouses in this village on Monday last.

Miss Millie English, organist of the Methodist church, was presented with an address and beautiful the service in recognition of her long and faithful contributions to the efficiency of the musical services of the church.

NORWOOD.

The Register learns that a young son of Mr. Henry Cope while playing in the grounds on Wednesday met with a painful accident. It appears that young Cope and a number of other boys were playing "pull away," and that while running across the grounds Cope was accidentally tripped, and so severely injured that he was unable to get up quickly. The consequence was that the boys coming immediately behind were in their turn tripped by Cope, and falling on him rendered him insensible. The young fellow was carried home and placed under medical treatment. He is scarcely expected to recover.

COBOURG.

Mr. Crossen will soon commence the manufacture of sleeping coaches.

Over three thousand two hundred commercial travellers, soliciting orders for various merchandise, visit Cobourg every year.

Mr. John Purser has received an order for three thousand gallons of his famous beer from a wholesale liquor dealer of Montreal. Some of it is for shipment to England.

Mr. Manson has secured the Government contract for dredging at Belleville harbor. The job will amount to ten or fifteen thousand dollars. His fleet left here on Monday night.

CAVAN.

On Friday, 5th instant, says the Message, at the residence of Mr. William Shaw, front of Cavan, while unloading wood, a large stick fell on a smaller one, splitting it in two—one part falling about the centre, falling and downwards on Mr. Shaw's little two year-old son, cutting a hole in its head. The child was brought to Dr. Burnham, who called in Dr. Turner in for consultation, when they discovered the skull was fractured. Having put the little patient under the influence of chloroform, a careful examination of the skull and a portion of the skull was found depressed, making pressure on the brain. This was raised and put in place with some difficulty. We understand the little one is since doing well.

BOBCAYGEON.

The alterations to the swing bridge are completed, and Mr. Kennedy, the foreman of the works, has made a first-class job. Previous to the repairs it took four men to swing the bridge.

Mr. J. T. Robinson, the local grain buyer, shipped 700 bags of wheat on Monday. So far he has bought over four thousand bushels of good quality wheat. The wheat of Verulam and Harvey is always exceptionally good.

A drove of cattle was collected in the yard of the Rokeby Hotel on Monday, previous to being shipped to Buffalo. The drove contained 105 head, and were chiefly two to three year old steers. A large proportion were fairly bred animals. The farmers are beginning to find that it pays to give more attention to their stock.

PORT HOPE.

Trinity College Football club was defeated in a match last Saturday week by two points by Upper Canada Football club.

At the last Durham Rifle Association meeting Mr. A. A. Adams made the unusual score of five consecutive bullseyes.

On the arrival of the train from the west Wednesday morning at 9.30 the express messenger on the train handed to Mr. Thos. Spry, the messenger here, a large package of money said to have contained $10,000. Mr. Spry at once locked the money in the safe in the express office in the station, and went about his other duties, which occupied between ten to fifteen minutes. When he went to get the package to take down town, after unlocking the safe, he found some thief had been there before him and opened the safe, taken out the satchel containing the money, locked it again and made his escape. Up to the present no trace of either the money or thief has been found.

On Tuesday evening His Worship the Mayor, A. von Hugel, Esq., forwarded to His Excellency the Marquis of Lorne an address from the corporation of the town of Port Hope, expressing satisfaction with the administration of the retiring Governor-General and deep regret at his departure. The address was printed on white satin, and beautifully painted by Mrs Hugel. It is probably the handsomest specimen of its kind which has ever been sent from Port Hope, and we believe will take a conspicuous place among the tokens of esteem which His Excellency has received from the people of the Dominion. The printing of the address was done in the Times office.

CAMPBELLFORD.

The basement of the R. C. church which was leased by the Board of Education recently, and rented for school purposes, is now being made use of.

One night last week a number of young men of "polished manners and fine sense," after [illegible] with paint and bespattered the wood work and store front of J. M. Ferris & Co., in consideration we suppose of some fancied wrong perpetrated upon their worthy personages.

Ernest Cunnabam, son of Mr. R. Cunnabam, merchant, of Campbellford, has gone to take up his abode in New York. He will enter the mercantile trade in that city with one of its firms, and probably make it his permanent home.

The old Presbyterian church building has been brought down the hill safely, upon rollers, and on Tuesday the workmen who are moving the big load reached the corner of Front and Bridge streets. Instead of the hymns of praise and preaching of the Gospel being heard in the old building, its walls will in future echo with the sound of the hammer and anvil. Mr. McCormick, of Peterborough, is carpenter and doing the job.

It may not be [illegible] of the deliciousness which the American epicure claims for it, for shipments from this side continue even as late as this in the year, and the demand for it is as brisk as ever. Mr. Frederick Keller, of Seymour, who is an expert in catching frogs, still finds employment about the streams, and made a shipment of frog meat a few days ago. The frogs are now large, fat and healthy, and less numerous than during the early summer, but captured with less difficulty when discovered. Mr. Keller has made many a dollar by this industry.

Wednesday morning Frank Deacon was badly injured while working at a threshing machine on the farm of John Burns. His clothes got caught in the shaft of the machine near the gearing, and he went round and round several times, each time striking against the thresher. Deacon's clothes were torn completely from his body, his side was injured, some of his ribs were badly broken and his body was badly bruised. He will recover.

LINDSAY.

There were only two cases at the Chancery sittings in Lindsay. The people don't seem to have enough enterprise even to get into chancery.

The town tax collector has made the valiant resolve to have all taxes collected before the end of the year. As an inducement to taxpayers—of whom there are many—to pay at once, a sliding scale of discounts has been arranged, which allows so much off for cash.

Mr. E. R. Powell had a bad fall recently that confined him to his house. He was standing on a box on a scaffolding at Mr. Robert Parkin's, near the junction, south ward, and by some means his foot caught and he fell to the ground a distance of eleven feet. He fell on his back and was badly shaken. He is recovering under the care of Dr. Burrows.

The iron material of the new railway bridge was this week put together. There now remains considerable rivetting to be done, which will probably take about a week to finish. Then the ties and rails will be put down and the bridge is ready for the train service. The iron work has received a thorough coat of red lead paint.

THE RODDEN-BARR LIBEL SUIT.

At the recent assizes at Lindsay, John C. Rodden v. Charles D. Barr, an action for libel, was decided. The libellous article complained of was published in the Lindsay Post of April 28, and was the report of a chancery suit between Mr. Rodden and the Lindsay gas company. It stated that Mr. Rodden admitted under cross-examination that he had committed perjury, and that several prominent citizens of Lindsay had in court testified that they would not believe him under oath. On this being published Mr. Rodden issued the writ, commencing the present action. In the next issue of the Post Mr. Barr published a correction, regretting that the former report was not correct, and going on to say:—"What Mr. Rodden did admit was that a true bill for perjury had been found against him, and that only one citizen of Lindsay had testified in court that he would not believe him on oath. It came out on re-examination that the prosecutor had left the country. Under these circumstances we readily correct the misstatement by way of apology to Mr. Rodden." This apology was not considered sufficient by plaintiff, who pressed his suit. The defendant, Mr. Barr, paid five dollars into court and offered to pay costs up to that time. This was not accepted, and the present trial resulted. Mr. Barr, himself, was the only witness called. He stated that he did not attend the chancery trial personally, but got his information from the manager of the gas company, Mr. Taylor; that he did not write the report for two days afterwards, and could not swear positively that he correctly wrote down what Mr. Taylor told him; but that he believed he was writing the truth at the time, although it afterwards turned out that he was in error. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, on the ground that Mr. Barr was guilty of negligence in not taking steps to ensure the correctness of his report, and they assessed the damages at fifty dollars. His lordship ruled that the defendant must pay full costs. Mr. Blackstock and Mr. F. D. Moss for the plaintiff; McIntyre & Stewart for defendant.

APSLEY SHOW.

The Burleigh and united township Agricultural Society held their annual exhibition on Wednesday the 10th inst. The day was most unfavorable, as there was a fall of rain, notwithstanding there was a large turnout. There was a large collection of horses in all classes, showing a marked improvement over [illegible] Thos. A. Bridgeman showed his thoroughbred Durham bull, [illegible] of the kind in this district. Newspaper Libel.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a report of the Rodden libel suit, disposed of at the recent assizes at Lindsay. The suit was brought against Mr. C. D. Barr, proprietor of the Post, the article complained of alleging in effect, that Rodden had been guilty of perjury. The result was a verdict of $50 damages and costs. This verdict has considerable meaning for a newspaper man, and we extend to Mr. Barr our sympathy. He has, it seems, fallen upon evil days in the matter. The libel complained of was due to a misconception, and was unattended, therefore, with malice of any kind. Virtually, the alleged libel was merely, it seems, a "clerical error," such as might arise under many circumstances. The mistake was acknowledged in the next issue of the paper—the earliest possible moment—and Mr. Barr had done all in his power to atone for the possible mischief that might arise from his error. But Mr. Rodden was not satisfied with an apology; he exacted his "pound of flesh," and he got it, in the shape of fifty dollars damages, although the jury decided that the alleged libel was simply an error and was entirely unconnected with malice. While it is obviously proper and necessary that newspapers should be as nearly sure as possible of their facts, especially when the character and good standing of the subjects of their reports are involved, yet it is easily seen that newspapers are liable to suffer, if the law of libel is applied to them in its cast-iron entirety. Newspaper men are, after all, only ordinary mortals, and have no intuitive faculty of finding out facts; they can not be personally cognisant of every fact dealt with—they must depend on others for their information. If such information prove to be incorrect, the newspaper is not to blame, and an apology is the only way the mischief that may thus unconsciously be done, can be atoned for. If newspapers were compelled to furnish attested vouchers for all the news they publish, they would have to "shut up shop." But if due diligence is used to arrive at the truth of any given piece of news, and the event prove that the truth was not reached, it seems that an apology and rectification of the error, when no malice exists, should be sufficient. Generally, an item or article or newspaper statement, though libellous, should not be made libel unless malice can be shown.

Broken Pledges.

During the last Ontario election contest everybody will recall the stamping tour of Mr. John Carnegie, and what a wealth of benefit he was to bring upon the electors of this riding in case the latter gave him their support. Among other things, the Lakefield dam was a subject upon which he was particularly eloquent and fertile of promise. The condition of the dam was attributed to the dilatoriness and incapacity of the Mowat Government and their reckless disregard of the interests of this riding. But salvation was to come from the great Tory party. The paternal Dominion Government, ever watchful for the humblest interest of the humblest citizen, had had its eye on the wicked and unfaithful Mowat Government, especially in the matter of the Lakefield dam. Mr. Carnegie, speaking for the Government, unhesitatingly asserted that the latter in- [illegible] this interest of the improved navigation, to undertake that work and put it at once in a condition of thorough repair. But the system of irrigation is now past and the first step, preliminary or actual, has not been taken to redeem the promise made through Mr. John Carnegie. The dam is in a very bad condition and navigation is grossly impeded by its dilapidation. It is looking badly and it is easily possible that the next spring's freshets may sweep it away altogether, thus the interests of navigators have been injuriously affected, and the interests of local manufacturers are threatened. Mr. Carnegie and the Dominion Government are responsible for the inconvenience that arises from the shaky condition of the dam. The former procured or gave publicity to the determination of the Dominion Government to take charge of the dam. Under such circumstances the Ontario Government could not be expected to expend their funds on a work that was to be diverted from their control. But the result is no more than we predicted at the time. Mr. Carnegie's promises, in this regard especially, were plainly the merest buncombe, and those who supported him on the strength of such promises, must now begin to realise how they were duped by a designing politician, who was willing to blow hot and cold, promise anything and everything, particularly in respect to the matter in question, if he could thereby secure political support.

The Dakota Cry.

When the Reform journals wish to attack the political sins of the Dominion Government they are never at a loss for a text. Jobbery and corruption have become so rampant that the instances of them crop up at every turning, and there is no need to draw upon the imagination in the slightest. There could be no stronger proof of the political honesty of the Ontario Government and the purity of their legislative record, than the fact that the Tory journals in order to get at a grievance and topic for grumbling, have to resort to the most ridiculous shifts. The dull, stale, flat and unprofitable maunderings of the Mail, aped by its satellites, upon Hon. Mr. Hardy's interest in a farm in Dakota are simply ludicrous. They are not worth nothing except that they are evidences of the organ being entirely at a loss for a subject of attack on the Mowat Government, when so supremely silly a cry should be resorted to. What if Mr. Hardy, the individual, owns a farm in Dakota? Can that in any way interfere with the discharge of the duties of Hon. Mr. Hardy, the minister? It is charged that his interest in that country will tempt him to divert immigration from Ontario in order to secure the settlement of his property in the Northwest. Even supposing a possibility, which only the Mail's utter lack of principle could suggest, how many settlers would it divert to colonize four or five hundred acres in a country where the settler is never satisfied with a smaller farm than two or three hundred acres? The idea is utterly preposterous, and only shows how hard put the Mail must be to find a chink in the armour of the Ontario Government, when it attempts to magnify a little fleck like its Dakota illusion into a political crime. If the Mail and its brood want real work, let them set about cleaning the political stables of Augeus at Ottawa.

Lord Lansdowne Arrived.

On Tuesday Lord Lansdowne set his foot on Canadian soil for the first time, landing at Quebec. Of course an address was at once fired at him, to which, in reply, he made a modest, sensible and feeling speech. We heartily welcome the new Governor-General. It will be five years the 23rd of next November, since Lord Lorne landed in Canada.

Ladies, look for your Linen Collars at Tunbull's where you will find the Latest American Styles in all sizes.

The Presbyterian Year Book for 1883 gives a great deal of useful information relating to the progress and prosperity of the church. The Presbytery of Toronto is the largest in the church. St. Andrew's church, of which Rev D. J. Macdonnell is minister, has the largest Sunday school attendance; but with respect to accessions for the year, Missionary contributions and numerical membership, the first place is accorded to Knox church. with the Rev H. M. Parsons as minister. Knox church, Galt, has the greatest number of families among the congregations of the Presbyterian church in Canada. The number is 430. Following this are St Andrew's church, London, 360; Knox church, Stratford, 282; St Andrew's church, Toronto, 281. The highest contribution from any single congregation in the church to home missions was from Crescent church, Montreal, $3,906. The highest contribution from any single congregation in the church for foreign missions, was from Knox church, Galt, $1,375. The congregation with the highest numerical membership is Knox church, Galt, 857. St. Andrew's church, Winnipeg, Rev C. P. Pitblado, had the largest number of additions to any congregation during the year. The number was 204. Next comes Knox church, Toronto, Rev H. M. Parsons, 131. Since the union of the Presbyterian churches in 1875, the increase of 1883 upon the [illegible] is over $146,000. The total income of the Presbyterian church in Canada for the last year is in the neighborhood of one million and a half of dollars.

Politics and Politicians.

Do Sir John's protection proclivities explain his partiality for Shields?

At a convention of two hundred and fifty teachers of Essex county a resolution was adopted in favour of a Minister of Education.

Hon. D. L. Macpherson has resigned his seat in the Senate, and Hon. Wm. Miller, Q.C., Halifax, has been appointed in his stead.

The Bothwell iniquity is at last to come to trial. The Judges have decided to consider the preliminary objections to the petition against Dawkins on the 23rd inst, and it is probable that the main trial will come off not much later.

Grip's leading cartoon is amusing and pointed. It represents Sir John refusing from the fair hands of Captain Abbie, the shield of the Salvation Army, with the remark: "No, my dear, I won't enlist; I have no use for Shields of that sort!

The New York World suggests that Lord Lansdowne begin business in Canada by improving the financial condition of Montreal. Whereupon the London Times remarks that that little task falls within the department of the N. P., which was to give us perpetual good times and keep the flies off the wheel.

Dr. Goldwin Smith is showing up the fallacies of protection. He writes:—"The [illegible] and we have come to that season of depression which follows the use of false stimulants in the case of protectionist legislation, as well as in the case of brandy. Would that the Finance Minister had adhered to the policy of retrenchment!"

One of our best exchanges, the Chicago Press, remarks with its usual incisiveness on Canadian sugar refiners: "They are asking a bounty in order to enable them to export their product. Isn't this absurd political economy, which taxes the people of Canada for the purpose of making an unprofitable business pay, and then in order to keep it alive, taxes it again"?

The Mail naively, or rather knavely, remarks: "Mr. Shield's has not been brought before any court." Exactly; Mr. Shield's took the greatest possible care to steer clear of such a dangerous precinct as a court of justice. The abductors of Charlie Ross were never discovered, yet the scoundrels could not claim a patent of honesty because they were never brought before a court.

On Thursday evening last a banquet was given to Sir Hector Langevin at the Windsor, Montreal. The dinner was not, it may be presumed, in recognition of Sir Hector's masterly incapacity and self-sufficient mediocrity; its sole object seems to have been to give the gallant knight a "boost" in his climb for the premiership, when that position shall be vacant.

The Toronto Mail declares that in the unseating of Sir John Macdonald "vice gains a triumph over virtue." The virtue is of course the barefaced bribery which Roe carried on! Will anyone suppose for a moment that decent Conservatives will swallow such stuff. Ten years ago Sir John was unseated in Kingston and very narrowly escaped disqualification. Some of his principal supporters left the country rather than go into the witness box.

Rev Henry Ward Beecher has recently been sojourning in the South and West and thus summarises what he considers to be public opinion on the tariff question: "I perceive signs through all the farther West and South-West of a change of sentiment in favour of free trade, which I believe, will grow and spread and finally compel parties to change their politics, modify the tariff, and at length destroy the very poisonous root of the whole system."

There were 314 failures, in Canada during the third quarter of 1883, with aggregate liabilities of $3,439,891, against 166 failures with aggregate liabilities of $1,714,962 during the corresponding three months of 1882. The number of failures for nine months ending September 30th, 1883, were 1,001, with aggregate liabilities of $11,688,951, against 537 failures, with aggregate liabilities of $5,232,652 for the same period of 1882. This is a very bad beginning of Sir S. L. Tilley's seven years of prosperity.

The Very Rev. Maurice S. Baldwin, D. D., Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, was elected at the meeting of the Synod of Huron, on Wednesday, Bishop of that diocese. The new Bishop is a graduate of Trinity College, and was ordained a deacon in 1860, made a priest the following year, and made assistant of St. Thomas Episcopal Church. He was ordained as Canon of Christ Church in 1871, and has held the position for eleven years. His election will be generally acceptable to the diocese.

The Mail hasn't been harping much lately on the refrain, "Mowat must go." Its heart is heavy. With a majority of thirteen in a small House, which will be increased when new members definitely select their benches, the Government will manage to pull through. Besides, the majority will probably be increased by some respectable Tory members whom the Mail's blackguardism may disgust. The Government will find their majority sufficient for all honest legislation. Still, it could hardly be depended on to sanction a Gerrymander bill, an Onderdonk contract, or to connive at saddling a plundering railway monopoly on the country; but for honest legislation, such as the Mowat Government has enacted the past twelve years, it will do.

This is how the Leanox case strikes the New York World, a disinterested onlooker:—"Sir John A. Macdonald, the Canadian statesman, has been unseated for the county of Leanox, which he was chosen to represent in the Canadian Parliament, for bribery. This is a good thing. Sir John A Macdonald has been in the Ministry. When a man of so much influence is unseated for corruption, it speaks well for Canadian laws and the manner in which they are enforced. But when we read that Sir John is also elected for Carleton, having a double seat, as it were, in the Dominion House of Commons, and that he will still represent that county, though unseated for Leanox, our admiration is not great. The law ought to work disqualification for any seat on the conviction of a member.

Some newspapers continue to be "down on" General Luard. As a tactician, no doubt General Laurd shines more professionally than he does personally. While his manner is not always pleasing, it is pretty clear that the General is animated by a sincere desire to improve the efficiency of our volunteer force by combatting the slip-shod laxity of discipline which, if encouraged by even passive ignoring, would lead to disastrous results. Discipline is the first consideration; it is that which distinguishes a military corps from a mob, and largely contributes to its value as a fighting factor. If General Luard is sincerely anxious to improve the disciplinary efficiency of our volunteers, he should, while his alleged brusque and boorish manner is condemned, receive credit for what are, evidently, his good intentions.

The cold weather suggests thoughts of woollen clothing, and woollen clothing suggests thoughts of how the politicians have duped the farmer in the matter of protection of wool growing. When the tariff was first framed there was no duty at all on wool, but after thought prompted the enactment of a boon to the farmer and a duty was put on long wool, which needed no protection, because the country produces more than it can use, besides exporting large quantities. Of course it was known that the duty could have no effect, but it was thought sufficient to dupe the farmers into the belief, that, while their agricultural implements were taxed, they were protected from foreign competition by putting a tax on long wool, which never will be imported any more than saw logs. It would be more like protection to the farmer, to impose a high duty on all kinds of wool, and thus force Canadian consumers to purchase home-made cloths exclusively.

Sell What You Can.

Farmers should look over their stock at this season of the year, and not keep stock all winter to be fed and housed at a considerable cost, only to find when spring comes that it is worth no more, and perhaps less, than it was in the fall. This rule applies not only to cattle and sheep, but to poultry. Moreover, the principle may be applied to crops. Where a reasonable profit can be obtained by selling the crops of the fields and orchards in the fall, it is better to sell them than to hold for higher prices. There is always a risk in keeping, for prices may not rise, and the crops kept may be badly affected by atmosphere or other causes not considered. So far as live stock is concerned, it is pretty certain that next spring will see lower prices than at present prevail. Meat is still very dear, in spite of the growing crop reports from all parts of of the land; but as the people begin to realize the extents of the crops they will clamour for lower prices, and a decline must eventually come. Money realised for stock or crops now, and deposited safely, will draw interest, and can neither die nor decay, whereas the live stock may do the one or the crops the other.

The wise and well to-do farmer is not he who has a great surplus of stock or crops on hand. Success is as much due to selling at the right time as in buying at the right price. Reasonable profits and prompt returns should be the rule of the farmer, who, just as surely as merchants, will find in well not to keep any kind of saleable material too long on hand.

A WORD TO CLERKS.

Very many young men employed as clerks are possessed of a laudable desire to start in business for themselves. In this respect they are worthy of all praise for their ambition.

If by long and close application to all the details of their duties as clerks, they have acquired a clear and thorough insight into their business then let them try and start out on their own account. Only he who has learned the rudiments of his business throughly is likely to make a success when he tries to go it alone.

Many clerks chafe under the necessary restraint placed upon them by their employers. Some deem their hours of work too long or their pay too small. Others are possessed of a deluded belief that they know their business as well as "the boss," and fail to see why the measure of their reward should be so much smaller than his.

Still others, and this is the most deluded class of all, lay the flattering unction to their souls that their services are indispensable to "the boss." Don't you ever believe that young man. You may be a highly useful individual, know your business thoroughly and attend to your duties conscientiously. We will admit all that. But nobody ever left such a big hole after him in this world but that some other person was found to fill it. History will tell you that. Cæsar, Napoleon & Co. were wise and great men, no doubt, but they all joined the silent majority, and still the world has managed to drag along somehow without them.

Never become possessed with the idea that you are a mercantile Cæsar or Napoleon, young man. No, not even if anyone is idiot-enough to tell you so. If you once get that crank in your head you will make yourself a bore to all your friends. This poor, paltry little world will not be big enough to hold your high mightiness. You will suffer from lack of appreciation. You will be generally miserable, fretful and complaining. Avoid that particular shoal by all means.

We are always glad to see young men get ahead and prosper. Remember this, however. To be successful as a merchant, you must be careful and hardworking as a clerk. Learn clerical duties thoroughly, and the responsibilities of proprietorship will come easy to you.

MISSIONARIES FOR BURMAH.

Eight missionaries sailed from New York on the 29th ult. for Burmah under the auspices of the American Baptist Missionary Union, including husbands, wives and daughters. One of the missionaries, Rev. A. T. Rose, has done religious duty in that heathen country for thirty years, having visited the United States only twice during that time. In connection with the departure of these people, the agreeable fact was brought out which has heretofore been unknown to the public generally, that there are from 400 to 500 Christian churches in Burmah, with a membership of nearly 25,000 persons. A statement like this is well calculated to stimulate generous contributions for expenditure in missionary labor.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The directors of the Smith, North Monaghan, etc., Agricultural Society, met in Lakefield on the 19th inst., and organized for the year 1884 by appointing Chas. Lakefield chairman, and Jas. McKibbin, Alex. Fitzgerald, T. E. Bell, R. A. Strickland, Elliot, Quinn, Preston, Caldwell, and the secy.-treas., M. S. Dean.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

The prize list was corrected, there being one or two errors. Mr. T. Graham received the first prize for cheese instead of second.

Some discussion took place regarding the extras. There were not sufficient funds to pay the whole of them. A motion was carried that they should receive no prizes. Mr. R. A. Strickland offered $5 towards paying them. Others gave $5, some $10 or $15 about $15 were contributed, and extras, as recommended by the judges were then ordered to be paid. It is to be hoped that the liberality shown by the directors will be duly appreciated by the members of the society. The desirability of securing a ground was discussed, after which the Board adjourned.

The next annual meeting is to be held in Lakefield January, 1884.

SAD ACCIDENT.

Mr. Patrick Scott, who lived back of Apsley, met with an accident on Thursday which cost him his life. He left Lakefield in the morning, and when about one and a half miles beyond the Burleigh Hotel, stopped to shake his horses at a spring by the road. He had taken the bits out of the mouths of the horses, which were a young, high-spirited team. They took fright and started. He caught one by the breeching to stop them, but was at once drawn under the wagon almost instantly, receiving his fatal injuries. In addition to being hurt internally his leg was literally smashed, his shoulder badly broken and out of joint, and a large wound on his head. The neighbor who was with him and had his own team, drove back to Holmes Hotel for assistance. Mr. John Dinwoodie and Holmes went up and assisted in taking the poor man up to Mr. Joseph Harvey's. Mr. Dinwoodie describes it as a fearful looking sight. A medical man was summoned from Lakefield, but the injured man was beyond the aid of medical skill. He died on Saturday noon, having become unconscious shortly after his injuries. Mr. Scott was very much respected by all who knew him, and bore a high character for all integrity. The family have the warm sympathies of the public in their unexpected and sad affliction.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Members present, Mr. G. J. Galvin in the chair, Messrs. Wilson, Gordon, Saunders, Armour and Caldwell.

Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Communications were received from Miss Tanner, resigning her position as teacher, and from Miss Duff, asking for reengagement, also from Mr. August, [illegible] for reappointment at a salary of $600.

The following accounts were presented and ordered to be paid:—John Hall, premium of insurance on school house, 22-10; A. L. Davis, paper, $1.80.

A resolution was passed, accepting Miss Tanner's resignation, and expressing the high esteem in which she is held as a teacher, and expressing regret at being deprived of her services.

Mr. August was reappointed at a salary of $500, and Miss Duff and Miss Galvin at their former salaries respectively.

The managing committee were instructed to advertise for a teacher for the junior department.

The Board then adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

THE ROADS.

Mr. Geo. Chalmers has been circulating a subscription list through the village for the purpose of raising funds to repair the road from Young's Point to the main road on the Douro side. This road has been in a fearful state for some time, but the Douro Council does not seem to realize their responsibility in the matter, and, we understand, made an appropriation on condition that Lakefield and the Point should raise a certain amount. It will be a satisfaction to the travelling public to know that the road is to be put in repair.

DOURO.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A trotting match for a purse of forty dollars took place on Saturday afternoon last. The match was between Wm. Moher's trotting horse "King," and a horse owned by Mr. Michael Mahoney, hotelkeeper, and the distance one mile, three out of five heats to win, the race to be decided by timing heats. The course was one mile, measured across the 6th and part of the 5th concessions. Two judges were placed at either end to take the time, which I believe they did fairly. The "King" was an easy winner, the time for the three heats being respectively 2.56, 3.05 and 3.05. A large crowd witnessed the contest, although it rained heavily. Barring the rain and corduroy bridges, and an up-hill and down-dale course, the time would have been much better.

SPECTATOR.

OTONABEE.

Last Friday morning the stables, barn and driving shed of Mr. David Crowley, Otonabee, were destroyed by fire. The loss is heavy, Mr. Crowley's summer crops and farm implements, including a reaper, mower, etc., having been consumed. The origin of the fire is not known. Loss over $5,000; partially protected by an insurance of $1,000.

AGRARIAN OUTRAGE.

Another terrible agrarian crime is reported from Ireland. A boycotted farmer was attacked near Killarney on Saturday by three men armed with long knives and horribly mutilated and cut up. His injuries are fatal. His assailants were subsequently captured.

THE OLD STORY.

Alas for the head with the crown of gold!
The tempter came as he came of old.
Alas for the heart that was glad and light!
Alas for the steel that was keen and bright!

Censure who may—condemn who must;
It was perfect faith—it was utter trust.
She asked her reward; one pledge for him,
And she heed—she was his by law divine.

He was lifted up; he was set apart;
He filled her thought: He filled her heart;
She called him great; she believed him true.
As woman will, as woman do!

Oh, to betray such tender trust!
God will repay, and he is just—
Though wrong and ill she knows him doth,
As woman do, as woman will.

Giving little and taking much,
Fickle and frail—that are many such—
Selfish and cruel—you know the rest—
He broke the heart that loved him best.

WYNDOM HOLD.

A TALE IN FIVE CHAPTERS.

CHAPTER I.

"If John Wyndom Denison, who left England in 1840, or any of his heirs, will apply to Dynevor & Grant, solicitors, Lincoln's Inn, London, they will hear something to their advantage." The above advertisement appeared in the Californian newspapers in the summer of 1860, and from it sprang the facts of the brief history I am about to record.

* * * * *

"At the time of which I write there was in Sacramento Valley, a hundred miles or more beyond San Francisco, a gold field known as Webster's Find. They said it was discovered by one of the first emigrants to the Californian fields, who had spent youth and health in the wild feverish search for gold, and found a rich claim at last, only to die and [illegible] alive [illegible] of fever, are [illegible]

"My father [illegible] that, in his rage, the old man willed the whole thing to a distant kinsman; the estate is not entailed."

"Couldn't the will be broken?" asked Willis. "It seems a hard thing that you should slave yourself to death in this vile place, while that cur and your lawful bread at home. Why don't you skip home, and demand a share anyway?"

"My father taught me independence, Dick," returned Jasper Denham, with kindling face, "and God has given me what enables me to dispense with my grandfather's wealth. Unless unforseen circumstances necessitate it, I shall never set foot in England."

"You are an ass, Jasper," was his cousin's brief and pointed remark.

"I want you to take the dusk with you, Dick," said Jasper, ignoring his cousin's polite remark. "Its contents are too valuable to be risked any longer in this den of thieves, and will be safer at the bank. See, the certificates of both my father's marriages are here, and that of my own birth. You'll need be off in a day or two at the latest."

"I am quite agreeable," returned Willis equably, "but I beg to repeat, Jasper, that you are an ass, and deserve to slave in Webster's Find to the end of the chapter. Don't I wish your chance was mine, that's all."

CHAPTER II.

At sunset next day a horseman from San Francisco rode slowly up the valley in the direction of Webster's Find. He was the bearer of letters and papers for the exiles, and as he had not been expected for a day or two, took the settlement by surprise. He was a tall, lean, yellow-visaged Yankee, with cunning black eyes, a long shrewd mouth, and a slouching ill-dressed figure. A leathern bag was strapped across his shoulders, and he rode with his hands in his pockets, and rolling a piece of tobacco in his mouth. His horse was also [illegible] dust-begrimed and [illegible]-looked, and seemingly inclined to take it as cool as his master. At the edge of the stream, on the outskirts of the settlement, Richard was engaged in riddling and washing the precious dust, but his thoughts were far enough from his work. They ran continually on his cousin's story, and the English estate worth thirty thousand a year. He glanced up wonderingly when the sound of hoofs broke the stillness, then, recognising the rider, he threw down his implements and sprang to meet him.

"Good evening, Jonathan," he said gaily. "Anything for Jack or me, eh?"

The Yankee shook his head; "I guess they've forgot you to hum, younker," he said drily.

"Haven't you a newspaper, then?" asked Willis. "Anything, however far back, is acceptable in this Sahara."

The Yankee undid his leathern bag and produced a well thumbed newspaper, which he flourished before the young man's eyes.

"The Frisco Guide, only a fortnight old. What's yer terms, younker?"

Richard Willis took a dollar from his pocket, and tossed it to the Yankee, and took the paper.

"You're a swindler, Jonathan, but you make no secret of it. Well, good evening."

A grin crept to Jonathan's mouth, and without further remark he urged his tired steed into the settlement. Richard Willis flung himself on the turf, and opened out the dearly bought sheet. It was a poor, cheap thing, filled with sensational reading, and contained very little trustworthy information regarding the doings in the world beyond the "city of the western gate." He turned the pages listlessly and ran his eye over the advertising columns. Suddenly he sprang to to his feet with an exclamation, for these words were printed in black and white before him:—

"If John Wyndom Denison, who left England in 1840, or any of his heirs, will apply to Dynevor & Grant, solicitors, Lincoln's Inn, London, they will hear something to their advantage."

"Good for Jasper," he muttered, and his first impulse was to hasten up the stream in search of his cousin. Another thought seemed to deter him, for he lay down again, spread his paper out before him, and contemplated it long and earnestly. At nightfall Jasper Denham returned from his labour up the stream dead tired, and disinclined even for the customary evening pipe. He only enquired carelessly whether Jonathan has brought anything fresh from San Francisco, and being briefly answered in the negative, partook of a few mouthfuls of supper, and lay down to rest. Meanwhile the 'Frisco Guide lay snugly in Richard Willis' pocket. Considering that its contained a paragraph so nearly concerning Jasper Denham's welfare, it was a curious thing that the very knowledge of its existence should be kept from him. At daybreak the next morning the cousins stood together at a lonely spot a mile beyond the settlement. Thus far Jasper accompanied Dick on his way to San Francisco.

"I hope to see you back safe and sound, old, fellow," he said, "don't be longer than you can help. Life is not bearable without you."

"You don't care as much as that, Jasper," said Willis abruptly. "Except for the loss of the gold I carry, it wouldn't trouble you though I never reached 'Frisco alive."

"Dick!"

The tone and the look on his cousin's face brought the quick color to Richard Willis's cheek, and he said hurriedly—"Well, good-by; see the sun will be up directly. I hope I'll reach the coast in safety. Good luck to you while I'm away."

"Good-bye," said Jasper huskily, and again Richard Willis's eyes avoided the clear gaze of those honest eyes. Their hands met, and without another word Willis [illegible] rode away.

"Take care of the dusk," shouted Jasper after him, and the answer was a backward flourish at the revolver in his belt.

[illegible]

[illegible] grandest pictures, Richard Willis mentally registered a vow that this should be his last exercise in the Valley of the Sacramento.

The days passed, week succeeded week, till a month went by, but Richard Willis came no more to Webster's Find. Jasper Denham awaited his return with growing uneasiness, and when the second month drew to its close, the suspicion that his cousin had met with foul play gave him no rest. He would stand for [illegible] on the point of the river where [illegible] view of the road [illegible] for the [illegible] [illegible] Hines arrived with his waggon, bringing supplies from the nearest town.

"Look here, younker," he said grimly, "p'r'aps yer can make head or tail o' this. I found it on the waggon track this side o' Miss Gulch."

It was a soiled and crumpled scrap of paper, discolored by exposure to the elements, and on it were a few pencilled lines, which had evidently been traced by weak and trembling fingers. Thus it ran:—

Dear Jasper, I am at the mercy of Black Pete and his gang, and have no hope of life. I tried to resist and am badly wounded. I entrust this to the wind, perhaps it may reach you. Good-bye. I think [illegible] up with me, DICK.

Beware of Imposition!

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Liniment and Electric Oil for the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them, by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of Northrop & Lyman, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

Good Clothing

And Boys Can Help by the Older of the Business.

Fall weather will suit us if you're any children. Let us tell you while we may about where to get your winter outfit.

That's a subject that'll generally come home to you. Then come to us—you can't do better.

We'll give you GOOD CLOTHING. In our establishment the requirements for such garments are: The Material must be RIGHT, the Cut of it RIGHT, the Make of it RIGHT, and withal, the Price must be RIGHT. It requires no little attention and grip to keep the track of it all the way through, but the result to us is our sufficient recompense.

We give you correct styles, this means—with us—more than Fashionable, Beautiful and Sensible in Style, it means them altogether and more. In such clothing as we give you, you're neither "a guy," "a dude," or "a fellow of no style," but "a gentleman, sir, by his dress." Your Garments are not "loud" enough to attract attention, but they're good enough to stand inspection—stand it well, too. They're stylish enough to be "toney," and graceful enough to be beautiful. That's the bill of fare we offer you.

Our Clothing is capable not only of meeting your every want in the way of clothing, but of meeting them on the true level of

AT THE MILL.

What do you see, my farmer?
Over wall of wood and of stone,
I see wheel turned to grind your grist,
And turning for that alone.

Do you hear the millstones' murmur,
The splash of the tumbling fall,
As you pass with measure slowly down
To your place by the mill?

Do you count up the profits you
Have won and sell to get by hand;
Or touch the bridled backs of your train
And reckon the bags on the load.

Or clip the heads of the daisies,
And wonder that God should need
To litter the fields with the staring blooms
Of a stubborn and worthless weed.

Are you honest and true and sturdy,
Are given us your brawny hand,—
Bringer of bliss unseen, I greet
The farmer who fills the land.

And home with your grist in the gloaming
The baby waves at the gate;
And over the mill by the pasture bars
The lowing cattle wait.

What do I see, my farmer?
The mill and the rill and the wheel,
The moss on the shingles, and the mould on the stones,
And the floating mists of meal.

But the poet's vision is clearer,
Revealing the hidden things;
The rivulets flow to the sea
From cool clear woodland springs.

Over the brown flesh quivers
With the green of the growing wheat,
Then the swallows sail at the bending
Of the tassel, to and fro,
And the breath of morn is sweet.

Into the swaying reapers
Sprinkle of the golden grain;
Then it's put in the summer sun,
Ripened to a hundred wain.

Then white sails caressing
The opal tinted seas;
Then the silvery sunlight glints the waves,
And are stirred by a freshening breeze.

Then the storm-rock gather,
And blots out the evening star,
And fling in foam of a billow's crest,
Drowned men lashed to a spar.

Then in the city's shadows,
Where that creeps and crawls
Where blood, or bread,' while the wine flows
Red,
And there's mirth in the city's halls.

Then a rich man's darling
Fresh as the roses bloom;
And the gaunt white face of a little child
Dead, in the barren room.

Then home with your grist, my farmer,
And heed how the wide world fares;
For eyes that are clear and are saddest alway
With their burden of alien cares.

Hushed is the millstones' murmur,
The dripping wheel is still,
And over the dusky vale, I hear
The song of the Whipourwill.

Bathe thoroly once a week in soft water and hasteel soap and avoid tite clothes.

Laff every time you feel tickled, and frown and a wrinkle anywhere.

Hold the baby half the time, and always start the fire in the morning and put on the teakettle.

Don't jaw back—it prov that you are as big a phool as the other phello.

Never borrow what your are able to buy, and always have some thing you don't lend.

Never get in a hurry; you can walk a good deal farther in a day than you can run.

Don't swear; it may convince you, but is sure not to convince others.

If you have dealers, let your wife help you up. If she has common sense, she will hint all your theories.

Don't drink to much new cider, and never mean you may be, don't abuse a friend.

Luv and respect your wife anyway; it is a good deal cheaper than to be allus whistling she was somehow different.

"Facts speak plainer than words." Proof:—"The Doctor told me to take a blue pill, but I didn't, for I had already been poisoned twice by mercury. The druggist told me to try Kidney-Wort, and I did. Mme. Modjeska never rips up, destroys or gives away any of her stage dresses, but sends them all home to Poland to be stored away for "coming generations to ponder over."

Do not be Duped.

A recently advertised and highly puffed remedy for deafness has lately been exposed as an unmitigated fraud. Not so with Hagyard's Yellow Oil; none name it but to praise. John Clark, of Millbridge, testifies that it cured him of deafness. 43-2t

The Queen of Denmark, mother of the Princess of Wales, is an accomplished painter,—and has lately presented the little village of Klitmoller, in Jutland, with an altar-piece entirely executed by her own hands.

Caution.

We advise all who are afflicted with a cough or cold to beware of opiates and all medicines that smother and check a cough suddenly, as serious results surely follow. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam loosens and breaks up coughs and colds in a safe and effectual manner. 43-2t

A Pennsylvania lady 93 years of age milks, washes and bakes for a family of three persons. A great deal can be got out of old people if they are properly managed.

A Common Misfortune.

A bachelor so greatly admired the way in which his housekeeper prepared coffee that he proposed and was accepted, only to find that the coffee was made by the hired girl.

A Great Source of Evil.

Every farmer will admit that one of the most destructive evils to avoid superabundance of worms or parasites that prey upon vegetable life; other species of worms infest the human system and are productive of much suffering and ill health. Freeman's Worm Powders will effectually rid the system of this trouble, are pleasant to take and contain their own warrantee. 43-2t

"Oh," blushingly said the young lady who had just been offered congratulations by a friend, "I am not engaged yet—but"—and she blushed more deeply—"I expect to be by next week." The congratulations held over.

Dear Sirs,—I have been a sufferer from Costiveness, Sick Headache, and Loss of Appetite for many years, felt always tired, so that life was a burden and all seemed dark to me. I have had medical attendance, and have tried almost all the advertised remedies, but without effect. OVER THE ROCKIES.

Mr Sandford Fleming and Principal Grant, says the Calgary Herald arrived in Victoria on Saturday. Mr. Fleming says that the Kicking Horse Pass, discovered by Major Rogers will be a great success. The party had a pleasant journey across the mountains from Calgary. They will return east by the Northern Pacific.

Mr. Pilgrider went home the other night considerably intoxicated and afflicted with double vision. He sat down for some time with his sleepy gaze rivetted on Mrs. Pilgrider, and then quietly remarked: "Well (hic) I hope t'holler if you two gals don't look enuff alike to be (hic) twins."

STORMS ON THE BRITISH COAST.

High tides and severe gales prevail on the British coasts. Numerous marine casualties are reported. The Severn tunnel is again flooded. Vessels arriving in the Mersey report terrible weather. Limerick is partially flooded.

A FIT PREFIX.

"What is the name of your cat, sir?" inquired a visitor. His name was Patrick," said the host, "until he had fits, and since then we have called him Fits Patrick."

OF THE PLANET

Mr. J. W. Bond, the well known author and chemist, spends a large part of the year among the Indians of the North West, and during the time visited the celebrated Chief, Sitting Bull, the conquering Rock Agency, Dakota. While there he obtained from Sitting Bull and his principal Chief a full account of the massacre of Custer and his men in June, 1876. This is the first and only time the Indians have told their side of the story, which is more intensely interesting because none of Custer's men lived to relate the horrors of that unparalleled massacre. Mr. Bond has added a full history of this great historical event, and his own experiences among the savages, to his celebrated book, "Legends of the Plains," with the portraits of Sitting Bull and his principal Chiefs, and many other illustrations. He has also added the life and adventures of "White Beaver," the great Medicine Man of the Sioux, with many new and spiritual illustrations, forming one of the most complete and thrilling works on Western life ever written. The book is highly recommended by Maj. Gen. Merritt, Commander of the West Point Military Academy, and other distinguished people. Agents are wanted; see advertisement elsewhere.

Yes, Sir.

One can't expect to succeed in business or in pleasure either, for that matter, unless one feels all right in health and spirits. This is the first consideration. Now, this small matter when this remedy, 20-22-24, is recommended so highly, even guaranteed to renew one's energy and spirits by invigorating the Liver and aiding Digestion, by clearing the brain, opening the pores of the skin, regulating the Bowels and system, to go to the drug store and get a single bottle of Zopess as a trial. It is a duty every one owes to himself. Try a bottle then. 41-4t

MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address,
The Culverwell Medical Co.,

St. Paul's Church.

Owing to some mistake in computation in awarding the first contract for restoring St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, that contract has been cancelled and another entered into with Mr. Arthur Rutherford. Shipment of Men.

On Wednesday Mr. T. Cavanagh shipped 38 first-class men to Campbell & Hughson's limits on Black River, at wages from $15 to $22 per month and also several teams of first-class horses, with harness supplied by Mr. Wm. Metcalf. Just before this Mr. Cavanagh procured and sent from Ottawa, 95 men to work in the American Company's limits, North Michigan, wages $15 to $22.

Not Dangerous.

The editor of the Onemee Herald boasts that he had a chat through the telephone with a Peterborough young lady. Unless the Herald man is unusually impressive, a long range plying—15 miles—of his wiles, will not lure Peterborough girls from their homes. They are deservedly too well appreciated at home, to be lured from town by a telephonic charmer, charming never so wisely.

An Error Corrected.

The Port Hope Times states that Rev. John Shaw has retired from the ministry. Such, we are happy to say, is not the case. The rev. gentleman, through ill health, was granted a two months' leave of absence, but he has returned in improved health and will soon, we hope, be able to go into active work. The church, which Rev. Mr. Shaw has long and faithfully served, hopes to retain the reverend gentleman's valued services for many useful years.

Peterborough Enterprise Abroad

The Port Hope Guide of Friday says that Messrs. D. W. Dumble and J. Stevenson, of Peterboro, the new proprietors of the Music Hall Block, were in town to-day. Mr. Dumble informs us that they intend to erect a gallery in the Music Hall, enlarge the stage, and otherwise put the hall in first class repair. They will also put plate-glass fronts in all the stores and fit them up in good style. Messrs. Stevenson and Dumble are the sole proprietors now; Mr. Cox or Mr. Bradburn has no interest in the investment.

Police Court.

On Saturday morning Wm. Kelly and Silas Burnham appeared in answer to a summons sworn out by W. H. Robertson, of the Times, charging them with stealing potatoes from a lot occupied by complainant. An enlargement of the case was applied for on the ground of absence of witnesses, but the Magistrate, thinking the information was a vexatious one, refused the enlargement and the case proceeded. It appears that Mr. Burnham had foreclosed a mortgage on the property, which was occupied by Mr. Robertson, and in which, with a Mr. Carlisle, he had a half interest. Last June the mortgage was foreclosed, and, by virtue of a vesting order of the Court of Chancery, Mr. Burnham claimed the half of the potatoes planted on the property, and took them, and Mr. Robertson had him and Kelly, who was instructed to remove the potatoes, arrested for stealing. The charges were dismissed with costs against complainant.

Hydrant Practice.

On Thursday night the Fire Brigade held practice in coupling hose to hydrants. Four minutes after the alarm sounded five streams were playing from five hydrants. The practice demonstrated the utility of the telephonic connection with the pump house.

A Wall Falls Out.

On Monday morning the eastern wall of the Fitzgerald & Stanger carriage works building fell out on Water street. The fire had weakened the wall, and when the workmen attempted to pull off, with a rope, a piece of timber the whole wall tumbled down. Nobody was hurt, but a painter working on the telephone pole a few feet away was considerably [illegible]. The [illegible] Brock street has been pulled down.

The Gospel in Dentistry.

Last Friday Mr. T. Bradburn and his employees, after removing the sign, "T. Bradburn & Co." from the premises leased by Mr. Bradburn to Messrs. Fair, Van Every & Co., George street, proceeded to remove the golden lion, that has long lay couchant in front of the building as its most conspicuous feature. But they found their right to making the leonine removal actively disputed by the new firm, who claim that the gilded king of beasts is a fixture of the premises, and was included in the lease. At one time active hostilities between the two factions were threatened, but better counsels prevailed and the difficulty was for the time peacefully allowed to remain in abeyance. On Monday morning the sign in question had disappeared, the parties in possession having, it is said, taken it down at two o'clock in the morning for the purpose of repairs. This prompt action was a great disappointment to the force of the other party, that was kept under arms a great part of the night, anxiously awaiting daylight to enable them to take down the golden lion, only to find its former resting place a blank. It is likely that the question of ownership or custody will be settled in the courts.

An Advertising Curiosity.

On Saturday a coach of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway was placed on the Midland Railway siding, and remained till Monday. The car was intended to display the agricultural products of Dakota, to entice immigrants, who would of course, pass over the road, doing the advertising. The display was very neatly disposed in the car, and comprised specimens all sorts of grains, both in sheaf and threshed, fruits (limited), vegetables, etc. The samples were labelled as grown on Dakota soil. We can distinguish between an advertisement and a news item, and therefore cannot describe the display fully, but its beautiful arrangement is worth noting, as well as the enterprise of a railroad company that takes so unique a way of advertising. It is no wonder that immigrants are attracted to the Western States when such pains are taken to puff the resources of the country; while our North-West, with better soil and agricul- conditions, is not only greatly neglected in this respect, but the land regulations and mode of dealing with our public domain, seem more intended to repel that attract the settler. It is lawful to learn even from an enemy, and Canadians may well take a lesson in advertising our public lands, from the shrewd and far-seeing Yankee.

The Fire Fiend.

The fire fiend has taken another of his spasms of activity. On Wednesday morning about three o'clock the alarm was sounded for a fire in a roughcast cottage on Simcoe street, vacant at the time, but before the water could be got on, the building was consumed. The delay is attributed to the hose not being readily available, because they were suspended in the hose tower and not on the reels. The building was owned by Mr. Henry Best. The house has recently been occupied as a dressmaker's shop. The fire was evidently incendiary in origin, for an unsuccessful attempt had been made to fire it by the use of coal oil early on Tuesday morning. In further proof, Mr. Best received an anonymous letter threatening destruction to the house, unless the tenants, were removed. The house was vacated by them a day or two since, yet the threat was fulfilled. There was an insurance of $350 on the house, which will not cover the loss.

Again, at about 10 o'clock on Wednesday the alarm rang out. This time it was a wooden building used as stables for Halpin's Hotel, Hunter street. In a very short time the hose were attached to two hydrants on Hunter street, and two strong streams were playing on the fire, which was put out, with the building greatly damaged, but with Mr. Clurton's brick stables adjoining practically unharmed. The building, which belonged to the James Hall estate, was about destroyed. But all its contents, except a quantity of oats and hay, belonging to Mr. Halpin, were saved, and these were protected by an insurance. The proper parties neglected to telephone the water works pump house for pressure, and if Mr. Clurton, President, had not sent the necessary message, water might not have been ready when needed. The Water Works Company do not seem to be mean about water. They willingly allowed the use of the George street hydrants, although the fire was without the district defined by the contract with the Water Works Company as to the use of hydrants.

The Salvation Army.

On Friday last several "high up" officers of the Salvation Army made a reconnoissance of Peterborough. They stayed in town from noon till the four o'clock train for Belleville left. They came to no decision as to the date of their descent on Peterborough. A grand test of their methods, would be a trial of their effects on the Town Council. If they can make that body any better, the public should use means to secure their services, regardless of expense.

PROVINCIAL PLOUGHING MATCH.

Active Competition—Unfavorable Circumstances of Both the Competitors—A Large Attendance of Spectators—List of Prize Winners.

The ploughing match for number three district, of the series of matches held under the auspices of the Ontario Agricultural and Arts Association, took place on the farm of Mr. Henry Reid, sr., in the township of Douro, last Thursday. There was a large attendance of spectators, about a thousand persons having been present. The competitors were chiefly from this county, although the ridings of both Northumberland and Durham were represented by two competitors. The soil of the field, which was the only one that could be procured in the county, was exceedingly unfavorable for making fine ploughing. It was very dry, stony and hard, especially the alluvial portions, which crumbled behind the plough, rendering the laying of a smooth, continuous ribbon of sward an impossibility. Indeed, owing to the difficulties presented, one competitor, after having his ribs titillated by his plough handles, caused by striking a stone, retired from the contest. There were five classes, but there were no competitors in the fourth class, for ploughmen under 20 years of age. The struggle in the first-class provoked the greatest interest, the competitors representing, respectively, the three ridings of Durham, Peterborough and Northumberland. The prizes were liberal, the grant of $200 from the Association having been supplemented by a handsome donation of $100 by the County Council, whose representative, Warden Moloney, efficiently supervised the proper expenditure of the sum. Below is the PRIZE LIST.

Class 1.—All comers' match. Any plough:

1st prize, $30—James McNiel, Darlington, Durham.

2nd prize, $20—R. B. Bennett, Seymour, Northumberland.

3rd prize, $10—Fred. Waldron, Smith.

Class 2.—For ploughmen under 21 years of age. Any plough:

1st prize, $25—Wm. Renwick, Harvey.

2nd prize, $20—Fred. Miles, Smith.

3rd prize, $15—John McFarlane, Otonabee.

Class 3.—For ploughmen under 18 years of age. Any plough:

1st prize, $25—John Lumsden, Dummer.

2nd prize, $20—Walter McKee, North Monaghan.

3rd prize, $15—Joseph Montgomery, Otonabee.

4th prize, $10—Ottis Kidd, Dummer.

5th prize, $5—Malcom Reid, Douro.

Class 5.—Contribution match. Open only to ploughmen with skimmer or No. 40 plough:

1st prize, $15—Dan'l Hennessy, Smith.

2nd prize, $10—John Frise, Smith.

3rd prize, $5—T. S. Brackenridge, Asphodel.

The officials present were Messrs. John Carnegie, M.P.P., chairman of the committee, J. B. Aylsworth, of Newburgh, member of the Council of the Association, and John Moloney, Warden of the county. Messrs. Peter Bristol, of Hawley, Lennox county, and A. V. Price, of Newburgh, Addington, performed the difficult duties of judges so satisfactorily, as far as their awards were concerned, that no complaint was made and no necessity arose for consulting a third party. Mr. J. B. Aylesworth presented the prizes, and, in so doing, expressed his pleasure at the success of the match, and complimented the competitors on the excellence of the work done under most unfavorable circumstances. The liberal spirit of the County Council in making so generous a grant, as well as the kindness of Mr. Reid in volunteering a field, when all other efforts to find one failed, were warmly commended.

To Investors.

We call the attention of investors and farmers to the advertisement in another column offering fine farm properties for sale in the townships of Emily, Smith, Otonabee, Douro and Verulam. These farms present excellent opportunities for those wishing to invest in real estate, or for practical agriculturalists who wish to acquire first-class farms. Read the advertisement and consult, for further particulars Mr. James Wason, or Messrs. Poussette & Roger, Peterborough.

Stones and Steel.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company, took place in the Caisse House on Tuesday evening, Mr. W. G. Ferguson in the chair. The annual report was read, and on motion of the Rev. V. Clementi, seconded by A. McNeil, unanimously adopted. It showed a satisfactory balance on hand, in fact sufficient to pay a dividend, but in view of the new directorate having to construct a drain at the north end of the building, to purchase new hose, and to move the present dam, and other expenditures necessary for the successful running of the institution, before any money would be forthcoming from the sale of tickets, etc., it was deemed advisable to defer the dividend question till the close of the skating season. A vote of thanks was, on motion, tendered to the retiring Directors, and suitably responded to.

Found With a Broken Leg.

On Tuesday night, while going his rounds, Policeman Adams discovered an elderly man, named Edward Hunter, lying on the sidewalk near Allan's Temperance Hotel, Hunter street, with his leg broken, cursing bitterly and begging somebody to shoot him. The unfortunate, whose account of the affair was rather misty, said that he was standing on the walk when a party of three or four roughs hustled him rudely off the walk, and a broken leg was the result. The poor man was placed at Charles 'Shambault's house, Simcoe street, at the town expense. He was at one time a resident of Peterborough, his father, it is said, having given name to the street on which the accident happened.

The Late Robert Stenson.

A Ripe Old Age—Four Score Years and Twelve.

On Sunday last the oldest citizen of Peterborough passed to his rest in the person of Mr. Robert Stenson, Charlotte street. Ninety-two years of age at the time of his death, he had reached and exceeded by one year his second majority—had lived twenty-two years beyond the limit of human life assigned by the Psalmist. The deceased was born in the county of Monaghan, Ireland, in the year 1791, and came to Peterborough forty-two years ago. He started in the boot and shoe business on Water street, in company with his eldest son, since deceased. Subsequently Mr. James Stenson, who now carries on the business on George street, was admitted to the partnership, which was, however, dissolved seven years ago by the withdrawal of the late Mr. Stenson, though he has taken no active part in the business for the past twenty years. The deceased had enjoyed good health till within a few days of his death, and, indeed then, his physician was able to define no particular disease. In fact he had no disease; the wheels of life, worn out, simply stood still. So quietly did he pass away that he seemed not to die—but to merely cease living. The deceased was widely known, and his blameless, upright life brought him the respect of all. In religion he was a Presbyterian, and in politics a Liberal. He leaves behind him, of a family of nine children, only two, Mrs. James Whyte and Mr. James Stenson.

Mrs. Stenson, his wife, is still living at the age of ninety years, in fairly good health and strength, though no doubt, both will be affected by the death of her husband. They had been married seventy-two years, and one can, or rather cannot, form an idea of how the sudden disruption of the close ties that have united two fond lives in the intimate relation of husband and wife, for three-quarters of a century, may affect the lonely survivor.

If your neighbor has not shown you some of Turnbull's Cheap Gray and White Cottons, Table Linens and Towels, call and look for yourself when on George Street, Peterborough.

GRAND JUNCTION COLLISION.

Two Trains Meet and Make Mischief.

The most severe railway accident that has occurred in this district for a long time, took place Saturday morning last, about eight o'clock, in what is known as Faulkner's ballast pit, about one and one-half miles west of Foxboro'. The passenger train from Madoc, on the G. J. R., was coming to Belleville, and a ballast train from that city was going westward, when they collided. The cars of the ballast train were smashed into splinters. The trucks lost their springs and the wheels were mingled together. The locomotives severed their connections with their cow-catchers and head lights and drove into each other's smoke stacks. Their tenders were almost doubled up. The timbers in the engines and tenders were either shivered or broken, and several were splintered.

The casualities were as follows:—John Taylor, brakeman, of Belleville, sustained a fracture of the right hip and was otherwise hurt; Hiram Phillips, of Eldorado, had his head badly cut, one of his hips was injured and two ribs fractured; and Mrs. Wright, of Madoc, was badly injured about the neck. Nearly all the other passengers were severely shaken up, one being thrown through a window and a knife penetrating the hand of another. The damage to property will amount to about $800.00. An investigation will be held.—Press despatch.

THE MONTREAL WITNESS.

The advertisement of publications has been issued from the Montreal Witness office. The day has gone by when their local paper alone satisfies intelligent country readers. Once some alarm was felt in country journalism at the encroachments of the cheap weekly edition of the city daily, but it is now being found that the city weekly finds its richest pastures where the local paper flourishes most, and that the latter is better appreciated in communities where the former is helping to create a taste for periodical literature than in those where the visits of newspapers have been of rare occurrence. Both city and country papers have become so cheap that the price asked for the village journal some years ago will now secure both it and a city weekly, with one or two dollars to spare for other literature. All the publications emanating from the Witness office are essentially "family papers," being such as may be introduced into any household with full confidence, which is no unimportant point to be considered in these days of cheap, flashy periodicals.

THE ALGOMA ELECTION.

Solid Fact vs. Silly Supposition.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

My Dear Sir,—Your local contemporary, the Review is apparently sorely troubled about the result of the recent election in the District of Algoma. Like other defenders of the disgraceful and never-to-be-forgotten tactics of the Muskoka brigade of corruptionists, the Review had indulged in brilliant hopes of Algoma being carried by the opposition. It was expected, of course, that Mr. Plummer would have been elected as in Muskoka. The disappointment at finding Mr. Plummer left a long way in the minority has had to find a vent somewhere—and no other opening can be found, but by publishing such ridiculously childish utterances as found a place in the Review's columns last Saturday. The readers of that journal are charmed with a brilliant account of "what might have been" had certain circumstances been otherwise. In pursuance of a similar line of policy, I presume, the hound might have caught the hare, had he not found a more congenial engagement in another direction. The Review complains that if all Plummer's votes had been recorded he would have headed the poll by a majority of ninety-eight. To prove that statement the assertion is made that when the poll was closed at five o'clock at Spanish River there were thirty-seven Conservative electors waiting to poll their votes. I assert most positively that the Review's statement is without foundation. I had the pleasure of spending election day at Spanish River, and I know what I am writing about. The Review goes on to state:—

"Over sixty Cockburn Island voters, all Conservatives, were left unpolled at Thessalon * * * through the ballots running out, from their number being premeditatedly insufficient."

Unfortunately for the Review, contradictory facts stare that organ in the face. The ballots did not run out at Thessalon. The deputy returning officer returned five unused ballots to the returning officer when forwarding his documents to the official. Up to the time the poll had closed at Thessalon about eighty-five votes had been registered as from Cockburn Island, a great many of the voters being Michigan fishermen, who were brought over by a Dutch Yankee named Tolsman, in accordance with an agreement made by an agent of Mr. Plummer's with the said Dutch-Yankee. There is abundant evidence to prove that there were not more than forty legal voters on Cockburn Island. When Mr. Plummer succeeded in getting eighty-five out of that forty I think he has no special reason to complain that he lost the election because he could not squeeze in sixty more. I visited both Thessalon and Cockburn Island the week after the election, and could not but place confidence in the information that was placed in my hands in verification of the statement that I have made in relation to those places. The Review then reckons that Plummer lost ninety votes between Rainy River and Rat Portage. Of that I know nothing personally. But it is fair to presume that the Review's calculations in respect thereto are equally imaginative with the statements regarding Thessalon, Cockburn Island and Spanish River. Such unscrupulous Opposition organs as the Review, are in desperate straits to account for their defeat in Algoma. All that is left for them to do is, to throw mud at their opponents. If Mr. Plummer feels so much aggrieved at the alleged illegal measures that were used to defeat him, he had better claim the seat. If he will only do so, there will be a tale of opposition corruption unfolded, before which Muskoka will pale into insignificance—including Plummer's personal disqualification, and the questionable honesty of purchasing deputy returning officers for $200, and an attempt to purchase a third one for $250, to give their countenance to allowing a large illegal vote to be run in for the so-called Conservative candidate. In the meantime I would take the liberty of suggesting to the Review to be sure of its facts before continuing a discussion of the Algoma election. The Review is evidently blessed with that wisdom that results from wilful ignorance, supplemented with a determination to cover up the rascally transactions of the disreputable refugees from the justice of the election court, who flooded Algoma to assist Mr. Plummer.

Yours truly,

W. T. R. PRESTON.

LICENSE INSPECTORS' CONVENTION.

They take Counsel in Peterborough.

Last Thursday there was a convention of License Inspectors for the district between Toronto and Kingston. There were present Messrs. T. W. Casey and W. G. Fee, officers of the License Department representing the provincial Government and the following inspectors, representing the license districts from Toronto to Kingston, exclusive of the latter:—Geo. B. Sills, Lennox; W. B. Blakely, Prince Edward; M. J. Granger, Hastings; E. S. Miller, East Northumberland; J. B. Haig, West Northumberland; J. H. Ford, East Durham; W. R. Climie, West Durham; C. Leary, West Peterborough; Hugh Drain, East Peterborough; M. Lally, North Ontario; John Ferguson, South Ontario; A. F. Stephenson, Muskoka; A. A. McLaughlin, North Victoria; W. Mathie, South Victoria, and one or two others whose names were not obtainable. The object of the convention was chiefly for the comparison of notes, and to secure uniformity of action and procedure in the enforcement of the License Act, and also uniformity of system in keeping the accounts and books of the different districts represented. The meeting was, of course, private. Mr. Wm. Blakely, of Prince Edward, was chairman, and Mr. W. R. Climie, of Bowmanville, acted as secretary. The business done was not necessarily of immediate public concern. Several important suggestions were, however made in regard to desirable amendments to the License Act. The sessions, which were held in the parlours of the Caisse House, were only two in number, the last lasting till midnight.

MILLBROOK.

About six o'clock on Saturday morning Ed. Needler, son of Mr. Geo. Needler, miller, a young man about 23 years of age, who has been subject to fits since infancy, was with his father at work on the mill dam when he was seized with one of those fits and fell into the mill pond. His father got him out but he died shortly afterwards; not by drowning, but the sudden shock, the doctors say, was the cause of his death.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

DEER HUNTING.

Deer hunting is remarkably good in our back woods this season, but the success of the hunt depends materially upon the quality of the hunters as marksmen, rather than the abundance of the live venison. For instance, a few days ago Mr. J. Cummings and one of his sons, of Norwood, in a few hours, but a few miles from his own door, captured no less than three head of fine deer; while another party, who are regularly at the deer haunts yearly, and armed with the most improved rifle, warranted to kill at any distance, were out for eight days and did not get a pound of venison apiece during the whole time; returning home, in fact with a small bit of a fawn and a still smaller bit of a partridge. Ill-luck must have followed the party—whose names it is hardly fair to give under the circumstances—as they were accompanied by a celebrated deer-slaying Indian, and a grand retinue of hounds capable of capturing all the deer in the country. It was a dear little hunt, affording very little pleasure, and evincing very little skill on the part of the professing Nimrods.

A MUDDLE.

Objection has been taken by the building committee, in whose hands is the construction of the new high school building here, to the quality of the stonework or basement of the work. Mr. Belcher, the architect who has control of the work of construction, was sent for, and, after inspecting the stonework, sustained the objections of the committee, and condemned a large portion of the masonry. The masons at once quit work and went home, cursing some one, and in no way pleased with the superior mechanical taste of the Norwood school trustees. However, Mr. Alford, the contractor, who is in no way to blame for the failings of the stonemasons, is determined to undo the objectionable masonry, and give the trustees no cause for complaint. A large amount of timber and white brick are now being brought from Peterborough for this building.

OUR STATION.

The fact of the Ontario & Quebec Railway Company having advertised for tenders for the construction of station buildings at Norwood, has settled the minds of many anxious Norwoodites regarding the location of a station house at this place. Not only have grounds been purchased for this purpose, but they also have been laid out for its construction by one of the engineers of the Company.

BRUIN ABROAD.

A day or two since a large black bear made his appearance on the fifth concession of Smith, striking terror to children and women. No shootable firearms were convenient, so the animal escaped for the time. It is supposed that the dearth of nuts and berries in his native haunts, had driven Bruin by starvation to prey on the fruits of the toil of the tardy farmer, whose late crop of oats might have been a temptation.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Bond Business.

An adjourned meeting of the Council was held on Wednesday night to consider the matter of the change of the bonds of the Collector. Present,—Messrs., the Acting Mayor in the chair, Davidson, McNaughton, Kelly, Sawers, Yelland, Douglass, Rutherford, Denne and Paterson.

The Acting Mayor said that he and Mr. Paterson had called at Mr. Weller's office as per arangement agreed to by the Council last night. Not finding him in, they had called on Mr. Dennistoun and secured his opinion in writing in regard to the omission of the word "forever" from Mr. Cumming's proffered bonds. His opinion was contained in the following letter;

Thomas Menzies, Esq., Acting Mayor:

DEAR SIR,—In answer to your question as to whether the bond prepared for the signature of Mr. Wm. Cumming and his sureties would be valid and binding if the word "forever" were struck out, I beg leave to say that in my opinion the bond will be just as binding upon the Collector and his sureties with this word struck out.

I would beg to suggest that in the event of the time for the return of the roll being extended, that the Council should first get the consent in writing of the sureties.

I am, yours truly,
R. H. DENNISTOUN.

Peterborough, Oct. 24th, 1883.

A letter was also read from Mr. E. B. Edwards, justifying the position he had assumed in reference to the bond, and giving elaborate reasons for the conclusion he had arrived at.

Mr. Cumming was understood to assent to having the bond so amended as to hold him and his sureties responsible in case of extension of the roll.

Mr. Denne moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the word "forever" be struck out, and that as so struck out the bonds be accepted, and that the Acting Mayor and the Chairman of the Finance Committee are hereby instructed to accept the same if satisfactory in other respects.

The motion was declared carried, and the Council adjourned sine die.

A BISHOP BENIGHTED.

On Monday of last week Bishop Sweatman, of the diocese of Toronto, left Fenelon Falls, where he held a confirmation, and then proceeded to Head Lake, in Laxton. In the afternoon he left the latter place in company with the missionary, to drive to Victoria Road, near Bexley, a distance of 47 miles. Night came on while they were in a wild country district, some miles from their destination, and the trail not being a good the travellers missed their way. Through slough and muskeg, over rocks and fallen trees, the horses plunged, and to add to the misfortunes of the Bishop and his companion the only lamp which they had with them persistently refused to burn after it had been lit a quarter of an hour. They had only two matches in their possession, but these did not avail them much in the predicament. After wandering round two or three hours and it began to appear as if the night would have to be spent in the wood, the track was fortunately struck once more and the journey resumed. Bexley was reached about half-past nine o'clock, fully two hours after the meeting there should have begun.

COAL IN THE NORTHWEST.

[Calgary Herald.]

The abundance of coal in all this country is becoming more apparant every day, and new discoveries are constantly being brought to light. The last we have heard of is a seam eight feet thick, twelve miles distant from this place. The coal has been tried, and gives good satisfaction, being hard and burning with a bright flame, leaving scarcely any cinders. Already a wealthy company have applied for a patent, and intend, if successful, to commence operations as soon as practicable. They contemplate running a railway or tramway from the C. P. R. to the mine, for the purpose of hauling out the coal, and expect from the facility with which the mine can be worked, to be able to lay down the coal at Calgary for about $5 per ton

"STUFFING" THE FINANCE MINISTER.

It is admitted that the cotton statistics used by Sir. Leonard Tilley in his last budget speech were supplied by the cotton lords; those relating to the sugar business were furnished by the sugar refiners, and so on. It has also been made known that Sir Leonard's prediction of seven years' uninterrupted prosperity was made in the interest of certain individuals interested in "bulling" the stock market. Sir Leonard may defend his foolish prophecy on patriotic ground, but some persons who have invested in stocks on the strength of his assurances have been heartlessly fleeced, and the Minister must bear his share of responsibility for their misfortunes.

This place, formerly called "Wick Junction," is looking up. Recently it was a howling wilderness, but now there is a fine new station, a new hotel is going up rapidly, and the "streets" are being ornamented with shade trees.

OMEMEE.

The Orangemen of Emily and Omemee intend to celebrating the anniversary of the "Gunpower Plot," by a grand supper at Mr. John's Young's Temperance House in this village.

It a good sign, that for the past few weeks quite a large number has been added to the population of Omemee, and at present there is scarcely a vacant house to be found.

MILLBROOK.

A fresh arrival from the North-West has a turnip on exhibition that weighs 22 pounds.

The tin shop of Mr. T. H. Philip, was totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. The fire originated from a stove pipe. Loss about $2,000.

Mr. John Walker, of Manvers, had been in Millbrook during Tuesday, and had with him on the way home a neighbor under the influence of liquor. Mr. Walker started to lead his intoxicated friend home, and it is supposed both drank freely of the liquor. On Wednesday morning Mr. Walker was found on the roadside dead, and the horses and his unconscious friend a few yards away.

COBOURG.

Sheriff Burke is about to move his family here from Bowmanville.

A match race between Dickson's Cobourg Billy and Hickey's horse for $100 took place at the Agricultural Park, on Monday last.

At the close of the agricultural fair here, while the articles that had been on exhibition were being taken away, six valuable pigeons, belonging to J. R. Barber, Esq., were stolen.

It is stated that Mr. Ryckman, son of Rev'd Dr. Ryckman, of London, has taken all round honors and won three scholarships at the University of Victoria College, Cobourg. This achievement is unprecedented.

BOBCAYGEON.

A number of Italians passed through on Tuesday, on their way to the Fenelon Lock Quarry.

The divers are again at work on the locks. The flooring is to be repaired and made tight.

Several large sales of grain have been made during the week. The price ranges from 70c. to 97c.

Mr. Reynolds has nearly completed his brick residence. It is a handsome addition to the village, and an improvement to his street.

A meeting was held in the English Church on Thursday night, and a Church Temperance society was formed by the congregation.

The supports to the Forest House Bridge, being constructed by authority of the Warden, will shortly be completed.

NORWOOD.

The Drill Shed is being fitted up for a skating rink. A rink, properly conducted, will pay well in this village.

A large number of masons, principally from Peterborough, are engaged in laying the foundation for the new school building.

A ballast pit, for ballasting this section of the Ontario & Quebec Railway, has been laid out near Mr. T. Parker's, about two miles from this village. It is situated about 400 yards from the main line, but will require over half-a-mile of track to reach it. A portion of 'Orange Hill,' near Buck's grist mill, will also be used for ballasting purposes.

Mr. Jesse Cummings, of this village has performed the unusual achievement of slaying two deer in three days.

While Mr. McGregor of the McGregor House, left his horse at Hastings, at the Coughlin House, some scoundrel "clipped" the animal's tail. A dastardly mode of revenge.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

The I. O. G T's here held an open meeting which was a grand success, in their Lodge, on Thursday evening, the 18th inst., commencing at 7.30 p. m. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, when a long and most interesting programme was commenced, consisting of readings, recitations, dialogues, music both vocal and instrumental. Shortly after the programme was begun a large number of the Omemee members arrived, bringing with them a very interesting programme too, which was gratefully received and won well merited applause. After the arrival of the brethren and sisters from Omemee, pieces were rendered alternately by Omemee and Mount Pleasant members until about 11 p. m. when the meeting closed and all started for their respective homes well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Our villagers turned out on Monday last and repaired our sidewalks which were badly in need of an overhauling. The wise and timely movement is due to Messrs. J. W. Creer, merchant, and I. Best, machinist, of this place. We hope that they and all that who took part in the voluntary work may enjoy the well repaired sidewalks which we now have—Omemee Herald.

PORT HOPE.

Preparations are being made by our townsmen of Scottish descent for the proper celebration of St. Andrew's Day.

Lumber is moving slowly at this port, The docks at Oswego are pretty well filled, and there is not much demand for the article.

Constable Rankin, who shot the escaped convict McCabe while trying to arrest him has been presented with a purse containing $125 and an address by the citizens of Port Hope.

The plans for the new proposed rink have been completed, a stock list will at once be opened, and no doubt the necessary funds will, as heretofore, be forthcoming. It is proposed to put the new structure on Mr. Peplow's lot on Mill street, opposite Mr. Salter's mill.

Mr. Chas. Doebler very narrowly escaped losing the sight of one of his eyes on Tuesday last. He was engaged in unpacking some new goods which he had received, and while prying the lid off one of the boxes the board snapped, and a splinter flew up and struck him in the corner of his eye, inflicting a very painful cut.

The following are the officers of the Port Hope Curling Club:—President, John P. Cleuss; Secrtaryand Treasurer, E. J. W. Barton.

LINDSAY.

The new railway bridge is now fully completed, and the track has been laid across it. It was tested on Friday we are informed.

It is rumored that some of the employees and other creditors of the Lindsay paper mill are not satisfied with the offer of fifty cents on the dollar and intend fighting their claims in court.

The new station building is being hammered into shape and for its size will be a fairly neat looking building. Ample platform accommodation is being laid down.

Last week, we learn, Mr. Walter Darling, agent for the Dominion Bank here, and Mr. John A. Barron, visited Fenelon Falls for the purpose of seeing what indecements the business men would be prepared to make for the establishment of a branch bank in that village.

Mr. George H. Fox, accompanied by Miss Fox, left town on Wednesday for Southern Florida, where a brother, Chas. Fox, resides and has a fine orange grove. The coming winter rendered it advisable for George to go south. He is in fair health, and hopes that the milder climate will soon effect a restoration of his eyesight.

The half yearly convention of the East Victoria teachers' association takes place in in the Cambridge street school house, Lindsay, commencing Friday, November 2nd. A very good programme has been arranged, and the proceedings will be interesting as well as instructive. The evening session will be held in the opera house, Col. Deacon in the chair.

Active work is being done on the improvements to Lundy's block. The necessary excavations have been made along the rear of the premises to provide for a stone foundation under the line of brick additions which will be put up. This will add to the room afforded by by each dwelling when finished and will complete the accommodation required. Mr. W. Fitzgerald will commence work on the mansard roof which it is proposed to put on the block early next week.

SIR LEONARD'S GEOGRAPHICAL KNOWLEDGE.

An Ottawa correspondent says that, among the many weaknesses of Sir Leonard Tilley, it appears that he is not well versed in geography, and that he disclosed his ignorance a few days ago in a most deplorable manner. A well-known steamship agent called on the Minister to complain that a rival company subsidized to run a line of steamers between Havre and Canada were evading their contract and cutting unfairly into his (the agent's) business. The visitor represented that the subsidized steamships leaving Hamburg for Canada never called at Havre at all, but took part of their cargo to Antwerp, while by the terms of their agreement with the Government they agreed to ply between France and Canada. "But," said the financial colossus, "they call at Antwerp, don't they?" "Yes, Sir Leonard," was the answer, "but Antwerp is not in France. It is in Belgium." "Oh! then I will enquire into the matter," said the Minister and the steamship agent left, highly impressed with the wonderful knowledge of general affairs possessed by our Finance Minister. The managers of the Hamburg line evidently knew their man, or they would not have attempted to make him believe they were fulfilling their contract by calling at Antwerp and giving all French ports the go-by.

METHODIST INCORPORATION.

The Canada Gazette contains the following notice:

"Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Parliament of Canada, at the next sitting thereof, for an Act to incorporate the Methodist Church of Canada, the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada, the Primitive Methodist Church in Canada, and the Bible Christians, under the name of 'The Methodist Church,' on the basis of union adopted by the said four denominations and the rules, regulations and discipline also adopted by the said four denominations in a General Convention or Conference assembled at the town of Belleville on the fifth day of September, 1883, and to ratify the said union and confer on the said Church such further powers as may be necessary to complete and carry into effect the said union."

WHAT IS A PAPAL BULL?

We hear much about papal bulls. How few know what they are, and how laughable the ideas that non Catholics have of them. What are they? A bull is an instrument, ordinance or decree of the sovereign pontiff treating of matters of faith, of the affairs of the church, written on parchment, with a leaden or gold seal impressed on one side with the images of SS. Peter and Paul, and on the other with the name of the pope and the year of pontificate. This seal is hung to the document by a hempen or silk cord, according to the character of the Bull. It is this pendent which is, properly speaking, the Bull—the word itself being derived from Bullare, to seal letters, or from Bulla, a seal or amulet.

VERY EXPENSIVE PHOTOGRAPH.

A short time ago a young lady of Perth, Lanark County, went to a photographer of that place to have her likeness taken. When the picture was photographed she refused to pay for it, alleging that it was not a correct likeness of her. The photographer out of revenge added a moustache and a cigar to the picture and placed it on exhibition in his window. The young lady thereafter entered an action against him for $1,000 damages. The matter, however, was settled by the photographer paying her a good round sum.

CONFESSING HER MURDERS.

A KENTUCKY GIRL WHO KILLED TWO MEN AND ALLOWED TWO OTHERS TO BE HANGED FOR HER CRIMES.

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky., Oct. 23.—Last Monday Millie Walker, alias Mary Gandle, was shot fatally in Johnson county, Kentucky. She made a dying confession, and said she had been a woman of ill-repute since her fifteenth year, when she was led astray by George Radcliffe, whom she killed for his perfidy and buried his body in a sawdust pile near his father's house. Frank Thompson, who was suspected of the crime, was captured by the mob and lynched in front of the Frenchburg jail. Millie's lips were sealed.

On Thursday, September 22, 1878, Ned Trumbo, an inoffensive colored man, was shot dead in this city. The assassination created great excitement, and a reward aggregating $6500 was offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderers. While staying at Trumbo's house she had two lovers, Hopper and Emmons, who were jealous of each other. Being slighted by the latter, Millie, in a blind rage, shot and killed Trumbo for pure wantonness. Hopper was arrested for the murder and was hanged, much to the woman's delight.

Her life since has been abandoned until she met George Frankson, to whom she represented herself as good and virtuous. When Frankson discovered her character he shot her, and her confession solves the mystery of five years.

SHEET IRON HOUSES.

A new departure in house building has been taken by the "Enterprise Manufacturing Company" of Winnipeg. It is introducing a new kind of building invented by Mr. J. C. Young, of that city. The material is sheet iron prepared by a process invented by Mr. Young, and perfected after a good deal of experimenting. The iron plates, 18x24, are first puddled, then dipped into boiling paint of a peculiar manufacture, and then put through a process resembling galvanizing. These plates, so formed as to interlock, are used for the external covering of roof and walls, the latter being so constructed as to have three air spaces. The second wall is of paper and the third of ship-lap on lath. Over the ship-lap is placed prepared cloth, sponged with a fire-proof solution. This may be covered with ordinary wall paper. It is claimed for the new structures, which seem to be coming into use, that they are easy of construction, forty per cent. cheaper than ordinary frame houses, and at the same time fire-proof, water-proof and frost-proof.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMING.

The C. P. R. Land Department have become alive to the importance of having some lands in the mile belt broken for next year's seeding. Already about fifty teams are at work between Moose Jaw and Medicine Hat, and fifty more teams are advertised for. The company have lately purchased thirty-six John Dere ploughs for the work. Their intention is to thoroughly test the lands, so that settlers coming in may see for themselves what the country will produce. This is a move which will commend itself to all who have passed through on the line, as the stretch of prairie as far as the eye can reach, unenlivened by a single house or cultivated farm, becomes dreary in the extreme, and we do not wonder that many, without any further knowledge of the country, have become disheartened, and in some cases have retraced their steps. we understand, further, that the company intend placing these improved lands with the crops upon them, in the market, and thus the rough pioneer life may be avoided by those willing to purchase improved lands.—Calgary Herald.

KEEPING EGGS FRESH.

I saw a very good arragement for keeping eggs at a friend's house a short time since, and it was so simple and practicable that it ought to be generally known. It was a set of four shelves two feet long and eight inches wide; with a space of five inches between them, made of hard wood planed, and three rows of round holes, bored with an inch auger on each shelf, twelve in each row. One shelf would hold three dozen eggs. The eggs were set in with the small end down, so that the yolk could not settle against the shell. The lady said she had kept eggs six months in this manner perfectly sweet; also that the free circulation of air around them was very important, and there was no danger of cracking the shell.

BEET ROOT SUGAR.

Another attempt is being made to manufacture beet root sugar in the Province of Quebec by French capitalists, who have leased the Berthier mills at $7.50 per annum, from Mr. Senecal for twenty years. Experts in cultivating the beet will be brought out from France in the spring to teach the habitants the right mode of raising the root. All previous attempts to succeed in this business in Quebec have been disastrous losses to the investors. Mr. Senecal purchased the mills in question for $75,000, while they cost a year or two before $300,000 to erect and import the machinery from Germany.

THE WAYWORN FARMER'S WIFE.

Up with the birds in the early morning—
The dewdrop glows like a precious gem;
Beautiful tints in the skies are dawning,
But she's never a moment to look at them.
The men are wanting their breakfast early;
She must not linger, she must not wait;
For words that are sharp and looks that are surly
Are what the men give when their meals are late.

Oh, glorious colors the clouds are turning,
If she would but look over hills and trees;
But here are the dishes, and here is the churning—
These things must always yield to these.
The world is filled with the wine of beauty,
If she could just pause and take it in;
But pleasure, she says, must wait for duty—
Neglected work is committed sin.

The day grows hot, and her hands grow weary;
Oh, for an hour to cool her head.
Out side the birds and winds go cheery!
But she must get dinner, and make her bread.
The busy men in the hay field working,
If they saw her sitting with idle hand,
Would think her lazy, and call it shirking,
And she never could make them understand.

They do not know that her heart within her
Hungers for beauty and things sublime,
They only know that they want their dinner,
Plenty of it, and just "on time."
And after the sweeping, churning and baking,
And dinner dishes are all put by,
She sits and sews, though her head is aching,
Till time for supper and "chores" draws nigh.

Her boys at school must look like others,
She says, as she patches thier frocks and hose.
For the world is quick to censure mothers
For the least neglect in their children's clothes.
Her husband comes from the field of labor,
He gives no praise to his weary wife;
She does no more than has her neighbor;
'Tis the lot of all in country life.

But after the strife and weary tasks
With life is done, and she lies at rest,
The nation's brain and heart and muscle—
Her sons and daughters shall call her blest.
And I think the sweetest joy of heaven,
The rarest bliss of eternal life,
And the fairest crown of all, will be given
Unto the way worn farmer's wife.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 1, 1883.

A "Promising" Prospect.

In the Globe's Ottawa correspondence of Thursday we find the following significant paragraph:—

"Messrs. Geo. Hilliard, M.P., R. A. Morrow, and Thomas Cahill, of Peterborough, had an interview with Sir Hector Langevin to-day in reference to the erection of new public buildings in that town. A dispute has arisen respecting the selection of the site for the building, and the letting of the contract has been delayed in consequence. They were promised that the contract should be let during the coming winter. Mr. Hilliard requested the Minister to send an architect from the Department to select a site. The deputation also called upon the Acting Minister of Railways and Canals, who promised them that a further appropriation would be made next session for the Trent Valley Canal."

It is plain that the Government sought to palter with the town by sending an engineer in whom they seem to have had no confidence, to select a site for the post office. It will be remembered that Mr. Thomas Fuller, on behalf of the Government spent some time in town recently, with a view of selecting a site, and he had the fullest facilities for accomplishing the object of his visit—some half a dozen local lights, who had eligible sites, dogged his footsteps and gave him, it is supposed, all the necessary information. That notorious map, which cut the town off short at Brock street, should, itself, have settled the matter. Mr. Fuller has made his report long ago, (unless instructed to withold it) but it was not accepted, for the simple fact that the post office site question had a good deal of political usefulness left in it yet, and it would not do to settle it at once. We have argued heretofore that the Government used the promise of a post office as an election dodge, to influence the last Dominion elections, and the facts bear out our contentions. If the Government were honest in its intentions to build the office, would it require a deputation to stir them up? We are promised that the contract shall be let the coming winter. We had promises as solemn eighteen months ago, and yet the very first step—the selection of a site—has not been made. The "new post office" has served its end—the riding has elected a Tory and is safe, at least for five years. It will be a long time before we hear of it again, except in the shape of sham promises to desperate deputations. The prospect of a new post office in Peterborough is "promising" only in a literal sense.

Mr. Mowat's Majority.

The Tory party in Ontario have settled down to the conclusion that they are out in the cold for another four years and the hope of occupying the Treasury Benches has merged into despair. Mr. Meredith has turned traitor to his Province in vain. He is still in the cold shades of opposition, and likely to remain there. There is no doubt that the Mowat Government has a good working majority, and we submit the following list for the benefit of those who are frequently making inquiries as to the exact party composition of the present Legislature:—

Liberals.—Awrey, Badgerow, Ballantyne, Blezard, Bishop, Baxter, Balfour, Cascaden, Caldwell, Crooks, Chisholm, Clarke, Dryden, Dowling, Drury, Fraser, Ferris, Freeman, Gillies, Gibson, J. M., Gibson, T., Graham, Gould, Hardy, Harcourt, Hagar, Hart, Lyon, Laidlaw, Mowat, Morin, McLaughlin, McCraney, Mackenzie, Murray, McIntyre, Masters, McMahon, McKim, Nealon, O'Connor, Pardee, Rayside, Ross, Sills, Snider, Waters, Widdifield, Young—40.

Conservatives—Baskerville, Brereton, Broder, Blythe, Clarke, Clancy, Carnegie, Creighton, Dennison, Ermatinger, Fell, French, Gray, Hammell, Hudson, Hess, Johnston, Kearns, Kerr, Lauder, Monk McGhee, Metcalfe, Merrick, Meredith, Morgan, Mulholland, Morris, McKay, Preston, Roe, Ross, Robillard, White, Wilmot, Wood—36.

Independent—Less—1.

Liberals	40
Conservatives	36
Independent	1 —
Liberal majority	13

Thus, there is a clear majority for the Government of thirteen, with one independent member, who, if he is really independent and will support "measures not men"—act from principle and not from party—may be classed with the supporters of the Government, making its majority 14, and counting Muskoka, it is fifteen, with some further improvement in strength, to be hoped for from the decisions of the election courts. The Mowat Government has an actual majority of thirteen, a probable majority of fifteen, and a possible majority of several more Therefore, Mowat "must" not "go." The interests of the Province are in honest hands, for four years more, at least.

Sabbath Observance.

The question of Sunday observance has caused considerable discussion in the past. In the public press and in the pulpits of the Dominion, it is again occupying attention. The cause is patent to every newspaper reader. Very determined efforts are being made to secularise it. Some, it is supposed, are striving hard to violate its sanctity and to bring it down to the low level which exists in the neighboring republic. Others again, resist these attempts and are doing all in their power to preserve the Sabbath in its sanctity. And in pulpit and press and Parliament the battle rages.

Now, of course, the obligation to observe the Sabbath is differently interpreted and explained by different parties. Some unquestionably add a Puritanic strictness to a Jewish restrictiveness, and then the day of delights becomes a gloomy miserable day. Others, and they are the more numerous at least in son. countries, ignore the natural demands for one day's rest in seven. They judge that the convenience, or the comfort or the pleasure of the many is a sufficient reason for denying the day of rest to a few. It is difficult in such complicated questions to preserve the happy mean. That some must suffer in such a condition of affairs seems absolutely inevitable. In every household servants must do some work on the Sabbath. Coachmen and grooms and dairymen cannot altogether rest from their constant employment. Those who are engaged in the printing trade, where daily papers are published, must go to work on Sunday night and before the day of rest is ended. It seems inevitable too, that telegraph operators, undertakers and hackmen must work and that very steadily. And if freight trains are to pass from one end of the Dominion to another, railway servants must be engaged in severe toil on the Lord's day. Just where this sacrifice of some for the general good of all is to end, it is most difficult to say. We know it is proposed to run through trains from the great centres for the convenience of passengers, and these are now in operation. Then, naturally, a post office forms a necessary adjunct of such trains, and to this many public men have serious objections. For our part, we can see little difference in this and in despatching mail trains on the arrival of an ocean steamer.

Of course the day should be spent so as to give the least possible occasion for the toil of others. The claims of domestics and other servants are undoubtedly often overlooked. They have an inalienable right to as much rest as can be consistent with the ordering of the home. And they certainly have an equal right to suitable opportunities for public worship and religious instruction on the Sabbath. No head of a house can be guiltless who robs his subordinates of these privileges. And all public servants or state officials should be equally favored. Were these simple rules closely observed how many of the difficulties that surround the Sabbath question would be resolved?

But the Sabbath should also witness the perfectly happy intercourse of home. To the young, repressed on every side, their youthful joys checked, and their lives made bitter with hard questions on the shorter catechism or complicated scriptural texts, it has too often been made a day of torment. Now this has partly led to the present struggle against the right use of the day. Let this day be used for parents' gathering the household about them, that in a free and loving followship they may find the purest and most exalted joy. Certainly works of necessity and charity may be performed on this day. Nor can the spirit be condemned which leads numbers to sacrifice their own quiet and rest in order to visit the sick, teach the ignorant or relieve the distressed. The day is not for weeping any more than for labor. It should be as free from gloomy moroseness as from oppressive toil. But it ought not to become to any one a time for religious dissipation and such multiplied services for others, that personal rest and spiritual communion are quite neglected. This warning we believe to be needed in the present day as much, if not more, than anything else.

Nationally, the question of Sabbath observance is of the gravest importance. The subject deserves the most careful legislation, in order that whatever interferes with the sanctity of this day of rest may be prevented. For our Dominion's weal it is of the highest moment that the health, the peace, and above all, the moral and spiritual interests of our people may be sacredly guarded. We trust that the present statute concerning the observance of the Sabbath may never be repealed, and that offenders everywhere against its spirit, if not against its very words, may speedily be brought to justice and righteously condemned.

Editorial Notes.

The Dominion Parliament, it is understood, will be called together for the despatch of business on the 17th of January.

The trials of the Kent and Bothwell Dominion election cases have been fixed for the fourth Thursday in February next.

The all-powerful N. P. has allowed another wholesale firm to collapse. Taylor & Co., furriers of Montreal, have failed for $80,000.

The convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada closed its labors at Cobourg last week. The next meeting is to be held in Brockville in 1884.

The Conservatives of Moose Jaw, at a public meeting a few days ago, adopted resolutions condemning the North-West land policy of the Dominion Government.

The representatives of the knitted woollen goods industry from all parts of the Dominion, had a meeting in Toronto on Tuesday night, and unanimously resolved to curtail production one half.

The Stratford Beacon thinks more judges are needed in Ontario, and points out that there are still pending trials arising out of the last Dominion election, which took place nearly a year and a half ago.

The Ottawa Free Press shows that during the present Administration, under the Tilley system of legalized robbery, taxation has increased from $22,375,011 in 1878, to $35,888,334. In other words, $32,856,819 have been extracted from the pockets of the people in five years by this Tory Government.

A meeting of agricultural implement manufacturers was held recently in London to discuss the prospects for next year's operations. The of fact over-production was freely acknowledged, and the factories intend to reduce their output for the ensuing year. Thus the blessings of the N. P. continue to make themselves felt.

The Mail asserts that it is the policy of the present Government to give the people their necessaries entirely free of customs duties. Of course that explains the tax on such superfluous luxuries as coal, cotton, blankets, sugar, etc. That is why such indispensable necessities as diamonds, sawdust, and sausage skins (uncleaned) are placed on the free list.

The Ottawa Government cannot, it seems, do enough for the Syndicate monopoly. Not satisfied with giving them over a quarter million of money and a quarter of a continent to build the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Government has, it is asserted, guaranteed 3 per cent. on the stock of the road, and without the assent of Parliament, too.

Mr. Geo. W. Badgerow, M. P. P. for East York, has instituted proceedings against John Entwhistle and John Strader, of Riverside, for conspiracy and perjury in connection with the petition against his return to the Local House. They have been committed for trial. The trial will probably show one of the modus operandi in instituting vexatious election petitions.

The last instance of Sir John's policy of centralizing all the power at Ottawa, is his recommending the disallowance of of two railway charters, granted by the local Legislature of British Columbia for lines lying wholly within the province. The province has an undoubted right to grant these charters, yet Sir John, in his desire to acknowledge his servitude to the Pacific Railway, does not hesitate to trample upon and ignore provincial rights in the most flagrant manner.

Still another change. The Toronto Evening Canadian announces another political change in the character of its columns. "Henceforth it will be the mouthpiece of no political party, and of no religious body. It will be independent alike in name and fact." The Canadian for the past year of its existence has been intensely and utterly Tory. It is a bright, newsy journal, and its new departure, under more liberal principles, will tend to give it an onward impetus.

The Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise sailed for England from Quebec last Saturday. While in no way particularly distinguishing themselves, the departing pair leave behind them only pleasant memories of their five years sojourn amongst us. The Marquis performed one gracious act of kindness before his departure, which should make Lord Lansdowne eternally grateful. He warned the new Viceroy of the dreary danger of the lurking and insidious address that would lie in wait for him at every turn.

Lord Lorne arrived in Canada just when the bloom was on the N. P., and leaves just when its humbug is becoming apparent. Only last March Sir Leonard, the seer, foretold seven years of prosperity—full ears and fat kine. Alas, for Sir Tilley, the cloud of commercial depression is settling on the country, and "hard times" is coming, evidently to stay—some time, at least. If the N. P. has not caused "hard times," it has made them "harder." It has promoted inflation and over-production, and the relapse will be correspondingly severe.

Mr. Dill, of Bracebridge, has been nominated as the Reform candidate for Muskoka. He is a man of rare ability, and with the united party support there will be little difficulty in electing him to the Legislature. At the Reform convention in 1882, after Mr. J. C. Miller's resignation of the seat, Mr. Dill and Mr. Bettes were the favorite candidates. Mr. Bettes was elected by a majority of only 2 ballots in a convention of 100 delegates. Mr. Dill worked enthusiastically for the nominee of the convention, and Mr. Bettes will do as well for Mr. Dill. Muskoka has had enough of Shields, his brigade and their frozen whisky.

On Saturday the Tories of Lennox met to select a candidate to fill the place illegally warmed by Sir John for a year and a half, and which the election court made too hot for comfort. The choice of a candidate made, shows that the respectable wing of the Tory party have resented Sir John's desertion of them, and would have none of the candidate of the Roe faction. Mr. M. W. Pruyn was chosen as a candidate, and though a bitter and out-and-out Tory, he has at least the merit of being a respectable and respected gentleman. Roe has lost his grip on the party, and as a "boss" his days are over. It is a sort of left-handed slap at Sir John—when Mr. Roe, his chosen and hard worked doer of dirty work, and disburser in-chief of corruption cash, has his candidate rejected by the Tories of Lennox.

The judgment of the Court of Appeal delivered on Saturday, dismisses the appeal against the decision of the election court in the West Simcoe election case, and deprives Mr. Phelps of his seat for no act or fault of himself. Mr. Justice Burton dissented from the finding of the other three judges. The decision shows that the matter of agency for a candidate needs to be strictly defined by statute. That a member-elect, whose election has, according to the assertion of the Election Court judges, been conducted with exemplary purity, should be unseated when not a single case of bribery or corrupt practice by the candidate or his bona fide agents was proven, is at least a hard measure. The election law that admits of an interpretation, demanding such limited conditions for the establishment of agency, is certainly in need of amendment.

The Review is intensely Conservative; it still retains the influence of the "silly season." In a recent issue appears a column of the most astonishingly asinine and superlatively silly flapdoodle imaginable attempting to show by false statements and childish suppositions that Mr. Plummer should be elected for Algoma. The gist of the masterly article in question is, that if Mr. Plummer had received so many more votes he would have been elected by such a majority. The alleged facts are dealt with and disposed of by a correspondent in another column. This silly mode of reasoning is too puerile for serious attention. It simply amounts to this: if Mr. Plummer had got enough votes in Algoma as he would have been elected; or, to vary the supposition, if Mr. George Read, in East Peterborough, had got some 400 more votes than he did get, he would have been elected instead of Mr. Blezard.

The Tory papers, ignoring the facts entirely, are instituting comparisons between the Lennox and West Middlesex election cases, involving respectively the unseating of Sir John Macdonald and Mr. G. W. Ross. There is no parallel in the two cases. In the case of Mr. Ross it was not proven that a single dollar was corruptly spent, but it was shown decidedly that the Reform committee absolutely refused to sanction the purchase of a single vote. The only attempt at undue influence was made by a person without political character, who attempted bribery to secure the winning of a wager made by him on Mr. Ross' return. What a contrast in Lennox! The trial had hardly begun when the investigation of a few charges, confined to a single school section in a single township, showed that Roe, Sir John's political confidant, perpetrated the most lavish and unblushing bribery, paying out money without stint, and so openly, too, that he was publicly recognised as the Chieftain's disburser of corruption funds. Yet this was the record in only one school section of one municipality of the eight of which the riding is composed, and only a few out of the 117 charges of corrupt practices were tried. Besides, the personal charges were not pressed against Sir John, while the full tale of Tory vindictiveness was meted out to Mr. Ross. There is no more comparison possible in the two cases, than there is between involuntary homicide and murder in the first degree.

CHAPTER III.

Among the lawless horde at Webster's Find, Jasper Denham toiled on sick at heart. Bereft of his one earthly friend, he lost all interest in his life and work, and there followed, as is often the case, a spell of good fortune sufficient to make him, if he chose, independent for life. Before the year was out the claim was exhausted, and the diggers drifted away one by one from Webster's Find. Jasper Denham was one of the first to go. He went first to San Francisco to deposit his treasure, and then set out again on a wandering tour, spending a month here and a month there, and always meeting good luck when he chose to work, simply because he did not care a cent whether it came to him or not. At last, tired of wandering, he turned his steps to Nevada, to see if any of his Carson City friends remained. He found few indeed. We, who live twenty years in a place and witness few changes, cannot realize the shifting nature of these mining cities in the far west, nor what complete strangers even a year may accomplish. Jasper Denham received such a poor welcome in his native city that a month saw him on the wing again, back to San Francisco. Then there came upon him suddenly a strange longing to set foot on English soil, and let his eyes rest on the home where his father spent his boyhood. It grew until it became uncontrollable; so behold him, on a bright sunlit morning, a well-dressed, handsome fellow, pacing the deck of the Ocean Queen, bound for Europe.

He had a prosperous voyage, and arrived in London a few weeks before Christmas. The vast city was a revelation to the colonial youth, and he felt in no hurry to leave it, yet there came upon him at times an awful sense of loneliness and isolation, for among all the teeming thousands there were none to shake him by the hand or address him in a voice of friendship. Christmas fell on a Wednesday. On Monday afternoon Jasper Denham took train at Charing Cross for Lower Rylestone, and arrived in the dreary little town at nightfall. After inquiring the distance to Wyndom village, he concluded to stay where he was till morning, and asked to be directed to a hotel.

The man answered him somewhat confusedly, and stared at him so intently that Jasper began to wonder whether there could be anything in his appearance to attract attention. The man, recovering himself, indicated a dingy looking building on the opposite side of the square, and thither Jasper betook himself. He flung his portmanteau to the waiter in the hall, and asked to be shown to a bedroom, whereupon that individual favored him with a prolonged stare, very exasperating to its object.

"Are you deaf?" he asked in a voice which brought the landlord from the bar. On beholding the waiter's stare repeated and intensified on the face of the master, Jasper Denham came to the conclusion that Lower Rylestone must be a spacious lunatic asylum.

"Squire Denison, sir, I beg your pardon," stammered the landlord at length. "Have you been travelling, sir? The Hold carriage, I think, is not at the station. Have you come unexpectedly?"

It was Jasper Denham's turn now to stare. His reception was, to say the least, mysterious.

"You are mistaken, sir," he said quietly and courteously. "I am a stranger in these parts, and have no knowledge of the person or place you mention. I have never been in Rylestone before, and would not be now, but I broke my journey to get a good night's rest. Can you accommodate me, or shall I seek shelter elsewhere?"

The landlord was himself at once, and profuse in his apologies.

You will perceive that Jasper Denham purposely misled his listeners for a motive of his own.

"You can have a sitting room to yourself, sir, if you prefer it. The coffee-room is apt to fill up at nights."

"Yes, he would prefer it, and while he went upstairs to the bedroom the landlord flew to see that the sittingroom was put in readiness for his guest. But in the middle of his bustle he did not forget to marvel at the odd likeness the stranger bore to the squire of Wyndom Hold. When John Denison was seated at the blazing fire in the cosy parlour, he rang and asked if the landlord had any objection to give him his company for half an hour. He was a sociable man, he said, and liked a chat over his glass of ale as well as any man in England. The landlord was delighted, and waxed exceedingly communicative towards his affable guest. Jasper Denham skilfully drew him on to talk of the Denisons, but he was not prepared for what he was to hear.

"The Hold's a grand old place, sir, and we were sore grieved to see it empty so long between the death of the old Squire and the home-coming of his grandson. It's a long story, sir, and reads like a book. Mayhap you'd like to hear it."

Jasper Dendam answered carelessly in the affirmative, and preserved an indifferent countenance, though his heart was beating almost to suffocation. The landlord told his tale minutely, and with many running comments of his own, which he had occasion to remember afterwards with considerable uneasiness.

"The lawyers advertised in foreign newspapers for the heir, but despaired of him ever turning up—he was so long about it. He came at last, though, it seems, he had been working like a common laborer at the gold mine; odd thing that for a Denison, isn't it? His claim was easily proved, I believe, and he entered into possession only last year now, I think. He's a fine chap, the Squire, —I blessed if I'm not getting to like as you and him. I'm blest if you aren't very like as it was at the Squire in the hall to-night."

It was a mighty task for Jasper Denham to keep command of himself, and preserve his careless indifference of look and manner, but he succeeded rarely well. To him the landlord saw only an uninterested stranger, listening to his tale to beguile the time.

"He was married, sir," he went on, after obeying a nod from his guest, and moistening his throat from that decanter, "not long after he came home, to Miss Moore, the Vicar's sister. They're the handsomest and the happiest pair, they say, from here to London. But lately the Squire hasn't been well, and even the great London doctors Mrs Denison sent for can't cure him. He hasn't been able to be out of the house for weeks; that's why I got such a turn thinking you were him. That's all the story, sir. I haven't worried you, have I? I'm afraid I'll have to go to the coffee-room now, sir, but I'll come back if you like."

"Thank you; you needn't mind; I'll just have a quiet smoke here, and then tumble up stairs," returned his guest with admirable ease of manner. "Let me have breakfast at eight, if you please. Good-night."

"Good-night, sir," said the landlord obsequiously. "I hope you'll get as good a night's rest as you wish."

Jasper Denham nodded, and when the landlord left the room, followed and shut the door. Then a sudden change swept across his face, and then broke from between his clenched teeth one hoarse, bitter word—"Traitor!"

CHAPTER IV.

In the pleasant morning-room at Wyndom Hold sat Squire Denison and his wife. It had struck eleven, and breakfast was but newly over, for invalid hours were being kept at the Hold. There was something seriously the matter with the Squire, though the London doctors professed themselves unable to discover a trace of disease in his system. He was thin and worn to a degree, and so nervous that he started at the slightest sound, and was annoyed by every trifle. His wife sitting opposite him looked at him sadly, and longed, as she had done hundreds of times before, to utter a question on her lips.

She was a beautiful woman, slight and graceful of figure, with a winning face, which was a true index to the heart within; yet she did not look happy. Why was it?

"We shall have a dreary Christmas I am afraid, Annie," said the Squire listlessly. "Different from last year, do you remember?"

"I have not forgotten, John," she returned in a tone of most painful longing. "Another year, please God, you will be well again, and we will keep Christmas royally."

Then John Denison's head went down upon his hands, and a smothered groan escaped his lips. His wife sprang to his side, and clasped his hands in hers.

"What is it, John? Are you in pain?"

"A passing spasm, that is all," he said hurriedly. "It was a shame to startle you, my sweet wife."

"Forgive me, John, for what I am about to say," she faltered. "I am your wife, dear, and you will answer me truly, I know. "Is the cause of this illness not some mental trouble you are keeping from me, from us all?"

Again that hurried, startled look, followed by a quick gesture of dissent. "You are very fanciful, my darling," was all he said.

Annie Denison hid her face a moment on the arm of her husband's chair, and by and by spoke again in a low, troubled voice.

"John, the other night while you slept you said some words I can't forget. They were these—'Jasper, Jasper, forgive me; it was a sore temptation.' Oh, John, what do they mean? Tell me, dear; anything would be better than this suspense."

"Only an allusion to a boyish frolic long since past," returned the Squire with wonderful calmness. "I had a friend abroad of that name. He is often in my thoughts, and in my dreams, too, I daresay."

Mrs. Denison rose, smothered the sigh which came from the depths of a very troubled heart.

"I think I shall go and see mamma, John. My head aches, and the beautiful morning air may cure it," she said. "You don't mind being left while I run to the Vicarage?"

"Surely not," returned the Squire. "Stay as long as you please, and bring back your roses with you."

As Mrs. Denison stepped out upon the crisp gravel, and felt the freshness of the clear air, a faint roseleaf bloom crept back to her cheek, and her eyes shone with something of the brightness of old.

She paused at the lodge to ask for an ailing baby, and stayed a minute or two talking to the anxious mother. When she passed through the gates and turned her steps down the Wyndom Road, she saw before her a gentleman, the living image of her husband. He was walking leisurely, and apparently deep in thought.

Every vestige of colour fled from Annie Denison's face, and she tottered to the wall for support.

Then the stranger quickened his pace, and, coming up to her, said courteously:

"You are ill, madam, I fear. Can I be of any assistance?"

The earnest, winning look and the very intonation of the voice were her husband's; and she looked at him with terrified eyes, gasping—"Who are you?"

"A stranger, madam," he answered briefly, with a sudden change of voice. Then, to his amazement, she turned from him and fled through the gates. Her feet never faltered till she burst into her husband's room and fell upon her knees sobbing at his side. The Squire started to her feet in a fever of nervous dread, which her broken words did not by any means allay.

"John! John! I saw you out on the road, just at the gate. I could have sworn it was you. The man spoke to me, and said he was a stranger. I nearly fainted with terror. What does it mean? Who can it be?"

Great beads of perspiration stood on John Denison's forehead, and he sank back in his chair, covering his face with his hands. His sin had found him out at last.

"Annie, my poor wronged wife," he groaned, "have you no suspicion? Can you not guess the truth?"

Annie Denison rose to her feet, and stood before him very calm and pale and self-possessed.

"I begin to surmise it," she said coldly. "But tell me all the truth."

Brokenly and humbly John Denison told his wife the tale of temptation and sin, and when he ceased she moved away where he could not see her face, and looked out upon the sunlit landscape with eyes so dim with agony they could not see.

"I deserve your hatred, your contempt," said John Denison huskily; "but it is none the less hard to bear. If I have sinned, I have suffered—God only knows how bitterly. Annie, wife, wife! give me one word of comfort and forgiveness, if only for the sake of the love you gave me once."

She whirled round suddenly, and came to him, and laid her arms about his neck. One dry, bitter sob crossed her parched lips as she pressed them quivering to his brow. In that kiss John Denison knew himself forgiven, and began dimly to comprehend the depth and strength and endurance of a woman's love; but only God knew what bitter woe the shattering of her idol caused her faithful, honest soul.

CHAPTER V.

On Christmas Day a strange scene was enacted in the library of Wyndom Hold. Between three and four o'clock in the afternoon there assembled in the sombre room a party of eight persons. They were Messrs Dymevor & Grant, solicitors, from Lincoln's Inn; Mr. Garrett, the attorney from Lower Rylestone; the Vicar of Wyndom, his mother and his sister and her husband. There was also present John Wyndom Denison, rightful Squire of Wyndom Hold. He who had usurped his heritage lay back in an easy chair, propped up by cushions, his face, if anything, paler and thinner than it had been the day before. Yet there dwelt upon it an expression of serenity, the outcome of the peace within. His wife was by his side, very pale indeed, but outwardly calm. There was peace between these three, and in the real John Denison's heart there was nothing now but compassion for poor, ailing, erring Richard Willis. The lawyers stood together in a distant window talking in whispers; the rest were silent. As the hands of the timepiece pointed to four, Richard Willis looked round impatiently and listlessly.

"They are late, John," he said; "half-past three was the time mentioned." As he spoke the hall bell rang loudly, and the library door opened to admit the tenants on the estate, fifteen in all, who appeared to be in considerable doubt and surprise regarding the strange summons to the Hold. Following them were the house servants, and when the door closed upon them all, Richard Willis rose, leaning heavily upon his wife's arm. Seeing that, John Denison stepped forward and offered his support.

"My friends," said Richard Willis, "I have sent for you to-day to tell you something which will surprise and shock you very much. It is two years now since I came among you, claiming to be lawful heir of Wyndom Hold, and for two years I have reigned here, where I had no more right to be than any one of you. Old Squire Denison's son emigrated, as you are aware, to Nevada; and his first wife having died, he married a second time, and had one son; this is he." He paused and laid one thin white hand on his cousin's shoulder.

"His second wife was my mother's sister, so we are cousins. We were left orphans to fight our battle, and went together to the gold fields of California. While we were there a newspaper containing an advertisement for the heir of Wyndom Hold fell accidentally into my hands. I kept it secret from my cousin, procured the proofs of his identity he possessed, and came home to England. You know how I succeeded in my venture."

He paused again, and the assembled crowd looked from one to another in a maze of bewilderment.

"It was a base and wicked thing to do," went on Richard Willis; "but I have been sorely punished for my sin; my health is gone; a few more weeks and I shall be laid in Wyndom Churchyard; and before I die I am unspeakably thankful to be able to make restitution to him I have so deeply wronged. Here he stands, God bless him, the rightful Squire of Wyndom Hold, whose noble, generous heart none can know so well as I."

He stopped abruptly and sank feebly back on his chair. Then, in a few brief, manly words, the new Squire addressed his dependents, and they filed out one by one to discuss the strange scene at their leisure.

"There is no more to do now, John," said Richard Willis faintly; "only for Annie and I to quit your roof-tree before I——"

A cry broke from his wife's pale lips, and John Denison moved to her side and took her trembling hands in his firm, gentle clasp.

"Richard, Annie, this is your home in the meantime," he said in his manly way; "and please God, Dick, you will be able to leave it safe and sound yet."

Richard Willis smiled and shook his head; his wife looked straight into John Denison's true eyes with an expression he never forgot.

So it was tacitly settled that Richard Willis and his wife should remain at Wyndom Hold.

After running the gauntlet of wonder for the orthodox nine days, the Wyndom succession case died a natural death; and the world accepted the new state of affairs without much remark.

John Denison found that his cousin had been a faithful steward, and had infinitely bettered the estate during his term of possession. With that undeniable fact he would silence Richard's continual upbraidings, and did his best to make his last days peaceful and happy. For that the pathetic look in his cousin's wife's eyes was sufficient reward to John Denison. So, in an atmosphere of love and care Richard Willis's life drew to its close. He lingered through the bitter spring, and April's budding flowers found him still on earth. On a sunny Sabbath afternoon John Denison had been reading to him, and talking with him of the unknown future. Noticing at length the unmistakable change of face which precedes death, he went quickly to summon the rest. And while he was gone Richard Willis fell asleep.

They mourned to see his widow so calm and apparently unmoved. But John Denison knew what lay beneath, and whispered tenderly as he passed out to leave her with her dead, "God comfort you, cousin. He has gone to a happier world than this."

* * * * * *

Again, after an interval of years, Annie Denison became the mistress of Wyndom Hold, and the strong, tender, ever-watchful love of her husband has long since taken the sting away from the past. They are happy—as happy as we can be here. Nothing on earth is perfect. Over yonder all is perfect.

A Great Source of Evil.

Every farmer will admit that one of the most destructive evils to good crops in that of worms or parasites that prey upon vegetable life; other species of worms infest the human system and are productive of much suffering and ill health. Freeman's Worm Powders will effectually rid the system of this trouble, are pleasant to take and contain their own cathartic. 43-2t

Plain Truths!

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible, if disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the Iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious.

SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS will thoroughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will not blacken the teeth cause headache or constipation and is positively not injurious.

St. Johnsbury, Vermont Oct. 3rd 1882.

For six years I have been a great sufferer from blood disease, dyspepsia and constipation, and became so debilitated that I could not retain anything on my stomach, in fact life had almost become a burden, and when hope had almost left me, I was induced to give SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS a trial. I am now taking the third bottle and have not felt so well in six years as I do at present.

CONFIDENTIAL.

Thousands of young Men and Women—married and single—through the effects of vicious youthful habits, or excessive indulgence in later years, have so undermined their general systems as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of these troubles being scarcely ever suspected, they are drugged and doctored for everything but the right one. The ordinary modes of treating troubles of this nature do no good. The JERUSALEM COMBINATION REMEDY is offered as A Speedy and Certain Cure, as hundreds afflicted with every form of disease have been restored to complete health by its use, after all other remedies failed. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, but especially in cases arising from imprudence. Its recuperative powers are truly astonishing, and its continued use for a short time changes the languid, debilitated condition, to one of renewed life and vigor.

Forwarded to any address, on receipt of Price, $2 per package—sufficient for one month's treatment.

"The man who cannot change his mind makes no progress." He doesn't! You just look at a tramp going over a garden wall as advance agent of a bull-dog. He doesn't change his mind. His mind changes him.

Yes, Sir.

One can't expect to succeed in business or in pleasure either, for that matter, unless one feels all right in health and spirits. This is the first consideration. Now, its a small matter when this remedy, ZO-PE-RA, is recommended so highly, even guaranteed to renew one's energy and spirits by invigorating the Liver and aiding Digestion, by clearing the Brain, opening the pores of the skin, regulating the Bowels and system, to go to the drug store and get a single bottle of Zopera as a trial. It is a duty every one owes to himself. Try a bottle then. 41-4t

When you tell a poor person who applies for assistance that you will "keep him in mind" you promise more than is necessary. If you will only "keep him" he will be quite satisfied, and probably never claim the rest of the promise,

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

If you are particularly anxious to abuse a man don't call him a fool, he might be annoyed; don't call him a rascal, he might knock you down; quietly remark, with a heavenly smile, "Sir, you present a fine large margin for improvement."

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

A Verdict.

At the Kent assizes on Monday, in the case of Duncan vs. Midland Railway, a verdict by consent was entered for $791.50 and costs. The amount is a charge against the assets of the Grand Junction Railway.

On the War Path.

The proverb asserts that there's nothing certain but death and taxes, and the taxes are Cumming. The collector is on the war path, and the ratepayers will be invited to contribute to the municipal treasury, according as Providence has prospered them.

A New Tinshop.

Within the past few days a structure has "risen like an exhalation" on the lane off Charlotte street, east of Aylmer. It is a new tinshop for Mr. Hutchinson, of Millbrook. It is 60x40 feet and three stories high. By tinshop is meant a manufacturing establishment, not a bank.

A Generous Offer.

The Lindsay Post proposes to present a copy of itself free, to any young lady who proposes during leap year. Young ladies should jump at this chance. If the engagement should be a long one, she will have amassed enough papers to put under the parlor carpet. Besides, there is another advantage; if she is inclined to be lazy, the Post is a lively sheet and will keep her in a bustle the year round.

Providing for Strangers.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Peterborough is endeavouring to compile a list of private boarding houses, and would be glad if the proprietors of any such establishments would forward their addresses, terms and other pertinent particulars to the Secretary, Mr. Geo. E. Williams. The list is intended to facilitate the placing of young men and other strangers, arriving in town who may require a home, more or less permanent.

Traffic Returns.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Oct. 20th, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $7,816.14; freight, $22,171.87; total, $29,988.01, as compared with $28,280.01 for the corresponding week of 1882, being an increase of $1,708.00; and the aggregate traffic to date is $887,850.97, being an increase of $27,466.14 over 1882.

Paid in Advance.

Newspapers, though everybody does not seem to think so, are always paid for in advance. If the thoughtful subscriber doesn't do it, the proprietor has to do so. The paper and ink manufacturer, the printers, the pressmen, the editor, the reporter, the landlord, the gas company and the water rates man, will not wait till a year, or perhaps half a dozen years, expires, before they get their pay. The subscriber in arrears should think of this Trent Valley Navigation Co.

The last issue of the Ontario Gazette contains a notice that letters patent have issued, incorporating Messrs. M. M. Boyd, John Flavelle, John A. Barron, Walter Darling, Arthur White and Geo. A. Cox as the "Trent Valley Navigation Company," to carry on business in waters giving navigable connection with Lindsay. The company propose placing new steamers on the waters next summer.

Dickson's Race.

The extension and improvements that have been going on at Dickson's dam are completed, and water was let in on Thursday last. Ten days previously there had been a gang of twenty men employed in cleaning out of the race the accumulated rubbish of years. The manufacturing establishments along the banks are again running. In its improved condition, this race presents the finest manufacturing facilities, for its area, in Canada.

Lacrosse Club Hop.

On Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 7th, the members of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club celebrate the close of the season by a grand hop at Bradburn's Opera House. The arrangements are to be of the most complete character, the boys being determined to be the first on the floor, as on the field. Freeman's orchestra will furnish music, and Mr. A. D. Faucher will supply the refreshments. The affair is in the hands of the right kind of committee to make it a success.

Serious Accident.

On Saturday last at Campbellford, Mr. John Whyte, of the firm of J. Whyte & Co., manufacturers, Peterborough and Campbellford, met with a painful accident. He had occasion to climb over a rail fence to superintend the work of some employees; when on the top of the fence, the rail turned and threw him to the ground. He was picked up insensible, and when he recovered consciousness, it was found that his back was severely injured, though he is now in a fair way to recovery.

St. Luke's, Ashburnham.

The Rev. W. F. Campbell, Missionary Agent of the Diocese of Toronto, will preach in the above church on Sunday next, advocating the missionary cause. The reverend gentleman is a forcible and eloquent speaker, thoroughly conversant with every phase of mission work, and has been engaged for years in Huron diocese in this good cause of stirring up zeal and enthusiasm throughout the parishes. He has just been appointed to the position mentioned above at a salary of $2,000 and travelling expenses. The public may expect a treat in his sermons and addresses. All cordially invited.

Football.

A football match was played here last Saturday between the Peterborough Club and the Trinity College School Club Port Hope, resulting in a hollow victory for the home team. The visitors' team was composed of Messrs. Lewis, captain, McMurray, Cousins, Walker, Gilbert, Blackburne, Patton, Boyd, Cooper, Tyler, Beatty, Cassels, Lawless, Cameron. The following members of the home club gave pedal propulsion to the leather environed atmosphere:—Messrs. Budden, captain, Carnegie, Rogers, Hatton, Henry, Gilmore, Orde, Cooper, Smith, Morris, Gale, Weller, Rogers (B), Snyder and Haultain. The visitors were defeated by 40 points—a score of 47 to 7. The match was followed by dinner at Faucher's restaurant.

Post Office Improvement.

Our present obliging postmaster has his eye open to the public interests, and his latest action in promoting the transaction of post office business, is in the shape of improved facilities for the general delivery of mail matter. Pillars have been erected with railings attached, in front of the general delivery wicket, so that the public must approach the wicket in single file and each one must wait his or her turn. We are informed that the materials for these improvements have been ready for over a year, but the Government holding out hope of a new post office, they were not used. Now that they are used, it is fair to infer that the post office department itself, has lost faith in the post office promises of the Government, and has decided to put the present premises in the best possible condition.

Episcopal Co-operation.

On Friday, Messrs. T. W. Casey, an officer of the License Department, Toronto, Hugh Drain and C. Leary, license inspectors of East and West Peterborough respectively, had an interview with His Lordship Bishop Jamot, at the Episcopal palace. They were cordially received in their official capacity, and His Lordship showed how deeply he was interested in the rigid enforcement of the License Act as a means for the suppression of intemperance. It is understood that he expressed his warmest sympathy with all efforts to enforce the law, and his willingness to co-operate with the inspectors, where his influence would be most felt, in promoting their efforts. The party was highly pleased with the cordial reception given it by His Lordship, whose indefatigable exertions to promote sobriety among the members of his numerous flock, are well known, both for their earnestness and success.

A Tardy Challenge.

The Lacrosse Club has received a challenge from the Cornwall Lacrosse Club to play one set for the championship flag of Ontario. Peterborough, central district, Brantford, western, Brampton, northern, and Cornwall, eastern, respectively hold the championship medals for the above districts, and it was arranged that Peterborough and Cornwall should play together and Brantford and Brampton; the two winning clubs to play off the score at Toronto on Thanksgiving Day. But the challenge was too late for the home club. It was received when they had practically disbanded for the season, and when they had made arrangements for a ball on Thanksgiving eve, which would make it impossible to play in Toronto on the following day. The proposal was made too late in the season anyway; but the matter will keep, and will be a good card to inaugurate the season next year. Under other circumstances the home club would have been happy to add the Provincial championship flag to the district medal which they now hold.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church will give a social in the school room on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 8th. A good musical and literary programme will be provided. Admission 25 cents. All are invited.

An Immense Locomotive.

The Grand Trunk railway have just introduced on their road a new engine, which the company claim is the largest locomotive in America. She was built at Portland, Me. Her cylinders are 22 inches in diameter, her driving wheels 7 feet, and she weighs 60 tons. In her trial trip she made the run between Hamilton and Paris, up the heavy grade near Copetown, with 14 cars, at the rate of 35 miles an hour. With the same number of cars two engines are required to pull a train up this grade. Her engineer is confident that she has the speed in her of considerably less than a mile a minute.

A Bigamous Benedict.

On Wednesday last, one Thomas Irwin—her-win, would be a better name for the gay disciple of duplicated domestic delights—was charged with bigamy. The mother of wife No. 2 laid the complaint. This second wife was married in Lindsay, and the pair came to Peterborough to live a short time ago. It is said that Irwin wedded his first wife in Ashburnham some years ago. A warrant was issued for Irwin's arrest and placed in Policeman Adams' breast pocket, ready for use. But so far no arrest has been made. It is probable that a man with two wives has had so much experience in dodging things, that he will be able to evade the eagle eye and iron clutch of a policeman.

St. John's Anniversary.

To-day, Thursday,—being the festival of All Saints—the first anniversary of the re-opening of St. John's Church will be celebrated in an uncommonly impressive manner. There will be three services: Holy Communion at 8 a.m., morning service and Holy Communion at 11 a.m., and full evening service in the evening. The morning sermon will be preached by Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, M.A., of Trinity School, Port Hope, and the evening sermon by Rev. J. Carry, B.D., of Port Perry. The Bishop of the diocese and others will be present. The musical and choral services will be particularly excellent and elaborate. In the morning there will be the usual Sunday musical service. In the evening there will be the anthem, "Blessed be the God and Father"—Wesley. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimmitis will be sung to Parisian tones, harmonized, and at the conclusion of the service a grand festal Te Deum will be sung by the full choir. This beautiful work is the composition of the organist, Mr. Charles Ewing. It is exceedingly grand and harmonious, and will be heard with delight The offertory service voluntary will be the 'Hallelujah Chorus,' from the Messiah, and the voluntary at the close of the services will be the "Priests' March," from Mendelssohn's "Athalie." The collections of the day are to be added to the organ fund.

Deer Hunting.

The present season is an exceptionally excellent one for the royal sport of hunting the bounding deer. The stately game is abundant, and the venison is of the finest quality, sweet, tender, and toothsomely delicious. From all parts of the province north of the lake front, come reports of the abundance of deer and the success of the sportsmen; nor is this vicinity behind any other in this respect. The success of our sportsmen has been phenomenal. Mr. Walter E. Kidd, of Apsley, has already brought down 33 deer, and expects to double this count before the season is over. The other day Mr. Jesse Cummings, of Norwood, and two sons went out for a few hours, and at only a short distance from the house, secured three fine deer. It seems to be impossible for a good sportsman to avoid making a record. The other day Messrs. R. A. Morrow and Wm. English went into the back country merely for a few day's recreation. Though not going for deer they took their guns with them, and almost in spite of themselves brought down eight deer in a few days. On Saturday a hunting party composed of Messrs. H. Merrick, J. Montgomery, Geo. Fitzgerald and A. Blade returned home. They camped on Gold Lake, and shooting in the vicinity, they secured ten deer—some of them splendid specimens—one weighed 200 lbs. and the best was 247 lbs in weight. A day or two ago a large party of American sportsmen from Rochester, camped on Eagle Lake portage, having with them Mr. Richard Purser, Lakefield, in the capacity of scout, guide and general adviser, a fact which, if they can shoot at all, insures their success.

Street Inspector Johnson is busy preparing for winter, putting down new crossings and putting pine patches on the sidewalks. If he would instruct his workmen not to allow the new planks to project so far above the old ones, he would spare both the corns and curses of pedestrians.

The Bobcaygeon Independent asserts that Peterborough is more in need of a temperance society than the Salvation Army. Why, bless your heart, Sniff, we're in no need of either. We are so temperate and moral now, that the Police Court will have to be abolished. There has been no business before it for five days.

THE BUILDING BOOM.

The Hearths and Homes of '83.

Eighty New Houses Built this Year —About $130,000 Expended—Homes for 500 New Citizens.

The building operations in Peterborough this year have been fairly brisk. Owing to the high price of material a great many delayed till late in the season, and many postponed building till next year. One gratifying feature of the work is that there are no large structures to swell the total of $130,000 expended on building this season. Nearly all are dwelling houses, most all of which are already occupied or bespoken by tenants. This shows that our population is increasing in a most gratifying manner. There is hardly a vacant house in town, and many prospective houses are engaged before the ground is broken. We have endeavoured to present below as full a list as possible of the new buildings, but several not built by contractors have escaped notice. What omissions may have been made will be supplied hereafter. Below will be found the list arranged in alphabetical order:

Anglesey —, baker, Reid street, shop and residence, two stories, red brick. Wm. Fitzgerald, contractor; cost $1,400.

Mr. Cox has also been continually making improvements to his extensive property in town, such as refitting in first-class style several shop fronts on George street, etc. The cost of these improvements, also made under Jas. McLennan's supervision, is $2,000.

SOUTH HARVEY PLOUGHING MATCH.

Good Work Lively Competition.

A ploughing match took place on the farm of Andrew Shearer, near Lakehurst, Harvey, on the 3rd Nov. Considerable interest was taken in the contest. The field was the only one that could be procured and was a very good one for the purpose. There were two classes—all comers match over eighteen years of age, and all comers with general purpose ploughs, under eighteen years of age. There were twelve entries for men and one for boys. The following is the list of prize winners:—

Mens' class—1st, W. Renwick; 2nd, H. Hicks; 3rd, G. Smith; 4th, C. Long; 5th, J. Pendigrass; 6th, R. Shaw; 7th, A. Hunt; 8th, J. Weir; 9th, A. Fossett.

Boys' class—W. Johnston.

Messrs. John Smith, Sr., Archibald Wilson and Wm. Clarkson performed the duties of judges. After they had made their returns to the committee, Messrs. R. Renwick, J. Weir R. Shaw, A. Brodie and J. Clarkson, Mr. Weir presented the prizes and commended the ploughmen for the excellent work done. He also commented warmly on the liberality of the people in contributing towards the prize list, which amounted to thirty-four dollars.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Seeing that the voter's list for the township of South Monaghan is far from being correct, and being informed that I am accused of omitting names from the assessment roll; in answer to the charge, I will say that if the voters' list contained "a correct list of all the persons appearing by the last revised assessment roll of the said municipality," there would be no fault to find with said list. I do not like to boast; but, in self-defence will say, that I made one of the most correct assessment rolls ever made in the township of South Monaghan. I challenge any person to contradict my statement.

Assessor.

PUBLIC SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The following is the report of attendance at the public schools for October:—

The secretary said that the total on the rolls of the schools was unprecedented during his incumbency.—Report adopted.

TEACHERS' CERTIFICATES.

Mr. Stratton, inspector, presented his reports as per resolution of the Board, giving the grades of certificates of the different teachers in the public schools.

Mr. Denne pointed out that there were two teachers who had not the necessary legal qualifications.

Mr. Stratton explained that these teachers intended retiring in January next.

Mr. O'Connor's report, respecting the Collegiate Institute, was, on motion of Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Stratton, referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Cox, Rutherford, McClelland, Stratton, Sproule, Denne and the mover for consideration and report.

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Dumble, from the Committee on Appointments, reported, recommending that the division vacated by Miss Preston be taught by Miss Nicholls, and that all teachers below Miss Nicholls be promoted, and that Miss Keele be appointed to fill the place of Miss Graham, all salaries to be as heretofore attached to the respective divisions. The promotion to date from Nov. 1. All teachers were occupying the positions recommended.—Report adopted.

Mr. Stratton moved, seconded by Mr. Cox, that Gage's series of Canadian readers be recommended and authorized by this Board for use in the public school of the town, and that the principal of the public schools be requested to so gradually introduce the same, as not to cause any unnecessary expense to parents. The motion was carried unanimously without a vote.

Mr. Stratton moved, seconded by Mr. Sproule, that the salary of Miss Jenkins be increased at the rate of $35 per annum.

In moving this Mr. Stratton remarked that as the other teachers had received an increase of salary, Miss Jenkins with increased duties was fairly entitled to one also.

After remarks from Messrs. McClelland, Rutherford and Sawers,

Mr. Denne moved, in amendment, seconded by Mr. Sawers that the salaries remain as they were. The amendment was lost and the original motion was carried on the following division:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Stratton, Rutherford, Sproule, Robinson, Cox, Weir and Dumble.—7.

NAYS.—McClelland, Denne and Sawers.—3.

The Board adjourned.

ALL SOULS' DAYS' SOLEMNITIES

CONSECRATING THE CEMETERY.

Last Friday was the festival of All Souls, a peculiarly solemn festival of the Roman Catholic Church, instituted to alleviate, by prayers and thanksgivings, the sufferings of the souls in purgatory. The festival is said to have originated thus:—About A.D. 893, a pilgrim returning from the Holy Land, was compelled by a storm to land on a rocky island. Here he found a hermit, who told him that among the cliffs of the island was an opening into the under world, through which huge flames ascended and the groans and cries of souls tormented by the evil angels were audible. The hermit had frequently heard the complaints and imprecations of the devils at the number of souls that were torn from them by the prayers and al

We regret to have to record the untimely death on Saturday afternoon last of David Rowan, jr., of Bethany, at the early age of thirty-five years. OMEMEE.

On Tuesday last Mr. W. Adams, of this village, lost one of his horses. He was engaged hauling coal from the station and at noon had returned for another load, when his team took fright at a passing train. The off horse, getting its knee fastened in the halter, while plunging around fell to the ground, and when Mr. Adams went to its head to release the animal he found life extinct. The only theory advanced for the sudden death is that of fear.

COBOURG.

Alex. Fraser, an old resident of Cobourg, died of paralysis in that town on the 23rd ult. He was a prominent member of the Presbyterian Church, and for a few years past occupied the office of Deputy Receiver-General for the Dominion. Mr. Mackie is generally called a keen buyer, but he got it put to him the other day. He instructed one of our street buyers to purchase him a load of clover hay for his cows. A load was brought, eight dollars a ton paid, and it was all like lead. After the stuff was in the barn a day or two it turned as black as ink, and the cows wouldn't touch it. It turns out to be second growth clover that has been frozen, and is good for nothing but manure.

Fred Hale loved his girl so dearly that he could not suffer to see her in company with any one else. His attachment grew to such an intense degree that he struck her on the mouth two or three times Tuesday evening for daring to walk with a gentleman other than himself. He was taken care of for the night, and next morning was sent on a two month's pilgrimage to Cobourg, without the option of a fine.

On Tuesday morning of this week the first train passed over the new iron bridge built by the Midland across the river to connect with the new station and main line going south. The bridge was finished last week and the contractors were awaiting the result of the trial before the structure could be taken off their hands. The test testified to the perfect security of the new structure.

IMPURE WATER AND FILTH.

Dr. Bryce Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health reports as follows about a village in which diphtheria has become epidemic. The points are suggestive:—"The village is situated on ground that slopes towards the river and is naturally well drained. It has besides, a large sewer running the full length of the principal street, and I find that a great many of the houses have drains in connection with it.

Most of the houses are old and occupied by monthly tenants, who take no interest in keeping their surroundings clean. The privies attached to these places are never cleaned and are horribly filthy. The back yards are made the receptacles for bedroom slops and kitchen refuse—besides the hen-coops and pigpens. The water used all along the front is from the river and is good.

Back from the river the water supply is bad. There are no springs in this section of the country, and the water used is collected in cisterns from the buildings, or is what is collected in holes made for the purpose and is always surface water. This accounts for so much malaria in this district—the bad water supply in the country."

LORD LANSDOWNE'S TITLES.

In case any of our readers should have occasion to fire an address at our new Governor General, perhaps they would be glad to know how to load it. His full titles run thus:—"His Excellency the Most Honorable Henry Charles Keith Petty-Fitzmaurice, Marquis of Lansdowne, in the County of Somerset, Earl of Wycombe, of Chipping Wycombe, in the County of Bucks, Viscount Caln and Calnstone in the county of Wilts, and Lord Wycombe, Baron of Chipping Wycombe in the county of Bucks, in the Peerage of Great Birtain; Earl of Kerry and Earl of Shelburne, Viscount Clanmaurice and Fitzmaurice, baron of Kerry, Lixnaw and Dunkerron, in the Peerage of Ireland."

NEIGHBORLINESS ON THE FARM.

We are all too selfish. We should be more neighborly, co-operating one with another. It is natural for old folks to think olden times the best, but they speak an important truth when they say that people were more accommodating and kindly disposed to others forty years ago. It would be better for us if we were so to-day It would be better for us financially. The majority of us live on small farms. Yet because of our selfishness, and the selfishness of others, we are compelled to purchase almost as much farm machinery as if we lived upon a farm four times as large. If four farmers would club together they could have all necessary machinery, provide for its wear and tear, and shelter, for really less that one-fourth of what their selfishness makes these items cost them. As it now is, the farmer markets his small production of grain and stock alone, and must submit to lower prices than if he had a larger quantity. If farmers would be a little more neighborly, and put their grain or stock together till they had a car-load, or several car-loads, they could get better prices for it at their home market, or could ship it themselves and save the middleman's commission.

Again, farmers could save money by clubbing together and buying their household supplies in larger quantities—always of course, buying from local traders in their own market town. Groceries and clothing could be purchased at wholesale prices because purchased in wholesale quantities. But we are too selfish and unneighborly to do this.

But there are still higher and nobler gains. We have been given social and spiritual natures. The gift was not a mistaken one. We should develop these elements in our being, because to do so makes us better. Selfishness is fast making social intercourse obsolete in the country. The possibilities for human society are not great among the isolated farm homes. We should not make them less. Let us all be more neighborly and sociable, more kindly disposed one to another. We shall be richer in wealth of earthly goods, of mental gains and spiritual charms. We shall be the more truly happy.

THE MEANING OF MOLES.

A mole spot on the arm-pit really promises wealth and honor. On the ankle it bespeaks modesty in men, but courage in woman. When a mole spot is found on the right breast it is a sure sign of honesty, if on the left it forbodes poverty; on the chin it promises wealth, on the right ear respect, on the left ear dishonor. If it is seen in the centre of the forehead it bespeaks treachery, sullenness and untidiness. If it is on the right temple it foreshadows that you will enjoy the friendship of the great; on the left temple it forbodes distress, on the right it bespeaks wisdom, on the left rashness. When it is on the right side of the heart it denotes virtue; when on the left side wickedness. When it is the knee of a man it denotes that he will have a rich wife. When it is on the left knee of a woman she may expect a large family. A mole on the lip is a sign of gluttony and talkativeness; on the neck it promises wealth. A mole on the nose indicates that a man will be a great traveller; on the thigh it forbodes proverty and sorrow, and on the wrist ingenuity.

Messrs. Churchill & Co., Dear Sirs.—I have been troubled with Piles for the last five years, and during that time I have taken medicine from five doctors which fail to effect a cure. I have only one box of your Climax Eye Salve, which I purchased from W. F. Ritchie of Osgoode Station, and can recommend it as a safe cure to all afflicted with the same disease. I consider your Fountain of Health an excellent tonic to build up the system.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Several days ago we showed that the chief cause of the present financial stringency and business depression in Canada is the abstraction by the Government of so many millions of capital from the business of the country. We pointed out that the money has been abstracted by increasing the taxation so enormously and thus taking from the people seven to ten millions a year more than would be required for the public service under an economical Administration; by inducing the deposit of many additional millions in the Government Savings Banks; and by the forced issue of Government paper money. All the money so taken from circulation, we showed, has been locked up in investments not immediately productive; in other words, has been converted from floating or available into fixed or non-available capital. We stated also that the Government, by its policy of encouraging the formation of colonization companies, led to the absorption of many more millions; and we added that persons going from the older Province to settle in the North-West took in the aggregate much capital with them, and that this transfer, although legitimate enough, added materially to the stringency.—Globe.

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 8, 1883.

Thanksgiving Day.

The experience of the past few years has shown that the tendency of any festival which is popularly adopted is in the direction of a pure secularity. The cessation of business leaves a great body of the population with a holiday on their hands, which they do not know what to do with. As a rule such days have been marked among ourselves with no light evils. Suicides have not been uncommon, drunkards have commenced anew a course of dissipation, and accidents from careless or reckless driving have been the rule instead of the exception. Our people are singular in their inaptitude for quiet and social enjoyment. Numerous are the temperaments which crave excessive excitement, and they are but too ready to find it in ways which concentrate as much as possible into the smallest compass. Even in the high and holy domain of religion this desire intrudes, producing at times extravagant and ludicrous effects. Thanksgiving Day has been drawn into the same associations which make any secular holiday one of dissipation or of listless idleness. It ought not to be so. The day should be marked by something which should recognize its purpose, and this can only be through religious influences. We do not advocate that stern, unbending Puritanism which made religious observances in the past unduly exacting. The Puritan, we may venture to say, scarcely knew how to rejoice. His thought of an angry and offended God was one which, like Aaron's rod, swallowed up all the other thoughts. We advocate no stiff, cold formalism in the way of gratitude on Thanksgiving Day. We say let the people rejoice, but we also say let them do this, not only in the right spirit, but in right ways. This day, appointed by the nation that we may evince our gratitude, needs very much that the Church should sanctify it.

Gratitude should be one of the marked characteristics of our lives. Yet it is one in which we probably are the most deficient. Thanksgiving Day recalls us to a sense of our indebtedness to the Giver of all good. It is the nation's protest against the cold pessimistic thought and materialism of the present day. It is a protest in the most effective form, for it attributes to the Maker of the universe all the blessings of an abundant harvest. Materialism dwells upon the fact the man is the appropriator, the user of nature's supplies, and that by his own right hand and cunning brain he has gained success. It puts God out of sight. But to-day the Almighty is publicly acknowledged by the State as the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, the source of all temporal and eternal blessings, the Lord of the harvest and the God of peace.

We Canadians are especially called to remember the singular blessings of which we are the recipients. God in His wisdom has seen fit to afflict other lands. He has visited them with sword and pestilence. In some countries war has brought misery and ruined harvests, while with us, in unbroken peace, the labours of the husbandman and of the fisherman have been blessed. Some have a winter of deep distress staring them in the face, while our garners are full and plenteous with all manner of store. Throughout the Dominion we may say in truth there has been no external trouble and no internal disloyalty.

What shall we render unto God for all these benefits? Let us at least be truly grateful, truly thankful. At this time of thanksgiving, let us gladly and liberally offer of our substance to the poor and needy. Let us help on some of the many charitable projects which abound everywhere, giving thus a practical proof of this day's holy teaching, and of its effects upon our lives. No raging epidemic has spread its wings of suffering and of death over our peaceful land—no dark and fearful plague has cast its dark blight upon our homes. We have enjoyed sweet peace and plenty; upon our Dominion has been bestowed the blessings of health and safety, of civil and religious liberty. Lift up your voices then in heartfelt thanksgiving to the nation's God! Praise Him who "crowneth the year with His goodness," and confidently trust Him for all that is to come.

"Thou who hast blessed us in the brighter days,
Will bless us still amid the frosts and snows.
Thy happy children here will sing thy praise
Till life shall end in endless sweet repose."

The Effects of It.

When the Tory party, on the floor of the House, on the hustings and on the election campaign platform, made such extravagant promises in the name of the N. P., they either wilfully misled the people into endorsing with the ballot their protection dogmas, or they did not know what they were talking about. Either way, the people have been deceived and betrayed. They were willing to submit to taxation to secure the boons which Tory "statesmen" asserted would follow the adoption of the "National Policy." Every class was to be benefitted, perennial prosperity was to envelop the country, there were to be no more hard times, everything would be cheap and money would always be plentiful to buy everything cheap with; the workingman—what a pet he was in 1878—was to find constant employment at high wages, and in a word, everything was to be lovely. For a time, thanks to bountiful harvests and a brisk foreign demand for our lumber, the country enjoyed prosperity in spite of the N. P., but soon the burden became too heavy, and the country began to be depressed under its burdens. Business failures began to come, and have continued to increase to the present, when the trade of the country is at a low ebb and hard times are upon us. The cost of living is burdensome, and to add to all, the "hum" has begun to cease, factories are closing down—shortening time, and thousands of workmen are thrown out of employment and left to starve, while monopolists make money by ceasing production to raise the prices of their wares in a glutted market, caused by the noxious stimulus of a false fiscal policy. The N. P., which was to keep up a perpetual hum, has allowed the lumber trade, the staple industry of Canada, to decline to nothing, proof of which is found at our very doors, In this district lumbering operations have almost entirely ceased. Mr. D. Ullyott is only sending out a few men to his limits; Mr. Hazlitt is doing little more, and Mr. Irwin, we are informed, does not intend maintaining more than a shanty or two this winter. The results of this will be that thousands of men will be idle this winter that were employed before, and idleness to workingmen means deprivation and suffering to their families. The cause of this is at hand. The tariff that is bleeding every surplus dollar from the arteries of trade, has increased the cost of all the materials, such as axes, chains, harness, implements, blankets, etc., which lumbermen use, so that it does not pay to get out timber. The dormant lumber trade is not confined to this district; its depression is general. Thus the bogus panacea for hard times, the N. P., has helped to swamp the most important industry of the country. The veil is falling back and the true nature of the N. P. is showing itself.

The Provincial Treasurership.

The public learn with regret that Hon. James Young, Provincial Treasurer, has been compelled, on account of ill health, to resign his portfolio, his physicians having decided that close application to office work would prove extremely prejudicial to his health. Hon. Mr. Young will, continue to perform the duties of representative of North Brant. He is succeeded as Provincial Treasurer by Lieut.-Col. A. M. Ross, M.P.P., representative of West Huron. Mr. Ross has had eight years Parliamentary experience. He has had long experience as a banker, and has for years filled the duties of Treasurer of the County of Huron. He is highly respected at home, and has for a long time been the most prominent figure in financial and military circles in Huron. He is a good debater, and will, no doubt, make a most efficient administrator of the affairs of his department.

By Mr. J. A. Wilkinson's own acknowledgement it is now proven that he took an active part in the late contest in Algoma. Mr. Wilkinson is in the employment of the Dominion Government. It is now in order for the Review to republish some of its frantic condemnations of public officials stepping into the political arena.

In speaking of Mr. Meredith, the leader of the Ontario Opposition, the Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"It would be a fatal mistake for Mr. Meredith, as the leader of the Opposition, to become the partizan of Quebec in this contention between that Province and Ontario." Mr. Meredith, our cotem. must recollect, has already become a warm partizan with Quebec against us, or at least he has allowed Sir John to make him his tool for his own purposes, which are the humiliation of Ontario to please Quebec.

Editorial Notes.

The East Simcoe election case was argued on Saturday, and judgment reserved.

The 10th instant has been fixed as nomination day in West Huron, the election to take place on the 17th.

The Ontario Government printing contract has been awarded to the lowest tender—Mr. Frank Wilson, Toronto. There were five tenders for the work.

Mr. D. W. Allison has been nominated Reform candidate for Lennox in the Commons. He is personally popular, a strong man every way, and will make a good run.

Another Tory has met justice in the Election Court. On Tuesday Mr. Hammil, M.P.P.-elect of Cardwell, was unseated. He was elected by 41 majority last election.

The Dominion Government having given the go-by to the Factory Act, it will perhaps, now be in order for Mr. Mowat to take legislative action on the subject.

The Scott Act has been adopted in Westmoreland county, Nova Scotia, by the large majority of five to one. Active organization is being effected to secure the adoption of the Scott Act in other counties.

It transpires that the reason Sir John did not become a candidate for re-election in Lennox was, because he was afraid of the result. He could not contest Lennox without first resigning Carleton, and the astute Sir John regards a bird in the hand worth two in the bush.

A case of considerable importance to municipalities is set down for argument at Osgoode Hall. Mr. Bethune a few days ago applied to Chief Justice Wilson for an order to quash a by-law of the town of Orangeville, at the instance of D. J. Mungovan. The by-law in question related to the municipal taxes, making them payable within a certain time, and was passed after the assessment roll had been made up and in the collector's hands. The order was granted and will be argued next week.

Tenders were received by the Militia Department up till the 7th November for 1,500 tunics, blue cloth; 500 jackets, blue serge; 2,400 pairs of blue serge trousers; 1,000 forage caps; 2,000 great coats, blue cloth, with caps for the artillery, and for the infantry 4,000 pairs of trousers, blue serge; 2,000 forage caps and 300 pairs band wings for tunics. For the rifles the department advertises for 2,000 tunics, rifle green cloth, and 2,400 pairs of trousers, rifle green serge. Some people may be disposed to ask what do we receive in return for all this yearly expenditure in tunics and blue serge?

The Tory advocates of the all-sufficency of the N.P. are denying that there is any appreciable commercial depression, and asserting that, if there is a temporary dullness of trade it is not due to the N. P. The Journal of Commerce makes this out-spoken declaration as to the realities of the present depression: There is, at least, grave cause for apprehension that we are approaching the period of the collapse of the boom of prosperity which Canada has enjoyed during the last four or five years. The stimulus given to manufacturers by the protective tariff has resulted, notwithstanding repeated warnings, in such inflation, as to have compelled those engaged in one important industry to enter into a combination to limit production."

The friends of the Dominion Government claim that the dealings of the latter with the settlers' interests in the North-West have been of the most liberal, patriotic and favourable character. It is denied that the land regulations and monopolies have at all interefered with the progress of the country or the interests of the settler. But the settlers, by sad experience, know better. Preliminary steps have been taken for a grand convention of the farmers of Manitoba to consider their position and to protest against being trodden down by monopolies. They are bound to make a stand for the assertion and maintenance of their rights. Thus the policy of the Government, instead of encouraging the settler and paving the way for the development of the country, is directed towards strengthening the hands of monopolists at the expense of the rights of the bona fide settlers, in whose hands alone the great future of the North-West lies. If the Dominion Government had aimed to purposely retard the settlement of the North-West they could adopt no surer means than that which is inherent in their present shameful policy.

Lord Lorne in discussing "Canadian Home Rule" in the Contemporary Review for November, particularly emphasizes the danger which must arise should one member of the Confederation become strong enough to oppose the will of the Central Government. He considers equality of strength among the members of the Confederation the best guarantee against disruption. The noble Marquis, it seems to us, advocates a sort of provincial communism. The Provinces can't remain equal. They will not all progress at the same rate, and it is folly to expect that one Province will cease improving to allow another more laggard and less enterprising Province to overtake her in order to preserve the "equality of strength." The best way is to allow each Province to become as great and powerful as possible, to develop its resources to the fullest extent, and to the one that succeeds best will belong the greater glory. No Province has a right to be jealous of another's growth any more than one neighbor of a neighbor who thrives more rapidly than he. There is no danger to Confederation from the development of any Province; the growth of any Province means an addition to the importance of the whole Dominion, and no Province in this sense can become stronger than the Central Government. But there is danger if the Central Government encroaches on the rights of individual Provinces. So long as this is not done, every Province may wish every other, God speed in its onward progress.

CRUSHED AGAINST A CAR.

Fatal Accident on the O. & Q.

On Tuesday afternoon, about half-past one, Mr. Natter Gray, an employee of the Ontario & Quebec railway, met with an accident that cost him his life. Some cars were standing on the siding and needed to be shifted forward to allow the engine on the main line alongside to pass. To do this a twelve feet plank was braced between the engine and car. Mr. Gray held the plank, standing inside the angle formed by the car and plank. When the engine started the car broke, and Mr. Gray was terribly crushed by the timber, pushed by the mighty force of the engine, against the car. When the plank fell, after breaking, the unfortunate man stood a moment, and then fell forward, the blood pouring from his mouth. He was at once conveyed to the Queen's Hotel, and Dr. King called; but human skill availed nothing. His whole chest was crushed, and bones in the chest and shoulder broken. Deceased recovered consciousness about ten minutes after the accident and retained it till his death, which took place at four o'clock. Mr. Gray was one of the oldest railway men in Ontario. He was for years on the Grand Trunk, and was known by his fellow-railroaders, with whom he was very popular, as "Nut Gray."

The body left here on the early train, for Toronto, where his father resides.

SMITH.

BRUIN BROUGHT TO BAY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The last and most successful hunt of the season took place on the 5th concession of Smith this week. Robert McKibbin's dog barked all day and seemed very earnest, and T. E. Fitzgerald's man, J. Hurl, went to see what was the trouble, and was only gone a short time till he came in sight of a large bear. He was back to the house, and afterwards roused the neighbors, and there were on the battle field in a short time Mr. A. Campbell, J. A. Davidson, E. J. Hurl, W. Davidson, James Davidson, jr., F. J. Shell and T. E. Fitzgerald, Mrs. T. E. Fitzgerald and Miss Sarah Davidson. The bear was started from a small swamp and then made a bee line for Mr. Fitzgerald's house. Mrs. Fitzgerald was in a field trying to get the old dog started on the chase, when the bear came straight at her, and to avoid him she jumped, with an alacrity that won the applause of the spectators, a high picket fence. Then the old dog turned the brute and he ran into Mr. Davidson's swamp, and only for the keen eye af Miss Davidson, bruin would have escaped for the time, but she soon known his retreat, and "Old Dutcher," the successful bear hunter, brought him to bay under some fallen trees in the swamp, and T. E. Fitzgerald, observing by the dog's bark that he had overtaken him, made to the spot in quick time, and killed him with the first shot, the ball being put in at the back of his ear. He had a large frame but was very poor, and not in good health. There was a wound where a ball had passed through him at same time before. One of his ribs was broken and his lungs had been hurt, for they were growing to the ribs.

The Best Fitting Corset is to be had at Turnbull's. A large Stock of the Self Preserving Corset always in Stock.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WEATHER NOTES.—October was ushered in with a cold, clear sky, and on the 3rd we had some dashes of snow, being the first of the season. Although it is, I believe, an old Canadian proverb that there never was an October without snow, still it is seldom it comes so early, but it not only came early, but we had some on four different days during the month. Rain fell on 17 days, but only to the depth of two inches and 19/100 of an inch. Our hottest day was on the 9th, being 74 degrees at sunset, and the coldest on the morning of the 17th, at sun-rise the thermometer dropping to 18 degrees, which on 12 mornings was either at or below the freezing point, our average temperature for the month being 22 degrees, while October of '81 had a range of 45 degrees and of 82 degrees, an average of 47 degrees, taking at sun-rise and sunset. Although rain fell on 11 days in October of '82, it only had the small average of 96/100 of inch; thus, although our rainfall was about the average, we had a very low temperature in 1883.

APSLEY.

FATAL FIREARM ACCIDENT.

Last Saturday Arthur Tomlinson, a farmer, was accidentally shot in Apsley village, by D. Phillips a neighbor. The latter was in the act of cocking an old fashioned revolver, when it went off and the ball a 38-calibre one, entered, Mr. Tomlinson's breast and he fell on the spot. The wounded man was carried to McIlmoyle's hotel and made an antemortem statement freeing his neighbor from any intent to injure him. Nevertheless, Mr. Phillips was put under arrest. The deceased who died on Sunday morning, was a retired soldier, and leaves a wife and daughter.

OTONABEE.

RE-OPENING OF THE B. C. CHURCH.

On Sunday and Monday the re-opening services of the vastly improved Bethel Bible Christian Church were held. On Sunday Rev. E. Roberts, of Toronto, delivered able sermons afternoon and evening. There was a large attendance at the tea on Monday evening. A subscription was made to cover the cost of the improvements. The B. C. choir, Peterborough, furnished excellent music.

Lindsay's Wharf, Aug. 22nd, 1883.

Messrs. Churchill & Co., Gents,—I have been afflicted with Salt Rheum for the past three years, and have been treated by some of the best doctors in Eastern Ontario without any lasting benefit. I was recommended by Mr. C. J. Lindsay, of Kara, to try your Fountain of Health. After using five bottles of the Fountain and two bottles of your Climax Salve, I believe I am perfectly cured. My general health is also much improved, and I now feel like a new man.

Yours truly,
ROBT. BURNETT,
Engineer Str. "Olive," Montreal and Portland Line.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 7, 1883.

There is no rush of grain coming out—no particular change in prices. Barley is somewhat weaker. Wheat is steady: spring selling from $1.04 to $1.06; fall wheat, 90c. to $1.05. Barley from 50 to 65 cents—not much bringing 65 cents, the bulk of it going at 55 to 60 cents. Rye is not moving to any extent, selling from 53 to 55 cents. Oats 33 to 35 cents. Peas in good demand from 68 to 72 cents. On the market, the principal attraction is the butter. Keg butter is moving freely, but at lower prices than a week ago, when 20 to 21 cents was freely paid; to-day it has dropped to 17 to 19 cents, an odd lot might bring 20 cents. Roll and prints are selling at 18 to 22 cents. Eggs very scarce at 20 cents. Dressed hogs $4.50 to $5.50—a few offering. Beef, $5.50 to $6.50. Lamb 6c. to 8c. Other commodities unchanged.

CHAPTER I.

One of the earliest scenes that Audrey Brooke remembered in her life was the following: The morning sun was shining brightly into the quaint old-fashioned room that her father, Dr. Fabian Brooke, called his library—a room that would have charmed an artist by its dark rich coloring and artistic furniture. Round the walls were great oaken book-shelves laden with books. The panels were painted in rich deep colors, the hangings were of deep crimson, the carpet was of Indian manufacture; the few pictures were chefs-d'œuvre, the half-dozen busts were of great merit and value, the whole tone of the room was warm and artistic. The prevading odor of Spanish leather—fragrant and aromatic—was another charm, but to Audrey Brooke the greatest charm was the large bay-window, filled with soft Turkish cushions, and overlooking one of the most beautiful gardens in England.

Her father had just returned from the church, where he had been marrying two young people, and the book he had used still lay open on the table. She took it in her hands, and read it as she went to her favorite nook, the great bay-window. She laid the book upon a cushion, and bending her fair head over it, studied the words intently. They were the beautiful words of the marriage service, and the sentence that riveted the child's attention was this—"Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder." She said it over and over again to herself with a critical air, as of one who weighed the words. A hand touched her bowed head and roused her.

"What are you reading, Audrey?" asked her mother.

"The marriage service, mamma. I have never read it before. How beautiful the words are! Listen to this one sentence—'Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.' The words have the rhythm of an old poem."

"They are prettier than poetry, Audrey—they are truth."

The child raised her thoughtful eyes. Outside the window stood groups of white Ascension lilies. Through the rippling foliage of the green trees she saw the lofty gray spire of the church; above that was the clear blue sky.

"But poetry and truth always go together, mamma; do they not?"

"They should, my dear. I cannot say that they do in every case," said Mrs. Brooke.

The girl did not seem to hear the answer—her eyes were riveted on the blue sky. She murmured the solemn words again to herself—"Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

"I shall never forget the words, mamma," she said, "they are so beautiful;" and henceforward, in her mind, the gray church spire, the green foliage and the white Ascension lilies were all associated with a sentence which seemed to her more solemn than any she had ever heard.

Holmesdale was a picturesque spot. The town of Holmesdale stood at the foot of a wooded hill. The river Dale—a broad stream, with deep green banks—ran through the town; the houses clustered on either side; the great dark masses of the Holme woods rose on the left, and on the right lay miles of green pasture-land.

The church stood half way up the hill, and was surrounded by tall trees. It was a church with arched windows overhung with ivy, and with a tall tapering spire. The Rectory was built near it, on the southern side of the hill, and was a pretty, quaint old house half hidden by flowers.

There lived Dr. Fabian Brooke, one of the greatest scholars, and one of the simplest men in England—a man wise yet simple, learned yet humble, full of deep religious faith, and showing it in a good life.

He was rector of Holmesdale. No one ever referred to him as a miracle of eloquence—he preached no new doctrine, he took no part in the somewhat acrid discussions of the day, he startled no one by innovations of any kind: but it was a fact that the people of Holmesdale under his charge lived good lives and died happy deaths, that they were honest, sober, moral, and charitable.

He was as firm as a rock in all matters of right and wrong, yet he was so kind, so merciful, so gentle in his judgments, that charity lived in his parish and amongst all the people with whom he had to deal.

His wife Isabel was a gentle, kindly woman, whose life had but one end—obedience to her husband. Audrey, his daughter and only child, completed the little household, and had far more depth of character than any one else in it.

It was a wonderful household, and a most sensible one. Religion was not made hideous with either cant or severity; it was made beautiful, graceful, attractive.

The Brookes did not confound the sin and the sinner; they never glossed over wickedness, nor made light of it, nor pretended that anything could excuse it. They gave to every sin its proper name.

Dr. Brooke never stood by calmly while the poor man who had stolen bread for his starving children and the rich swindler who had robbed thousands were classed together.

He never listened quietly while the follies and faults of a friendless, penniless girl were discussed without mercy and the "fast" follies of a "fine lady" smiled at and called eccentricities; he called sin by its right name. But, while he was hard upon sin, he was merciful to the sinner.

Whatever the troubles, sorrows or sins of his parishioners, they had but to go to him, and he had sympathy for all. He could be shocked and wounded; but no criminal living could make him call wrong right, or yield to what he knew was wrong.

In the midst of this household Audrey Brooke grew up, beautiful as a rose, pure as a white lily, bright, sensible and intelligent.

She was just eighteen; and it would have been difficult to find a more sweet, gifted, graceful girl. Refinement shone in her face; truth, purity, candor shone there too.

Her's was a type of beauty. She had large, dark eyes—dark, soft, and full of poetry—with long, dark lashes and clear, straight brows; a broad, beautiful forehead, full of ideality, with rounded temples.

The scarlet mouth was the only feature in Audrey's face about which one was not quite sure. It was lovely enough—the curves of the sweet lips were perfect; but, while the eyes might have been those of a pictured saint or angel, the lips could have belonged only to a beautiful woman.

They had a quick, humorous smile; there was at times a touch of satire in the play of them; yet never were lips truer or purer. The crown of this fair young loveliness was a wealth of dark brown hair that was full of natural ripples and waves.

The mind was to the full as beautiful as the body. Audrey had inherited her father's keen sense of right and wrong, his passionate sense of honor, his calm, clear, unerring judgment, his shrewd common sense, his rectitude.

She had been most carefully watched and trained; she knew nothing of evil; she knew less of the wickedness of the world than many a precocious child of ten; she was singularly innocent and simple.

To her mind sin stood out in black, startling colors—a thing to be avoided, shunned, hated, but never compromised with.

It was one of Mrs. Brooke's ideas that her daughter should not read the newspapers.

"They are filled with murders and those horrible divorce cases," she said to her husband. "I would rather she did not see them."

He yielded where he half doubted the prudence of doing so; and it happened that the white leaves of the Ascension lilies were not purer than this bright and beautiful young soul.

The first great change that came to Audrey Brooke was a visit that she paid to a distant relative of her mother's—Mrs. Calverne, a wealthy and fashionable widow, who had a beautiful villa at Richmond, and considered life fifty miles from London quite unendurable.

A matter of business had taken Mrs. Calverne into that part of the world where the Brookes resided. She had called on them as a matter of duty, and had found herself taken by surprise and made captive by the sweet beauty of Audrey. She thought in her heart that it was a great waste of life and beauty for the girl to live always in the quiet Rectory, doing nothing but read and study, and visit old women—a great waste of beauty, she imagined. If Audrey Brooke went into society, there would be no limit to her triumphs, no bounds to her success.

"She will have no fortune, of course, or very little," said Mrs. Calverne to herself; "but with such a lovely face she does not need money."

The fashionable widow was discreet enough not to give expression to her thoughts; she understood perfectly the simple unworldly character of the people with whom she had to deal. To have talked to them of Audrey's beauty, of her chances of a splendid marriage, of the furor she would excite in society, would have been a sure way to prevent their allowing her young kinswoman to visit her.

She was wise and wary enough to be quite silent about these things, and to affect great interest in parish work. She had not quite decided in her own mind whether Audrey was content with her life or not. It seemed to Mrs. Calverne that no girl could be really happy without balls, parties, dresses, jewels, and, above all, admirers.

She had been loitering in the Rectory garden one morning trying to settle this question in her mind, when she saw Audrey dressed for walking.

"Where are you going?" she asked, eagerly.

Half shyly Audrey opened her arms, and showed her a pretty wax doll dressed with much skill.

"I am going to make one or two sick-calls," she answered—"first to take this to little Jenny Hurst, a child who has been dying, the doctors say, for three weeks past, and then I am going to a Mrs. Matthews."

Mrs. Calverne looked at the girl's superb face.

"Audrey," she said, gravely, "is it possible that you care for this sort of thing—really care, I mean?"

The girl opened her bright eyes widely.

"Care for my poor people and the little children?" she replied. "Most decidedly I do."

"I understand the philosophy of resignation," said Mrs. Calverne, "and how wise it is to make the best of our lives; but I cannot think how a girl so young and—forgive me—so beautiful, Audrey, can be content with such an existence."

"I do not see what being beautiful has to do with it," rejoined Audrey. "My presence simply cheers the little ones, the aged and the sick. That is all."

"She is quite ignorant of the value of her own face," thought Mrs. Calverne—"that is quite evident. Shall I walk with you, Audrey?" she asked aloud.

Miss Brooke was only too pleased; she liked the pleasant woman of fashion, whose ideas on every point differed so greatly from her own. They set out together, and Mrs. Calverne waited patiently outside the cottages while Audrey went in. Then they walked up the hill, past the church, and Mrs. Calverne, who was a great worshipper of beauty in every form and shape, uttered a little cry when she saw the tall, tapering spire.

"And those trees, Audrey—how beautiful they are! What do you call them? Aspens? Why, they are never still; they seem to tremble all over. How strange! Are all aspen-trees alike?"

"I should imagine so," replied Audrey.

"I like that perpetual tremuor of leaves. Let us sit still and watch them."

It was pleasant to watch the blue sky above the gray church, pleasant to watch the green boughs of the trembling aspens, the bright sunlight lying around.

"I shall never forget those aspens," said Mrs. Calverne. "How tall and straight they are! But, Audrey, they tremble as though some one were striking them."

Audrey raised her dark eyes to the pleasant face.

"Have you never read the legend of the aspen-tree?" she asked. "One of our best poets has put it into verse."

"No, I have never heard of it," replied the widow, shading her face from the sun. "What is it? Legends are not much in my line."

"But this is so pretty and quaint that a master of words has written a poem on it. The legend is this, that from all the other trees the aspen was chosen to provide the wood for the cross, and that ever since then it has never ceased trembling with horror of what was done.

"It is pretty," said Mrs. Calverne; "but then of course it is not true."

"I have never thought about that."

"Audrey," said the widow after a short time, "do you know that you are not in the least like other girls? Of course, what you have told me is very pretty, and all that sort of thing, but I should hardly advise you to get into the habit of talking in that fashion."

"In what fashion?" asked Audrey, startled.

"About religion; of course it is all very well, but well-bred people, as a rule, are silent about it. Really, if you wish to win success in society, you must banish all such topics."

"That would be very wise," said Audrey, with the little curl of the lip that her friend had yet to understand. "I merely told you a legend. I did not speak of religion."

"But you speak as though you were full of it. Audrey, I want you to pay me a long visit to Richmond. Will you?"

"I should like it very much said Audrey, frankly. "I am eighteen years of age, and have never been away from Holmesdale yet."

"My poor child!" I call that positive cruelty," cried Mrs. Calverne. "And yet I envy your having so much to see, to hear, to understand. You will enjoy yourself very much I am sure. I keep open house, and am never without three or four young people staying with me—really nice people, too, whose society you will enjoy."

That same evening Mrs Calverne asked whether Audrey might pay the proposed visit, and the rector would not give a decided answer, but he promised to think the matter over and to consult with his wife. The result of the consultation was that Audrey might go and remain for a month.

She was delighted at the prospect. The rector gave her a check which he fancied would cover the expenses of her journey and all needful purchases. Mrs. Brooke had been very anxious to send for the Holmesdale milliner, a lady of great repute, but Mrs. Calverne had shuddered at the thought.

"It will be better for Audrey to have her dresses made in London," she said; "I can superintend them there."

She smiled when Audrey, full of glee, came to her and showed her the check—smiled with the superiority of greater knowledge. She knew the whole amount would not purchase two dresses of the description that she intended her beautiful young kinswoman to wear.

So the morning came when Audrey bid adieu to her pleasant home and loving parents. She was silent, filled with a thousand wonders as to what the new world she was going to would be like. It would be quite a new sphere to her—its ways, its manners, its precepts, its teachings, its virtues and follies: no child could have known less about the great world than did this girl of eighteen who had been trained in all simplicity and unworldliness.

With a sigh of relief Mrs. Calverne threw herself back in the travelling carriage. She had enjoyed her visit after a fashion, but life in a country rectory was not at all suited to her taste.

"You will think my house a vortex of dissipation, Audrey, I am afraid," said Mrs. Calverne. "I am never alone; solitude and I are sworn enemies. I like bright faces about me; I like plenty of excitement—music, parties, balls, fetes. I think life was given us to enjoy, and I endeavor to obtain my share. We shall have one quiet night; then will come a host of visitors. You will like them all; but there is one whom I should like you to make a friend of—Bertha Hamlyn. She is a brunette. Some people call her a beauty; I think she is picturesque. But she is a terrible flirt."

"A flirt?" questioned Audrey. "That is something very bad, is it not?"

"Some people find the character very pleasant," said Mrs. Calverne. "The conduct of such persons mean nothing really wrong—only playing at love."

The beautiful dark eyes opened brightly.

"How strange—playing at love! And your friend Miss Hamlyn does this well?"

"She does indeed," replied the widow, with a quiet laugh. "You will like her; she is full of life and animation. She has a large fortune, too, and will be sure to marry well."

Audrey's eyes opened more brightly still when she saw the beautiful mansion on the banks of the Thames, which Mrs. Calverne called home. In her simple life she had seen nothing like it; it seemed to her a very palace of grandeur

Mrs. Calverne was a charming hostess. She herself conducted Audrey to her room—a pretty apartment, hung with blue silk and white lace.

The long windows looked over the grounds that led to the river, presenting a most exquisite view. In the room there was everything that a girl's heart could desire. The toilet-table was covered with marvels of glass, Dresden china, and ivory, and with most elaborate scent-bottles. A pretty couch was drawn near the window. There were books, flowers, pictures, statuettes.

Audrey looked round in wonder. This was magnificent compared with the plain bare aspect of her room at the Rectory.

"I hope you will spend happy hours here," said Mrs. Calverne.

Audrey was delighted with the size, the magnificence, the picturesque beauty of the house. She was delighted, too, on the day following, when Mrs. Calverne—who was almost royally generous in her liberality—took her out shopping.

To Audrey's simple imagination her hundred pounds seemed almost inexhaustible. It bought so much—everything that a young lady could desire.

There was nothing forgotten—evening-dresses, ball-dresses, walking-costumes, gloves, fans, Parisian shoes, pretty ornaments—yet in the purse Mrs. Calverne handed back to her there was left a handsome supply of gold.

"A hundred pounds goes a very long way," said Audrey, thoughtfully.

She was well pleased; and on the morrow, when Mrs. Calverne's friends and visitors arrived, she felt quite at home and at her ease amongst them.

Miss Hamlyn gave one keen, comprehensive glance at Audrey when they were introduced, and then she smiled at Mrs. Calverne.

"We shall hear of something before very long," she said.

That same evening Mrs. Calverne seemed highly delighted with a note that she had received.

"Sir Roche Villiers is coming," she said. "I hardly hoped to see him."

Miss Hamlyn looked up with a gleam of pleasure in her dark eyes.

"Coming here, is he? I have been given to understand that he is most difficult to please. I repeat my prophecy—we shall hear of something before very long."

Mrs. Calverne made no answer; she was looking at Audrey with an intent, serious gaze. She shook her head slightly.

"I am afraid it will hardly do," she thought to herself; "yet few girls have ever had such a chance."

Before three days had elapsed the party of guests was complete, and they had before them the prospect of a beautiful month—July, in all its glory of flower and leaf.

CHAPTER II.

The London season had almost come to an end, and the participators in it had nearly all gone their different ways. For some the season had ended in the chime of wedding bells; to others it had brought regrets and disappointment.

One who had been perhaps more brilliant, more popular, more sought after and admired than any other, sat alone in his house near Hyde Park. The table before him was strewed with notes of invitation, with dainty envelopes, with papers still unread, with periodicals still uncut; the warm sunlight fell upon his face, which was shaded by his hand—a face that at once attracted attention.

There was something at once brilliant, gentle, and strong about this man. Looking at him, one saw by the handsome, thoughtful face that his breast held a life story. It was half revealed by the firm, grave mouth; the lips looked as though they had sealed a secret; it was told in the dark, keen blue eyes, in the whole expression of the face. He was above the ordinary height, with strength and grace combined—a man who could never have even passed through a room unnoticed.

Most men envied, all women admired, Sir Roche Villiers. He was rich; he owned a magnificent estate—Rowan Abbey; he possessed a magnificent mansion in London, called Roche House, he had a villa at Cowes, a large estate in Wales. His baronetcy was one of the oldest in England. Fortune had lavished some of her richest gifts on him.

He had a fine, clear, keen intellect, a brilliant, vivid fancy, the soul of a poet, the mind, the taste and instinct of an artist; he was a brilliant orator, an accomplished courtier.

He was one of the leading members of the House of Commons, and was a power in the land, although he had not yet reached the age of thirty.

He was sought after, flattered, and admired; no one had a word to say against him. And he won the love of women by the eloquent beauty of his face, as well as by his marvelous talent, tact, grace, and wit.

The room in which he sat was spacious and handsome, the hangings were of amber and black; the walls were hung with works by the old masters; the corners and niches held copies of the world's most famous statues.

The sunbeams lingered on a thousand beautiful things, but those same sunbeams brought no smile to the face of the man to whom everything brought only weariness. He put away his thoughts and gave the whole of his attention to the letters lying on the table.

A ROMANCE.

She didn't like me when we met—
But turned away and pouted;
'Twas very cool I own, to get
At first a snub so final, yet
I clung to hope, and doubted.

Strange as it seems, a few short weeks,
Overturned my sanguine guesses;
I came to understand her freaks,
And even dared to kiss her cheeks
And stroke her golden tresses.

So time went on, and as we grew
To know each other better,
She bravely learned to kiss me too;
And when she strangely tried to woo,
Somehow I used to let her.

The privilege still yet is mine
With kiss her lips to smother;
Still round my neck she likes to twine
Her soft, white arms. I'll drop a line
I guess, and ask her mother.

This rhyme produces envy—strife,
With your reason maybe;
So let me take a leaf from life;
Her mother is my darling wife.
And she my blessed baby.

One can't expect to succeed in business or in pleasure either, for that matter, unless one feels all right in health and spirits. This is the first consideration. Now, its a small matter when this remedy, ZO-PE-SA, is recommended so highly, even guaranteed to renew one's energy and spirits by invigorating the Liver and aiding Digestion, by clearing the Brain, opening the pores of the skin, regulating the Bowels and system, to go to the drug store and get a single bottle of Zopesa as a trial. DR. WHEELER'S ELIXIR of PHOSPHATER and calisaya—after having used your Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya for over two years in my daily practice, I must give it my unqualified approbation. During a practice of over twenty years, I have used many scientifically prepared compounds, made to fulfil the same therapeutical indications as your elixir, but none of them proved with me as valuable as yours. To the medical profession, and to the public, I would especially recommend it as the best remedy with which I am accquainted for the successful treatment of the large and constantly increasing class of cases of over-worked and nerve-exhausted woman. Yours truly

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and rapidly.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

CHICAGO.

UNITED STATES NEWS NOTES.

The estimated reduction in the debt of the United States for October is ten and a half millions.

It is expected that there will be a surplus of about sixty millions this year at Washington.

Five cases of smallpox exist at Camden, N., and great fears are entertained that the disease will spread.

At a political meeting in South Boston, Virginia, two whites were knocked down, a negro was shot, and another badly cut.

Mrs. O'Donnel, wife of Carey's slayer, is living in Philadelphia as a servant. The pair lived unhappily and have been separated several years.

Five women are candidates for the office of superintendent of public schools in as many Nebraska counties, and all are regular party nominees.

Washington McMaster, a rich farmer, secured a seat in a car at Wilmington, O., with a talkative stranger, who relieved him of $500.

Joseph McEnery, Cashier of Thompson & Co.'s steel works, New York, has been arrested on a charge of embezzling $4,500, which he bet on races.

A band of regulators in Emanuel County, Georgia, made nightly rounds whipping and mutilating persons who incurred their displeasure, both men and women.

A frame building in New York, which workmen were engaged in taking down, fell while a number of children were gathering wood there. Two children were instantly killed.

Unknown parties fired a volley into a circus tent during a performance at Kingstand, Arkansas. A contortionist was killed. The seats were crowded, and the bullets passed through all sections of the audience. The miscreants escaped.

In the town of Brady, a boy by the name of Wheaton, about ten years of age, went out in the woods with an axe to cut fence poles. He was heard screaming and people went out to look for him. They found the axe, but failed to find the boy until next day, when they came upon his body torn in pieces. It is supposed to have be done by a bear.

If the present rate of the receipts and expenditures of the Government are kept up throughout the year, the surplus will be about $60,000,000 against $145,000,000 last year. It is believed, however, that the surplus will be much larger than indicated unless the pension office makes heavy demands upon the treasury.

S. J. Hudson, of Belvidere, Ill., who came to Wisconsin with two children in search of his runaway wife, found her masquerading in male attire under the name of Frank Dubois. She was living with Gertrude Fuller, having married her last spring at the home of the bride's father. Her deception had not been suspected. She had solicited odd jobs at painting, and was making sufficient to support both.

Writers speak of the average "yield" of a cow. An unfortunate milkman says his experience is that she does not yield at all—she kicks.

A Good Introduction.

J. Kennedy, a merchant, in Dixie, about three years ago introduced Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam to his customers by trying it in his own family for Coughs and Colds. Being pleased with results, large sales followed, and it is now the favorite remedy in that neighborhood. 52t

"Did you dust the furniture this morning, Mary?" asked the mistress. "No, ma'am," replied Mary; it didn't need it; it had all the dust on it that it could easily hold."

Bad Drainage.

There is nothing more productive of disease in a neighborhood than bad drainage. Open the culverts and sluiceways and purify the locality. The obstructions in the human system may be remedied in a similar manner by Burdock Blood Bitters, which opens all the outlets of disease through the Bowels, Liver, and Kidneys. 45-2t

A medical student says he has never been able to find the "bone of contention," and wonders if it isn't the jawbone. We suspect he knows the location of the "funny bone."

A Wonderful Result.

A single bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup has frequently destroyed from 100 to 200 worms. It is pleasant to take—no other cathartic being required. Tape worms have also been removed by it, of 15 to 35 feet in length. It is effectual for all varieties of of worms afflicting both children and adults. 45-2t

"I wish to observe," said the criminal to the officer who was taking him to the office of the Superintendent of Police, "that this is a case in which the office seeks the man, and not the man the office."

Our New Story.

On our inside pages will be found the opening chapters of a new serial story, "Nought but Death Divorces, or Lady Audrey's Sacrifice," which will run several weeks. The story is intensely interesting, and withal, the moral lessons inculcated are of the highest order.

St. Luke's Temperance Society.

This organization is growing rapidly, even beyond the warmest hopes of its promoters. At a meeting held on Tuesday night, there were several new members admitted. The total member roll now numbers nearly fifty. A Band of Hope has been formed with a membership of between forty and fifty the first night. An entertainment will be given in St. Luke's school room on Monday evening next at eight o'clock. Admission ten cents.

Complimentary Supper.

Last Wednesday night a leave-taking supper was given at Chamberlain's restaurant. Mr. Geo. Pratt, masonry inspector on the Ontario & Quebec Railway was to be the honored guest, and the occasion was his departure to take charge of a contract on the C.P.R. in the North-West. There were a large number of gentlemen present. The supper, being at Chamberlain's, was of course first class in menu and appointments. After supper followed the usual programme of health drinking, Mr. Pratt being especially honored. Mr. Pratt will take with him happy recollections of the manner in which the respect in which he is held here, was manifested.

New Class Journal.

The Dominion Dry Goods Report is a new Canadian commercial monthly, devoted to dry goods, including clothing and men's furnishings, hats and furs, and the millinery and fancy goods trades. The object of the paper is to give to the wholesale and retail trade throughout the country, information relative to the state of trade, points concerning the goods that are in the market, and notes on the new styles and patterns that are coming into vogue. The special trades papers of England and the United States have become indispensable to the interests they represent, and there seems no reason why this new venture should not fulfil a useful career. Published by the Trades Publishing Company, 162 St. James Street, Montreal. Subscriptions $1.00 per year

The "City Band."

A new musical organization, to be known as the "city band" is in progress of formation in Peterborough. We understand that most of the instruments—there are to be nine pieces—have arrived, some of which might have been seen in the show window of Hartley's music store, Hunter street. We believe it is the intention of the band to play chiefly American music, ignoring classical selections. Preparations for practising are being made. The new organization includes a quadrille band also.

Remember, at R. Stenson & Son's is the only place you can buy Rock Island Hand-made Boots and Shoes, the best in the market for fall weather.

Liberal Encouragement.

The representatives of East and West Peterborough in the Local Legislature have given a fresh evidence of their concern in the promotion of the interests of the farming community. We are allowed to say that Messrs. T. Blezard, M.P.P., and John Carnegie, M.P.P., have contributed $25 each towards providing prizes, or some equivalent encouragement, in order to induce persons in these two ridings to prepare, by a suitable course of reading, for the examinations on agricultural topics, proposed to be held by the Agricultural and Arts Association next July. It is to be hoped that others, and, especially municipal councils, will supplement these gentlemen's liberal donations. Intending candidates are requested to furnish their names to Mr. Carnegie, so that action may be taken with a view to facilitating their studies.

Y.P.M.I.S.

These cabalistic letters have no connection with fenianism, dynamite or nitro-glycerine; they are simply the initial letters of the Young People's Mutual Improvement Society, a meeting to organize which was held in the school room of the Charlotte street Methodist Church, on Tuesday night. There was a good attendance, Mr. J. Frith Jeffers occupying the chair. A society with a membership of fourteen was organized, with the following staff of officers:—

PRESIDENT, Honorary,—Rev. T. Manning.
PRESIDENT,—E. W. Cox.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Miss Fair.
CRITIC,—J. Frith Jeffers.
SECRETARY,—S. R. Armstrong.

The matter of a constitution was laid over till the next meeting, November 15th. The object of the society is for mutual improvement, which will be attained through the medium of stated discussions and debates, and by readings, recitations, songs, etc. The subject for debate next night is the relative evil-producing power of war and intemperance. Readings will also be given by Misses Walsh and Webber, and a song by Mr. Porteus.

A Painful Accident.

On All Hallowe'en, a painful accident happened to Miss Archer, daughter of Mrs. Archer, Rubidge street, and a resident pupil at Mrs. Alex. Smith's boarding school, at the head of George street. She and two or three other girls were enjoying the sports peculiar to the evening—making "taffy" in the kitchen, and all were in high spirits. There are three doors opening off the kitchen on one side of the room, one of which opens into the pantry and another into the cellar. Miss Archer, in intending to go hastily into the pantry for something, made a mistake in the door and plunged headlong into the cellar. Not returning at once, the other girls busy with their sport, did not at once notice her absence; she was called, but making no reply her companions thought she was teasing them. At length serious search was made for her, and she was found at the foot of the stairs insensible, and lying in a pool of blood (which had flowed from a long deep wound in her head) and in which she must have lain nearly half an hour. Assistance was at once procured and restoratives applied. She is now recovering. Had the cut, which was in the the temporal region, been a little lower, the artery might have been severed and she probably would have bled fatally before being discovered.

Peterborough Law Association.

In the name of the law, amen: Town of Peterborough, County of Peterborough, to wit, however, nevertheless, notwithstanding; whereas the members of the Peterborough Law Association, of the town and province aforesaid, did, on Monday evening, being the fifth day of November, instant, in the law library of the Mechanics' Institute, meet, convene and gather together, and did then and there wilfully and of malice aforethought, consult, collude, collogue, release, convey, enfeoff, confirm, conspire against all and singular the purse of the laity of the town and county hereinbefore written, their heirs and assigns, in a manner detrimental to the contents in the above said purse, situate, lying and being, and its bulge and plenitude. Wherefore, know all men by these presents, that the report of the executive committee showed that there had been added to the library, books to the value of $500, making a total of $1100 worth of books on the shelves. The following officers were elected:

PRESIDENT—C. A. Weller.
VICE-PRESIDENT—D. W. Dumble.
SECY-TREAS—E. B. Edwards.
TRUSTEES—A. P. Poussette and W. H. Moore.

It was decided among other things, to request the Sheriff to take steps to have matting laid down in the aisles and passages of the court room to deaden the sound of feet, and have the barrister's waiting room fitted up in a more becoming manner. Other matters were also discussed.

St. Paul's Church.

A special sermon to young men will be delivered by Rev. E. F. Torrance, on Sabbath, evening Nov. 11th. Subject, "Popular Amusements."

Bible Christian Church.

The Ladies aid in connection with the Bible Christian Church Peterborough intend holding their Bazar on Tuesday November 20th.

Crowded Out.

We have received a communication from Mr. Preston in reply to Mr. Wilkinson's correspondence in the Review, but press of matter compels us to hold it over.

To Be Pushed.

Mr. A. Ratherford is preparing to expend $24,960 on the rebuilding of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Mr. J. J. Hartley who has the sub-contract for the excavation, and masonry, is preparing to go to work at once, and the work will be pushed and more or less advanced this year, according to the state of the weather.

Murray Street Bridge.

The new bridge across Dickson's race, at the foot of Murray street, is completed by Mr. Haslitt, the contractor. The bridge is a most substantial and well-built structure, more than sufficient for all the traffic it will be required to bear—as a railway engineer remarked on Saturday, "it's strong enough to carry a locomotive."

A Departing Teacher Honored.

Last Wednesday Miss Preston, who has so successfully filled the position of teacher in the central school for seven years, was honored with a recognition of the success she had achieved, and of the respect won from her pupils. Miss Ada Perry, Celia Harvey and Miss Edith Glass read her an address, and presented her, on behalf of the pupils, with a gold ring and an elegant work box. Miss Preston made a suitable reply to the address. She has been an excellent teacher and she is highly deserving of this parting mark of esteem.

A Former Peterborough Citizen Lost.

We learn from the Calgary Herald that James Thompson, formerly of this town, and in the employ of Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., and brother of Mr. Robert Thompson, in the employ of Messrs. Irwin, Boyd & Co., has been lost on the prairie in the vicinity of Calgary. He was engaged with J. Francis, a land surveyor. On Thursday, Oct. 11th, he left Calgary to return to camp, since which time nothing has been seen or heard of the missing man although diligent search has been made and two mounted policemen sent out to scour the country. Wm. Thompson, another brother, was drowned in the back lakes two years ago the past summer.

The registered attendance of pupils at the public schools reached the figures of 1011 for the month of October, the highest point it has ever touched.

The Band of Hope gave a very pleasant entertainment in the Bible Christian Church on Friday night. A good attendance, Rev. Mr. Joliffe in the chair, and a good programme.

Our New Watchmaker, Mr. Hughan, comes well recommended, and we are sure any work entrusted to him will be done in good style. Office lately occupied by Elias Burnham, Simcoe Street. 18-tf

At a meeting of the Peterborough graduates of Toronto University, held on Thursday evening, the question of representative voting in convocation was dealt with.

Mr. H. S. Crewe, Provincial Inspector of registrations, has begun a Crew-sade against those who neglect attention to these important matters, and Mr. Macdonald, Registrar for the town, has been instructed to proceed against all delinquents.

Couldn't some ingenious word builder coin a new phrase to serve the purpose of the time-honored and over-worked expression—"not for its intrinsic worth"—that so invariably creeps into addresses, accompanying presentations? How would "abstract avoirdupois value" answer for a change?

While this mild weather saddens the tender heart of the coal and wood dealer, because he can't sell the poor man a cheap ton of coal or load of wood, the latter is blessing the weather that delays the sacrifice by himself and family of bread and butter for wood—of food for fuel.

Indian summer began on Saturday last at 10 o'clock in the morning. At that hour there came a decided and characteristic change in the weather that indicated the beginning of the second growth or second hand summer, that glorious afterthought of nature that makes the climate of Canada so delightful.

Mr. H. Calcutt condems the new wharf erected by the O. & Q. Railway—an alleged equivalent for a draw in the railway—not for 'its intrinsic want of worth,' but on the ground that it will practically shut his boats out of Peterborough. Certainly Mr. Calcutt, an old taxpayer and an enterprising caterer to the travelling wants of the public, is entitled to as much consideration as a railroad company.

THRUST FROM A RUSHING TRAIN.

Attempted Murder to Save Half a Dollar.

Last Friday evening a new way to pay fares was introduced by a demoniac dead beat on the Midland express train from Toronto, between town and Millbrook. Conductor Alex. Millage demanded a ticket from a passenger standing on the platform and was pushed off while the train was going at a high rate of speed. He was taking the tickets and was about entering a passenger coach, when he demanded a ticket from a person standing on the platform. He said that he had no ticket. The cash equivalent was then demanded when the beat replied that he had no money either. Mr. Millage being in haste to take up the Fraserville tickets the next station—dismissed the matter for the time by saying "all right," and turned to enter the coach when the murderer—at heart—pushed him from the train. Mr. Millage struck on his right side and was knocked insensible. The train merely halted at Fraserville and passed on, but the conductor was missed and search was made. He not being found when the train arrived at Peterborough, the engine was uncoupled, reversed, and conductor Young slowly steamed south in search of the missing man. About a mile and a half north of where he had been pushed off the head light showed the figure of the dazed conductor on the track making for town. He was picked up and explained that when he revived he got up and staggered in the direction he was facing when he rose, not knowing which way he was going. He thinks the motive of the man was robbery, for he (the conductor) had remarked to some of the train hands that he had considerable silver about him and this remark might have been overheard by the villain. The train hands are pretty certain that he got off at Fraserville, and it is probable that he went back expecting to find his victim dead or insensible and therefore an easy prey, for the latter remembers seeing a man skulk behind a stump when he rose to his feet. Mr. Millage had no bones broken but was severely shocked and for several days remained in a dazed condition. He had a wonderful escape from instant death. The train trying to make up time was going rapidly, but the spot where Mr. Millage fell was a clear, soft, sandy, grassy spot. If he had struck any hard substance he must have been dashed in pieces.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Celebrating the Re-opening of St John's Church.

Last Thursday, All Saints' festival, witnessed the interesting, elaborate and successful services held in commemoration of the re-opening of St. John's Church. The services began by celebration of the Holy Communion at eight o'clock, followed by morning service at eleven, at which there were about fifteen of the neighbouring clergy present, including the Bishop of the diocese. Rev. C. J. S. Bethune preached the sermon, his subject having special reference to the associations of the day. There was a large attendance. The chancel of the church was beautifully decorated with cut and living flowers.

IN THE EVENING,

the church was filled to overflowing, and the services throughout were exceedingly impressive, the musical portion being especially excellent. The sermon was preached by Rev. John Carry, of Port Perry, and was a most thoughtful and practical discourse. There was a full choir present, and the canticles were sung with very fine effect, to Parisian tones, harmonized. The rendition of the anthem was exceedingly effective. In the contralto solo, Miss Clara Cluxton acquitted herself in a most creditable manner, and Mr. Alex. Elliott's bass solo was well rendered. The offertory voluntary, from the Messiah—the Hallelujah Chorus—was a most masterly exposition of the sublimity of Handel's music. The festal Te Deum, composed by Mr. Ewing, organist, was rendered by the choir in a soul-stirring manner; the composition contained passages of surpassing beauty, both of theme and harmony. The musical services throughout were of more than ordinary excellence, while the successful carrying out of the day's programme of services is a matter of congratulation to both the Rector and congregation of St. John's.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

Young Men's Christian Association.

For many years past the second week in November has been set apart as a time for united prayer on behalf of young men and Young Men's Christian Associations throughout the world. The time is well chosen, as it comes just as the winter's work is beginning. The Peterborough Association will unite with their brethren in other places, by holding special meetings for young men during the week. They invite the Christian public to unite with them in prayer for the conversion of young men. The following are the dates of meetings, topics and leaders:—

Nov. 11th, Sunday, 9 a.m.—The Holy Spirit. G. E. Williams.
Nov. 11, Sunday, 8.30 p.m.—Questions worthy of thoughtful consideration,—J. F. Jeffers.
Nov. 12, Monday, 8 p.m.—Opportunities used. Zaccheus,—D. B. Gardner.
Nov. 13, Tuesday, 8 p.m.—Opportunities unused, Agrippa,—Dr. J. A. Fife.
Nov. 15, Thursday, 8 p.m.—Opportunities abused, The Husbandman,—J. W. Flavelle.
Nov. 16, Friday, 8 p.m.—Opportunities lost, The Young Ruler,—Sheriff Hall.
Nov. 17, Saturday, 8 p.m., Ode more opportunity,—Rev. E. F. Torrance.

These meetings will be held in the rooms of the Association, and it is to be hoped there will be a large attendance of our young men.

The pastors of the different churches have been asked to preach special sermons to young men, to which we have no doubt most of them will respond.

THE LATE ROBT. NICHOLS

A Peterborough Land Mark Removed.

A Brief Sketch of His Life—His Business Operations in Peterborough—His Character—The Last of his Race.

On Wednesday, November 7th, Robert Nicholls, one of the wealthiest citizens of Peterborough, and the most prominent figure in business and financial circles of the past half century, passed away from earth at the age of 71 years. Considering the leading part he played in the progress and growth of the town, a brief sketch of his life is due to the position he held for so many years.

Mr. Nicholls was born in New York city in the year 1812. He was of Irish descent, his father, James Nicholls, having emigrated from Belfast, in 1790. He settled on Chambers street, New York, where he purchased a tract of unoccupied land. On this land he erected the first brick house in the city, which was the birth place of his family of eight children, of whom Robert was the third in order of birth. His mother, Jane Dickenson Nicholls, was a native of County Monaghan, Ireland. His father was a cooper by trade, and was for a long time engaged in the business in the city of Brooklyn.

The property he owned afterward became the most valuable in the city. It is still in the possession of descendants, and some idea may be formed of its value when $50,000 a year was required to keep it in repair. In early life Robt. Nicholls enjoyed the advantages of good common school facilities for education, and applying himself diligently, he rapidly acquired sufficient education, conjoined with his natural aptitude and ability, to admirably fit him for business pursuits. When fourteen years of age he lost his father by death, and was naturally thrown more upon his own resources.

At the age of twenty, or in 1832, being possessed of that spirit of independence and self reliance, which has been so marked a characteristic of the brave pioneers that penetrated the then wild forests of the County of Peterborough, he came to the little hamlet then known as "Scott's Plains." Here he rented a small shop on the site corresponding to the present site of the Bank of Ontario building, corner of Water and Simcoe streets. He purchased his first stock of goods for his general store from John Brown, of Port Hope. But before very long Mr. Nicholls, becoming involved in in business difficulties with Mr. Brown, decided to return for a time to New York. This determination formed, he began to cast about for some suitable person to take charge of his business during his absence. Some friends recommended to him "Little Willie Hall," as he was then known, as a shrewd, trustworthy and competent young man.

As matters were drawing to a financial crisis through the pressure of Mr. Brown, of Port Hope, Mr. Nicholls concluded to go in search of Mr. Hall, who was at that time in the employmeut of Mr. J. J. Hall, who died last summer at Buckhorn, and who, years since, kept a store on the present site of Brodies' woollen mill, Dickson's Race. "Little Willie Hall" had gone fishing to the river near what are known now as Hall's mills. Here Mr. Nicholls, who was in one sense fishing for men, found his man fishing for bass. This meeting was the beginning of a business partnership, whose name is, or at least was a few years since, the most widely and familiarly known of that of any firm in the Midland district. The business was soon explained, and Mr. Hall returned with him to the store, where arrangements for his engagement were speedily concluded.

Mr. Nicholls then left for New York, not before, however, he had taken down the sign bearing his own name, and put that of William Hall in its place. Mr. Nicholl's visit to New York lasted one year.

Upon his return to Peterborough he found young Mr. Hall doing a flourishing business. During the interval a compromise had been effected with Mr. Brown, of Port Hope. Mr. Nicholls asked Mr. Hall to take down the sign bearing the name of Hall and elevate that of Nicholls in its stead. Mr. Hall declined—"Nae, nae, we canna dae that." After consideration and consultation, which lasted some time, a partnership was entered into, and the sign of Nicholls & Hall replaced that of William Hall, whose business abilities contributed in no small degree to the futufe success that attended the operations of the firm. Mr. Hall possessed good judgment quick perception, honesty, accuracy, and in all matters of benevolence and charity Mr. Nicholls generally referred applicants to him. It was a remarkable fact that their business matters were conducted without a dissenting word. No matter whether in buying stocks, lands, goods or machinery, what Mr. Hall suggested, Mr. Nicholls yielded his assent.

With two such men at the head of affairs it is no wonder that the business of the firm assumed vast dimensions. At one time the firm owned 15,000 acres of land in this and the adjoining county of Victoria, a large proportion of which had been acquired by tax titles, and from those with whom they had been doing business in the settlement of claims, etc. The firm owned and conducted for forty years a large flouring mill, and purchased wheat from the farmers, shipping the flour to foreign parts. Mr. Nicholls was engaged in the distilling business for some years, but that not proving remunerative it was discontinued.

The firm of Nicholls & Hall carried on a most extensive and profitable business. At one time there were over 2,500 open accounts on their books. In 1858 they built the brick block in which are now situated the Metropolitan Grocery, and the dry goods department proper of Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., Simcoe street. During the construction of this block Mr. Nicholl's took a severe cold, and was for some time dangerously ill from inflamation of the lungs, an illness from which he never fully recovered. One of his lungs was permanently diseased, an aggravation of which brought on his last illness. It is remarkable that the venerable Dr. Harvey was Mr. Nicholl's medical attendant in 1858 and also at the time of his last and fatal attack.

Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co. were taken into the firm of Nicholls & Hall in 1869. In 1873 Mr. Robert Hall was admitted to the firm, and Messrs. Nicholls & Hall retired from that business, though the firm still carried on the grocery business till 1875, when it passed into the hands of Mr. T. W. Robinson and Mr. Wm. Davidson.

Mr. Nicholls never sought municipal honors, though for one year he was persuaded to act as Councillor for the town before its separation from the county, a matter to which he was strongly opposed. He would have nothing with general politics, and permitted no such matters to interfere in the slightest degree with his business. He only voted three times in political contests during his half century's residence in Canada, casting his vote on the Reform side.

In religion he was a Presbyterian and a member of the Old Kirk.

In 1852 Mr. Nicholls saw the necessity of a banking institution to meet the requirements of trade and to assist in developing the industries springing up in a new place. Theretofore, what money was required had been obtained from Cobourg. Through his own exertions he succeeded in securing the establishment of a branch of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough, which was the second banking institution (in point of time) in the county, the first having been the old Newcastle Savings Bank, some bills of which are now in possession of Mr. James Best. Mr. Nicholl's became local manager of the Bank of Montreal, and conducted its business so carefully and successfully for sixteen years that in that time the losses did not amount to five dollars.

Mr. Nicholls also had much to do with the establishment of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Society, chiefly through his business connections in the Old Country, though he never was a director of it nor owned a cent of its stock. He was for some time connected with the local agricultural society, and was twice appointed to fill vacancies in the Post Office. He was, on one occasion, tendered the Parliamentary nomination, which he firmly refused, for business reasons.

On Nov. 7th, 1847, Mr. Nicholls was united in marriage to Miss Charlotte Jackson, who bore him two children, both of which died in infancy. It is an affecting coincidence, that Mr. Nicholls' death took place exactly on the 36th anniversary of his wedding day.

Mr. Nicholls' retirement from business in 1875 with a large fortune, left him free to look more closely after the state of his health, and he spent his winters usually in some southern climate. The effects of his illness contracted, as before noted, in 1858, clung to him, gradually doing its fatal work, and on his seventy-first birthday, Robert Nicholls, a landmark in Peterborough, the last of his race, for he left no offspring, and was the last of his father's children, passed away.

At the time of his death he was worth a large amount of money, but until his will—which he was all his life solicitous to have in readiness—is admitted to probate and his estate administered, the extent of his wealth cannot be accurately known. It is thought his estate in his own name will be wound up at about a million dollars. His riches are chiefly in Canadian securities—bank stocks, etc., etc. His real estate possessions in his own name were comparatively small. They all lie in Peterborough, and consist of the block of buildings occupied by the Metropolitan Grocery, Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., the Ontario Bank, on Simcoe street, and by Messrs. Poussette & Roger on Water stereet, a lot on George street, one on Aylmer street, and his late residence Rubidge street.

Among the distinctive characteristics that contributed to Mr. Nicholls' success in life was his remarkable memory. He could name, at one time fifteen hundred customers, even those with whom he was associated with in early life, all facts connected with their history, financially, politically, socially and morally, their debts and dues to a dollar. One particular feature in his character was his desire to gather all the information possible, but so far as imparting knowledge of his own affairs was concerned the disposition was reversed. For several years he was extensively engaged in the grain trade. Although a cautious dealer he did not escape the consequences incident to a business that has so often brought ruin to thousands. In the short space of one week he lost $30,000, and outside of the firm no one knew of the transaction. During the memorable crisis in New York "Black Friday" about fifteen years ago, he received from his agents a telegram to buy "stocks," as the market had reached bottom, He acted upon the advice, using the immense capital of the firm, and in less than thirty days he sold out, pocketting the handsome profit of seventy-five thousand dollars. Whether adversity frowned or prosperity smiled, he never exhibited the slightest emotion. If he contributed a dollar to charitable purposes it was known only to himself; he obeyed the scriptural injunction of not letting his right hand know what his left hand did. During Mr. Hall's lifetime, all such appeals were referred to him and whatever decision he arrived at was satisfactory. Their business relations extending over a period of nearly fifty years, were of the most cordial, as their business achievements were of the most remarkable character. In business Mr. Nichols had realised the ambition of his life; his example of economy could scarcely be excelled. Socially he was reserved abroad, but when at home, nothing pleased him better than to have an old friend or acquaintance call, when he would sit by the hour, relating scenes of by-gone days. He was continually living in the past. He was a gentleman of sterling integrity honored and respected by those who knew him best.

Private Vocal Rehearsal.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Ewing held a private rehearsal by his pupils in the Opera House, at which about sixty invited auditors were present. A programme of 15 pieces was carried out, consisting of songs and piano forte selections. Songs were rendered by Mademoiselles Cottingham, Johnston, Clara Cluxton, Addie Choate, and Messrs. Shaw, Lech and Porteous. Misses Davidson, Annie Cluxton and Millie Beck, performed piano forte selections. The auditors, who were of the best citizens of the town, were highly pleased with the way in which the different parties acquitted themselves. The pupils have been under Mr. Ewing's training only from six months to a year and the progress of some of them is simply wonderful. Many who had never dreamt of such a thing, have developed under training, excellent concert room voices. Miss Cottingham rendered the difficult song "Caller Herrin," in a very pleasing style. Miss Clara Cluxton's rendition of Handel's "O Had I Jubal's Lyre" was an exceptionally good performance. Miss Johnston also gave a song that reflected great credit on her training; Mr. Shaw's song also showed a well trained voice; whilst Mr. Porteous, in his well-rendered baritone song, surpassed his usual excellence. Miss Davidson's brilliant pianoforte solo was a finished rendition. The other pupils acquitted themselves creditably, and on the whole the rehearsal showed great advancement on the part of the pupils. Another private rehearsal will be given before a concert at the beginning of the year.

Sanderson's Jewelry Establishment.

The improved and refitted jewelry establishment of Mr. W. A. Sanderson, George street, is a model of its kind and as neat and tasty as can be found in any town in Canada Twenty feet have been added to the shop space in the rear. The shop has been newly and substantially floored with narrow planks of alternate walnut and red oak, oiled. The ceiling and walls have been covered with paper in cream and gold, that of the former being divided into panels, in the centre of which are two four light gas pendents in cut glass. On the left side of the shop, on entering, is an elegant range of wall show cases. These cases are of black walnut, oil finished. The frames of them rest on a baseboard supported on brackets; the sides are fluted pilasters, with moulded pediments and carved ornate finials; the tops are elaborately and tastefully carved, the whole design being in the Queen Anne style. The front of the show cases is of plate glass, sliding vertically between the pilasters, and nicely counterpoised by concealed weights. The cases are lined with crimson cloth, and are intended for the display of silverware. There are eight compartments; between every two is a handsome plate glass mirror, 30x48 inches, framed in style to correspond with the cases. The cases are most artistically completed, and for finish, fine workmanship, beauty and harmony of design, challenge the admiration of good judges, and reflect credit on the capacities of the establishment of Mr. A. Clegg, where they were produced. The carving on them, which is really a very praiseworthy artistic work, was done by Mr. Sam'l Clegg. The counter show cases (which have been increased to four) are of nickel plate, resting on solid walnut tables, which contain, behind, drawers for holding surplus stock of the jewelry to which the show cases are devoted. On the right hand side is a range of wall show cases in ash, with sliding glass doors. These are for the display of a large variety of clocks and musical instruments. At the window is a new solid walnut work bench, surrounded with enameled glass screens. In a word, Sanderson's jewelry shop has been fitted up in a most complete, tasty, and stylish manner. With a new shop and an enlarged and well chosen stock of watches, silverware, jewelry and clocks, Mr. Sanderson is prepared to do an immense trade in his line for the holidays, so rapidly approaching. His beautifully refitted premises are well worthy a visit.

THE ALGOMA ELECTION.

More Light on Tory Tactics.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

MY DEAR SIR,—A late issue of the Review contained a letter signed "J. A. Wilkinson," in reply to statements that were made in my correspondence to THE EXAMINER of the 1st instant. The Review's correspondent stamps as "unmitigated falsehoods" the accusations in my letter in relation to Tory frauds in Algoma. That has always been that correspondent's stock argument when brought face to face with unpleasant facts. Similar denials were indulged in by the entire Muskoka brigade, of which W. J. Wilkinson is not the least prominent member, after the Muskoka election in March. Some of the ablest judges in Canada have already had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on that brigade's political venality, so that there is not any necessity of enlarging on the marked coincidence in the Tory denials after the Muskoka election and the denials following the contest in Algoma. The Tory manipulators who were sent to Algoma should cease posing as apostles of purity. They cannot persuade an intelligent public that there character should have undergone such a marked change, that they really went up to Algoma in the interest of temperance, honesty, or religion. The dispensers of frozen whiskey in Muskoka plied their nefarious traffic among the electorate of Algoma, with even greater zeal, but less success, than had previously crowned their disgraceful efforts. Had Plummer been elected the infamy of the gang could be exposed. Now it can only be done, as the law now stands, by that gentleman claiming the seat. That he is not quite fool enough to do. The correspondent of the Review asks for the names of the deputy returning officers who were approached by the agents of Mr. Plummer. In due time steps will be taken to expose the villainy of the Shield's band in Algoma, and that by such means as may prove an incentive to certain so-called Tory leaders to again place themselves beyond the jurisdiction of Provincial subpœnas. The Review's correspondent says that "twenty-five or thirty," who came down on the Syndicate tug, and "eleven or twelve Indians, in the Hudson Bay Company's employ, under Mr. Simpson," were not allowed to vote. Both statements are entirely at variance with the facts. Only one white man was refused a ballot, and that for, what the deputy returning officer believes, proper legal reasons. But one Indian presented himself as a voter. He acknowledged that he was not a British subject, either by birth or naturalization. No Hudson Bay Company's Indian employee asked for a ballot. Nor is there anyone there, in the H. B. Company's service, named "Simpson." That the correspondent of the Review has been regarded as extremely gullible, and has been treated accordingly by some wag, there cannot be no doubt. I cannot imagine that even J. A. Wilkinson, utterly regardless as he has been, too frequently, of these circumstances upon which a reputation for veracity only can be founded, would have penned such outrageous statements as appeared in the Review over his signature, had he been at all acquainted with the questions at issue. It will be proved, at the proper time, that the true inwardness of the Shields-Norquay leaders in Algoma have not been painted as darkly as circumstances have warranted.

Yours truly,

W. T. R. PRESTON.

ANSTRUTHER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Your correspondent, after considerable tugging through mud, and scaling rocks, arrived in time at the "land o' cakes." During our short absence we found that shooting some, and hauling others before our J. P.'s, had been the order of the day. We are rather fond of law in this section of country, and people have to walk as straight as the hind leg of a duck, to avoid being hauled up.

A COMFORTABLE RIG.

Meeting on the Burleigh Road several rigs with bandaged limbs and broken bones, our own comfortable buggy (sound in every joint) attracted considerable attention, and after 40 miles of travelling, over rocks and corduroy roads, was subject to very minute inspection, and as this is a very inquisitive world, more than one asked who the builder was. The question was easily answered by referring them to a small metalic plate, bearing the name of "Fitzgerald & Stanger, Peterborough."

OUTCOME OF THE CROP FOR '83.

Report of the Bureau of Industries for November.

We have received from the Secretary of the Bureau of Industries the following summary of so much of the November report as relates to the area and produce of the grain crops of Ontario.

The produce of fall wheat is considerably under the estimate made on the 1st of August, the full extent of the injury done by rust not being realized at that time. The worst reports relate to the western half of the Province, where the bulk of the fall wheat is grown. There the crop was seriously damaged by winter weather, and although a partial recovery was made as the growing season advanced, the grain was blighted in the ripening stage with rust. As a result, the average yield is low and the quality poor. In the eastern half the plant wintered well and the yield per acre is much higher than in the west, but the rust effects are only less severe.

Spring wheat is generally reported as an excellent crop, the grain being plump and the yield per acre good. Rust and the midge affected it injuriously in some localities, as in the counties of Ontario, Durham and Northumberland, and in all the northern counties late fields were hurt by the September frosts. But for these drawbacks the crop would have been one of the largest and best that the country has produced.

The total breadth of fall and spring wheat this year is 1,670,545 acres, and the produce 21,329,329 bushels. Last year the breadth was 1,775,337 acres, and the produce 40,921,201 bushels. The average yield of fall wheat per acre last year was 23.3 bushels, and of spring wheat 16.5. This year the average of spring wheat is 16.75 bushels, and of fall wheat only 10.54

The season was too wet for maturing a good crop of marketable barley, and although the berry is plump it is generally discoloured. A large portion of it in consequence will be fed on the farm. The area under crop was 757,622 acres, the produce 18,690, 380 bushels' and the average yield her acre 24.67 bushels. Last year the area was 848,617 acres, produce 24,284,407 bushels, and the average yeild 28.6 bushels.

The oat crop has been a large and fine one. The grain is of excellent quality, especially in the western half of the Province, and many correspondents remark that in weight it exceeds the standard bushel by four to six pounds. In the northern counties some injury was done by early frosts, but its extent in the aggregate is not appreciable. The total produce of the 1,423,529 acres in crop was 55,482,797 bushels, or 38.9 bushels per acre. Last year the area was 1,375,415 acres, the produce 50,097,997 bushels, and the average per acre 36.4 bushels.

Rye has been a fair crop, both as regards quality and productiveness. The area sown was 188,438 acres, the yield 3,000,680 bushels, and the average per acre 15.9 bushels. Last year the area was 189,031 acres, the yield 3,549,898 bushels, and the average per acre 18.8 bushels.

Peas sown on low land was injured by the rainy weather of July, but on high or well-drained land it was an excellent crop. The bug was less destructive than in former years, and in some districts it seems to have disappeared. The area in crop was 541,713 acres, the yield 10,728,137 bushels, and the yield per acre 19.8 bushels. Last year the area was 557,157 acres, the yield 10,943,355 bushels, and the yield per acre 19.6 bushels.

Corn, buckwheat and beans were so generally destroyed by the frosts of September that it is impossible to estimate their produce. Beans were a partial crop in the localities where they are chiefly grown, but thousands of acres of corn and buckwheat were utterly ruined in the districts most favorable to their maturity.

Following is a statement of area and produce of the principal crops for the county of Peterborough for the years 1882 and 1883:

	1883.		1882.
	Acres.	Bush.	Acres.	Bush.
Fall wheat	13,069	216,945	11,358	206,666

Barley	13,728	370,656	14,702	426,358
Oats	24,834	1,043,028	24,168	821,712
Rye	5,638	90,771	4,458	80,244
Peas	13,323	269,109	13,209	264,180

NORWOOD.

Our obliging and courteous post-master, J. A. Butterfield, Esq., is having the post-office overhauled.

The bridge at Crow River is about completed. A locomotive crossed last week. The track layers are expected to reach this village in the course of three or four weeks.

We learn, from a reliable source, that Mr. S. J. Clysdale, of Dummer, has purchased a lot opposite the Ontario & Quebec station grounds in this village, from Mr. T. M. Grover, for the purpose of erecting an elevator thereon.

Mr. H. Stickles, of Sterling, lately engaged as leader of the Norwood brass band, was entertained at an oyster supper at the Commercial House, by the members of the band, on Monday evening last.

Mr. Fred. H. Brennan was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Trinity Medical School Literary and Scientific Society, Toronto, last week. This is the highest position open to any student of his year.

The young people of the Norwood Presbyterian church have associated themselves for the purpose of literary and scientific improvement. The following are the officers:—

President—Rev. J. Carmichael, M.A.
Vice-President—J. Davidson, M.A.
2nd Vice-President—Miss J. Eaton.
Secretary—Wm. Finlay.
Critique—J. Davidson, M.A.

Committee of Management—Misses E. Roxburgh, M. Eaton, E. Finlay, E. Kempt, M. Ormiston, and Messrs. J. Mickle, A. Eaton, E. Speer, A. J. Robertson, W. Finlay and J. A. Harper.

LINDSAY.

Needler & Sadler are about putting in their flour mill additional improved machinery, including one of the new centrifugal bolting machines.

Mr. S. McMurdhy, employed on the Midland Railway, received a broken leg Friday through a rail striking it.

The Lindsay branch of the C.E.T.S. society was opened on Friday night week in St. Paul's church. Rev. Mr. Jones introduced Mr. N. W. Hoyles, of Toronto, who gave an eloquent and practical address, arousing much interest and enthusiasm. Seventy persons joined the society.

A party composed of Dr. DeGrassi, Messrs. W. Boyd, F. Martin, R. J. Hewitt, C. Foley, J. W. Wallace and Colin Brotherson were out hunting at Cochleon Lake, about 5 miles this side of Haliburton. They were out about two weeks, and in that time killed 18 deer.

Mr. Neil McDougall, superintendent of telegraph construction in the Northwest, son of the late Sheriff McDougall, of Lindsay, had a thrilling adventure recently. He was crossing the Nipigon in a canoe with an old and tried Indian, when the canoe upset in midstream. They were above the Nepigon rapids, and the current was so strong that they could not reach the shore. They clung to the canoe for dear life and were swiftly swept over the rapids. Fortunately they got to the centre of the river, where the danger was least. They disappeared a dozen times beneath the boiling water, and gave it up for lost, but fortunately they reached a quiet corner and got ashore almost exhausted.

Lindsay isn't so proud of her gas works when the bills begin to come in. The general cry is that the price must come down. But the citizens should be reasonable. A town so benighted as Lindsay can't be enlightened except at considerable expense.

Col. Deacon authoritatively stated at the last meeting of the Council that $3,000 of the old debt would be reduced this year if all goes well, and this without increasing the tax above last year's rate. Last year only a surplus of about $500 was realized.

A Wrong Opinion.

Many a dollar is paid for prescriptions for some disease that never troubled the patient, and when the sole difficulty was worms, which a few of Freeman's Worm Powers would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe, and sure, contain their own cathartic, and are adapted for children or adults. 45-2t

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another; but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

THE DIFFERENCE.

They stood at the bar of justice—
Two women with heads bowed down.
And one was dressed in rustling silk
And one in tattered gown.

One clad in the height of fashion,
The other one ragged and torn;
The former inspiring sympathy,
The latter contempt and scorn.

"And why are they here?" I questioned;
"Why are they in such disgrace?
The shrinking form in the tattered gown
And that in the silk and lace?"

"They're here," said the grim policeman,
And a frown his visage wore,
"For stealing whenever they got a chance
In a fancy or dry goods store."

The one in rags was sentenced
To a year's incarceration
In the common jail; the one in silk
Was "taken on probation."

"Now, why should this be so?" I asked
The answer was terse and brief:
"The lady's a kleptomanic,
The one in rags a thief."

HOW TO CULTIVATE A MOUSTACHE.

"Ben Low" writes to the New York Morning Journal. To raise an elegant moustache let the aspirant follow these directions, viz.: about 9 p.m. place a glass of water on a chair by the bed, rub some salt on his upper lip and get into bed. Lie facing the water and pretend to go to sleep. Keep one eye partly open, and he'll soon see a little hair come out in search of drink, the salt having made it thirsty. Watch closely, and suddenly catch hold of it and tie a knot in it to prevent it from going back. Renew the pretence of sleep and treat the next one that comes out in the same manner. By daylight, if he is watchful and quick, he will have a nice little moustache. The idea is copyrighted.

A RARE DRAMATIC INCIDENT.

The trial of Dr. Harry Meyer, in Chicago last week, for the attempted murder of his wife, developed an incident of rare dramatic quality. The drug which he acknowleged administering to his wife was brought into court without the knowledge of the prisoner. While on the witness stand he boasted of his willingness to prove its harmlessness by swallowing some of it himself. Taking him at his word, the prosecutor suddenly applied this test. The prisoner faltered and turned pale, and with a shuddering hand motioned the proffered dose away; he refused even to touch it. The spectators were painfully impressed by the scene.

GLASS VS. IRON.

We have seen the many useful purposes paper has been made to subserve, even in the construction of carwheels, boats and houses. Now glass comes to the front in an unexpected connection. It is said that in England glass is gradually taking the place of wood and iron in the building of bridges. It is moulded into blocks, which there is a process for hardening. These blocks it is asserted, in solidity, leave nothing to be desired. Experiments have shown surprising results. The superiority of glass over the articles named is found in the fact that it is non-combustible, cannot be injured by insects, and resists corrosion.

GAVE HIM CHANGE.

"An' ken ye give me the change fur twinty-foive cints?" asked Dennis of a merchant.

"Yes, think I can."

"An' will ye?"

"Yes, here it is," and he handed him five five cent pieces. "But hold on. Where's the twenty-five cents?"

"Oi hev no twinty-foive cints, yer honor. Oi only wanted change for wan an' ye said ye'd give it to me. Good day, sor."

The police are under the impression that the thieves proceeded direct to Toronto with their booty.

American dealers in cattle have been purchasing heavily in Toronto and vicinity during the past two weeks, and it is roughly estimated that over $10,000 worth has been carried to Buffalo by the Grand Trunk railway. The animals are intended for the Christmas trade in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and will be fattened in Buffalo previous to shipment.

A man named Dufeux, of Montreal, who was engaged to be married to Miss Gagnon at St. Bridget's Church, did not keep his engagements, and the would-be bride and her friends had to return home disappointed. The father of the young lady subsequently interviewed the recalcitrant and threatened him with an action for breach of promise, whereupon the hero decamped to the States.

A man named John Carroll, aged 65, a hotel keeper in the township of Tecumseth, near Alliston, who was summoned to Orangeville on Monday as a witness in the Cardwell election trial, dropped dead just as he had entered the court house gate. The cause of death was apoplexy, probably induced by excitement. Carroll was in a very frail condition before the attack, and succumbed to it instantaneously.

Political Machines.

The Trent Valley Canal scheme is declared by the friends of the Government to be as good as accomplished, but the prospect is, that its chief utility will be for years to come, in its capacity as a political machine. The past history of the undertaking points to this conclusion, and the recent history of the Welland Canal is corroborative evidence that the policy of the Government in reference to our canals, as well as every other branch of the public service, is dictated, not by a desire to make them as useful as possible to the shipping and other interests of the Dominion, but to extract as much political capital as possible out of them. The Welland Tribune, of Nov. 8th, contains a stirring article on the subject of mismanagement of the Welland canal. It is shown that, owing to the neglect of the Government to use means—easily practicable—to prevent the emptying of the canal into Lake Erie, as is sure to happen with a strong wind blowing from the north, a large propellor grounded in the aqueduct, entirely blocking the canal for several days. In the meantime a fleet of about forty steam and sailing vessels gathered idle in the canal, and the loss to ship owners—when sailors' wages are $3 per day—amounted to thousands of dollars. That is the immediate loss, but the damage to the reputation of the canal will be incalculable. And all is owing, as the Tribune remarks, "to the negligence or stupidity of the Government. Had half the skill and ability been devoted to make the canal as successful for purposes of navigation as to make it an efficient political machine, there would be no disasters from neglect and blundering as this to chronicle." With this picture of government recklessness before us—a government converting a great public work that cost millions of the people's money into a political machine, thereby destroying the purpose for which it was built, destroying and bringing into disrepute Canada's great highway to the sea; can the people of this district hope to see the Trent Valley Canal ever amount to anything? A political machine it has been for years. Its private promoters were honest and sincere, but the minute the present Government, incited by the hope of its political usefulness, took up the project, it became a political engine. As such it was used in 1882, as such it is used now, and will continue to be used do long as it does good party work. It takes a vast amount of the people's money to keep it "greased" and in good running order, but that is nothing—the Tory Government are determined to spare no expense to keep the Trent Valley Canal political machine in smooth working order. It is bad enough to bribe electors with private funds or contractor's coin, but using the people's money to compass their own political debauchery is infamously iniquitous.

West Huron.

Last Saturday the electors of West Huron did themselves the honor to return Lieut.-Col. A. M. Ross, the new Provincial Treasurer, by acclamation. Mr. Ross is a credit the county, and the county was justified in extending him the honor of an unopposed return. The fact that a faction of the Tory party in the riding could neither persuade nor buy any local man to oppose him—the fact that Mr. E. Meredith, of London, brother of the Opposion, leader declined the dubious honor for "cogent reasons"—show that Col. Ross is an exceptionally strong man, and that the Government acted wisely in calling him to its councils.

One More Unfortunate.

In the face of the evidence brought out in the trial of the West Middlesex election petition, it is probable that the Tory organs will be less demonstrative as to the hypocritical eulogies they are wont to pay to the purity of the Tory mode of conducting elections. The bribery was so flagrant that no hesitation was made by the learned judges in declaring the election void. In fact the respondent, Mr. Johnston, was only saved from personal disqualification, as Chancellor Boyd expressed it, "by the skin of his teeth." There is not the slightest room to doubt that Mr. Johnston's majority of 37 was secured by the most shameless bribery that has been exposed in any election trial except, perhaps, Muskoka. The style of bribery was decidedly original, while the mode was wholesale. Almost every member of the central committee was an active bribery agent. It was shown that money, in sums ranging from fifty to three hundred dollars was distributed amongst the committees. This money was used in paying the travelling expenses of voters, hiring teams—all contrary to law—and in open and almost undisguised bribery. The originality cropped up in the revelation of the existence of a systematic plan of betting. The candidate himself and his principal agents advanced money to be used in laying wagers on the success of the Conservative candidate. This dodge converted every better (for the condition was that he was to lay the money on the Tory candidate) into an active electioneering agent. Those who advanced the money were to bear all the loss and share the gain. This original, insidious and dangerous way of disregarding the election law is worthy of the immediate attention of our legislators. Thus another Tory is sacrificed to the system of buying elections. Lennox, West Middlesex, Cardwell, Muskoka testify to the desperately corrupt efforts made by the Tory party to compass the overthrow of the Liberal Government of Ontario, and to make good the vain-glorious boast that "Mowat must go."

Encouraging Settlement.

The Regina Leader, the Conservative organ in the Northwest, publishes a letter from an English capitalist, who owns 20,000 acres of land in the Northwest. Instead of leaving it idle, he has attempted to develop it and make it productive, but at the very outset he is, as he relates in his letter, disgusted and discouraged, through the operation of the absurd fiscal policy of the Government. He imported a steam plough from England at enormous expense, and this is the way he was encouraged by the beneficent N. P.: He was charged 35 per cent. ad valorem duty on his plough, and also charged an excess of freight enormous beyond even the schedule rates of the C.P.R. Mr. Sykes, the gentleman in question, points out what the Government, if it had an honest desire to benefit the country, instead of bolstering itself up by pandering to the cupidity of monopolists, might have seen long ago, that all stock and implements should be admitted to the Northwest duty free. The Pacific Railway monopoly can secure remission of duties on its materials, after having received half the country and thirty million dollars to boot, to build a part of the line, but the farmer must bleed at every pore—in the shape of burdensome taxes and extortionate freight rates, which the Government has criminally put in the power of the Railway Company to impose.

The journals of the Northwest have been commenting severely on the appointment of Senator McPherson to the Ministry of the Interior. Since the defeat of the Mackenzie Government the land policy pursued in the Northwest has been characterized not only by blundering, but by downright roguery. The bona fide settler has been disgusted with the treatment received, and the speculator has been highly favored. The Rock Lake Herald remarks that:—

"The people of this country, especially this section of it, would hail with delight any change calculated to bring about a reform in the administration of the affairs of that important Department, but from Senator McPherson's previous connection with these matters, as assistant, we see no reason for any hope of improvement."

The Herald also assures us that:—

"We may be pretty certain things cannot be managed any worse than they have been." * * * "In no portion of the Northwest have the evil effects of the unmitigated blunders of the Hon. Senator's predecessor been more manifest than in Southern Manitoba. Here we have seen settler after settler driven across the border to become citizens of a foreign power, in consequence of the insane policy pursued and persisted in, in regard to our Land Regulations—from one step to another, from bad to worse, beginning with the regulation of August, 1879, which had the effect of throwing the odd numbered sections (then in the hands of homesteaders in this neighborhood), into the hands of speculators, change after change has been made, until there are few, if any, who can tell what the existing law is. The climax of absurdity was recently reached when the whole remaining portion of lands in the Turtle Mountain and Souris districts were withdrawn from homestead entry. We venture to say if a liberal land policy had been adopted and retained the entire district referred to would have been thickly settled, their population being at least three times what it is to-day. Of course it is now too late, to repair the loss that has been sustained here, by any action of the Government—years will be required before the evil is remedied."

Our readers will observe that this is the opinion of an independent paper, published in the centre of the best farming region in Manitoba. Instances and opinions might be multiplied indefinitely.

Watches, Clocks, Jewellry, &c., carefully repaired and warranted at Hughan's. Office lately occupied by Elias Burnham, Simcoe Street. 18-tf

Stock Jobbing Government.

The American newspapers are at the present time strongly condemning the unprecedented action of the Dominion Government in stock jobbing on the New York money market. Bradstreet's Mercantile Agency says:

"The circumstances attending the manipulation of Canadian Pacific stock, reflect extreme discredit on the Canadian Government officials at Ottawa, who must certainly have acquiesced in this business, and must infallibly have a very prejudicial effect on all Canadian securities. The stock has been greatly advanced in price by the clique who work it, and, at the proper time, they caused a despatch to be sent from Montreal stating that the Canadian Government had guaranteed 3 per cent. dividends on the stock for the period of ten years. Upon this they evidently expected to be able to sell out, and, by well-recognized tricks of the market, they made quite a hurrah over it; but the tricks were exposed in time to prevent their being successful. A great deal of mystery seems to surround this guarantee business, but the only thing which does seem to stand out clear is that no such guarantee can be given without the sanction of the Canadian Parliament, which does not meet for a month or two. The misrepresentations made, and the evident control the Canadian Pacific Syndicate have of the Canadian press and the party in power at Ottawa, are matters of grave import to the Canadian people. It is quite evident that reform is urgently needed there. Wall street is used to the tricks of corporations, and knows how to discount them; but the introduction of a Government as a factor in stock speculation is something new. Meantime, investors had better leave Canadian Pacific severely alone. Things seem to be shaping for an explosion up north"

Bradstreet's is acknowledged to be one of the most honest commercial publications issued, and its utterances in the above quotation should be seriously considered by the people. The most rabid of the Conservative journals have not dared to approve of this whole business. The eyes of the people are being opened to the true character of this fraud, pushed upon them by a ring of stock jobbers and politicians.

Editorial Notes.

Hon. Adam Crooks, Minister of Education, has returned safely from his transatlantic trip. His many friends will be pleased to learn that his health is greatly improved.

The Quebec Senate has some self-respect left. It is said that that body has signed a "round robin," declaring the intention of Senators to resign in the event of "Boss" Senecal being named a Senator.

If Hon. James Young, who recently resigned the portfolio of Provincial Treasurer, had been a Tory, he would not have remained a simple representative of his constituency. He would have insisted on some sinecure office, with no work and a large salary attached. That's the Tory way of resigning an office.

The Toronto World says the Brantford Telegram alleges that a large quantity of printing for the Ontario Government has been done in Brantford without the formality of a tender, and that the statement requires explanation. If some less unscrupulous Tory organ had made the allegation, there might be some ground for asking an explanation.

The employees of the Dundas cotton mill were notified last week that reductions of 12, 10 and 5 per cent. are to be made in the wages paid. Four days' work a week at reduced pay is not a cheerful prospect for the winter. The Tories about Dundas, says the Banner, don't spend very much time just now talking politics to the cotton mill operatives.

In the State elections, in the neighboring Republic, which took place on the 6th, the Republicans made heavy gains. In New York the Democrats probably elected all but the head of their State ticket, hile the Legislature will be Republican. Michigan, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts have gone Republican, whilst Mississippi, Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia have gone Democratic, but the Legislature of New Jersey is probably Republican.

The success that has attended Dr. Barnardo's splendid schemes for the reclamation and education of the waifs of London, should be a lesson to Canadian philanthropists. Even in this country of plenty there are thousands who, for want of a guiding and helping hand, are gliding from the paths of penury into the broad highway of crime. We in this country are better situated for successfully placing in life those helpless orphans, that can be seen on every hand, than even Dr. Barnardo with his wealthy backing. We can give to our own orphans, homes and farms, without depending on any other country. While heartily applauding the liberality that has effected the establishment at Peterborough of a branch of Dr. Barnardo's homes, we suggest that the wisdom of the idea that our own orphan's should be our first care—that charity begins at home, should not be lost sight of. While Dr. Barnardo's orphans are clad and taught at Moira Hall, a corner might be kept warm for Canadian waifs and orphans. And Canadian philanthropy might find a field well worth cultivating in the establishment of homes for the sole benefit of Canadian waifs.

The Factory Act is a "dead issue." The Government at Ottawa have assured certain manufacturers that the bill introduced last session will not be taken up. That is just what might be expected. The manufacturer is a factor in politics worth being conciliated; but the workingman and operative are considered beneath notice, except at election times, when they are regarded as machines to be used according to the will of employers or dupes to believe all the promises of Tory politicians. The Factory Bill of last season, as introduced by Sir Leonard Tilley, contemplated no hardship to manufacturers; it simply provided for the safety, comfort, morals and rights of operatives in the classes of factories covered by its provisions. The manufacturers make enormous dividends, for which the whole country is taxed, and the Government is constantly yielding to their demands and giving them greater privileges, but the poor operative can have no protection, his or her right and wrongs are not worthy the attention of the Tory Government. The former thrives, grows rich and lives in luxury, whilst the workman is discharged or put on short time to allow the manufacturer to keep up the dividends. And the unemployed laborer starves without a thought. The workingman was a fine fellow at election time, when his vote was wanted, but after he was used, he is forgotten and no thought will be given him till another election. This great N. P. is intended to make the rich richer and keep the poor in poverty.

A RATEPAYER SPEAKS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

SIR,—I have been for some time a reader of your reports of the proceedings of the Town Council's doings, and need not tell you the disappointment I have felt when reading their childish and selfish bickerings; but, sir, the proceedings of the last meeting crowns all. When Councillors so far forget their self-respect as to call each other liars! infernal liars! and such epithets, the members should be called to account and held as undeserving common respect. It is the duty, I think, of every elector to combine to remove them, or some of them, from a position their presence must stain.

Many ratepayers are ready to believe, in fact, do believe, that Councillor Sawers' well meant zeal has been badly directed, or something would have been unearthed ere this, and they are heard saying: "If Councillor Rutherford's skirts are free why does he oppose investigation! If he is innocent of the charges he could easily show his innocence." And until an investigation is had few will believe him, although he may stigmatise Councillor Sawers as he does. By all means let there be an investigation. The people should know where their taxes go, and they should know, too, what councillor pockets the most, if any goes in that way. The people, as they pass the fire stable, begin to believe that they feel unpleasant odors arising from it, and there is a strong undercurrent in the public minds that an investigation must be had, and the truth or baselessness of this talk ascertained. This augean stable must be cleansed and fumigated, lest it become the centre of malarial disorders in the body politic, dangerous to the moral well-being of future councillors. Bad example is more dangerous than immoral precepts. By the bye, sir, why are the newspapers silent on this matter? Or is their silence a token of complicity, or of fear to touch the proverbial chimney sweep?

Yours truly,

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

BIBLE SOCIETY.

The annual meeeting of the Norwood branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Canada Methodist Church here on Friday evening last. There was a fair attendance of the people of the village, and the consideration of several topics of interest showed that considerable interest was taken in the working and advancement of the society. The different reports of the executive officers of the Society were read and received, and showed that considerable work was done by the Norwood branch during the year. The reports from the different collectors evinced increased liberality on the part of the people of this community towards the funds of the Bible Society. During the evening appropriate and impressive addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Drummond, of Newcastle, and by the Rev. Mr. Carmichael and the Rev. Mr. Gee, resident ministers. The choir of the Methodist Church also added to the pleasures of the occasion by singing, in an excellent manner, several pieces of appropriate music. A very liberal collection was given by the congregation.

SCHOOL INSPECTION.

Mr. Hodgson, High School Inspector, visited the Norwood high school on Wednesday last, and put every class in that department through a most rigid examination, through which they all passed highly successfully, and creditably alike to themselves and their teachers. Though Mr. Hodgson did not give expression to any complimentary language to the pupils, he stated to Mr. Brown, P.S.I., that Mr. Principal Davidson had "really good classes," and that his school was every way creditable to him. This opinion is endorsed by the large number of pupils now in attendance at our high school, and the excellent reputation it has attained at home and abroad.

A SQUALL.

A mighty hurricane swept with fearful velocity over this neighborhood on Sunday evening, tearing down large trees, knocking over fences, and carrying away many wheeled vehicles which came in its course, but no serious damage was done in this vicinity. Many houses trembled under the terrible power of the windy visitor, which fortunately only touched us in its destructive course. At Hastings its power was more severely felt. There the steeple of the Roman Catholic Church was blown down, falling upon and destroying a small building belonging to Mr. T. Murphy, of Asphodel, and the roof of a saw mill belonging to the Fowlds Brothers, succumbed to the dreadful blast. The fury of the tempest here only lasted but a few minutes, but it left a lasting impression upon the minds of many of our people. On Monday the wind continued to blow strongly, bringing with it a heavy storm of snow, and a severe snap of cold weather.

NORWOOD CEMETERY COMPANY.

At a special meeting of the Norwood Cemetery Company, held on Wednesday evening last, the resignation of Mr. Kirkpatrick, as caretaker of the cemetery, was received, and Mr. Hostetter was appointed in his stead. Mr. K. has served the company for a number of years, and has done his duty in such a manner as to give the highest satisfaction to all concerned.

DEER HUNTING.

A party of deer hunters from the front passed through our village homeward bound last week. They certainly were more successful in their peregrinations after the venison than our local Nimrods, as it took three teams, laden with some very large-sized deer, to carry home the spoils of the chase.

THANKSGIVING DAY

was duly observed in this village. A large portion of our people showed their thankfulness by attending the union services held in the Presbyterian Church, where appropriate addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Carmichael, and the Rev. Mr. Gee. The choir of the Presbyterian Church rendered a choice selection of sacred songs in a manner which reflected the highest credit on every member of the choir. A thanksgiving spirit seemed to prevade the congregation, as the liberal sum of $14 was collected at the meeting, which amount was equally divided between the Methodist and Presbyterian congregations. Every available shot gun and rifle in our village was brought into use by our local sports, and all day long the woods in our vicinity were eagerly tramped for the different kinds of game sequestered there, but the results of their peregrinations have not as yet become generally known.

Remember, at R. Stenson & Son's is the only place you can buy Rock Island Hand-made Boots and Shoes, the best in the market for fall weather.

IN MEMORY OF LUTHER.

Last Saturday, Nov. 10th, was the four hundreth anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther, the celebrated German religious reformer, and the founder of Protestantism; the importance of the day was recognized here by a special sermon by the Rev. Alex. Bell, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and by a lecture on Monday evening by Rev. Mr. Torrance, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Mr. Bell's sermon depicted the condition of the Church in the fifteenth century, and the abuses that had crept into it and which had stimulated Luther's zeal to work for their removal. A splendid eulogy of Luther's zeal, firmness and devotion, embraced allusion to the blessings of a free gospel and an open Bible, and the long line of religious blessings and privileges that came in their train.

On Monday evening there was a large audience to listen to Rev. Mr. Torrance's admirable lecture, delivered under the auspices of St. Paul's auxiliary of the "Woman's Foreign Mission Society." General Haultain occupied the chair. The reverend lecturer showed that times of difficulty in the Church generally brought out someone, like Luther, equal to the occasion. The Church in Luther's day had left the doctrine and practice of justification by faith, and had become exceedingly corrupt. Luther's mind was harassed by spiritual conflicts, in which it appeared that all the forms of the Church had failed to supply him with courage to die or satisfied the longings of his soul for a higher spiritual life. The difficulties Luther had surmounted were graphically depicted as well as his struggles after light. The same school of suffering that Luther passed through had been passed through by Moses, David, Elijah and Paul. Luther's visit to Rome was to have his doubts removed, but here he was worse perplexed than ever, for he found the corruption in the Church at a terrible pass. While climbing the stairs of Pilate to win Papal indulgence and favor, the text, "The just shall live by faith," came to his mind like a revelation. He returned to Germany where he raised his warning voice against the sale of indulgences, combatting the evil in his celebrated ninety-five theses, and proclaimed the doctrine of free grace. Great excitement resulted, which ended in Luther being summoned before the Emperor at Worms, but the imposing assemblage could not shake the faith of the great man, and he refused to retract. For a time after this he disappeared, but he was not idle; he was still working for God. He translated the New Testament into the German tongue, and this event was another crisis in the religious revolution Luther had precipitated. The lecture abounded in admirable comments on the lessons to be deduced from the exemplary zeal, piety, resolution, firmness and industry of the great reformer. The speaker characterized him as one of the greatest men of the Church.

If your neighbor has not shown you some of Turnbull's Cheap Gray and White Cottons, Table Linens and Towels, call and look for yourself when on George Street, Peterborough.

For a hard cold, with pain in the head, bones, or through the chest, take DOWNS' ELIXIR, at once and in liberal doses, cover up well in bed, and our word for it, you will soon be well. 46-tf.

Naught but Death Divorces;

OR,

LADY AUDREY'S SACRIFICE.

One after another he read them, and wrote on each the same word "declined," until he came to Mrs. Calverne's letter.

"I will go there—I always enjoy a visit to Richmond."

He wrote an acceptance—it was the same letter which gave delight to the fashionable widow—and then the old air of weariness and gloom came over him.

"I wonder," said Sir Roche Villiers, the possessor of thirty thousand per annum, "if there is anything in this world which would make me feel like my old self again, light of heart, hopeful, trustful, sanguine. Could anything give me a desire for life, take me from the rankling sense of ill-usage, restore my faith in my kind, in the love and the truth of women, the honor of men? I would give my fortune for them, and consent to stand penniless in the world if I could regain what I have lost. Why should my heart have lost its youth, my life its spring? Other men are happy till they die—I was happy for only a few short months."

He rose hurriedly; he walked with rapid steps up and down the room; he clenched his strong hands.

"I would give all that I have," he cried, "for one draught of the waters of Lethe, my whole fortune for one hour of forgetfulness; the exchange would make me a happy man."

Peace did not come to him, nor did rest or forgetfulness.

The day arrived on which he left home and went to Richmond, where a warm welcome from the graceful widow awaited him.

He never forgot the day. It was rich and warm with the glory of July. The river lay gleaming in the sun. The banks were rich in color, the trees luxuriant in foliage. The beautiful, cheerful house, with its long bright windows, its balconies all filled with flowers, its pretty fountains, green sweep of lawn, and stately trees, brought no smile to his lip.

Mrs. Calverne received him with the graceful warmth that made her so popular; she said kind, pleasant things to him; she hoped a few days of change, rest, and bright companionship would do him good.

He thanked her; but when, after a short conversation she went away to order some luncheon for him, he walked to the window and stood looking absently over the green lawn with its wealth of rose-trees.

Mrs. Calverne's return roused him. He knew that he had the usual society routine to go through. While he drank the claret-cup so carefully prepared, and admired the cool, tempting fruit set before him, he asked who were his fellow guests. Mrs. Calverne answered brightly that they had formed a pleasant and well-selected party.

"I have a belle, a beauty, and ingenue, a wit, and yourself. Could anything be better?"

"No," he answered, with a smile.

"When you have rested a little and care to go out, you will find them all in the grounds. Miss Hamlyn and Miss Brooke like the bank of the river. I think you will be pleased with Miss Brooke; she is something quite fresh."

He raised his eyebrows a little—as though anything in this weary world could be fresh to him! He forgot all about Miss Brooke the next moment, and, enjoying his cigar in peace, he presently strolled down the river bank. Then and there he saw the rector's daughter. He had prayed only a few hours before for forgetfulness; now he hoped that no time, no thought, no trouble, no sorrow would ever shake this new memory from him.

He bore the picture with him till the day he died. The tall, slender girl standing idly by the river bank watching the stream, every line and curve of her figure clearly defined aginst the blue sky, her two white hands idly clasped, was as perfect a picture as artist or poet could suggest.

A smile, half thoughtful, half proud played round her lips. It was quite a new type of beauty to him, rich its brilliant coloring, proud in its half haughty grace, pure in its dreamy loveliness.

He stood quite still, as a man who sees some wonder of the world for the first time, spell-bound by the beautiful purity of the unconscious face.

As he looked at Audrey his life seemed to grow complete; something awoke in his heart and soul that never died again, something that gave him back his youth, his faith, his trust—that took away his doubts, fears, and dismay. He roused himself suddenly as from a sweet sleep.

He was obliged to pass by the spot where she stood, for he saw Miss Hamlyn in the distance. As he drew near, the girl raised her face and their eyes met, only for a moment, but that same moment held the fate of two souls. He hurried on, and found Miss Hamlyn noting the capabilities of the smooth green croquet ground. When he spoke to her he had the look and manner of a man who was dreaming.

"He speaks to me," she thought, "but he does not even see me;" and then he asked the question that trembled on his lips.

"Who is that lady standing on the river bank, Miss Hamlyn?"

There was a demure smile in her eyes as she raised them to his.

"That is Miss Brooke, Audrey Brooke—or Pingenue, as Mrs. Calverne calls her."

"Audrey Brooke," he repeated slowly, and to his excited fancy it seemed that the singing waves to re-echoed the name. "Audrey Brooke," he said again, and Miss Hamlyn smiled with the superiority of a young lady quite above such weakness as love.

"I will introduce you to her, if you like," she said.

Mechanically he followed her, and in a few moments he was bowing while a fair face was raised to his—raised for one moment, and then the dark eyes fell. It seemed to them both that in that one glance their souls had met.

"There will be something worth talking about before very long," said Miss Hamlyn to herself; and the words came most unfortunately true.

CHAPTER III.

"After all, you know, my dear, that such notions are old-fashioned; the world of our day laughs at them. They are all very well to teach to the poor, but as for us, they are old-fashioned."

So spoke Mrs. Calverne; and Miss Hamlyn, listening, said laughingly:

"The day will come, I believe, when honor, truth, and religion, in their rigid aspect, will be pronounced old-fashioned;" and the elder lady with a complacent smile answered:

"Still there must always be some kind of a check for the lower classes."

Mrs. Calverne did not distinguish the ring of satire in the girl's laugh. Bertha Hamlyn was generally quite honest in her opinions.

She said to herself now, that if there were as much sin and irreligion in the lower as in the higher classes, nothing but a new deluge could purify the world. Mrs. Calverne was equally sincere in her belief that that which was a sin in a poor man was merely an eccentricity in a wealthy one, and that Heaven, while it judged severely the sins and the shortcomings of the poor, smiled with compassion on the same faults in the rich.

The two ladies had been talking very seriously, for on the lawn before them was a tableaux that none could mistake.

A time-worn sun-dial stood apart from the trees, and bending over it, watching intently the lines and marks, were Audrey and Sir Roche Villiers.

Neither of them could have told when or how they had begun to love each other; neither could realize that time had been when they were strangers. Suddenly, subtly, with all sweet, vague unconsciousness, the two lives seemed to have become one, and they were ignorant of it. No words of love had been spoken; they were in dream-land—the dream-land of lovers.

But others saw that of which they were quite unconscious. Miss Hamlyn had noticed them, and on this fair summer day had spoken so Mrs. Calverne. That lady was somewhat disconcerted at first. Bertha looked at her in undisguised wonder.

"Surely," she said, "you could not have desired a better match for your protegee. Sir Roche must be one of the richest baronets in England. Many a lord would be thankful for his income."

"It is not that," returned the mistress of River View. Audrey is not like other girls; her parents are not like other people. Altogether I am puzzled about it."

"I should not feel very much puzzled if Sir Roche asked me to be his wife," remarked Bertha. "I should not lose much time in saying 'Yes;' nor would any girl possessed of common sense. Take my advice, Mrs. Calverne, and say nothing; let matters take their course. That is what I advise."

"But suppose, Bertha, that her parents blame me afterward, what then?"

Blame you for helping to make their daughter Lady Villiers of Rowan Abbey! Never fear. I have often noticed that those whom the world calls religious are wide awake to their own interests. Believe me, Dr. Brooke will be much pleased if his daughter makes a grand marriage." And then followed the conversation about old-fashioned ideas.

"Even if you would interfere, said Miss Hamlin, after a time, "it is too late. Look at Sir Roche. Do you think that he sees the sky above him, or the earth beneath his feet, or anything else except that most fair and lovely young face? You might as well try to stop the tide as to try to check the love that has come to them both." And looking at them, Mrs. Calverne felt that Bertha Hamlyn was right.

Sir Roche could not explain the beginning of his love for Audrey. A new beautiful life had suddenly sprung up within him. He could not tell what there was in Audrey that he loved so entirely. It was not only her fair and lovely youth—for, had she been blind, maimed, disfigured, he felt that he would have loved her just the same. He had been under many influences during his life, but this was the first influence of a thoroughly refined, religious nature.

The first time that he was struck by the fact was one morning when the whole party went out riding, and Audrey, lingering in one of the green lanes, found the white gate that led to the high-road closed.

A laboring man—tall, strong and young—was passing, and civilly enough opened it for her; but as he opened it a nail or splinter ran into his hand, and caused him great pain.

She reined in her horse, and kept quite still while he poured out a volley of abuse so coarse that her fair face grew pale; then, with a quiet dignity all her own, she called the man to her side.

She held out a dainty white handkerchief to bind the wound, and with her clear dark eyes she looked into the rugged sunburnt face.

"I am sorry you have hurt yourself," she said, slowly, "but I am still more sorry that you should have given away to such wicked speech. Did it relieve the pain?"

"No," was the wondering answer.

"Because a nail or splinter has hurt you, is that any reason why you should immediately offend the Being who has made all this fair earth for you?"

"He made little enough of it for me," was the surly reply. "It seems to have been made for my betters."

"It is made as much for you as for any one. Is it needful to offend the great Creator because you have wounded your hand?"

Sir Roche heard her add a few words of what seemed to him the sweetest wisdom, and then she rode on, leaving one man the better for a word in season.

The Baronet looked after her, and the thought came to him, "What a different world it would be if there were more in it like her!"

He watched her that evening. She danced and sang no less blithely because she had preached a little sermon in the morning. Altogether she puzzled him.

He saw that she was most thoroughly under the dominion of conscience—that, if she believed a thing was wrong, nothing could induce her to sanction it—that, if she thought anything right, she would do it, let the cost be what it might.

"I believe," he said to her one day, "that you would rather suffer death than do what you believe to be wrong."

She was silent for a few moments, and then with a smile she raised her fair face to his.

"Yes," she replied, "I hope I should. Life is very pleasant, but I for one would never purchase it by an act of wrong-doing."

"I wish I had known you years ago," he said sadly; and she, smiling at the thought of a wealthy baronet buying this to a poor rector's daughter, asked:

"Why, Sir Roche?"

"Because all my life I have pleased myself; my own will and pleasure have been my conscience and my rule for guidance. Right and wrong have been yours."

The fair face clouded. She did not like to think that he had ever been guided by pleasure or self will.

"Would that I had known you earlier!" he said. And she, all unconscious of how much her words meant, returned:

"That cannot be helped. But you know me now."

"Yes," he answered sadly, "I know you now."

And she wondered why he should sigh about it.

Their souls were drawn together. Neither of them tried to resist the sweet, subtle influence which, growing on them day by day, seemed to infold them and keep them apart from the rest of the world.

CHAPTER IV.

Sir Roche Villiers told Audrey that he loved her and asked her to be his wife. He had not slept all night for thinking of her—he had risen early. He saw her at breakfast time, looking more beautiful than ever, in a cool, blue muslin dress with white lace. He tried hard to be content and persuade himself that he had no right to seek to make that pure young life one with his. "Yet why not?" he asked himself. "Shall a man suffer all his life, and lose all his life, because of one mistake?"

He tried to find a chance of speaking to her when breakfast was over and the visitors, in little groups, were discussing their letters and plans for the day. He had no opportunity just then; but on going down to the river bank shortly afterward, he caught a glimpse of the brown hair and the blue dress under the shade of a lime-tree.

He went to her at once, his heart on his lips—he loved her with a wonderful love—and he asked her if she would be his wife.

When she raised her fair startled face to his, he knew that he had won her, for he read her love in the dark eyes that dropped so shyly from his. Yet his happiness was so great that he could hardly believe it.

"You will really be my wife, Audrey?" he said. "Say it again, darling,—it seems to me so much too good to be true. You always appear to me more than mortal; I can hardly believe that I have won you. You really love me, Audrey?"

"Yes, I really love you," she replied.

"And you will be true to me until death," he continued. She raised her pure face to his.

"Yes," she answered, "in the highest sense of the words, I will be true to you until death."

"I feel as though I had plighted my troth to an angel!" he said. "My darling, I should never be very surprised to see you suddenly take wings and fly away."

She laughed a little sweet laugh of perfect content.

"I feel more like a happy young girl than an angel," she said.

"But are you happy, darling?" he asked.

"Yes," was the half frank, half shy answer, "I am happy;" and then they talked of the future that lay so bright before them.

He told her of his splendid old home, Rowan Abbey, the large estate near King's Wynne, of his numerous tenants and dependents.

"I have neglected my home," he said—"it is three years and more since the great gates of the Abbey were opened. They tell me that moss has grown in the courts and weeds in the gardens."

"But why," she asked, "have you neglected it?"

His handsome face grew dark and moody.

"Do not ask me," he said. "My past has not been a happy one. I will tell you this, darling—I neglected my duties. I have not been near my home; I have neglected my tenants; I have taken no interest in anything."

"But why," she persisted—"tell me why?"

He was silent for a few minutes, during which he asked himself—Should he tell her or should he not? If he told her, the chances were that he should lose her; and he clung to her not only because he loved her with a passionate love, but because he saw in her the means of amendment; saw how she could help him to lead such a life as he had dreamed of years before and had longed for always.

He could not risk all by telling her; besides, what could it matter? He would be a true, faithful, loving husband to her—he would make he very happy—for the rest, his story related only to an old-fashioned prejudice, at which the wise children of this generation laughed.

"Why was all this?" she asked, gently. "Why did you neglect everything and care for nothing, Sir Roche?"

"Darling, you must not call me 'Sir Roche.' I have never known the beauty of my name until now. Say 'Roche,' that I may hear the music of it."

She half whispered the name, and then he answered her. He took both her hands in his and kissed them, but he did not look into her face as he said:

"I had a friend, one whom I loved and trusted. This friend deceived and betrayed me. The deceit was so cruel, it blighted my life and I lost all interest in it till I saw you."

Her hands stole gently to his shoulder, her dark eyes, dim with unshed tears, were raised lovingly to his.

"I will never deceive nor betray you," she said. "You shall have one love true and faithful to your life's end; I will make up to you for all you have suffered. But, Roche, you must have loved your friend very dearly to have suffered so much?"

"I did," he replied hoarsely. "But we will not talk any more about it. I shall forget it in your love. My life will grow bright again—all the interest will come back. We will live at Rowan Abbey, and we will do all that I ought to have done, but have so sadly neglected; we will build schools for the children and almshouses for the old and infirm. We will do all the good we can, Audrey."

She listened to him in a trance of delight.

"That is the life I have always longed for," she said. "You must have guessed it, Roche."

She lost all her shyness then, and talked to him with the happy abandonment of a child. How many churches she built, how many poor and sorrowful she made rich and happy, how many wearied and heavily-burdened she made bright and glad, as she sat under the shade of the lime-tree only Heaven knew.

"And all this is no dream," said Sir Roche; "it can all be done. Living, I shall lead a noble, useful life, filled with good deeds; dying, I shall leave behind me a fair name. Is not this better than living for nothing and dying uncared for, Audrey?"

"Undoubtedly," she answered, "There can be no question about it."

"It is better that I should marry you, Audrey, and that we should do all this good, than that we should both be unhappy all our lives—is it not?"

"Most certainly," she answered.

"Heaven will bless our marriage, Audrey," he said. "And now, my darling, we need not surely wait long? When shall I go and see your father and ask him for his treasure?"

She looked at him in dismay.

"Not yet," she said—"Surely not yet, Roche?"

He looked at her with pleading wistfulness.

"I am frightened, Audrey," he said. "I am afraid of losing you. You are so precious to me that it seems to me if I wait for long months or weeks I shall lose you."

"But how could you lose me Roche?" she asked.

"People would get talking——" He stopped abruptly.

"As if that would matter!" she said laughingly.

"I have often read of misunderstandings and separations that I am not willing to run any risk. Audrey, you love me, you have promised to be my wife—can it matter how soon that promise is fulfilled? I shall know no peace by day or by night until I have made you my own."

"I am going home next week," she said gently.

"Then I shall follow you," he declared; and she made no further resistance. He was to follow her home.

He saw her again that evening, looking more than beautiful in white silk and crimson roses. He asked himself if it could be possible that he had the love of one so lovely, so pure, so good.

"Heaven helping me, I will be worthy of her," he said. "I will lead such a life that hers shall be the crown of it. I did right not to tell her of the past. Great Heaven, what should I do if I lost her?"

Yet, considering his vast wealth, his ancient title, his large estates, he did not look like a lover assured of victory when he asked that same evening to speak to Mrs Calverne.

"I think it but right," he said, "as Miss Brooke is staying under your roof, to tell you that I have asked her to be my wife, and that I have decided on going to see Dr. Brooke next week."

She looked at him half gravely, half sadly.

"You do not congratulate me!" he cried.

"I am remiss," she said; "I beg your pardon. I do congratulate you. I think more highly of Audrey Brooke than any girl I know."

"You are recalling those old-fashioned prejudices," he said impatiently; "surely you are more enlightened than to deem them worth a moment's thought?"

She shivered a little and drew her white lace shawl round her shoulders.

"Have you told her?" she asked.

"No," he replied angrily; "why need I tell her? She need never know. I dare not risk losing her, for if I lost her it would drive me mad."

"Will you tell Dr. Brooke?" asked Mrs. Calverne, after a pause.

"No; why should I? Why need I? It matters to no one. Let me forget it—that terrible ghost of a hated past; let me be good and happy with this pure angel—sent to me, I believe, by Heaven to save me from utter destruction."

"Do you think good ever comes from concealment?" asked Mrs. Calverne presently.

"No, not as a rule—in this case—yes. Old-fashioned prejudices would be arrayed against new and more advanced ideas. I do not see the need, the wisdom, the advisability of referring to days gone by. Wish me happiness—wish me God-speed in my journey."

"I do," she said.

But long after he left her, the mistress of River View sat looking thoughtfully at the green trees.

"I hope I have done right," she said. "After all, it is a brilliant match for her? and what can a few old-fashioned prejudices matter?"

THE ART INTERCHANGE

The Art Interchange for November, 1883, has, beside its very valuable and serviceable Notes and Queries, two designs—Phlox and Pinks—for china painting; an embroidery design for a cushion from the Royal School of Art Needlework, South Kensington; an Althea design for vase decoration; several designs for drawn-work and for stained-glass decoration. Mr. W. H. Eggleston, Jr., a practical artist and designer in Mosaic Glass, contributes a paper on the subject, and there is a practical elementary article on Hammering Brass—the kind of home art work now uppermost in interest. In the next issue a number of designs for Brass Hammering and Sketching on Linen will be given. The prize literary question, under which the current novel of the 'Bread Winners' was so interestingly discussed, are continued by the propounding of two more Open Questions, taken from Mr. Howell's "A Woman's Reason." For these a similar prize is offered. The Art Interchange is published fortnightly, at $3.00 a year, by Wm. Whitlock, 140 Nassau Street, New York.

"I WAS FOR SEVERAL YEARS SUFFERING from Cough, Expectoration and Night Sweats, attended with extreme nervous and physical prostration. My body was greatly emaciated, and the general impression was that I had not long to live. I began taking DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA, and improvement took place immediately. I gained in weight and strength. My Cough and my Night Sweats disappeared, and I am now in the enjoyment of excellent health. Many of my friends to whom I have recommended the Elixir have experienced equally remarkable results."

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Traffic Returns.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Nov. 3rd, 1883, was as follows:—Passengers and mails, $7,512.55; freight, $20,287.49; total, $27,800.04, as compared with $25,905.37 for the corresponding week of 1882, being an increase of $1,894.67; and the aggregate traffic to date is $944,472.44, being an increase of $71,260.48 over 1882.

The Merchant of Venice.

Our citizens have a rare treat in store in the appearance of the celebrated William Stafford Company on Thursday evening next at the Opera House, in Shakespere's grand play of "The Merchant of Venice." Mr. Stafford's impersonation of Shylock is one of the finest on the stage to-day, and as he has an excellent support, a fine performance may be looked for. Seats now on sale at Mennie's bookstore.

The Weather.

The clerk of the weather has treated the country to a genuine surprise party. On Sunday the weather was delightful; on Sunday evening the moon rode serenely in a cloudless sky. Daybreak on Monday morning found the earth covered with snow, and at an early hour the jingle of sleigh bells announced the first sleighing of the season. The thermometer went down rapidly to twelve degrees of frost, and on Monday night the mercury fell to seventeen and a half degrees of frost.

Council Meetings.

Some ratepayers are in favour of frequent meetings of the Town Council; but it appears that frequent meetings are not in the interests of economy. A gentleman, one who has observed closely, remarks that every meeting of the Council costs the town from two hundred to three hundred dollars. That is, at every meeting some new expenditures, not absolutely necessary, amounting on an average to the above sum, are sanctioned. Money is the first consideration, and we can, perhaps, afford to lose the glory and honor which the many meetings of the Council the past year have brought us, for the sake of keeping down the expenses.

Standard Time.

The common standard of time adopted by several railway companies should be adopted in Peterborough, and at the same time the town clock should be looked after. It is asserted by many that the town clock was not intended originally as a pigeon perch; if this is so the machine should be put in order and set on standard time. Now, if a man starts to take the train for Toronto by the town clock he is likely to find on arrival at the station that the train is at Millbrook. This is not pleasant, and it is time that the civic clock should be made a time piece and not a delusion and a snare and a roost for pigeons. A netting of fine brass wire over the face, with meshes of two or three inches, might prevent the evil complained of.

Eye and Ear.

Dr. G. S. Ryerson, the widely celebrated specialist in diseases of the eye ear and throat will be at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, professionally on Saturday, December, fifteenth, for consultation.

St. Andrew's.

The social held in the school room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last Thursday night was a fine success in every way. Attendance, refreshments and music, were all good.

Oddfellowship.

On Wednesday night of last week the charter members of the new Oddfellow lodge at Norwood were initiated at Otonabee lodge. Lunch at Chamberlain's restaurant closed the interesting proceedings.

Thanksgiving Day.

This day was celebrated in town by a total suspension of business, except on the railways and railway works. Special services were held by all the Protestant Churches, the Methodists and the Bible Christians, holding special joint services in the B. C. Church.

Real Estate.

Mr. Joseph Walton has sold his residence farm, North Monaghan—100 acres—to Mr. John Moore, of Smith, for $8,000; and also to Mr. Moore, 50 acres in the same township for $2,000. Mr. Jas. Middleton purchased Mr. Walton's "Kelso" farm for $5,000.

Fire Brigade Band.

The band performed several well executed selections on the post office corner on Thanksgiving Day. The boys played in their old time style of excellence, and the most critical failed to notice by the music that any change had been made in the personnel of the organization.

Departed from Jail.

The jail has been deprived of two of its inmates. On Tuesday, Angelo Carmenino, the lunatic Italian laborer who murdered a fellow-navvy at Norwood, was taken to the Lunatic Asylum, Toronto, by Mr. Waddel, the asylum and reformatory bailiff. On Saturday John Glenn was removed to the Central Prison.

M. C. P. A.

The annual meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Association will be held in the Council Chamber committee room, on Thursday, the 22nd inst., at 7.30 p. m., for the purpose of electing officers and transacting other general business. A full attendance of the members and those who propose joining the association, is requested.

Temperance Society Entertainment.

The entertainment held in St. John's Church on Wednesday evening of last week by the Temperance Society was a very pleasant reunion. Misses Claxton and Beck, Choate and Cottingham, and Messrs. Shaw, Porteous and Smith supplied excellent music, and Mr. J. E. Belcher rendered a recitation in good style.

Rifle Matches.

No. 1 Company, 57th battalion, held their rifle matches on Thanksgiving Day. The following are the winners:—1st, Capt. Edwards; 2nd, Sergeant Shaw; 3rd, Corporal Bennett; 4th, Private Eastwood; 5th, Private Peterson. The first and second prizes respectively include the gold and silver medal. The order of winning, it will be seen, followed the order of rank. Good discipline.

New Oddfellows' Encampment.

On Tuesday evening, November 27th, there will be instituted in Peterborough a new encampment of Oddfellows, or rather, Hebron encampment, which flourished here some thirty-five years ago, will be revived. The ceremonies will be performed in the rooms of Peterborough lodge by the Grand Patriarch, of Strathroy, and the Grand Scribe, of London. An event so important will doubtless excite a great deal of interest amongst the brethren of the order.

Health of the District.

The weekly health bulletin, issued by the Provincial Board of Health, of the Midland district, shows that the return of autumn and winter weather accounts for an increase in pulmonary diseases. Bronchitis heads the list with a percentage of 11.1; consumption has a percentage of 7.6; anæmea, 7.3; neuralgia, 5.3. The order represents the five diseases most prevalent in the district, following each other in the order of prevalence, while the figures show the percentage of each disease in the total of maladies.

The Lacrosse Club Hop.

The first annual hop of the Peterboro Lacrosse Club signalizing the close of the season, took place in the Opera House on Wednesday night of last week, and was a most gratifying success. The hall was beautifully decorated with banners, flags, mottoes, lacrosses and the Gildersleeve Cup was a prominent feature in the ornamentation. There was a full attendance of guests, about a hundred and twenty-five being present. The dancing was kept up to a late hour on Thursday morning, to the music of the "city" quadrille band. Mr. A. D. Faucher supplied the supper and it was in every respect creditable to the occasion. The club is to be congratulated on the marked success, in every way, of their first annual ball—it was only a natural sequel to their success on the field where their opponents are generally "waxed" and "floored"

School Inspection.

Mr. James Hodgson, Inspector of High Schools, made a visit to, and an inspection of, the Collegiate Institute on Wednesday of last week. He gave a holiday to the pupils, to take effect on Friday (Thursday being Thanksgiving day), and the holiday was also extended to the pupils of the public schools.

Military Matters.

The last issue of the Canada Gazette announces that hereafter the headquarters of No. 2 troop of the 3rd provisional regiment of cavalry will be at Millbrook instead of Port Hope; and that Capt. Wm. McLean, G.G., of the Durham field battery is promoted to be Major from the 31st May, 1883, and Lieut. Edward Sanderson to be Captain from the 1st June, 1883, vice Capt. McLean, promoted.

Malicious Mischief.

The officials of the George-street Methodist Church are greatly incensed at the conduct of some malicious and irreverent rascals, who have injured and defaced the new fence erected about the grounds of the church. The trustees, to promote the discovery of the perpetrators, have offered a reward of twenty dollars. Every respectable citizen should lend a hand, for while such rascals are abroad and unpunished, the beauty of anybody's premises is liable to be destroyed in a manner similiar to that of the church fence.

Bible Christian Mission Services.

The mission services in connection with the Bible Christian Church began on Sunday, when sermons, having special reference to the mission work, were preached in the morning by the pastor, Rev. Wm. Joliffe, and in the evening by Rev. Mr. Manning, Rev. Mr. Joliffe taking the services in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. The congregations were fair and the contributions liberal. On Monday evening the annual missionary meeting was held. Owing to rough weather there was not a large attendance, but the financial results were extremely gratifying.

The Best Fitting Corset is to be had at Turnbull's. A large Stock of the Ball Self-Preserving Corset always in Stock.

Rip Vanwinkle Redivivus.

Lakefield or its vicinity possesses a second Rip Vanwinkle, who, during a sleep of five or six years has escaped the knowledge of the fact that Mr. John Ritchie, a former license inspector, has been dead five years. The other day a son of the late Mr. Ritchie, got from the post office a recently written letter, addressed to his father as inspector, containing confidential information respecting infractions of the license law in the vicinity, and urging upon him the duty of prosecuting the parties named. Comment is not so much needed in this case as common schools, or subscriptions to the EXAMINER.

Bazaar.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bible Christian Church, Peterborough, will hold a bazaar in the basement of the church, Murray street, on Tuesday, November 20th, when a variety of fancy and useful articles will be offered for sale. The bazaar will be opened at 2 p.m. At 7 p.m., in connection therewith, refreshments will be served, followed by a musical and literary entertainment. Admission to the bazaar only, 10 cents; to refreshments and entertainment, 25 cents. Admission for children regulated at the door. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Standard Time on the Midland.

The Midland Railway has adopted the uniform time standard, and it comes into effect on that line on Sunday next. Now is the time to have the same standard adopted by the town of Peterborough. The chief cities and towns in Canada have adopted it (Toronto and London on Monday), and the enterprise and go-aheaditiveness of Peterborough demand that she shall be "on time" with the rest of the world. But we believe that Sandford Fleming himself would be "floored" if he attempted to make our town clock, in its present condition, keep "standard" time.

The "City" Changes Landlords.

On Wednesday, at ten o'clock, the documents were signed that transferred the "City" Hotel, George street, from the hands of Mr. James Dolan to those of Wm. Clancy, of Otonabee. The latter gave $4,000 for the lease and furniture of the "City." Mr. Dolan, the retiring boniface, retires with his blushing honors thick upon him. He has been in the "City" one year and ten months. In that time he has made a tidy little bag of money and hosts of friends. As a landlord, "Jim" was exceedingly popular, genial, good-natured, friendly with the boys, and always ready for a little "speculation." He is now open for a "speculation" in the dry goods trade, at the rate of $1,000 per year. Mr. Clancy succeeds to a most thrifty hotel business.

Providing Employment.

The cold weather having made the perrennial tramp's summer lodgings under the lee of a stack, or some similar place, rather too cold for comfort, this gentry will hereafter be flocking into town and soliciting lodgings at the police station, burning wood and eating bread bought with money earned by the honest toil of taxpayers. It would be a good idea to have a heap of stones and a hammer ready for the visiting tramp; when he applies for food and lodgings, let the handle of the hammer be hospitably insinuated into his hand, with the intimation that his bed and board depend on his reducing a certain quantity of stone to street metal. In this manner tramps will be made to pay their way, and the fame of the hard lines that Peterborough metes out to the weary, unworking, wayfaring wanderer will be noised abroad; the town will become a terror to tramps, and they will give it a wide berth. The stone heap and hammer are an institution in some towns, and are found to work well.

Social.

The ladies of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will give a social entertainment in the school room on Thursday evening, Nov. 22nd literary and musical programme and refreshments—in aid of the funds of the "woman's Foreign Mission Society." Admission twenty-five cents.

The Caisse House Change.

Arrangements are about completed for the sale of the Caisse House to Mr. Jas. Daly, of Lindsay, formerly proprietor of the "Club House," Peterborough, and if present arrangements are carried out the new proprietor of the hotel will take possession on Friday next. During the five years that Mr. T. G. Choate (and recently, Messrs. Choate & Sons) has carried on this hotel, he has been very successful in increasing its patronage, and has won for the house a high reputation, which the new proprietor will receive the benefit of, and will find, though it may not be mentioned in the inventory, one of the most valuable considerations in the transaction.

Lovers at Loggerheads.

Two young men employed as apprentices in two different manufacturing establishments in town are in love. Unfortunately they have focussed their youthful affections on the same lovely damsel, who very wisely, seeing that the oyster season is at hand, showed no particular preference for either, believing in having two strings to her bow. The girl declining to name the favorite, the two young men on Saturday decided to test their respective titles by wager of battle. They pitched into one another with all the ardor of youth, but unromantic spectators interfered and prevented either one from recording his triumph in the blood of his rival. Both say that the "thing isn't settled yet," and there is gore on the horizon of the near future. Rash Romeo's, be advised. If the girl thought either one worth choosing she would make a choice. Your fighting, therefore, will be strength spent, blood spilt in vain. Besides, statistics show that there are three girls to one boy. There's no use fighting over one peach when the boughs blush with other peaches, just as juicy, and not so far out of reach.

PERSONAL.

Mr. H. Calcutt left on Thursday last for Winnipeg on a business trip.

Dr. Benson and wife, of Winnipeg, have been renewing old associations in town.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin, of the Lindsay Post, was in town on Friday last, and genialized our sanctum by a call.

Mr. W. J. Hallett, of Lindsay, formerly a teacher in Peterborough, spent several days in town, and on Sunday night sang in the choir of St. John's Church.

Capt. T. O. Bridgewater, of Apsley, paid us a visit during the past week. He reports matters as very quiet in connection with lumbering operations this winter.

Our New Watchmaker, Mr. Hughan, comes well recommended, and we are sure any work entrusted to him will be done in good style. Office lately occupied by Elias Burnham, Simcoe Street. 18-tf

The Lindsay Post says that Mr. Cannington, in the employ of Mr. J. Hamilton's carriage works, was presented, with a handsome meerchaum pipe, on the occasion of his leaving Lindsay to come to Peterborough, his future home.

A fresh lot of Mantle Cloths, very cheap, just received at Turnbull's. Mantles made to order, or cut on short Notice.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," DOWNS' ELIXIR, will give you relief at once. Warranted as recommended, or money refunded. Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. 46-tf
